31. Eight Palestinians have been killed in settler attacks. On 11 October, masked Israeli settlers, some of them armed, attacked the town of Qusra, south of Nablus. During the ensuing confrontations between Palestinians and Israeli settlers accompanied by Israeli security forces, three Palestinians, including a 17-year-old, were shot and killed by settlers, and one by Israeli security forces. The following day, settlers shot at mourners in the funeral procession, killing two more Palestinians. On 24 October, near Ras Karkar in Ramallah Governorate, a settler shot at Palestinians driving in a vehicle, resulting in one fatality and two injuries. On 28 October, four settlers, one armed, threw stones and shot at a 20-member Palestinian family harvesting olives in Sawiyah, south of Nablus, killing one Palestinian man. Over the course of the reporting period, the Israeli Minister for Defense approved the administrative detention of four settlers in conjunction with attacks against Palestinians during the reporting period.

32. Incidents of attacks and provocation of Palestinian communities by Israeli settlers increased in several areas in the West Bank, resulting in significant numbers of Palestinians leaving their homes and relocating elsewhere. On 12 October, 51 people were displaced from the Shihda wa Hamlan herding community in Nablus after armed settlers reportedly threatened them at gunpoint, warning that they would be killed. On 23 October, 65 members of a herding community south-east of Bethlehem relocated to the nearby village of Tuqu' due to repeated attacks by settlers. The entire communities of Al-Ganouh and Khirbat Zanutah, in the environs of Hebron, relocated due to what they said was settler violence, intimidation and threats, and one family near Yatta was ordered by armed settlers to raise Israeli flags on their houses.

33. Following the 7 October attacks, the Israeli Ministry of National Security, the Israeli police and the Israel Defense Forces launched a campaign to establish, reinforce and arm hundreds of community-based quick-response teams in cities and towns across Israel, as well as in settlements in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. The teams are reportedly meant to work in conjunction with and under the supervision of the Israeli police or military and to provide an initial response to attacks and security threats. As a result of the campaign, thousands of guns and rifles have been distributed by Israeli security forces to volunteers in these locations.

IV. Incitement, provocations and inflammatory rhetoric

34. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon both parties to act on the basis of international law, including international humanitarian law, and their previous agreements and obligations, to observe calm and restraint and to refrain from provocative actions, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric with the aim, inter alia, of de-escalating the situation on the ground, rebuilding trust and confidence, demonstrating through policies and actions a genuine commitment to the two-State solution and creating the conditions necessary for promoting peace. Unfortunately, the horrific violence during the reporting period was exacerbated by numerous instances of incitement, inflammatory rhetoric and the glorification of the killing of civilians.

35. Official Hamas social media channels disseminated numerous posts and videos documenting, celebrating and glorifying the acts of terror carried out against Israeli communities on 7 October. Hamas officials also widely celebrated the attack, with one Hamas leader calling it “a dream come true” and others vowing that it would be repeated. Some Fatah officials and official social media pages also praised the attack, boasted of the participation of the Fatah-affiliated Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades in the attack or sought to portray it as a legitimate act. One senior Fatah official said that the events of 7 October were part of a “path of battles and heroic acts”. Some officials sought to downplay the scope of the brutality during the attack and one official denied that children had been targeted and killed in the attack.

36. An Israeli minister said during a radio interview that dropping an atomic bomb on Gaza should be considered by Israel during the current war and that there were no “uninvolved [civilians] in Gaza”. His remarks were subsequently condemned by the Minister for Defense and other coalition members, and the Prime Minister, Benjamin Netanyahu, said they were “disconnected from reality”. A member of the Knesset called in a social media post to: “Burn down Gaza now. No less.” Another called to “flatten and crush Gaza” with “no mercy” before the commencement of an Israeli ground operation, while a third stated that “the Palestinian Authority is as much of a Nazi [entity] as Hamas is”. An Israeli minister said, “We are fighting human animals and we are acting accordingly.” Another Israeli minister wrote an English-language op-ed suggesting that “voluntary resettlement of Palestinians in Gaza, for humanitarian reasons, outside of the Strip” should be considered as an “option”.

V. Affirmative steps to reverse negative trends

37. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called for affirmative steps to be taken immediately to reverse the negative trends on the ground that were imperilling the two-State solution. Negative trends on the ground continued during the reporting period.

38. In Gaza, the humanitarian impact of the conflict has been catastrophic. The Israeli siege of Gaza imposed on 9 October included shutting off Israeli-supplied water (two connection points were subsequently reopened) and electricity, as well as restricting the entry of all imports, including food and fuel. The sole Gaza power plant has not operated since 11 October. Hospitals have suffered heavy damage. Of 36 hospitals in Gaza, 14 are still functioning, most providing only partial services. The acute shortage of fuel has had an impact on patient care, including for newborns. Since the resumption of hostilities on 1 December, an increase in infectious diseases has been observed, amid overcrowding in shelters, the destruction of water and sanitation systems and the decreased availability of health services.

39. Food, drinking water and cooking gas across Gaza are extremely limited, and markets are reportedly empty, except for those with food from humanitarian aid; plants are largely inoperable; and wastewater plants are shut down as a result of damage and destruction from bombardments and lack of fuel, risking widespread health threats. In northern Gaza, 97 per cent of households are not eating enough, and almost half the population is simply starving. The situation in the south is similarly dire, with four in five households experiencing hunger and more than a third starving. Across Gaza, almost all households are now resorting to extremes: adults are not eating so they can feed children, and people are borrowing food or are consuming nothing at all for 24 hours. Over 60 per cent of Gaza's housing – some 300,000 houses and apartments – has reportedly been destroyed or damaged. Starting on 27 October, Israel Defense Forces has periodically cut off communications within Gaza and to the rest of the world, especially during the conduct of Israeli operations inside Gaza, making humanitarian delivery and response nearly impossible.

40. Access to humanitarian supplies has been severely restricted since 7 October. After two weeks of heavy shelling and bombardment, the first aid convoy of 20 trucks entered Gaza through the Rafah crossing at the border of Egypt on 21 October. Between 21 October and the beginning of the pause on 24 November, an average of 50 trucks per day entered Gaza – about 10 per cent of normal traffic through all crossings in the months leading up to the war. Intensive international engagement, including by the United Nations, resulted in limited increases and the entry of some fuel for UNRWA and other life-saving operations as at 15 November. The seven-day humanitarian pause saw significant increases in the entry of supplies, including fuel, with an average of 170 trucks per day, enabling some aid to reach areas of northern Gaza that had remained inaccessible for weeks. The quantity of aid, which has averaged 80 trucks per day since the pause ended, nevertheless remained wholly insufficient to address the overwhelming need.

41. As at 7 December, nearly 1.9 million people, or nearly 85 per cent of the population, were internally displaced, some multiple times, across the Gaza Strip. This includes nearly 1.2 million people sheltering at 151 UNRWA facilities. Of those facilities, 94 are accommodating some 1 million people in the south at nine times their intended capacity. Since 12 October, Israel has been issuing evacuation orders and warnings to Palestinians in northern Gaza to move to the south, where they were met with limited to no access to shelter, food or water and remained subject to frequent bombardment. Beginning on 4 November, Israeli forces designated a corridor for the residents of Gaza City and northern Gaza to move to the south and announced daily four-hour pauses. An estimated 270,000 people have moved along that corridor, though an unknown number were unable or unwilling to move, including many hospital patients. Israeli forces have arrested people and there have been reports of Israeli forces firing on displaced Palestinians moving through the corridor, while the Israel Defense Forces stated that Hamas was preventing the evacuation of civilians. The United Nations and humanitarian partners carried out several medical evacuations of nearly 150 patients from northern to southern Gaza, including the transportation of dozens of premature babies, patients with spinal injuries and patients receiving dialysis treatment from Shifa' Hospital and Ahli Arab Hospital.

42. A limited number of foreigners, Palestinians with dual nationalities, some staff of international organizations and a significant number of sick or injured Palestinians have been allowed to exit through Egypt. The Erez and Kerem Shalom crossings have remained closed since the Hamas attack on 7 October. On 7 December, the Coordination of Government Activities in the Territories announced the decision to use facilities at Kerem Shalom for the inspection of trucks that would enter through Rafah. The Erez crossing was also significantly damaged by Hamas during the 7 October attack and Kerem Shalom has been subject to repeated rocket attacks by Hamas.

43. As at 6 December, Member States had disbursed $405.6 million against an updated $1.2 billion flash appeal launched on 6 November by the United Nations and its partners to implement its humanitarian response. An additional $250 million has been pledged.

44. On 2 November, the Israeli Security Cabinet announced that it would deduct all funds designated for the Gaza Strip, some $73 million or approximately 32.5 per cent, from the clearance revenues Israel transfers on a monthly basis to the Palestinian Authority. This deduction is in addition to other deductions from the clearance revenues, including the monthly deduction of $12.9 million that Israel calculates as equivalent to payments by the Palestinian Authority to Palestinians whom Israel designates as security prisoners or to the families of Palestinians killed while carrying out attacks against Israelis, under Israeli legislation in place since 2019. The clearance revenues amount to over 65 per cent of the total revenue of the Palestinian Authority. On 6 November, the Prime Minister of the State of Palestine, Mohammad Shtayeh, stated that the Palestinian Authority would not accept the partial transfer.

45. The Israeli Security Cabinet also decided that no Palestinian workers would enter Israel from Gaza moving forward, and that the Palestinian workers who were present in Israel prior to the 7 October attacks would be returned to Gaza. Thousands of Palestinian workers from Gaza were returned to Gaza by Israel using the Kerem Shalom crossing on 3 November, while some were reportedly detained by Israeli security forces and others returned voluntarily with the facilitation of the Palestinian Authority. In the West Bank, most permits for Palestinians working in Israel were suspended, which affected approximately 180,000 workers and resulted in a severe negative impact on the Palestinian economy, alongside strict movement restrictions within the West Bank that further crippled economic activity.

46. The 7 October attacks, and the subsequent hostilities between Israel, Hamas and other armed groups, including ongoing rocket launches and drone attacks, have had a significant social and economic impact in Israel. Schools closed across the country on 7 October and stayed closed for weeks, reopening only gradually – and some schools remaining closed. The call-up of some 360,000 military reservists and the evacuation of over 200,000 people, including foreign workers, from their homes in the north and south of Israel have also led to a significant slowing of economic activity, with many businesses closing and others laying off workers. According to figures published by the Bank of Israel in November, the ongoing absence of hundreds of thousands of Israelis from their jobs is costing the economy an estimated $600 million each week. Travel in and out of the country has also been significantly reduced, with nearly all foreign airlines cancelling their flights in and out of Israel since 7 October. Israeli non-governmental organizations focused on women's rights and gender-based violence have warned that the loosening of gun licensing regulations and the proliferation of guns following 7 October could lead to a rise in domestic abuse and violent incidents targeting women across the country.

VI. Efforts by the parties and the international community to advance the peace process and other relevant developments

47. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon all States to distinguish, in their relevant dealings, between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories occupied since 1967. No such steps were taken during the reporting period.

48. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council also called upon all parties to continue, in the interest of the promotion of peace and security, to exert collective efforts to launch credible negotiations on all final status issues in the Middle East peace process and urged in that regard the intensification and acceleration of international and regional diplomatic efforts and support aimed at achieving, without delay, a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East on the basis of the relevant United Nations resolutions, the Madrid terms of reference, including the principle of land for peace, the Arab Peace Initiative and the Quartet Road Map, and an end to the Israeli occupation that began in 1967.

49. A number of high-level meetings were held aimed at addressing the current crisis, with many referencing the need to restart efforts towards achieving a two-State solution. On 21 October, the President of Egypt, Abdel Fattah Al Sisi, hosted a summit in Cairo for regional and international leaders to discuss current developments, the future of the Palestinian cause and the peace process. On 4 November, the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of Egypt, Jordan, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, as well as the Secretary-General of the Executive Committee of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, Hussein Al-Sheikh, convened in Amman together with the United States Secretary of State, Antony Blinken, for a ministerial summit. On 11 November, Saudi Arabia hosted Muslim and Arab leaders in a joint Organization of Islamic Cooperation-League of Arab States summit in Riyadh to demand an end to the Israel-Hamas conflict and to reaffirm the Arab Peace Initiative.

50. Against the backdrop of significantly heightened violence in the West Bank, on 5 December the United States State Department announced that it was implementing a new visa restriction policy targeting individuals believed to have been involved in undermining peace, security or stability in the West Bank, including through committing acts of violence or taking other actions that unduly restricted civilians' access to essential services and basic necessities. It further stated that immediate family members of such persons also may be subject to these restrictions.

51. An emergency special session of the General Assembly requested by the Arab Group and the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) was convened from 26 October. On 27 October, the Assembly adopted a resolution co-sponsored by the Group of Arab States and OIC entitled "Protection of civilians and upholding legal and humanitarian obligations". Resolution ES-10/21 called for "an immediate, durable and sustained humanitarian truce leading to a cessation of hostilities".

52. On 15 November, the Security Council adopted resolution 2712 \(2023\), which called, inter alia, for "urgent and extended humanitarian pauses and corridors throughout the Gaza Strip ... to enable ... full, rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian access for United Nations humanitarian agencies and their implementing partners". It also called for "the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas and other groups, especially children" and for "all parties to refrain from depriving the civilian population in the Gaza Strip of basic services and humanitarian assistance".

VII. Observations

53. I strongly condemn the abhorrent armed attacks by Hamas and others in Israel. Nothing can justify the acts of terror that were committed and the deliberate killing, maiming and abduction of civilians and other protected persons. Accounts of the attacks reveal acts of brutality that are impossible to accept or comprehend. I am appalled by the reports of sexual violence during the attacks; these must be vigorously investigated and prosecuted. The firing of indiscriminate rockets towards Israeli population centres is a violation of international humanitarian law and must cease completely. I welcome the release of 110 Israeli and foreign hostages, in line with Security Council resolution 2712 \(2023\), and reiterate that all remaining hostages must be treated humanely and immediately and unconditionally released. In the interim, they must be allowed to receive visits from the International Committee of the Red Cross.

54. As Secretary-General of the United Nations, under Article 99 of the Charter of the United Nations, I brought to the attention of the Security Council the situation in Gaza, which, in my opinion, may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security. More than eight weeks of hostilities in Gaza and Israel have created appalling human suffering, physical destruction and collective trauma across Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territory. Civilians throughout Gaza face grave danger. There is no effective protection of civilians. I reiterate my urgent appeal for a humanitarian ceasefire.

55. The violence that has been taking place since 7 October in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territory – particularly in and around Gaza – has shaken the region and, most tragically, the lives of millions of Palestinians and Israelis. The scale of death and destruction is shocking, unprecedented and truly unbearable.

56. The magnitude of the Israeli military campaign against Hamas and the scope of death and destruction in Gaza have been unprecedented and unbearable to witness. I unequivocally condemn the killing of civilians in Gaza, including women and children. I mourn the loss of every civilian, including 131 United Nations colleagues – the single largest loss of life in the history of the Organization. I am horrified that Israeli airstrikes have hit protected persons, including journalists, health workers and humanitarian personnel, as well as civilian infrastructure, including hospitals and United Nations facilities. I reiterate that civilians, and civilian infrastructure, must be respected and protected at all times, and the inviolability of United Nations facilities must be honoured and respected.

57. I have expressed repeated concerns over what may be violations of international humanitarian law. The numbers of those killed and injured raise serious questions about compliance with the requirements of distinction, precautions in attack and proportionality. Ordering and directing the massive displacement of the population of northern and central Gaza without ensuring that they will be provided with shelter, food, water, medicine, hygiene, health and safety also raises serious concerns about compliance with the applicable legal requirements. Following the declared siege by Israel of the Gaza Strip until 21 October, the entry of humanitarian supplies have been far below what is required to meet the massive needs of the people in Gaza. The laws of war demand that the parties to a conflict allow and facilitate the rapid and unimpeded passage of humanitarian relief for civilians in need. Millions of Palestinian civilians should not pay the price for the brutality perpetrated by Hamas and other armed groups. I am deeply troubled by allegations that Palestinians in Gaza are being used as human shields. Israelis should not have to live under the continual threat of indiscriminate rocket fire from Gaza. Such conduct cannot, however, absolve Israel of its own obligations. International humanitarian law cannot be applied selectively. It applies to all parties to a conflict at all times and the obligation to comply with it does not depend on reciprocity. The protection of civilians is paramount in any armed conflict.

58. The continuation and intensification of the conflict in Gaza over the past weeks is deeply alarming. This includes the expansion of ground operations by the Israel Defense Forces to the south, accompanied by relentless and intense airstrikes, the continued launching of rockets from densely populated residential areas towards Israeli population centres and the ongoing threat of escalation in the region. Alongside my Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, I am engaged tirelessly with all parties to bring the fighting to an end and avoid any further expansion of the conflict and any further suffering of the civilian populations.

59. I am also deeply concerned by escalating tensions in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, which are reaching a boiling point. Intensified armed exchanges between Palestinians and Israeli security forces in the occupied West Bank, predominantly in the context of Israeli operations, have led to exceedingly high levels of arrests and casualties. Over 57 per cent of Palestinian casualties in 2023 occurred in the approximately nine weeks since the Hamas attacks on 7 October. The year 2023 has surpassed 2022 as the deadliest year for Palestinians in the West Bank since the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs of the Secretariat began recording casualties in 2005. I reiterate that security forces must exercise maximum restraint, use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life, and conduct thorough, independent, impartial and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force.

60. I am alarmed by the lethal attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians and by Palestinians against Israelis in the occupied West Bank and Israel, with some claimed by Hamas. All perpetrators of violence must be held accountable and swiftly brought to justice.

61. I urge Israel to take immediate steps to end the unprecedented levels of settler violence and protect the Palestinian population against increasing attacks and incidents of the use of violence and intimidation to drive communities from their homes, sometimes in the proximity of and with the support of Israeli security forces. The year 2023 saw the highest number of such incidents since the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs began recording data in 2006. Settlers are rarely held accountable for such attacks, increasing the level of threat to Palestinians and their property. I urge Israel, as the occupying Power, to ensure the safety and security of the Palestinian population and to investigate and hold perpetrators of all attacks accountable.

62. I am deeply concerned about the large number of Palestinians detained by Israeli security forces since 7 October, the increase in the number of Palestinians held in administrative detention, without charge or trial, by Israel since 7 October, and by reports of ill-treatment during arrest.

63. I remain gravely concerned by the impact of the ongoing hostilities on the humanitarian situation in Gaza. The current conditions are making it impossible for meaningful humanitarian operations to be conducted. The level of humanitarian assistance that has been allowed into Gaza is completely inadequate and is not proportional to the overwhelming needs of Gaza's population. The United Nations needs the predictable entry of more food, shelter materials, medicine and fuel. Its ability to repair essential, life-saving infrastructure is critical. The predictable entry of commercial goods into the Gaza Strip is also critical, given that humanitarian assistance alone cannot meet the needs of 2.2 million people. I am grateful to Egypt for its constructive engagement in facilitating humanitarian access and welcome the opening of the Rafah crossing for the exit of some sick and wounded Palestinians. In line with Security Council resolution 2712 \(2023\), I reiterate the need to open the Kerem Shalom crossing point to allow for the entry of humanitarian supplies. I also note the adoption of Council resolution 2712 \(2023\), the first Council resolution on this agenda item since 2016. I underscore the importance of its implementation by the parties, which to date has been woefully insufficient in the face of the epic humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza. I urge the Council to continue to do its utmost to end this terrible suffering.

64. I welcome the arrangement and commend the facilitation efforts of the Governments of Egypt, Qatar and the United States that enabled the release of 78 hostages abducted on 7 October by Hamas and others, as well as the seven-day humanitarian pause and the release of 240 Palestinian prisoners and detainees from Israeli jails. The joyous reunion of families and the momentary respite from the hostilities in Gaza and the entry of life-saving aid must be a starting point for the release of all remaining hostages and a humanitarian ceasefire that will end the devastating hostilities in Gaza.

65. I remain deeply troubled by the relentless expansion of Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, that is impeding access by Palestinians to their land and resources and threatening the viability of a future independent Palestinian State. The ever-growing settlement footprint, including outposts, contributes to a rise in settler-related violence and further entrenches the Israeli military occupation, hampering the free movement of the Palestinian population and undermining the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination.

66. This year has seen the most advancements or approvals of housing units in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, since the United Nations began systematically tracking advancements in 2017. Overall, in 2023, plans for nearly 24,700 housing units were advanced, approved or tendered, more than double the approximately 11,700 units in 2022. In Area C, the number almost tripled as plans for approximately 14,700 housing units were advanced or approved, compared with approximately 5,300 in 2022. Some 1,260 housing units were tendered in 2023 compared with 159 in 2022, a nearly eight-fold increase. In occupied East Jerusalem, plans for over 8,540 units were advanced or approved, compared with some 5,800 in 2022. I am alarmed by the unprecedented high number of plans for housing units that were advanced in 2023, as well as by the 18 June decision by the Government of Israel to remove the requirement for ministerial approval at interim stages of settlement planning and delegate this authority to the Additional Minister in the Ministry of Defense, which may expedite the process of settlement expansion.

67. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law and United Nations resolutions. I urge the Government of Israel to cease all settlement activity immediately, in line with its obligations under international law.

68. I remain deeply concerned by the continued demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures. Demolitions of and evictions from property, including internationally funded humanitarian projects, as well as structures related to income generation and the provision of essential services, entail numerous human rights violations and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I again call upon the Government of Israel to immediately end the demolition of Palestinian-owned property and prevent the possible displacement and forced eviction of Palestinians, in line with its international obligations, and to approve plans that would enable those communities to build legally and address their development needs.

69. I am appalled at the numerous instances during the reporting period of officials glorifying violence and encouraging the killing of civilians, including in relation to the acts of terror Hamas carried out on 7 October or to Israeli military operations in Gaza. Such rhetoric is abhorrent and must be clearly rejected by leaders on all sides. Leaders have an obligation to clearly and explicitly condemn acts of terror and violence directed against civilians. The widespread incitement to violence we have witnessed during the present reporting period has clearly fanned the flames of war and will only lead to more bloodshed. It must stop immediately.

70. I reiterate and amplify my call to the parties for the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem to be respected and upheld, taking into account the special and historic role of Jordan as custodian of the Muslim and Christian holy sites in Jerusalem.

71. I am deeply concerned about the precipitated fiscal crisis facing the Palestinian Authority. Without an immediate injection of capital or international financing and assistance, the Palestinian Authority faces a fiscal crisis, affecting basic service provision, the provision of full civil servant salary payments and debt servicing. I urge Israel to reverse its decision to withhold Gaza-related deductions and for the international community to resume emergency financial support to the Palestinian Authority.

72. Even as the hostilities in Gaza rage on and we focus on the immediate challenges, we must begin work on what comes next. There is much we cannot know about how those hostilities will end and what realities will lie before us, but there are some principles that are clear: any post-hostility scenario will require strengthening and supporting the Palestinian Authority, as part of a viable strategy to restore Palestinian governance to Gaza under a single, legitimate Palestinian Government within a clearly defined objective of achieving the two-State solution, in line with long-held principles. The region has a critical role to play in envisioning and realizing a peaceful and prosperous future for an independent and sovereign Palestinian State, of which Gaza is an integral part. A serious strategic dialogue on these issues is urgently needed.

73. Today, UNRWA serves as the key lifeline for the population of Gaza amid a complete humanitarian catastrophe, as it is sheltering over a million people, running health centres and distributing life-saving aid. The Agency is also delivering essential services for Palestine refugees in the West Bank amid record-breaking violence, and in the wider region amid simmering tensions and socioeconomic problems. Despite this, UNRWA continues to suffer from chronic underfunding. For UNRWA to be able to continue to play a key stabilizing role in the region and remain the international community's trusted partner to facilitate the humanitarian response in Gaza, it is essential that it receive strong political and financial support from Member States to find solutions for a sustainable model with predictable and sufficient income.

74. This war has, once again, served as a devastating and tragic reminder that there is no substitute for a legitimate political process that will resolve the core issues driving the conflict. Israelis, Palestinians, the States of the region and the broader international community must urgently take steps that will enable the parties to re-engage on the long-delayed political path to achieve a two-State solution.

75. I remain committed to supporting Palestinians and Israelis in ending the occupation and resolving the conflict in line with international law, relevant United Nations resolutions and bilateral agreements in pursuit of the vision of two States – Israel and an independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State – living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders, on the basis of the pre-1967 lines, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.

76. I express my deep appreciation to my Special Coordinator and his team for their outstanding service in what remains a challenging context. I also pay tribute to all United Nations personnel who have lost their lives in this conflict and to all the heroic humanitarian aid workers who remain committed to their work despite the enormous danger to their health and lives.

Resolution 2720 (2023)Adopted by the Security Council at its 9520th meeting, on 22 December 2023

The Security Council,

Reaffirming the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations,

Recalling all of its relevant resolutions, particularly resolution 2712 \(2023\), which, inter alia, demands that all parties comply with their obligations under international law, notably with regard to the protection of civilians, calls for urgent and extended humanitarian pauses and corridors throughout the Gaza Strip for a sufficient number of days to enable full, rapid, safe, and unhindered humanitarian access and to enable urgent rescue and recovery efforts, and calls for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages, as well as ensuring immediate humanitarian access,

Reaffirming that all parties to conflicts must adhere to their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law, as applicable,

Stressing that the Gaza Strip constitutes an integral part of the territory occupied in 1967, and reiterating the vision of the two-State solution, with the Gaza Strip as part of the Palestinian State,

Expressing deep concern at the dire and rapidly deteriorating humanitarian situation in the Gaza Strip and its grave impact on the civilian population, underlining the urgent need for full, rapid, safe, and unhindered humanitarian access into and throughout the entire Gaza Strip, and taking note of the concerning reports from the leadership of the United Nations and humanitarian organizations in this regard, reaffirming its strong concern for the disproportionate effect that the conflict is having on the lives and well-being of children, women, and other civilians in vulnerable situations, and stressing the humanitarian principles of humanity, impartiality, neutrality, and independence,

Stressing the obligation to respect and protect humanitarian relief and medical personnel,

Reaffirming its call for all parties to refrain from depriving the civilian population in the Gaza Strip of basic services and humanitarian assistance indispensable to their survival, consistent with international humanitarian law,

Commending the indispensable and ongoing efforts of the United Nations, its specialized agencies and all humanitarian and medical personnel in the Gaza Strip to alleviate the impact of the conflict on the people in the Gaza Strip, and expressing condolences for all civilians, including humanitarian and medical personnel, killed in the course of this conflict,

Welcoming the efforts of Egypt to facilitate the use of the Rafah Border crossing by United Nations humanitarian agencies and their implementing partners for the provision of humanitarian assistance for people in need throughout the Gaza Strip,

Taking note of the 15 December 2023 decision by the Government of Israel to open its crossing at Karem Abu Salem/Kerem Shalom for direct delivery of humanitarian assistance to Palestinian civilians in Gaza, which should ease congestion and help facilitate the provision of life-saving assistance to those who urgently need it, and emphasizing the need to continue working closely with all relevant parties to expand the delivery and distribution of humanitarian assistance, while confirming its humanitarian nature and ensuring that it reaches its civilian destination,

Encouraging engagement with relevant states in the implementation of this resolution,

Welcoming the implementation of a recent ‘humanitarian pause’ in the Gaza Strip, and expressing appreciation for the diplomatic efforts of Egypt, the State of Qatar, and other states in this regard, and also expressing grave concerns as to the impact the resumption of hostilities has had on civilians,

Recognizing that the civilian population in the Gaza Strip must have access to sufficient quantities of assistance that they need, including enough food, water, sanitation, electricity, telecommunications and medical services essential for their survival, and that the provision of humanitarian supplies in the Gaza Strip needs to be sufficient to alleviate the massive humanitarian needs of the Palestinian civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip, and recognizing the importance of resuming commercial imports of essential goods and services into the Gaza Strip,

Letter dated 5 January 2024 from the Secretary-General addressed to the President of the Security Council

I have the honour to refer to Security Council resolution 2720 \(2023\), in which the Council requested that I report in writing, within five working days of the adoption of that resolution, on the implementation of Security Council resolution 2712 \(2023\).

Resolution 2712 \(2023\) was adopted in the context of the widespread death and destruction unleashed by the conflict in Gaza and Israel. Sadly, devastating levels of death and destruction continue.

According to Israeli authorities, more than 1,200 Israelis and foreign nationals were killed in Israel in the abhorrent acts of terror perpetrated by Hamas and other groups on 7 October 2023, during which some 250 Israelis and foreign nationals, including around 65 women and 34 children, were abducted and taken to Gaza. Numerous accounts of sexual violence have also been reported. Thousands of others have been injured in Israel.

According to the Ministry of Health in Gaza, since the start of the current Israeli military operations, more than 22,000 people have been killed in the Gaza Strip, tens of thousands of Palestinians have been injured and many have gone missing. More than two thirds of those killed and injured in Gaza are reported to be children and women.

In its resolution 2712 \(2023\), the Council “demands that all parties comply with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law, notably with regard to the protection of civilians, especially children”. I continue to have grave concerns about the possible commission of serious violations of international law. The number of deaths and injuries documented since 7 October is staggering. Furthermore, an estimated 85 per cent of Palestinians in Gaza are currently displaced. Families are repeatedly told to evacuate to other locations for their own safety, but nowhere is dependably safe in Gaza, and nowhere can their essential needs be met.

The scale of death and destruction, especially in northern Gaza, is characteristic of the use of explosive weapons with wide-area effects by the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) in densely populated areas. To date, over 60 per cent of homes in Gaza are estimated to have been damaged or destroyed.

At the same time, the indiscriminate launching of rockets by Hamas and other groups towards population centres in Israel has continued, along with allegations that civilians, hospitals and other civilian objects are being used in an attempt to shield fighters and military objectives.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) reports that nearly 1.9 million civilians are sheltering in, or in the vicinity of, UNRWA installations in Gaza. Under international law, UNRWA installations, like all United Nations facilities, are inviolable, including in times of armed conflict. UNRWA shares the coordinates of all its facilities across the Gaza Strip with all parties to the conflict. Yet the agency has reported 193 incidents affecting 125 of its installations. Reportedly, a total of 308 internally displaced people sheltering in UNRWA premises have been killed and nearly 1,095 have been injured.

It is with profound sadness that I must also report that, as of today, 144 members of our United Nations family, 142 of whom were UNRWA staff, have been killed in Gaza. This is the largest loss of life during a single conflict in the history of our Organization.

Since the start of the current Israeli military operations in Gaza, the World Health Organization (WHO) has recorded 294 attacks that have affected health care, resulting in the killing of some 600 people and affecting 94 hospitals and other medical facilities, as well as 76 ambulances.

The rules of war are clear: civilians, including United Nations personnel, must be respected and protected. Constant care must be taken in the conduct of military operations to spare the civilian population, civilians and civilian objects. Civilian objects must be respected and protected. Hospitals and other medical facilities enjoy specific protection under international humanitarian law. I am gravely concerned about the apparent disregard for these crucial binding legal obligations by all parties to the conflict. International humanitarian law must be respected by all parties to the conflict at all times. The failure of one party to a conflict to abide by international humanitarian law does not absolve the other party from its obligation to do so.

In its resolution 2712 \(2023\), the Council calls for “urgent and extended humanitarian pauses and corridors throughout the Gaza Strip” to enable “full, rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian access for ... humanitarian agencies”. On 22 November, Israel and Hamas, with the assistance of the Governments of Qatar, Egypt and the United States of America, reached an arrangement to pause hostilities on 24 November. This truce was extended multiple times, until 1 December, when hostilities resumed. Since then, no further pauses have been agreed.

While it lasted, the pause in hostilities enabled a welcome increase in the delivery of basic supplies into and across Gaza, primarily by the Egyptian Red Crescent Society, the Palestinian Red Crescent Society and United Nations agencies. The resumption of hostilities has once again significantly impeded deliveries of humanitarian aid. Despite formidable challenges, humanitarian partners are working to expand the reach of relief efforts and deliver assistance to as many people as possible.

Humanitarian convoys are being dispatched daily to Rafah, the west of Khan Yunis, the Deir El-Balah camp and Nusayrat, where displaced people and host communities are seeking safety and shelter. In these areas, humanitarians are working to deliver aid to UNRWA facilities, as well as to ad hoc displacement sites that have emerged in open spaces. Delivery of assistance north of Wadi Gaza, where an estimated 300,000 people remain, is extremely difficult owing to active fighting, the presence of Israeli ground forces and the heavily damaged road network. Since the end of the humanitarian pause on 1 December, 12 humanitarian convoys have reached the area north of Wadi Gaza, delivering vital and life-saving health supplies. Each of these convoys encountered major challenges, ranging from the impact of small arms fire to the detention of aid workers at crossing checkpoints controlled by IDF.

To date, a total of 6,099 truckloads of humanitarian aid have been delivered to the Gaza Strip, including 5,197 through Rafah and 902 through the Karem Abu Salim/Kerem Shalom crossing, which Israel opened to deliveries from Egypt on 17 December.

Despite these efforts, the level of aid to Palestinians in Gaza is completely inadequate to meet the needs of more than 2 million people. As I have previously noted, measuring the effectiveness of the humanitarian response solely by the number of truckloads of aid entering Gaza is misleading. An effective aid operation requires security, safeguards for humanitarian personnel, logistical capacity and the resumption of commercial activity. It requires electricity and steady communications. All of these remain absent.

I welcome the agreement reached on the entry of fuel into Gaza in support of the humanitarian response. However, although the total volume of fuel allowed has increased, it is still insufficient to sustain basic operations. At present, the United Nations is the only entity allowed to receive and allocate fuel, under strict conditions set by the Israeli authorities, and delivery, especially to the north, remains extremely challenging. It is critical that commercial fuel distribution resumes, to alleviate the current unsustainable task of the United Nations to arrange and coordinate resupply for hospitals, telecommunications companies, financial institutions, and water and sanitation infrastructure.

Civilians in Gaza need a continuous flow of life-saving humanitarian aid and fuel into and across the area. In its absence, aid convoys are increasingly confronted by desperate civilians who forcibly take the assistance they need, heightening risks to aid workers, damaging trucks and hampering delivery to key destinations. The law and order necessary to ensure safe, smooth operations is absent in much of Gaza. This is a necessary prerequisite for humanitarians to be able to work.

Even if scaled up, the humanitarian sector cannot substitute for the near complete lack of commercial imports of essential items. The commercial sector has been decimated, leaving the United Nations and humanitarian partners alone in providing basic necessities that should be available from markets. Israel has a responsibility for ensuring, to the fullest extent of the means available to it, the food and medical supplies of the population, as well as the provision of clothing, bedding, means of shelter and other supplies essential to its survival. This cannot be achieved without an immediate and massive increase in the commercial supply of essential goods.

In its resolution 2712 \(2023\), the Council calls for “the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas and other groups”. Following an arrangement on 22 November between Israel and Hamas, brokered by Qatar, Egypt and the United States, the International Committee of the Red Cross has facilitated the release and transfer of over 100 hostages. This is welcome. However, I reiterate that all hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. They must be treated humanely, and the International Committee of the Red Cross must be allowed to visit. I am deeply concerned by reports that several hostages have been killed or subjected to humiliating and degrading treatment while in captivity. The arrangement reached on 22 November also led to the release of 240 Palestinian prisoners and detainees, most of them women and children, from Israeli jails.

In its resolution 2712 \(2023\), the Council calls for “all parties to refrain from depriving the civilian population in the Gaza Strip of basic services and humanitarian assistance indispensable to their survival, consistent with international humanitarian law”. The intensity of the fighting in Gaza continues to impede ongoing efforts to provide health care and other life-saving assistance to civilians. Insecurity, blocked or destroyed roads and fuel shortages also hamper humanitarian operations, as do frequent disruptions to telecommunications.

Hunger and thirst are rampant, and widespread famine looms, according to the World Food Programme. More than half a million people – a quarter of the population – are facing what experts classify as catastrophic levels of hunger. WHO indicates that just 13 of the 36 hospitals in Gaza are still functioning, but only partially. They are overwhelmed with trauma cases and operating in unsafe conditions, filled with tens of thousands of people seeking safety. The hospitals are desperately short of supplies and only able to provide a modicum of comfort through the heroic efforts of health workers who have seen colleagues die and who live with the reality that their own death may be imminent.

A public health catastrophe is rapidly evolving in Gaza. Infectious diseases are spreading in overcrowded shelters. Sanitary conditions are appalling, with few toilets and sewage flooding. As winter takes hold, infectious disease outbreaks will spike. WHO reports that Gaza is already experiencing soaring rates of infectious disease outbreaks.

Children, pregnant women, older persons and those with weakened immune systems are at greatest risk. According to the United Nations Children’s Fund, children recently displaced to southern Gaza are not able to access 90 per cent of their normal water use. Concerns of waterborne diseases, such as cholera and chronic diarrhoea, are heightened by the lack of safe water. WHO reports that diarrhoea cases among children aged under 5 are 25 times what they were before the current fighting. Around 180 Palestinian women are estimated to be giving birth every day in these extremely difficult conditions.

To facilitate implementation of resolution 2712 \(2023\) and as required by law, Gaza needs an immediate and sustained increase in humanitarian aid, especially food, water, fuel, blankets, medicines and health-care supplies. Israel must fully restore water and electricity services. The private sector must also be able to bring in fuel and critical basic commodities to replenish depleted shops in Gaza and facilitate cash-based assistance programmes.

In its resolution 2712 \(2023\), the Council “underscores the importance of coordination, humanitarian notification, and deconfliction mechanisms, to protect all medical and humanitarian staff, vehicles including ambulances, humanitarian sites, and critical infrastructure, including UN facilities”.

The humanitarian notification system, implemented by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, UNRWA and the access support unit, was established in 2019 to provide a shared framework by which humanitarian agencies inform parties to the conflict of static humanitarian locations and humanitarian aid movements to ensure humanitarian access to affected populations. To date, a total of 996 humanitarian sites have been notified, including 87 since 7 October, as well as hundreds of humanitarian movements, including nearly 800 since the current fighting began. The framework has exceptionally enabled a limited number of movements to areas in which a high number of kinetic operations are ongoing during the current hostilities, including in the north, via an endorsed coordination mechanism in which IDF is an active participant, providing cleared routes and assurances of security. Given the magnitude of the current hostilities and the scope of civilian casualties, this mechanism has preserved a small degree of humanitarian access. However, as noted above, the parties to the conflict must ensure that civilians are protected, hospitals can function and humanitarians can remain in Gaza and provide aid to highly vulnerable populations in increasingly insecure locations.

At least 130 notified sites, including the 125 UNRWA facilities mentioned above, have been affected since the start of the current round of fighting, and staff involved in coordinated aid missions have seen their work hampered by small arms fire, detentions and delays. Incidents harming structures notified under the humanitarian notification system have resulted in damage to critical infrastructure as well as civilian deaths, injuries and multiple displacements.

I take this opportunity to highlight that, on 26 December, I appointed Sigrid Kaag of the Kingdom of the Netherlands as Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza pursuant to Security Council resolution 2720 \(2023\). In this role, she will facilitate, coordinate, monitor and verify the humanitarian nature of all humanitarian relief consignments to Gaza provided through States not party to the conflict. She will also establish a United Nations mechanism to accelerate humanitarian relief consignments into Gaza through such States, consulting all relevant parties.

To ensure streamlined operations, Ms. Kaag will report to me through the Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator. She will also work in close coordination with the United Nations Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process and the Deputy Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, Resident Coordinator and Humanitarian Coordinator, who leads the coordination efforts for humanitarian, development and recovery activities in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, and the Commissioner-General of UNRWA. Ms. Kaag will be supported by the United Nations Office for Project Services.

In closing, on the basis of the information received to date, and consistent with my previous updates to the Council, resolution 2712 \(2023\) is far from being implemented and progress remains woefully insufficient.

In line with that resolution, I wrote to the Council outlining options to effectively monitor its implementation. As noted, effective monitoring is heavily predicated on conditions on the ground being conducive to such monitoring, including with respect to security, functioning communication networks, facilitation of movement and access to and from relevant areas, and other operational factors. These factors remain largely absent.

After more than 80 days of intense fighting, the people of Gaza have reached a breaking point of deprivation and despair. This must end. We need civilians and the life-sustaining infrastructure they rely on to be protected. We need the remaining hostages to be released immediately and unconditionally. We need consistent, safe humanitarian access, at scale. We need to ensure that there is no additional spillover to other parts of the Occupied Palestinian Territory, the region or beyond. We need the fighting to stop.

Security Council Press Statement on Incident Surrounding Humanitarian Assistance Convoy in Gaza Strip

The following Security Council press statement was issued today by Council President Yamazaki Kazuyuki (Japan):

The members of the Security Council express deep concern regarding reports stating that over 100 individuals lost their lives with several hundred others sustaining injuries, including people with gunshot wounds as observed by the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, in an incident involving Israeli forces at a large gathering surrounding a humanitarian assistance convoy south-west of Gaza City. The Council members take note that an Israeli investigation is under way.

They extend their sincere condolences to the families of the victims and wish a swift and complete recovery for those who have been injured.

The Council members stress the need to take all necessary measures to protect civilians and civilian infrastructure.

In this regard, they reaffirm that all parties to conflicts must comply with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law, as applicable.

They call for all parties to refrain from depriving the civilian population in the Gaza Strip of basic services and humanitarian assistance indispensable to their survival, consistent with international humanitarian law.

In this regard, they express grave concern over the estimation from the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification (IPC) that all 2.2 million people in Gaza would face alarming levels of acute food insecurity.

The Council members reiterate their demand for parties to the conflict to allow, facilitate, and enable the immediate, rapid, safe, sustained and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale to the Palestinian civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip and for the full implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023) and 2720 (2023).

The Council members urge Israel to keep border crossings open for humanitarian aid to enter Gaza, to facilitate the opening of additional crossings to meet humanitarian needs at scale, and to support the rapid and safe delivery of relief items to people in all of the Gaza Strip.

The meeting was called to order at 10.05 a.m.

Adoption of the agenda

The President: The representative of the Russian Federation has asked for the floor.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): Yesterday the delegation of France, when discussing the Security Council meeting that we had requested to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the NATO aggression against Yugoslavia, set a procedural precedent when it insisted that the Council take all decisions regarding the holding of meetings only in the Chamber. Upon the initiative of France, there was a procedural vote on the agenda item, despite the fact that the Japanese presidency had announced the meeting and that it was included on the provisional programme of work of the Council. However, in the Chamber, the presidency was not able to confirm its ruling.

In addition, yesterday France and generally the Western “troika” of permanent members of the Council essentially refused to permit a Council member to call a meeting that, as I said, had already been announced and that, I note, was not on a subject outside the purview of the Council but under the agenda item “Threats to international peace and security” (see S/PV.9587). It was not the agenda item that they did not like, upon which the Japanese presidency ultimately forced us to vote, but the subject of the meeting itself. For some reason we voted on the agenda item.

We will return to that issue in greater detail. For the time being, given the precedent set by France, and in order to avoid misunderstandings, we are of the view that the decision to hold meetings must be taken directly at the beginning of each of those meetings. The logical question would be whether members of the Security Council support the convening of the meeting or if any of them do not support it. We, of course, would prefer the presidency word the question for a procedural vote in that way. It is important to ensure that nobody, like France yesterday, is opposed. After yesterday’s negative precedent however, in which the presidency refused to word the question in that way, right now we cannot expect that. Therefore, we ask for a procedural vote today — to at least adopt the agenda for this meeting. That would allow us to take a decision according to the letter of the procedure, as the French colleagues wish. It is important to avoid double standards and varying interpretations. If they arose yesterday with respect to the meeting requested by Russia, we must ensure that they will not arise today. That procedure will continue until we reach an agreement on a normal modus operandi.

The President: The representative of France has asked for the floor.

Mrs. Jarraud-Darnault (France) (spoke in French): I would like to respond to a few points just made by the representative of the Russian Federation. It was said that France had set a negative precedent. I believe that that is absolutely not the case, as the Russian Federation has already requested procedural votes concerning the holding of Security Council meetings. I would like to recall that. Also, I would like to recall that it is not that all decisions regarding the agenda must be made in the Chamber, but only those for which the agenda has not been discussed and agreed upon. My delegation and other delegations have stated repeatedly, since early March, that the meeting that the Russian Federation had proposed for yesterday (see S/PV.9587) was not in line with the wishes of the members of the Council. I wanted to clarify that.

The President: The representative of the Russian Federation has asked for the floor to make a further statement.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): The request of a member of the Council to call a meeting of the Council on the subject that that member asks to discuss is not the subject of consensus-based discussions. I would like to remind the representative of France of that. In any case, I think, now is not the time for a dialogue on procedural matters. We will return to this, as I said. Now I am requesting a procedural vote on the adoption of the agenda for today’s meeting.

The President: In view of the request made by the Russian Federation and comments of members of the Council, I intend to put the provisional agenda to the vote. I shall put the provisional agenda to the vote now.

A vote was taken by a show of hands.

In favour:

Algeria, China, Ecuador, France, Guyana, Japan, Malta, Mozambique, Republic of Korea, Russian Federation, Sierra Leone, Slovenia, Switzerland, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America

The President: The provisional agenda received 15 votes in favour. The provisional agenda has been adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure I invite Mr. Tor Wennesland, Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, to participate in this meeting.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I now give the floor to Mr. Wennesland.

Mr. Wennesland: Before turning to the report, I wish to acknowledge the important message from the Security Council in yesterday's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024). We need a ceasefire now. We need the release of all hostages now. The suffering must end.

This is the twenty-ninth quarterly report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). It covers the period from 8 December to 18 March. The resolution calls on Israel to immediately and completely cease all settlement activity in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, and to fully respect all of its legal obligations in this regard. Nevertheless, settlement activities have continued and intensified.

In total, some 4,780 housing units were advanced or approved in settlements in Area C in the occupied West Bank and in East Jerusalem. Of those, the Higher Planning Committee advanced approximately 3,420 housing units in three settlements in the occupied West Bank, including 2,400 in the Ma'ale Adumim settlement on 6 March. Another 580 housing units were approved in two plans in Area C, in Revava and Mevo'ot Yeriho. In occupied East Jerusalem, 700 housing units were advanced and approved in the Givat Hashaked settlement. In addition to that, tenders for approximately 430 housing units were announced for settlements in Area C in the West Bank.

Demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures continued across the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Citing the lack of Israeli-issued building permits, which are almost impossible for Palestinians to obtain, Israeli authorities demolished, seized and forced people to demolish 300 structures, displacing 314 people, including 137 children. Sixteen structures were donor funded. In a continuing trend, 35 Palestinians, including 17 children, left their West Bank communities, citing violence and harassment by settlers and shrinking grazing land.

Resolution 2334 (2016) calls for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror, as well as all acts of provocation and destruction. Unfortunately, the devastating conflict in Gaza has continued, alongside daily violence in the occupied West Bank.

In Gaza, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health, from 8 December to 18 March, at least 14,550 Palestinians were killed, including approximately 4,200 women and 6,000 children, and at least 27,800 were injured. That brings the total number reported by the Ministry of Health since 7 October to more than 31,790 Palestinians killed, a majority of whom are reportedly women and children.

According to Israeli sources, 134 hostages of the approximately 250 taken hostage on 7 October 2023 are still being held captive. Israeli sources also report more than 1,461 Israelis and foreign nationals killed by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups, including at least 338 women, 37 children and 633 members of the security forces, since and including 7 October 2023.

Hostilities remained intense across Gaza, with Israel conducting strikes from air, land and sea, resulting in tens of thousands of casualties, massive displacement of civilians and widespread destruction, including of civilian infrastructure. Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups continued to hold civilians hostage, launch attacks at Israeli forces and indiscriminately fire rockets towards Israel.

The Israeli operations in Khan Younis continued, driving tens of thousands more Palestinians, including those already displaced multiple times, to Rafah, where airstrikes have intensified amid concerns of a major Israeli military operation. The fighting has seriously affected the remaining functioning hospitals in Gaza. The Israel Defense Forces (IDF) stated that its operations are targeting Hamas fighters and equipment, in addition to tunnel networks and other facilities used for military purposes, including in or under civilian infrastructure.

Law and order are rapidly breaking down in Gaza as desperation grows. On 29 February, more than 100 Palestinians were killed and several hundred more were injured in an attack involving Israeli forces during an Israeli-coordinated aid delivery operation in northern Gaza. At least 26 attacks on people at aid distribution points have occurred since mid-January. Repeated attacks on health-care facilities have been reported in Gaza, resulting in the deaths of health-care workers, patients and internally displaced people sheltering in those locations.

On 15 March, the Prime Minister's Office announced approval of plans for an Israeli military operation in Rafah, including steps to evacuate civilians from combat zones.

In the reporting period, 39 United Nations personnel were killed in Gaza, bringing the total number of United Nations staff killed since 7 October 2023 to 171.

Meanwhile, violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, continued at alarming levels, with 159 Palestinians, including two women and 43 children, killed by the Israeli security forces during search-and-arrest operations, armed exchanges, airstrikes, demonstrations and other incidents. One Palestinian was killed by Israeli settlers, and another was killed either by Israeli forces or by settlers. A total of 1,150 Palestinians were injured, including 240 by tear gas inhalation and 394 by live ammunition.

According to Israeli sources, 10 Israelis, including two women, one child and three security forces personnel, were killed, and another 74 were injured by Palestinians in shooting, stabbing and ramming attacks and in rock- and Molotov cocktail-throwing and other incidents. Israeli security forces carried out 1,937 search-and-arrest operations in the occupied West Bank, resulting in the detention of 2,119 Palestinians, including at least 72 children. Israel currently holds at least 3,558 Palestinians in administrative detention.

The high number of fatal incidents during the reporting period precludes me from detailing all such incidents, but allow me to highlight a few. Most Palestinians were killed by the Israeli security forces in the context of Israeli operations in Area A, including during subsequent exchanges with armed Palestinians, marked by the use of increasingly lethal weaponry. Incidents include the killing of six Palestinians, including a 14-year-old, on 8 December, in Al-Far'a refugee camp in Tubas; the killing of 11 more, including three children, during a three-day Israeli operation and ensuing armed clashes from 12 to 14 December in Jenin; and the killing of four Palestinians, including two children, in Tulkarem refugee camp, with five others killed in the Balata refugee camp in Nablus on 17 January. On 30 January, inside a hospital in Jenin, Israeli security forces killed three Palestinians, one of whom was a patient. The IDF said that the three were planning an attack against Israelis. On 4 March, a 16-year-old was killed in Al-Am'ari refugee camp, in the largest Israeli operations in and around Ramallah for years.

Settler-related violence continued, including several attacks recorded in the Jordan Valley, where herding communities are at risk of displacement. On 28 February, Israeli authorities extended the administrative detention of a prominent settler by three months. Violence against Israelis by Palestinians also continued in shooting attacks in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem and in Israel. Three Israelis were killed near Ashdod on 16 February; another was killed on 22 February, near the Ma'ale Adumim settlement in a shooting attack on cars; and, on 29 February, two others, including a 16-year-old, were killed near the Eli settlement. Despite some restrictions, on 15 March, thousands of Muslim worshippers participated in Friday Ramadan prayer in Jerusalem's Old City, with minimal confrontations.

Resolution 2334 (2016) calls for the parties to refrain from acts of provocation, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric. Nevertheless, such acts continued. Marking 100 days since the attack of 7 October 2023, a senior Hamas official celebrated and vowed to repeat the event, calling it "a scaled-down model of the final war of liberation". Ahead of the start of Ramadan, Hamas also called on the Palestinians in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, to escalate confrontations with Israel. A number of Israeli officials called for the "voluntary migration" of Palestinians from Gaza and the re-establishment of settlements there, with a Minister posting on social media that Israel "should compel them until they say they want it. Continue to pressure them, using force, starvation [and] difficult conditions". An Israeli member of the Knesset called on Israel "to occupy, to annex, to destroy all the houses [in Gaza], to build large and spacious neighbourhoods, large settlements".

Resolution 2334 (2016) reiterated calls by the Middle East Quartet for affirmative steps to be taken immediately to reverse negative trends on the ground that are imperilling the two-State solution. Negative trends continued. In Gaza, the humanitarian impact of the hostilities has been cataclysmic and is worsening daily. Nearly 1.7 million people have been displaced, with almost 1 million sheltering in Rafah. More than 1 million people in Gaza are projected to face catastrophic levels of food insecurity by the end of May and famine in the northern part of Gaza is imminent, according to the most recent Integrated Food Security Phase Classification analysis. Indeed, starvation-related fatalities have already been reported. Most people have no access to adequate food, clean drinking water or effective sanitation services amid a decimated health system.

The levels of humanitarian access and the safety of humanitarian workers remain alarming, negatively affecting the humanitarian response, alongside operational constraints and pipeline limitations. Near daily Israeli denials and delays of coordinated movement, including detentions of humanitarian workers and ineffective deconfliction mechanisms, and the lack of approval for adequate communications equipment and armoured vehicles make humanitarian work extremely dangerous. Aid convoys continue to face attacks, damaged roads and unruly mobs amid a security vacuum. Some progress was made on a maritime corridor from Cyprus, with a first shipment arriving on 15 March, alongside the opening of an access point in the north of Gaza.

On 29 December 2023, the Republic of South Africa instituted proceedings against Israel before the International Court of Justice concerning alleged violations in the Gaza Strip of Israel's obligations under the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide. On 26 January, the International Court of Justice indicated provisional measures in the case.

On 29 January, Palestinian Prime Minister Shtayeh announced a government reform programme centred on improving accountability, reducing deficits, enhancing revenue and upgrading services. Following Prime Minister Shtayeh's resignation, President Abbas announced Mohammad Mustafa Prime Minister-designate on 14 March.

On 29 February, as per an arrangement agreed to between Norway, Israel and the Palestinian Authority (PA), the PA started to receive the clearance revenues that Israel collects on its behalf. The revenues exclude an amount that Israel says the PA transfers to Gaza, which the parties agreed would be held in a trust fund in Norway. The fiscal situation of the PA nevertheless remains extremely precarious, with soaring unemployment and poverty rates in the context of increased movement restrictions. Intra-Palestinian discussions took place in Moscow on 1 and 2 March.

During the reporting period, Israel provided information alleging that 12 United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) staff were involved in the attacks of 7 October 2023. The employment contracts of the active staff members were terminated, and the Secretary-General immediately activated an internal investigation, which has delivered an interim report. He also appointed an independent review group, which visited Israel and Palestine in March to assess whether the Agency is doing everything in its power to ensure neutrality and to respond to allegations of serious breaches.

In resolution 2334 (2016), the Security Council called upon all States to distinguish, in their relevant dealings, between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories occupied since 1967. On 7 March, the Norwegian Government issued a statement outlining that "Norwegian businesses should be aware that, through economic or financial activity in the Israeli settlements that violate international law, they risk contributing to violations of international humanitarian law or human rights". Resolution 2334 (2016) also called upon all parties to continue, inter alia, to exert collective efforts to launch credible negotiations. In the context of the current hostilities in Gaza, intense negotiations between international mediators and the parties continued to formulate a deal for the release of the hostages and a ceasefire.

On 1 February, the United States issued an executive order imposing sanctions on persons undermining peace, security and stability in the West Bank. Additional sanctions on two outposts and settlers were announced on 14 March. In total, seven Israeli settlers have been sanctioned under the order. The United Kingdom, France and New Zealand also subsequently announced sanctions against settlers. On 23 February, reverting to United States policy announced in December 2016, the United States Secretary of State stated that the United States views Israeli settlements as "inconsistent with international law".

On 4 March, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict released findings that there are reasonable grounds to believe that conflict-related sexual violence occurred in multiple locations during the attacks of 7 October 2023 in Israel and that there was clear and convincing information that sexual violence has been committed against hostages and reasonable grounds to believe that such violence may be ongoing against those still in captivity. While the scope of the visit in the occupied West Bank did not include verification, the Special Representative stated that she received information about various forms of sexual violence, sexual harassment and threats of rape against Palestinian men and women in detention settings, during house raids and at checkpoints in the West Bank.

In conclusion, allow me to share the Secretary-General's observations on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016).

“First, I once again condemn the horrific armed attacks by Hamas and other groups on 7 October 2023. Nothing can justify those acts of terror. The remaining hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. While in captivity, hostages must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the Red Cross. I am horrified by the findings of Special Representative Patten regarding the use of sexual violence during the attacks of 7 October 2023 and sexual violence committed against hostages, which may well be ongoing. All perpetrators of such acts must be fully prosecuted and held to account. As hostilities continue, I reiterate that there is no justification for the acts of terror that were committed and the deliberate killing, maiming and abduction of civilians and other protected personnel and the use of sexual violence against them. The use of human shields and the firing of indiscriminate rockets towards Israeli population centres are violations of international humanitarian law and must cease completely.

“Secondly, I am appalled by the immense scale of death, destruction and human suffering wrought by Israel's military campaign in Gaza, with civilian killings at a rate that is unprecedented. I condemn the killing of the thousands of civilians in Gaza, a majority of whom are reportedly women, children and protected personnel.

“Nothing can justify the collective punishment of the Palestinian people. I am concerned by what may be violations of international humanitarian law, including possible non-compliance with the requirements of distinction, proportionality and precautions in attacks. I reiterate that ordering the massive displacement of the population in Gaza without ensuring that basic humanitarian needs can be met raises serious concerns about compliance with the applicable legal requirements. The entry of humanitarian supplies has been far below what is required. Hospitals must be respected and protected by all parties and should never become battlegrounds. International humanitarian law cannot be applied selectively. It applies to all parties to a conflict at all times, and the obligation to comply with it does not depend on reciprocity. I mourn the United Nations staff killed in Gaza. Their courage and dedication will not be forgotten. The inviolability of United Nations premises must be respected at all times.

“The life-threatening conditions facing the more than 1.7 million internally displaced persons within an ever-diminishing space in Gaza must be addressed immediately. I am extremely concerned by the possible nightmare of more than 1 million people being displaced again if Israel proceeds with its planned ground operation in Rafah. The world's leading experts on food insecurity also clearly document that famine in the northern part of Gaza is imminent. Palestinians in Gaza are enduring horrifying levels of hunger and suffering. I call on Israel to fulfil its obligations under international law, including allowing and facilitating rapid and unimpeded humanitarian access to and throughout Gaza. The United Nations and humanitarian partners must be able to deliver assistance safely. That means that humanitarian locations, movements and workers must be protected more effectively and that the United Nations be allowed the equipment it needs to increase staff safety.

“I welcome the opening of a maritime corridor to deliver much-needed additional humanitarian assistance by sea but reiterate that for aid delivery at scale there is no meaningful substitute to delivery by land.

“I reiterate my call for an immediate humanitarian ceasefire and urge all sides to redouble efforts to reach an agreement that will bring about a needed humanitarian ceasefire and the release of all hostages. I am engaged tirelessly with all stakeholders towards those objectives and stand ready to support the implementation of an agreement. I welcome the efforts, including by Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to reach a deal.

“I am deeply concerned by continued high levels of violence and casualties in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, and Israel. Intensive Israeli security operations and heavy exchanges with armed Palestinians are leading to rising levels of casualties and decimating many West Bank refugee camps. Security forces must exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I call on Israel to abide by its obligations under international law, including with regard to proportionality in the use of force, and ensure thorough, independent and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force, holding those responsible to account.

“I am alarmed by the attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, including in the proximity of Israeli security forces. I urge Israel, as the occupying Power, to take immediate steps to abide by its obligations under international law to protect the Palestinian population against all acts or threats of violence. I note the measures announced by several Council members and other States against extremist settlers. Attacks by Palestinians against Israelis must also cease. All perpetrators must be held accountable.

“In the spirit of the holy month of Ramadan, I reiterate the utmost need to uphold the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem, taking into account the special and historic role of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan as custodian of the holy sites in Jerusalem. I note that prayers at the holy sites have proceeded with minimal confrontations thus far and welcome all efforts to preserve calm. All sides must refrain from unilateral steps that would escalate tensions during this sensitive time.

“I remain deeply troubled by the relentless expansion of Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. The ever-expanding settlement footprint, including outposts, further entrenches the occupation, while severely impeding the exercise by the Palestinian people of their right to self-determination. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law.

“The demolition and seizure of Palestinian structures, including internationally funded humanitarian projects, entail numerous human rights violations and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I call upon the Government of Israel to end that practice, in line with its international obligations, and to allow Palestinian communities to build and address their development needs. I am disturbed by the multiple instances in which officials have engaged in dangerous provocations, incitement and inflammatory language, which must be rejected by all.

“I am encouraged by steps taken by the Palestinian Authority (PA) demonstrating its readiness to reform and welcome the implementation of the arrangement facilitated by Norway and agreed to by Israel and the PA that enables revenue transfers to the PA. However, the Palestinian economy and fiscal situation remains in crisis, putting the PA at existential risk. I urge the international community to extend immediate fiscal relief to the PA and for the PA to continue carrying out crucial reforms.

“I was appalled by the allegations that 12 United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) staff were involved in the 7 October attacks. Those allegations are being thoroughly and independently investigated, while a review of UNRWA's neutrality is also ongoing. I underscore that UNRWA remains the backbone of the United Nations humanitarian response in Gaza. The Agency remains indispensable and irreplaceable, a lifeline for millions of Palestinian refugees and critical for regional stability. I welcome the resumption of funding by some donors and continue to call on donors to resume funding, as the continuity of UNRWA operations must be guaranteed.

“The enormity of the humanitarian, security and political challenges we are faced with requires a collective, creative and immediate response. We must urgently address the catastrophic humanitarian situation in Gaza. I regret that, despite intensive diplomatic efforts, we have not seen an agreement on a ceasefire and the release of hostages.

“It is also important to support efforts to strengthen the PA, to enable it to effectively govern across the whole of the occupied Palestinian territories. Ultimately, any sustainable solution for Gaza and the broader Israeli-Palestinian conflict is political. It is imperative to set the conditions for an agreed political framework that can outline tangible, irreversible steps towards ending the occupation and establishing a two-State solution — Israel and Palestine, of which Gaza is an integral part, living side by side in peace and security, on the basis of United Nations resolutions, previous agreements and international law, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.”

The President: I thank Mr. Wennesland for his briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mr. Wood (United States of America): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing.

Yesterday we abstained on a Security Council resolution calling for a ceasefire in Gaza until the end of Ramadan and the release of all hostages. We have been clear and consistent in our support for a ceasefire as part of the hostage deal. Because the final text did not have key language we think is essential, like a condemnation of Hamas, we could not support it. However, because it fairly reflects our view that a ceasefire and the release of hostages come together, we abstained.

As Council members know, the United States is engaged in an on-the-ground effort, along with Egypt and Qatar, to secure a hostage release in the context of a ceasefire. Those and other steps detailed in the United States draft resolution last week (S/2024/239) are all things we believe the Security Council should have been able to get behind. We regret that Russia and China instead chose to cynically obstruct the Council’s action. We also regret that yesterday’s resolution (resolution 2728 (2024)) submitted by the 10 elected members of the Security Council failed to condemn Hamas’s terrorist attack on 7 October 2023 and its sexual violence. There is no excuse — let me repeat, no excuse — for the Security Council’s failure to condemn Hamas’s terrorism. The Council needs to condemn Hamas.

As we all know and as several Council members highlighted yesterday (see S/PV.9586) in their remarks, a resolution is but one step towards a ceasefire and the release of hostages. To achieve those goals, we need diplomacy on the ground. The United States continues to work with Egypt, Qatar and Israel. As Secretary Blinken has stated, there is a strong proposal on the table. We should all be pressing Hamas to agree to that deal without delay.

The United States also continues to work to surge humanitarian assistance into Gaza, because not enough assistance is reaching civilians in need. The reality is that children are starving to death in Gaza because humanitarian assistance cannot reach them. Children should not be dying of malnutrition in Gaza — or anywhere else for that matter. One hundred per cent of the population of Gaza is experiencing severe levels of acute food insecurity.

While the ceasefire we are working towards would be the best, most immediate way to surge humanitarian assistance, it is not the only way. We continue to coordinate international efforts to establish a maritime corridor, and that includes support for the United States military mission to construct a temporary pier as an additional channel for aid. We also continue to air-drop assistance into Gaza. That maritime corridor and the airdrops are additive, and not a substitute for, essential land access needed into and throughout Gaza to respond to the imminent famine.

Senior Coordinator Kaag has briefed the Security Council on a detailed plan for expanding the flow of aid. The draft resolution drafted by the United States expressed the Council’s support for that plan and would have further strengthened Senior Coordinator Kaag’s mandate to implement that plan. Russia’s and China’s cynical vetoes of the resolution (see S/PV.9584), therefore, only served to undercut United Nations efforts on the ground, but we nonetheless remain hopeful that the Security Council can find a way to endorse Senior Coordinator Kaag’s efforts and strengthen her mandate.

We continue to advise the Israeli Government against a major ground operation into Rafah. We share Israel’s goal of defeating Hamas, which is responsible for the worst massacre of the Jewish people since the Holocaust, and we share the goal of ensuring Israel’s long-term security. As we have said, however, a major military ground operation in Rafah is not the way to do it. It risks killing more civilians. It risks wreaking greater havoc with the provision of humanitarian assistance. Therefore, our advice to Israel is that there is a better way. That is a message that President Biden, Secretary Blinken, Secretary Austin and Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield all have communicated to senior Israeli officials in recent weeks and that we will continue to emphasize.

Finally, we reiterate our support for long-term peace and security in Israel and in Gaza. As Secretary Blinken has said, Gaza cannot be used as a platform for terrorism. There can be no displacement of its population. There can be no reduction in its territory or reoccupation by Israel. And we agree that that requires a path to two States, with real security guarantees for Israel. That, however, also requires real reform of the Palestinian Authority, and although we have seen some initial steps in that direction, more is needed. Revitalizing the Palestinian Authority with a better, more representative Government, including Palestinians from Gaza, is critical to achieving the vision of Gaza unified with the West Bank under the Palestinian Authority. The United States continues to work on each of those aspects directly in the region with Israel and with regional partners.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his comprehensive briefing today.

Israel continues to deal with the brutal horror and aftermath of the 7 October 2023 attacks, and Hamas continues to hold innocent hostages in Gaza. The United Kingdom condemns those attacks unequivocally. Israel has a right to defend itself and ensure such an attack can never happen again.

At the same time, innocent Palestinians are facing unfathomable human suffering in Gaza. The most recent Integrated Food Security Phase Classification (IPC) report stated that there is an imminent risk of famine. Disease is on the rise. A devastating humanitarian crisis is worsening by the day. The United Kingdom agrees with the recommendations in the IPC report.

I wish to make three points.

First, the United Kingdom has long been calling for an immediate humanitarian pause in fighting, to get aid in and hostages out and leading to a sustainable ceasefire. Yesterday's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024) delivered just that. We now need to see its full implementation. We welcome the ongoing negotiations led by Qatar, Egypt and the United States to that end, and we reiterate our call on Hamas to immediately and unconditionally release all hostages.

Secondly, Israel needs to do more to ensure that significantly more life-saving aid can reach those in need in Gaza. That includes opening the port of Ashdod and Kerem Shalom in full and to their maximum operating capacity, issuing visas to United Nations workers and aid agencies and ensuring effective deconfliction to guarantee the safety of aid convoys. The Foreign Secretary and Prime Minister have reiterated those messages to Prime Minister Netanyahu and other senior Israeli political leaders in recent weeks.

The United Kingdom has trebled our aid commitment this financial year, and we will keep doing everything we can to get more aid in by land, sea and air to reach those in desperate need in Gaza. We are also deeply concerned to hear reports that Israel has blocked the access of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East to northern Gaza. We call on Israel to ensure urgently that the United Nations can deliver food aid immediately to those living in the north, many of whom are at greatest risk of starvation.

Thirdly, we are alarmed by the continued expansion of settlements and unprecedented levels of settler violence in the West Bank, including the most recent Israeli announcement of the designation of 1,976 acres of land in the Jordan Valley as State land. We are clear — settlements are a violation of international law, and we must continue to take further steps to hold to account those who undermine steps to peace in the West Bank.

Finally, we must begin to focus on how we chart the way towards a sustainable peace without a return to fighting. That means removing Hamas's capacity to launch attacks against Israel, Hamas no longer being in charge of Gaza, the formation of a new Palestinian Government for the West Bank and Gaza, accompanied by an international support package, and a political horizon that provides a credible and irreversible pathway towards a two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine living side by side in security and peace.

Ms. Persaud (Guyana): I thank you, Mr. President, for convening today's meeting on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). My appreciation also goes to Special Coordinator Wennesland for his insightful briefing and the presentation of the Secretary-General's report.

We have heard this morning yet another update on the tragic circumstances to which Palestinians in both the West Bank and Jerusalem are subjected by the occupying Power through deliberate, illegal and sustained policies and practices. Those policies and practices persist despite numerous injunctions by the Security Council and the General Assembly and in contravention of obligations arising from the State of Israel's ratification of several international legal instruments, including the Geneva Convention relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War. Consequently, the full implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) continues to be seriously impeded.

Allow me briefly to touch on three provisions of the resolution that Guyana views as especially critical in the broader context of achieving the two-State solution.

First, Guyana has taken note of ongoing settlement expansion in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. That expansion is accompanied by violence resulting in harm to Palestinian civilians and the destruction of their homes and property. Several senior Israeli Government officials have endorsed those activities, thus emboldening the perpetrators of those illegalities. The recent observation by the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (see A/HRC/55/72) that the drastic acceleration in settlement-building is exacerbating long-standing patterns of oppression, violence and discrimination against Palestinians and that the policies of the current Israeli Government appear aligned, to an unprecedented extent, with the goals of the Israeli settler movement to expand long-term control over the West Bank and to steadily integrate that occupied territory into the State of Israel mirrors the concern of many, including Guyana. Guyana reiterates that the establishment of Israeli settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967 has no legal validity and is a major obstacle to the two-State solution. Guyana further appeals to the State of Israel to abide by its international obligations in that respect.

Secondly, Guyana recalls that resolution 2334 (2016) calls for steps to prevent violence against civilians and for accountability in that regard. The heinous events of 7 October 2023 and the equally heinous response have set off a humanitarian tragedy of unprecedented proportions in the Gaza Strip. The Strip has been decimated. More than 32,000 Palestinians have been killed. Hundreds of thousands are starving, severely undernourished and on the brink of famine.

Women and children are bearing the brunt of the disaster. Yesterday the Council issued a demand for a ceasefire (see resolution 2728 (2024)), but from all indications, it is not being adhered to. Accountability is still sorely lacking in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and is perhaps the reason why crime after crime is committed year after year with seeming impunity. Guyana appeals to the unity of the Council to ensure accountability for crimes against civilians. There is no hierarchy of Member States in this Organization. All are obligated to uphold the purposes and principles of the United Nations as contained in the Charter.

Finally, the Middle East peace process needs impetus so that the final status issues can be resolved. The Palestinian question must be brought to a definitive and swift end, resulting in a free and independent State of Palestine. The two-State solution is under serious threat, and what should concern us is that the threat is not veiled — it is being broadcast internationally. The prevailing circumstances in the occupied territory and the accompanying international attention to the situation present a unique window of opportunity for the Council to make concerted efforts to advance the two-State solution, in line with the relevant United Nations resolutions. The admission of the State of Palestine as a full Member of the United Nations is a first and critical step in that direction.

Please count on Guyana's full and constructive support for a comprehensive resolution of the Palestinian question.

Mr. De Rivièrè (France) (spoke in French): I thank Mr. Wennesland for his briefing.

Yesterday the Security Council demanded an immediate ceasefire in Gaza by adopting resolution 2728 (2024). It also demanded the immediate and unconditional release of the hostages held by Hamas and other terrorist groups. That resolution must be implemented by everyone, as set out in Article 25 of the Charter of the United Nations. I reiterate our condemnation of the terrorist attacks of 7 October 2023.

The humanitarian situation in Gaza is catastrophic, and there is an urgent need to ensure a massive inflow of humanitarian aid, given the imminent risk of famine. Israel must immediately and unconditionally open all existing land crossings. Meanwhile, Israeli settlement activities continue and are even accelerating in the West Bank. France condemns that policy, which runs counter to international law. It will never recognize the illegal annexation of territories or the legalization of unauthorized settlements. Israel's decision on 22 March to confiscate 800 hectares of land in the West Bank is unacceptable. It is the largest Israeli land confiscation in the occupied Palestinian territories since the Oslo Accords.

France also deplores the forced displacement of Palestinian communities caused by repeated settler attacks. Settler violence must stop, and their crimes must not go unpunished. As the President of the Republic, Emmanuel Macron, indicated to the Israeli Prime Minister on Sunday, initial measures have been taken at the national and European levels against certain settlers, and France is considering further measures in consultation with its partners. France and the European Union do not recognize Israeli sovereignty over the areas that came under the administration of the State of Israel after 5 June 1967. France, together with its partners, is actively monitoring compliance with international law, including resolution 2334 (2016). The policy of differentiation thereby seeks to realize the legal distinction between the internationally recognized territory of Israel and the occupied territories.

Today's priority is the immediate cessation of unilateral measures. The acceleration in settlement activity undermines the possibility of establishing a viable and contiguous Palestinian State. Those measures endanger the prospect of a two-State solution, with Jerusalem as a shared capital. We therefore call for the avoidance of any measures that would lead to a conflagration of the situation in Jerusalem and the West Bank. The historic status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem must be preserved.

There is an urgent need to lay the foundations for a lasting political settlement to implement the two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine sharing Jerusalem as their capital. That is the only solution that can assure Israelis and Palestinians of the peace and security that they aspire to. France reaffirms its commitment to ensuring Israel's security and to building a State for Palestinians. The Palestinian Authority has a central role to play in that process, both in the West Bank and Gaza, a process that can be played out only in the context of a unified Palestinian State. France is working actively to that end with the parties as well as all our regional and international partners. We will be proposing an initiative to the Security Council in the next few days.

Mrs. Baeriswyl (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I too would like to start by thanking Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing.

I would first like to welcome the adoption yesterday, Monday, 25 March, of resolution 2728 (2024), which “[d]emands an immediate ceasefire for the month of Ramadan respected by all parties leading to a lasting sustainable ceasefire” (para. 1) in Gaza. Yesterday it was high time to restore the international community's confidence in the Council's ability to act on matters of peace and security. Today it is time to ensure that the parties to the conflict implement the resolution. The immediate ceasefire must lead without delay to a lasting sustainable ceasefire, as the resolution demands. At the same time, peace efforts must be stepped up immediately. Resolution 2728 (2024) is founded on the premise that the parties will respect their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law. Those obligations include taking concrete steps to protect the civilian population, facilitate the rapid and unimpeded delivery of humanitarian aid and ensure the humane treatment of people who are unable to help themselves — people deprived of their freedom, the wounded or the sick. Health units and hospitals must be respected and protected. They must not be attacked or used outside their humanitarian function in order to commit acts designed to harm an enemy.

As early as October 7 we condemned Hamas's acts of terror and the sexual violence that accompanied them, just as strongly as we called for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. Their capture and continued captivity also contravene international law, as resolution 2728 (2024) recalls.

The situation in the West Bank reminds us that non-compliance with the resolutions of the Council has grave consequences for peace. As resolution 2334 (2016) states, Israeli settlements are “a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and a just, lasting and comprehensive peace” (para. 1).

They are illegal under international humanitarian law. Recent announcements by Israeli leaders encouraging their expansion have continued to undermine the quest for peace. In that respect, we condemn the announcement that more than 800 hectares of land in the occupied territory will be confiscated. As we pointed out in our submission to the International Court of Justice in regard to its advisory opinion on the Legal Consequences arising from the Policies and Practices of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem,

“the measures taken by Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory are bringing about fundamental changes, particularly demographic ones, that may take on a permanent character ... running counter to the principles of the law of occupation”.

The lack of protection for Palestinians from settler attacks, threats and intimidation is particularly alarming. Those acts of violence reached record levels in the past few years, levels that according to the Special Coordinator have even been surpassed since 7 October. Switzerland condemns those attacks, which together with the construction of settlements are contributing to the creation of a coercive environment and leading to the forced displacement of Palestinian communities.

We take note of the work of the competent authorities to minimize tensions around the holy sites during Ramadan. We call for respect for the status quo on the Haram Al-Sharif/Temple Mount and for Jordan's role as custodian.

Switzerland continues to believe that a two-State solution that accords with international law and the internationally agreed parameters is the only possible foundation for both Israelis and Palestinians to live in lasting peace, security and dignity. The implementation of the Council's resolutions, especially resolutions 2334 (2016) and 2728 (2024), is essential to that end.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his detailed briefing on the worsening situation in Palestine, in the West Bank as well as in Gaza.

The ongoing hostilities have been devastating the lives of all of Gaza's ordinary civilians for more than 160 days. However, with the Council's adoption yesterday of resolution 2728 (2024), we are finally witnessing a glimmer of hope. Its adoption must ensure that we can reach a turning point in the efforts to break the continuing vicious circle. To that end, as resolution 2728 (2024) demands, an immediate ceasefire should be implemented during Ramadan, leading to a lasting sustainable ceasefire, and all the remaining hostages taken by Hamas and other groups should be immediately and unconditionally released. All barriers to the provision of humanitarian assistance should also be lifted. We strongly urge the direct parties to the conflict to scrupulously abide by the Council's right and just demands. In addition, the international community should do everything possible to expand the humanitarian aid at scale. As I emphasized yesterday (see S/PV.9586), the situation on the ground in Gaza after the resolution's adoption must look different from what it did before.

Palestinians belong to their land. Any attempt to relocate them outside Palestine is unacceptable. Resolution 2334 (2016) clearly provides that Israel, as the occupying Power, must abide by its legal obligations and responsibilities under the Geneva Convention relative to the protection of civilians. That resolution also condemns all measures aimed at altering the demographic composition, character or status of the Palestinian territory, including through the demolition of homes and the displacement of Palestinian civilians. The repeated provocative rhetoric by Israeli ministers, including calls for the transfer or resettlement of the population in Gaza, is unacceptable. Plans for establishing so-called buffer zones inside the Gaza Strip should not be carried out. The possible ground operation in Rafah must not be realized. It would lead to enormous civilian fatalities as well as mass displacement.

The situation in the West Bank is also increasingly alarming. Last year was the deadliest ever for civilians in the West Bank, and it included 124 child fatalities. We are appalled by Israel's approval this month of plans for more than 3,400 new homes in settlements, and by the seizure of land for additional settlements in the West Bank. The ongoing attacks on Palestinians by Israeli extremist settlers, and the demolition of Palestinian homes by Israeli security forces, are all the more disturbing because they are taking place in an environment of near-total impunity. Let us be specific. As resolution 2334 (2016) clearly articulates, settlements in the occupied territory have no legal validity and constitute a flagrant violation of international law. Those activities must cease immediately. Israel should implement measures to prevent all acts of settler violence against Palestinian civilians, and the perpetrators of such acts must be held accountable. The establishment of settlements in Palestinian territory, which jeopardize peace in the short term and the realization of a two-State solution in the long term, is unjustifiable, illegal and invalid.

Mrs. Frazier (Malta): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his report.

Regrettably, each update on the implementation of this resolution depicts an even grimmer picture of the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory. The conflict in Gaza has had a catastrophic impact on civilians. Yesterday's important adoption of a ceasefire resolution (resolution 2728 (2024)) was a vital step towards alleviating that terrible plight. However, as we heard from the Special Coordinator's briefing today, the West Bank is not impervious to the dire repercussions of this war. Rising pressures from continued illegal settlement activity, demolitions, settler violence, intensified Israeli security forces operations and the Palestinian Authority's fiscal and economic insecurity, push the region into further instability.

Malta's position is clear. Settlements are illegal under international law. They are an obstacle to peace and threaten the viability of a two-State solution. We therefore condemn Israel's recent announcement that more than 800 hectares of land in the occupied West Bank have been declared State land. Malta stresses its repeated calls on Israel to abide by its obligations under international law. We firmly reject Israel's policy and actions advancing illegal settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Such acts must not be allowed to take place with impunity. We welcome ongoing efforts towards the realization of a reinforced and revitalized Palestinian Authority that is allowed effective governance in line with the two-State solution, and with Gaza as part of an independent Palestinian State. The international community must offer its support for such actions.

Malta has repeatedly and strongly condemned the horrendous Hamas terror attack of 7 October, including the acts of sexual violence committed and rockets fired at Israeli population centres. We reiterate our call on Hamas to unconditionally release all remaining hostages.

However, the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza also demands our urgent attention. There could not be a stronger indictment of our failure to put an end to this tragedy than the harrowing images of Gazan children suffering starvation. There is an urgent need for an immediate and permanent ceasefire. The Council's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024) is a step in that direction. Only a ceasefire will permit the conditions necessary to properly alleviate those catastrophic conditions. In the words of the Secretary-General, it is time to truly flood Gaza with life-saving aid. The choice is clear: either surge or starvation. In that regard, we also avail ourselves of this opportunity to reiterate our full support for the Secretary-General. We greatly appreciate his strong leadership and principled approach during this crisis.

Malta stresses that all parties are obliged to comply with international humanitarian law. Israel must allow the unimpeded, safe delivery of humanitarian aid, including through the lifting of all barriers to the provision of humanitarian assistance at scale — actions it has failed to undertake to date. We also call for the immediate and full implementation of the order on provisional measures issued by the International Court of Justice on 26 January. We further stress our firm rejection of any ground offensive into Rafah. Any such action will inevitably lead to increased human suffering and casualties. The role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) as a stabilizing entity for the future of Gaza also cannot be underestimated. The international community must continue to ensure that it is appropriately funded. UNRWA's collapse would have devastating consequences for the entire region.

In conclusion, Malta stresses that, now more than ever, there is a pressing need to relaunch peace negotiations for a just and comprehensive resolution of the conflict. We stand ready to support any initiatives towards that end, including in the Council. Malta reaffirms its commitment to a political solution based on a two-State solution along the pre-1967 borders, addressing the legitimate aspirations of both sides, with Jerusalem as the future capital of two States living side by side in peace and security, in line with the relevant Security Council resolutions and internationally agreed parameters.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): Thank you, Mr. President, for convening this meeting to receive the briefing from Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland, which is really pertinent to our work. I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his valuable and detailed briefing.

For months, the Security Council has been consistently interacting to debate and exchange ideas and proposals on how to address the tragic situation in the Gaza Strip and the tensions in West Bank and the wider region, including the efforts towards achieving a ceasefire in Gaza and the unconditional release of hostages and detainees.

Though it was long overdue, yesterday, in line with the mandate of the Charter of the United Nations, we as a Council were for the first time able, through resolution 2728 (2024), to demand an immediate ceasefire for the month of Ramadan in Gaza, which must lead to a lasting and sustainable ceasefire. That was achieved through the unity and leadership of the 10 elected members of the Council in co-penning resolution 2728 (2024) and with the important cooperation of the permanent members. That unity of purpose and collective action are needed to ensure that that binding resolution is respected by all parties and implemented by Israel and Hamas.

During this holy month of Ramadan, the adoption of resolution 2728 (2024) means that the bombardment and rocket shelling from both sides must stop. The airstrikes — like the one yesterday in Rafah, which resulted in fatalities — must stop. As my delegation indicated yesterday (see S/PV.9586), the fighting, killing, suffering and collective punishment must end. The parties to the conflict are under the obligation to respect the clear demands of the Security Council, and we urge them to fully implement resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023) and 2728 (2024), adopted by the Council since the start of the Gaza conflict. States with influence are once again urged to apply the necessary pressure on the parties to implement those resolutions.

It is worth noting that the General Assembly, through its adoption of resolutions ES-10/21 and ES-10/22; the Secretary-General's invocation of Article 99 of the Charter of the United Nations and the International Court of Justice's indication of provisional measures in its 26 January 2024 order on the Application of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide in the Gaza Strip (South Africa v. Israel) all speak to the imperative for an immediate ceasefire respected by all parties, the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages, and the urgent need to expand the flow of humanitarian assistance to and reinforce the protection of civilians in the entire Gaza Strip.

Sierra Leone wants to be clear and unequivocal — resolution 2728 (2024) is binding on the parties and all the States Members of the United Nations. Article 25 of the Charter and the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on the Legal Consequences for States of the Continued Presence of South Africa in Namibia (South West Africa) notwithstanding Security Council Resolution 276 (1970) provide adequate guidance. Let us therefore build on the impetus created to ensure compliance with international law.

Our actions must be driven by the many civilian lives lost — in their homes, in hospitals, in trying to secure a loaf of bread, and the babies who suffocated owing to a lack of oxygen. The narrative for the past five months has been tragic and shocking, with deadly consequences for Palestinians and Israelis. That has been confirmed by the updates received from Special Coordinator Wennesland. Nevertheless, we must be hopeful and resolute that there is a way out if we are willing to work collaboratively, with unity of purpose, setting aside preconceived ideas that will hinder progress. To achieve that, my delegation recommends the following.

First, we call on all parties to the conflict to give their unconditional support to resolution 2728 (2024) and to implement its provisions. Though the expectations are different, for its purpose as an immediate action the major goals have been to save lives, improve the humanitarian situation, curtail displacement and rescue the people who have been unjustly held as hostages and detainees. We want to strongly underscore the nature of Security Council resolutions. Non-compliance by any party is a breach of international law, especially when such actions are a threat to international peace and security.

Secondly, as members of the Security Council, we have acknowledged and expressed support for the complementary diplomatic efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States in the ongoing negotiations for a deal that can lay a foundation for durable peace in Gaza and guarantee the protection of all civilians and civilian objects.

Thirdly, and regarding the West Bank and East Jerusalem, we recall resolution 2334 (2016) and reiterate the call for a cessation of all settlement activities that obstruct the historical landscape and eliminate features that support a two-State solution. We further call on Israel, the occupying Power, to refrain from policies and actions that will ignite tensions and further escalate the fragile situation in the West Bank.

Fourthly, and in order to maintain regional peace and stability, we further call on all actors within the region to adhere to and respect the provisions of the relevant Security Council resolutions, exercise restraint and avoid inflammatory rhetoric that obstructs the path to lasting peace.

Before I conclude, let me take this opportunity to reiterate Sierra Leone's support for the Secretary-General and to commend the tireless efforts and sacrifices of the United Nations personnel who have continued to work through the conflict in the Gaza Strip. We equally restate our strong support for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and other humanitarian agencies.

In conclusion, Sierra Leone reiterates its call and support for a two-State solution, which is worth reiterating, with Israel and Palestine living side by side in peace, security and stability in the not-too-distant future.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): I would like to start today with a number of quotations.

Yesterday in this Chamber, commenting on the Security Council's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024), the Permanent Representative of the United States said, "we fully support some of the critical objectives in this non-binding resolution." (S/PV.9586, P.5). Shortly afterwards, John Kirby, a representative of the United States National Security Council, said, "It is a non-binding resolution, so there is no impact at all on Israel's ability to continue to go after Hamas". Even after the Security Council adopted resolution 2728 (2024), Israel's Minister for Foreign Affairs, Israel Katz, said that Israel will not end its military operation and intends to fight until the Hamas movement is completely eradicated and all hostages and detainees who are being held in the Gaza Strip are released. I would like to ask the United States delegation if the statements by Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield and other officials mean that the United States of America does not consider Security Council resolutions to be binding on all Member States.

I would now like to cite another quotation, this time from Article 25 of the Charter of the United Nations, which says,

"The Members of the United Nations agree to accept and carry out the decisions of the Security Council in accordance with the present Charter."

Do yesterday's statements by Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield mean that the United States no longer considers itself bound by the provisions of the Charter? Beyond that, is it encouraging Israel to do the same? If so, there is simply no point in our discussions in this Chamber. One of the permanent members of the Security Council has essentially openly declared that it does not obey the Charter of our Organization, disavowing all the hard-won results of the Council's deliberations, including a historic resolution on a ceasefire in Gaza. With the blessing of the United States, Israel now has carte blanche, despite the Security Council's direct demand, and is not going to stop until it razes Gaza to the ground.

We listened closely to the briefing by the Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, Tor Wennesland, on the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, where the military operation and violent raids by the Israeli armed forces continue, despite yesterday's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024), which unequivocally "[d]emands an immediate ceasefire for the month of Ramadan respected by all parties leading to a lasting sustainable ceasefire". I would like to remind everyone that the resolution was supported by every Council member except the United States delegation, which preferred to abstain. Since the beginning of the unprecedented bloodshed in the Gaza Strip, which has claimed more than 32,000 lives and injured a further 75,000 Palestinians, it has taken Washington 173 days and nights to admit how flawed its position was and to finally allow Council members to make the only correct decision.

In general the statement by the United States representative today was striking. He did not say a word about the actual agenda of today's meeting, which is Israel's illegal settlement-building in the West Bank, and he spent all his time justifying to Israel his country's decision yesterday not to block a resolution demanding a ceasefire. Frankly, that does not seem worthy of a great Power. We were particularly surprised by the attempts to besmirch Russia and China, thanks to whom the Council was able to adopt yesterday's resolution rather than the inarticulate and harmful American text that gave Israel licence to continue its operations in Gaza. And lastly, let me once again remind my American colleagues that it was they who prevented the Council from condemning Hamas on 18 October 2023 (see S/PV.9442) by blocking a draft resolution that contained such language. They only have themselves to blame.

In the past 24 hours, 84 people have been killed in Gaza thanks to the fighting on the ground and the Israel Defense Forces' air strikes. The fighting continues, including around the Al-Shifa and Nasser medical complexes. The intensity of the shelling has forced the Palestinian Red Crescent Society to evacuate all patients who could be moved from Al-Amal Hospital. The incessant bombing means that there is virtually no adequate unimpeded humanitarian access. The Strip is exposed to risks of mass starvation — 80 per cent of Gazans have no access to reliable nutrition — and infectious diseases. And the already catastrophic situation may deteriorate further, as Israel has announced that the ground operation will expand to the Rafah area, where more than 1.5 million people are gathered. On the eve of today's meeting, speaking to troops, Prime Minister Netanyahu once again reaffirmed his intention to invade Rafah.

We support the work of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and are alarmed by today's reports that Israeli authorities have denied UNRWA access to northern Gaza.

Against the backdrop of Israel's deadly cleansing of the Gaza Strip, tensions persist in the West Bank, where equally violent clashes have continued this entire time between the Israeli military and extremist settlers and Palestinian civilians. According to the United Nations, some 500 Palestinians, including more than 100 children, have been killed by the Israeli military and settlers in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, since 7 October. In addition to actions using force, Israel is continuing its arbitrary arrests of Palestinians — more than 7,500 people have been detained since 7 October — as well as unilateral steps to create irreversible "facts on the ground" and expand Israeli settlements, including the construction of settlement outposts west of Ramallah, in violation of the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016). The West Jerusalem authorities expropriated some 800 hectares of land in the Jordan Valley, the largest confiscation of Palestinian land since 1993. In addition, the Israelis approved the construction of more than 3,500 new housing units in the settlements of Ma'ale Adumim, Efrat and Kedar. In parallel, the forcible seizure of Palestinian property and the demolition of their homes continue.

With the upcoming religious holidays of Catholic Easter on 31 March and Eid al-Fitr on 9 April, the issue of access to Jerusalem's holy sites is very pressing. It is outrageous that the Israeli security forces have prevented thousands of Christians in the West Bank from attending festive Catholic Palm Sunday services in Jerusalem. We call on the authorities in Tel Aviv to reconsider their approach in that regard and to ensure unhindered access to places of worship in the Old City.

Another final status issue that the Israeli leadership is attempting to remove for good from the agenda is the return of refugees. UNRWA, a specialized agency established in 1949 to support Palestinians — not only in the occupied Palestinian territories but also in neighbouring Arab countries — has been subjected to targeted and comprehensive attacks in the form of undermining its financing and political mandate.

In that regard, we have questions regarding the disproportionality of the measures taken against UNRWA, which lead to the collective punishment of 30,000 Agency staff members and 6 million Palestinians under its care, as well as regarding the lack of concrete information on the allegations made by Israel about the involvement of UNRWA staff in the events of 7 October. At the same time, there are deeply disturbing reports about the torture and ill-treatment of UNRWA staff during their questioning for the purpose of extracting confessions.

The appalling trends I have described result from Israel's complete disregard for its obligations to implement the provisions of Security Council and General Assembly resolutions. Such disregard threatens to expand the scale of the human and humanitarian catastrophe in the occupied Palestinian territories, as well as to escalate violence across the entire Middle East.

We trust that resolution 2728 (2024) will be fully implemented by all parties and United Nations members and will facilitate an end to the violence in Gaza, including preventing the Israeli operation in Rafah, increasing humanitarian assistance to civilians in the Gaza Strip and preventing their forcible deportation, rather than remain a dead letter like its predecessors.

Our duty, as the Security Council, is to ensure strict compliance with resolution 2728 (2024) and the implementation of its provisions on the ground.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): At the outset, I express my gratitude to Mr. Tor Wennesland for his briefing and reaffirm Algeria's commitment and unswerving support.

I would like to begin my statement by reaffirming Algeria's steadfast support for the Secretary-General, Mr. António Guterres, in the face of the smear campaigns against him. It is unfair. Efforts to conceal the truth will never prevail. Since global public opinion is fully cognizant of the ongoing realities, history will not be forgiving towards the occupying Power in Palestine.

As the meeting progresses and the briefing echoes similar themes, it is becoming painfully clear that the Palestinian people are still enduring an ever-intensifying plight under Israeli occupation. For more than 75 years, each passing day and each passing hour witnesses an escalation in the suffering of the Palestinian people as the occupation expands its reach, its violence and its crimes. The latest aggression against Gaza marks yet another chapter in a long history of blatant and systematic violations of the rights of the Palestinian people. This brutal military campaign aims to erode the prospects of establishing a viable Palestinian State, rendering the hope of such a State nearly impossible to attain.

The cruel onslaught in Gaza has unleashed killings that target anyone daring to move beyond the confines of the oppression. The toll is staggering, with more than 32,000 lives lost in Gaza. Additionally, more than 74,000 individuals — men, women and children — have been maimed, of whom 12,000 have been left disabled. Shockingly, the number of children killed in Gaza has surpassed the total count of children lost in all global conflicts over the past four years. This is an assault on children; it is an assault on innocence; it is an assault on the very future and existence of the Palestinian people in their homeland.

The crimes perpetrated by the occupation forces have exceeded all imaginable boundaries of decency. Resolution 2728 (2024), adopted yesterday, must be fully implemented. The Charter of the United Nations is clear: Security Council resolutions are binding — not almost, not partly, not maybe. International peace and security is a highly serious matter that is not to be treated lightly. Otherwise, the very existence of this organ, the Security Council, is called into question.

The killing must stop now. Urgent action is imperative in order to expedite the humanitarian relief effort before the spectre of famine materializes, as predicted by the latest Integrated Food Security Phase Classification reports, which are forecasting famine as early as May. In that regard, we condemn the decision of the occupying Power to not allow UNRWA convoys to enter the north of Gaza. This is a war by starvation, and we already have the tool to avoid this catastrophe. It is the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA).

UNRWA is the backbone of the humanitarian action in Gaza. UNRWA is irreplaceable.

Amid that grim reality and the world's focus on the unfolding crisis in Gaza, the occupying Power has boldly sanctioned the expansion of settlements in the occupied territory. Despite the international consensus on their illegality, those settlements continue. They are burgeoning monthly while the Security Council struggles to enforce the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), a resolution adopted eight years ago. That resolution clearly denounces those settlements as a blatant violation of international law and a significant impediment to the establishment of a Palestinian State.

The settler community has quadrupled since the 1990s, reaching more than 950,000. Indeed, it is legitimate now to question the fate of those newcomers to Palestinian territories and how the vision of a Palestinian State will take shape amid the ongoing settlement expansions and demographic modifications. That expansionist agenda is a clear blueprint aimed at altering the demographic landscape and the character of the occupied territory. That unlawful presence has ushered in a new era characterized by escalating settler terror violence, which the occupation authorities are complicit in arming in flagrant violation of resolution 904 (1994). Palestinians in the West Bank and in Al-Quds Al-Sharif live in constant fear, unable to safeguard themselves or their properties from settler gangs, shielded by the occupation forces. The year 2023, even prior to 7 October, marked the most violent bloodshed period for Palestinians since the second intifada. The Security Council must urgently explore avenues to ensure the full implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) before the vision of Palestinian statehood is shattered by the steadfast grip of settlers and settlements.

In conclusion, we reiterate our standing support and commitment to collaborate with all stakeholders to safeguard the Palestinian people's rights and enable them to exercise their legitimate right to self-determination and to establish an independent Palestinian State with Jerusalem as its capital.

Mr. Žbogar (Slovenia): I also want to thank profoundly the Special Coordinator for his comprehensive briefing today.

Almost six months into the Gaza conflict, the devastation is unprecedented, and famine is looming. Therefore, we welcome yesterday's adoption of resolution 2728 (2024), and we call for its swift implementation.

We would like to voice our profound concern over the denial of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East food convoys to the north of Gaza, and we call on Israel to reverse its decision. Let me repeat here again that we condemned, and we continue to condemn, the terrorist attacks by Hamas on 7 October and Hamas's taking and holding of hostages. However, there is no right to self-defence justifying the starving of the civilian population or the killing and destruction that we are witnessing in Gaza. Wars have rules, and they need to be respected.

We are concerned about the increasingly confrontational statements and actions of Israeli officials towards the Secretary-General and towards the United Nations and its agencies. We are the United Nations, and Slovenia stands with the Secretary-General.

With our eyes on Gaza, we must not forget about the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Therefore, today I would like to focus on the situation there.

First, Slovenia repeats that the establishment of settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory has no legal validity and constitutes a violation under international law.

It is particularly concerning that the practices and policies of the current Government of Israel appear to be unprecedentedly aligned with the goals of Israeli settler movement — aimed at expanding long-term control over the West Bank and steadily integrating the territory into the State of Israel. Proof of that are the recent approvals for advancing new housing units, the regularization of settler outposts and the confiscation of land. We expect Israel to reverse those decisions. Moreover, Slovenia expects Israel to halt the continuing practice of eviction and demolition orders against Palestinians, which disproportionately affects Palestinian women and girls.

We are appalled by the recent incidents involving settlers and activists building symbolic outposts in Gaza. We reject any attempt at territorial or demographic change of Gaza, including forced displacement. Such actions contravene international law, and we expect a democratic State to respect the rule of law, including the rule of international law.

Secondly, we are alarmed by the dramatically accelerating trend in settler violence, State violence and the displacement of Palestinians in the West Bank, in particular following the 7 October attacks. We are concerned that settler violence seems to be further accelerated through collaboration with Israeli security forces and even some senior ministers of the Government. That is accelerating the displacement of Palestinians from their land in circumstances that may amount to forcible transfer, which is a war crime, as observed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights. We welcome that, in an unparalleled step, the European Union will be imposing sanctions on violent settlers.

We are also alarmed by the increase in the use of disproportionate force by Israeli security forces, in the number of raids and in severe restrictions of movement. We are concerned about the dramatic growth in the number of Palestinians arrested and detained in recent months. The International Committee of the Red Cross must be notified of and allowed to visit Palestinians in Israeli detention. We urge all parties to fully cooperate with relevant international bodies.

Thirdly, settlement expansion and violence are a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. We therefore support the intensification and acceleration of all international and regional diplomatic efforts and support aimed at achieving a comprehensive, just and lasting peace and a two-State solution. We welcome the appointment of the new Prime Minister of the Palestinian Authority, who we hope could be an additional impetus to the political process for two-State solution.

As a cradle of religions, the region is in the midst of numerous celebrations, which could provide an opportunity for reflection and understanding. We express our grave concern about the current situation in the Gaza Strip, the West Bank and, more broadly, in the region. However, we also hope that this is a turning point. If the current devastation can serve for something good, let that be a strong commitment by all of us to a pathway of peace and understanding, starting with the implementation of resolution 2728 (2024).

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing.

Yesterday the Council adopted resolution 2728 (2024), with 14 votes in favour and one vote in abstention. The resolution demands an immediate ceasefire in Gaza for the month of Ramadan, leading to a lasting, sustainable ceasefire.

After blocking the Council's effective action on multiple occasions, the United States finally decided yesterday not to single-handedly veto Council decisions. That is noteworthy. However, its significance was diminished by a series of statements and behaviours of the United States after the vote. That makes us question the political will and sincerity of the United States.

I wish to emphasize that all Council resolutions are binding, including resolution 2728 (2024). That is indisputable. Every country joins the United Nations with a commitment to implement the decisions of the Council. That is an obligation under the Charter of the United Nations. As a permanent member of the Security Council, the United States should take the lead in honouring that obligation.

We urge Israel to effectively comply with the demands of the resolution and cease its military offensive against Gaza and its collective punishment of the population in Gaza. We call on the United States to play a constructive role in that regard, exerting a positive influence on Israel and using all effective means to support the implementation of the resolution.

More than 170 days have passed since the outbreak of the conflict in Gaza. The humanitarian catastrophe is beyond imagination, with millions of people suffering from famine and on the verge of death. The blockade of Gaza and the human-made barriers to humanitarian access must be lifted without delay. We urge Israel to fully open the Rafah crossing and all other land crossings so as to ensure the sufficient, safe and speedy access of humanitarian supplies into Gaza.

Secretary-General Guterres and the United Nations have made tremendous efforts to promote a ceasefire in Gaza and to alleviate the humanitarian disaster there. China fully supports the work of the Secretary-General and the United Nations and firmly opposes malicious attacks against the Secretary-General and the Organization. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) plays an indispensable and crucial role in easing the humanitarian situation in Gaza. We urge Israel to immediately lift its restrictions on the Agency's relief operations and call on those countries that have not yet resumed their funding to UNRWA to do so as soon as possible.

While the conflict in Gaza continues, the situation in the West Bank is becoming increasingly tense. Violence by the Israel Defense Forces and the settlers in the West Bank has intensified, resulting in massive casualties among the Palestinians. We call for an effective curb on settler violence and for a thorough investigation into relevant incidents in a manner that ensures accountability.

For Muslims, Ramadan is the most sacred and important time. China urges Israel to guarantee the rights of Muslims to visit the Al-Aqsa Mosque and to effectively maintain peace and calm at the holy sites.

Israeli settlement activities in the West Bank constitute a serious violation of international law under resolution 2334 (2016) and erode the basis of the two-State solution. China condemns Israel's continued advancement of settlement activities, as well as its recent announcement of new plans for large-scale expansion.

The crux of the protracted Palestinian question lies in the failure to implement the two-State solution and the long-standing disregard for the Palestinians' rights to statehood, survival and return. The current round of the Gaza conflict reminds us once again that we can no longer continue to ignore the fact that Palestine has been under occupation for a long time. Nor can we continue to evade the long-cherished aspiration of the Palestinians to establish an independent State. China calls for greater international and regional diplomatic efforts to reshape a credible multilateral process and to revitalize the political prospects for the two-State solution. We advocate the convening of a larger-scale, more authoritative and more effective international peace conference in order to formulate a timetable and road map for the implementation of the two-State solution. We support Palestine's aspiration to become a full member of the United Nations as soon as possible, and we hope that the Council will put that issue on its agenda in the near future.

Mr. Fernandes (Mozambique): Mozambique welcomes this regular briefing, convened by Japan's presidency, on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), on the Middle East, including the Palestinian question.

We express our gratitude to Mr. Tor Wennesland, Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, for his comprehensive briefing and his tireless dedication, especially during these challenging times, as he continues striving for peace in the Middle East.

The situation in the Middle East remains highly sensitive, with ongoing conflicts and humanitarian challenges. The Council's recent actions demonstrate our commitment to addressing these complex issues and striving for positive change.

Yesterday's adoption of the resolution 2728 (2024) reflects the concern of all 15 Council members regarding the situation in the Gaza Strip. It reaffirms our total commitment to making every effort towards an immediate ceasefire during the month of Ramadan. The goal is to achieve a lasting and sustainable ceasefire.

We have faith that the resolution adopted yesterday, along with previous resolutions, will be implemented by all parties. Hopefully, that should ease the long suffering of the population in Gaza, facilitate the release of hostages and increase the quantity and quality of humanitarian aid. The Council underscored the urgency of ending civilian suffering, emphasizing that saving innocent lives is the singular priority. Let us hope that the resolution leads to positive change and relief for the affected population in Gaza.

Mozambique reaffirms its commitment to actively participate in diplomatic efforts aimed at fostering peace in the region. Our engagement is guided by the principles outlined in the Madrid terms of reference, which underpin relevant United Nations resolutions. We acknowledge the significance of the Arab Peace Initiative and the ongoing negotiations involving Qatar, Egypt and the United States in the achievement of lasting peace and stability.

We also echo the view that the ongoing establishment of settlements in the Palestinian territory is a violation under international law, including the relevant Security Council and General Assembly resolutions. Therefore, we call upon the occupying Power to cease all settlement activities since they are a major obstacle to a lasting peace.

In conclusion, Mozambique emphasizes the vital importance and urgency of a two-State solution in the Middle East. This is fundamental as it envisages Israel and Palestine's coexistence as democratic States, living side by side in peace within secure and recognized borders.

Mr. De La Gasca (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): At the outset, I echo the gratitude expressed to Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing this morning, and I reiterate Ecuador's support for his work and that of all the personnel of the United Nations and its agencies.

Just 24 hours ago, the Security Council adopted resolution 2728 (2024) demanding an immediate ceasefire during the month of Ramadan and the immediate and unconditional release of the hostages still held by Hamas. The provisions of resolution 2728 (2024) must be fully and immediately implemented, as well as those of resolutions 2712 (2023) and 2720 (2013), in order to alleviate the situation of civilians in Gaza, allow the hostages to be reunited with their families and allow steps to be taken towards a permanent resolution of the conflict.

The urgent and adequate provision of humanitarian assistance must be our first priority. It is imperative to avert a worsening of the food situation in the Gaza Strip, and placing further barriers to the entry or distribution of food is unacceptable.

Ecuador once again condemns the execrable terrorist acts perpetrated by Hamas on 7 October. The explosion of violence witnessed since then has had heartbreaking consequences, not only in Gaza but also throughout the region.

As I have pointed out every time Special Coordinator Wennesland has presented his briefings to us, it is natural to focus on Gaza, but we must not forget what is happening in the West Bank. There the violence is continuing, as are settlement activities. Last week it transpired that Israel had declared 800 hectares in the Jordan Valley as State-owned land, in what the European Union has described as "the biggest land confiscation since the signing of the Oslo Accords in 1993".

My country, in line with statement by the President of the Security Council S/PRST/2023/1 of February 2023, strongly opposes all unilateral measures that impede peace, including, inter alia, Israeli construction and expansion of settlements, confiscation of Palestinians' land, and the "legalization" of settlement outposts, demolition of Palestinians' homes and displacement of Palestinian civilians.

I would like to conclude my statement by reiterating my country's conviction that it is more urgent than ever to move towards a peaceful, lasting and just solution for the parties, with the existence of two States — Palestine and Israel — on the basis of the 1967 borders and the relevant resolutions.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Japan.

I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for sharing his valuable and comprehensive updates.

As we approach the passing of six months of the conflict in Gaza, we can only observe the destruction and devastation that have resulted since Hamas's horrifying acts of terror in Israel took place. We once again unequivocally condemn Hamas for its heinous terrorist acts.

Intense Israeli air strikes and ground operations have created an unprecedented humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza. With reports of more than 32,000 fatalities and nearly 2 million displaced persons, an immediate ceasefire is desperately needed to save lives and alleviate the suffering in both Israel and Palestine.

Japan is pleased that yesterday the Security Council was finally able to adopt a resolution in that regard (resolution 2728 (2024)), which should lead to a ceasefire for the holy month of Ramadan. We urge the concerned parties to immediately act in good faith, based on that resolution, and we continue to support the ongoing diplomatic efforts, led by the United States, Egypt and Qatar, towards an immediate cessation of hostilities and release of the hostages.

Japan is deeply concerned about the regional spillover of the conflict. In that vein, a military offensive into Rafah would be catastrophic not only for Gaza, but also across the region, and therefore, it should not be carried out under any circumstances.

We deplore the Israeli Government's recent plans to seize hundreds of acres of land in the occupied West Bank. Israeli settlement activities violate international law, and we call on Israel to immediately cease such actions, as well as other unilateral actions such as settler violence and forcible displacement of Palestinians.

In conclusion, resolution 2728 (2024) illuminates a ray of hope for peace, security and stability in the Middle East. A two-State solution, where Israel and an independent Palestinian State live side by side in peaceful coexistence, continues to be the most viable path towards achieving a sustainable peace in that decades-long conflict. Japan will continue to work constructively with other Council members to that end.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

There are no more names inscribed on the list of speakers.

Press Statement on Humanitarian Workers and Threat of Famine in Gaza

The following Security Council press statement was issued today by Council President Vanessa Frazier (Malta):

The members of the Security Council expressed grave concern over the Israeli air strikes that killed seven team members of the World Central Kitchen. These horrific attacks brought the number of humanitarian personnel killed in Gaza during the ongoing conflict to at least 224, more than three times as many humanitarian aid workers killed in any single conflict recorded in a single year. The members of the Security Council underlined the need for accountability for all of these incidents, and noted that Israel has announced the initial results of an investigation into the incident of 1 April 2024. They stressed the need for a full, transparent and comprehensive investigation into the incident, that is fully publicized.

The members of the Security Council expressed sincere condolences to the relatives and friends of all who had lost their lives since the start of hostilities on 7 October 2023.

The members of the Security Council also demanded that all parties to the conflict fully respect the protected status of humanitarian workers, facilities, and operations under international law, abide by humanitarian notification and deconfliction mechanisms, and immediately remediate any deficiencies in these mechanisms.

The members of the Security Council recognized the outstanding and admirable efforts of all humanitarian, medical and United Nations workers serving in Gaza and acknowledged the extremely difficult and dangerous conditions under which they are operating, as well as the tremendous courage they continued to demonstrate in pursuing their lifesaving mission.

The members of the Security Council reiterated their deep concern over the human toll of the conflict, the catastrophic humanitarian situation, and the threat of imminent famine in Gaza and called for the immediate lifting of all barriers to the delivery of humanitarian aid at scale to the civilian population and to the unhindered distribution of such assistance. They took note of the announcement by Israel to open the Erez crossing and allow the use of the Ashdod port for aid deliveries into Gaza, but stressed that more should be done to bring the required relief given the scale of needs in Gaza. Council members insisted on the need to immediately and fully implement this decision in a sustained manner, and reiterated their demand to the parties to allow, facilitate and enable the immediate, safe and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale directly to the Palestinian civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip, consistent with resolution 2720 (2023).

The members of the Security Council called for full respect of international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law. They underlined their demands for an immediate ceasefire for the month of Ramadan respected by all parties leading to a lasting sustainable ceasefire, and for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages, as well as ensuring humanitarian access to address their medical and other humanitarian needs, and for the parties to comply with their obligations under international law in relation to all persons they detain, in line with resolution 2728 (2024).

The members of the Security Council further reiterated their full support for the work of Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, in line with resolution 2720 (2023). They also underlined their support for the lifesaving efforts of all UN personnel and agencies, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), that are working to deliver humanitarian assistance to civilians in Gaza.

The members of the Security Council condemned all violence and hostilities against civilians, and all acts of terrorism. They emphasized the imperative of all parties immediately and fully implementing resolutions 2728 (2024), 2720 and 2712 (2023).

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representative of Israel to participate in this meeting.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023), to participate in this meeting.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Ms. Kaag.

Ms. Kaag: It has been almost seven months since the terror attack perpetrated on 7 October 2023 by Hamas against Israel — a country that continues to be affected by the deep trauma of the attack and the uncertainty of the hostages' fate. In Gaza, during the same period, more than 34,000 people have been killed and tens of thousands injured or maimed. Livelihoods, homes, schools and hospitals have been destroyed. Gaza's health infrastructure has been decimated. The few hospitals that are still standing are struggling to operate owing to severe supply shortages and frequent power outages. As summer approaches and temperatures rise, communicable diseases threaten to sweep through Gaza. Children, who suffer the worst and the most in every crisis, have been deprived of nutrition, protection and education, with their future hanging in the balance. The scarcity of food and other essential goods has also led to a breakdown in civil order and a gradual unravelling of the social fabric in Gaza. There is no effective law enforcement. As the Secretary-General has said, we have a shared responsibility to secure an immediate humanitarian ceasefire in Gaza, the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and the unimpeded delivery of humanitarian aid (see S/PV.9602).

Since my most recent briefing to the Security Council, on 7 March, I have continued to engage in discussions with key Governments and stakeholders across the region. I have also submitted and discussed detailed proposals with the Governments of Israel, Jordan, Egypt and Cyprus to accelerate and streamline the delivery of goods into Gaza and ensure a consistent pipeline of goods for safe distribution across the Gaza Strip. Today I will share with the Council my assessment of the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023), including areas in which progress has been made or is lacking. Allow me to say from the outset that a paradigm shift is needed to continue to meet the immense needs of the civilian population in a secure and safe manner.

As I have stated before, effective humanitarian operations cannot be reduced to counting trucks. That is a false metric for gauging whether humanitarian assistance is sufficient, let alone whether it responds to basic humanitarian requirements. For example, treating acutely malnourished children or pregnant women is not a matter of eating more calories. They require therapeutic and supplemental foods as well as long-term medical care. Effective humanitarian operations are also about the need for a sustained flow to deliver the right quality and quantity of assistance. That requires a continued focus on the volume, predictability and sustainability of diversified aid to scale up assistance. Humanitarian agencies must be able to move food, medicine and many other supplies safely and via all possible routes and crossings into and throughout every part of Gaza.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is pivotal in providing life-saving humanitarian aid and essential social services, particularly in health and education, to Palestine refugees. As such, UNRWA is irreplaceable and indispensable as a humanitarian lifeline and must be allowed to deliver on its mandate.

On 5 April, the Israeli Government made several commitments to improve aid delivery in response to requests by the United Nations and the international community. A number of steps have been taken, including an increase in the volume of aid cleared, inspected and crossed into Gaza; the temporary opening of the Erez crossing and the opening of the Ashdod port for humanitarian goods; an increase in the number of trucks entering Gaza directly from Jordan through the Allenby/King Hussein Bridge and increased access to the north; preparations for other northern crossings; continued use of Gate 96; an expansion of the opening hours of the Kerem Shalom/Abu Salem and Nitzana crossings; the resumption of operations by some bakeries in northern and central Gaza; and the ongoing repair of the Nahal Oz water pipeline. I have also been advised of the approval of critical communication equipment and an increase in the allocation of fuel.

While the implementation of some measures is ongoing, further definitive and urgent steps are needed to set the course for a sustained flow of humanitarian and commercial goods into Gaza in terms of volume, need and reach. Given the scale and scope of the destruction and the extent of human suffering, every day counts.

The United Nations is in contact with the Israeli Government on other measures that require urgent or continuous implementation. Those include issues pertaining to checkpoint procedures, the urgent repair of roads, timely clearances to allow humanitarian convoy movements to take place as scheduled, and the approval of additional communication devices, armoured vehicles and spare parts for critical equipment. Agreement on medical and casualty evacuation is equally urgent. Delivery at scale requires a functioning humanitarian notification system and improved and direct communications between humanitarians and military decision makers on the ground. Effective and credible deconfliction is vital for all humanitarian actors in Gaza. That list of basic measures is not exhaustive. Implementation is urgent. My office is establishing a monitoring framework to determine progress and the impact of the respective measures taken, and I will report to the Council in due course.

Allow me to share an update on the diversification of supply routes under resolution 2720 (2023). With respect to Jordan, my team has worked with the authorities concerned to launch the Jordan land corridor under a new streamlined modality. That has resulted in an increase in the number of trucks, and thereby volume, with only one transloading inside the Gaza crossing, and it has the potential for further increases. The entire United Nations family is planning for the receipt and onward distribution of cargo at scale, directly from Jordan to northern Gaza via the Erez crossing. That route is both effective and vital to reach civilians in northern Gaza and beyond.

With regards to Egypt, given the importance of the aid flow from Egypt, we will continue to streamline operations and maximize access through the Rafah and Kerem Shalom/Abu Salem crossings. We have engaged in constructive dialogue to explore opportunities for the optimization of the efficiency of aid delivery through Egypt. To further streamline access for humanitarian cargo to Gaza from Rafah, the United Nations has proposed the establishment of an inspection, monitoring and verification unit on the Palestinian side of Rafah. The Egypt land corridor, in particular via the Rafah crossing, is important, given its volume for both humanitarian assistance and for early recovery and reconstruction of Gaza in due course.

When it comes to Cyprus, the maritime corridor provides for additional capacity for humanitarian aid to Gaza. It can never and is not intended to be a substitute for delivery by land. Land routes are the only way to bring in the bulk of supplies needed. Preparations for the building of the floating port and pier on the shores of Gaza are advancing with the involvement of the United States and other Member States. The United Nations has outlined the parameters under which it can play a meaningful role in the distribution of aid via that corridor. My office has proposed a multi-donor funding mechanism and provides Secretariat support to the maritime corridor to ensure full coordination with the operations on the ground in Gaza. United Nations monitors have been deployed to Cyprus as part of the mechanism pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023).

Finally, regarding air drops and in view of the aforementioned, several Member States have indicated their intent to phase out that mode of delivery in conjunction with the scaling up of assistance via land and sea.

I am pleased to announce that the operationalization of the mechanism for Gaza pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023) will start in the coming days, and I am grateful for the constructive cooperation. The mechanism will initially be applicable to the Cyprus and Jordan routes, respectively. Technical consultations will shortly be finalized with Egypt on that route. I have informed the Government of Israel of the operationalization of the mechanism as per the resolution. A database and notification system will go online for all cargo destined for Gaza along supply routes. The approval for the placement of international monitors at crossings, inspection and supply points has been requested from relevant authorities. Verification and monitoring inside Gaza will commence as soon as possible. In the coming weeks, my office will also be operational in Gaza. The operationalization of the mechanism will allow for pipeline prioritization, predictability, visibility and tracking of supplies to Gaza. As the resolution intended, the mechanism is designed to facilitate and support the work of all humanitarian partners on the ground.

The extent of the destruction and the devastating impact of the war on the entire population of Gaza calls for an ambitious and comprehensive plan of support with commensurate investment. The recent United Nations, European Union and World Bank interim damage assessment illustrates the scale of the damage and the magnitude of investments required across all sectors, for example the rebuilding and repair of the more than 84 per cent of destroyed health facilities and the return of an entire student population to school while educational facilities have been affected or destroyed.

As the Secretary-General has stated, the Palestinian Authority has a critical role to play in Gaza. The international community must work towards enabling its return, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza. All efforts towards early recovery and reconstruction also need the participation of Palestinian civil society, fostering a conducive environment to re-establish the commercial sector in Gaza, and the engagement of the Palestinian business community and its investors are equally important.

I wish to echo the grave concern of the United Nations regarding the prospect of an Israeli operation in Rafah. Such action would compound an ongoing humanitarian catastrophe, with consequences for people already displaced and enduring severe hardships and suffering. The United Nations ability to deliver will also be constrained.

In conclusion, I would like to reiterate the importance of a paradigm shift. That requires a further scale-up in the quality and quantity of assistance and its distribution, irreversible steps to enable safe, secure and unhindered delivery inside Gaza, and planning and timely preparations for early recovery and reconstruction. There is no substitute for political will to sustain those efforts. Let us remember that behind every statistic is a human story of loss and suffering, and it is our duty to provide protection, support and therefore hope to the Palestinian population in Gaza. It is also our duty to advocate for lasting peace between Israel and a fully independent, viable and sovereign Palestinian State.

The President: I thank Ms. Kaag for her briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those Council members who wish to make statements.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): I thank the Senior Humanitarian Coordinator very much for her briefing.

As she said, Israel suffered the worst terror attack in its history at the hands of Hamas. More than 200 days on, Hamas continues to hold hostages. Palestinian civilians in Gaza are facing a devastating and growing humanitarian crisis and the risk of famine. The United Kingdom is joining Ms. Kaag's important efforts to prevent that situation from deteriorating even further. We have trebled our aid commitment in the last financial year, and we are doing everything we can to get more aid in as quickly as possible by land, sea and air and to contribute to the paradigm shift that she mentioned. I want to highlight three areas.

First, we welcome Israel's commitment to increasing humanitarian aid flows into Gaza, for example through the port of Ashdod and the Erez checkpoint and by extending the opening hours of the Kerem Shalom crossing. We now need to see more implementation. There has been some welcome progress in that regard, but much more needs to be done. Our Foreign Secretary reiterated that to Prime Minister Netanyahu on his visit to Israel last week.

Secondly, in addition to getting more aid in, it needs to be the right aid. That is why resolution 2720 (2023) is so important. The United Kingdom fully supports Ms. Kaag's mandate to establish a database and a mechanism to track, verify and coordinate aid. The United Kingdom has provided expert technical support to help the delivery of that mandate. And the United Kingdom will be providing more than $3.5 million in additional funding for equipment to support the United Nations and aid agencies in getting more aid into Gaza.

Thirdly, once humanitarian aid arrives in Gaza, it is vital to ensure that it can be distributed quickly and effectively. We are calling on Israel to improve deconfliction, allow United Nations agencies and humanitarian actors unhindered and safe access into and throughout Gaza and fully enable the minimum operating requirements of the United Nations. The tragic deaths of seven World Central Kitchen workers, including three British citizens, have shown the need for action in that regard.

The United Kingdom recognizes that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is critical to the delivery of aid in Gaza. We were appalled by the allegations that UNRWA staff were involved in the 7 October attacks against Israel, and we note the ongoing investigation by the United Nations Office for Internal Oversight Services into the allegations. We are grateful for the independent review of UNRWA neutrality led by Ms. Catherine Colonna, and we will set out our position on future funding to UNRWA following careful consideration of the final report and UNRWA's response.

The United Kingdom remains resolved to continue working with international partners to urgently secure an immediate pause to get aid in and the hostages out, and then to work for a sustainable, permanent ceasefire without a return to fighting and loss of life.

Mr. Bambissa (Mozambique): Mozambique would like to thank Malta's presidency for convening this important briefing on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question.

We also thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her updated information and perspectives on the situation in Gaza, particularly regarding the humanitarian situation in the past 90 days, in the light of resolution 2720 (2023). We commend her and her entire team for their unwavering dedication to addressing this human-made crisis in order to alleviate the immense suffering of Palestinians.

The Israeli-Palestinian conflict has long been a source of tension and tragedy in the region, and the recent escalation has resulted in significant loss of life. Israel's military operation continues to cause more civilian casualties and displacement, as well as the destruction of houses and other civilian infrastructure. The situation remains dire, and urgent action is needed to alleviate the human suffering and address the humanitarian crisis. Despite those challenges, the Council has succeeded in adopting two resolutions on the issue, resolutions 2712 (2023) and 2720 (2023). They clearly call for an immediate and urgent humanitarian ceasefire, a cessation of hostilities and, ultimately, a ceasefire — not only to ensure more and better humanitarian aid for those in need in Gaza, but also to allow for the unconditional release of all the hostages and pave the way for relaunching the peace process.

The hope was that through the demand for urgent action, the suffering could be alleviated and steps could be taken towards lasting peace. Deplorably, in the four months that have elapsed since then, the resolutions have not been fully implemented. That delay is a matter of concern.

The same purposes that guided the Council in adopting those two resolutions in December must strengthen our collective conscience in enforcing international obligations under international humanitarian law and international human rights law. Mozambique strongly encourages the engagement of the relevant parties in the implementation of those resolutions, and we believe firmly that encouraging those parties is crucial in that regard. We reiterate our appeal to Council members with influence on the parties to cooperate with Ms. Kaag and her team so that they can fulfil their mandate without delay or obstruction. The Security Council must unite and speak with one voice to urgently address the pressing humanitarian situation in Gaza. The situation demands immediate, safe and unhindered access for humanitarian aid to reach those most in need, bearing in mind that thousands of people and families in the Gaza Strip are gathering at the Rafah crossing border amid escalating hostilities.

Let me underscore that the human toll of the conflict is staggering, with innocent lives caught in the crossfire. The call for a ceasefire remains therefore urgent and crucial. Diplomatic efforts and international pressure must continue.

Mr. Wood (United States of America): I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag very much for her briefing.

The humanitarian situation in Gaza is beyond dire. Starvation has taken the lives of children in the north. Essential supplies are dwindling. Millions have been displaced.

At this perilous moment, President Biden has called on Israel to take a series of specific, concrete and measurable steps to address the humanitarian crisis, protect civilians from harm and ensure the safety of all aid workers.

Israel must do more to prevent civilian casualties immediately. And President Biden has made clear that United States policy will be determined by its assessment of Israel's immediate and sustained action on those steps. Israel has taken some positive steps, but not nearly enough and not quickly enough. And so, the United States' position is clear: Israel must take immediate action to open additional land crossings into northern Gaza. As Gaza faces imminent famine, lives hang in the balance, and every day matters.

To complement, and not replace, additional land crossings and increase aid flowing into Gaza, the United States is working with its partners to implement a maritime corridor. Part of that corridor entails the establishment of a temporary pier in Gaza, from which humanitarian assistance will be offloaded. We welcome the United Nations commitment to help facilitate the distribution of aid delivered to Gaza via the pier.

Another essential portion of the maritime corridor is the full implementation of Israeli commitments to open Ashdod for humanitarian shipments. As we understand it, assistance will be shipped to Ashdod and then transported through land crossings into Gaza. That is critical, and that needs to happen right away. But it does not matter how much aid gets into Gaza if that aid cannot get into the hands of Palestinians in dire need. The distribution of aid within Gaza is absolutely critical.

The plans Senior Coordinator Kaag outlined today are vital to achieving the distribution of aid at scale, and we look forward to hearing more about the United Nations efforts during today's closed briefing. I want to reiterate the Biden Administration's full support for Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag. And I again call on Israel to cooperate with the United Nations efforts to facilitate the delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale.

Another factor limiting the distribution of aid has been the repeated failure of deconfliction mechanisms. Since 7 October, more than 230 humanitarian workers have been killed. That is tragic and unacceptable. Deconfliction mechanisms are vital. That is how we protect the lives of those who are working to save the lives of innocent people. And so, Israel must fully implement functional deconfliction procedures. It must. We reiterate our call for accountability for incidents in which humanitarian personnel were killed. That includes the deadly attack on World Central Kitchen personnel earlier this month. There must be an additional independent and transparent investigation.

As all Council members know, this week, Foreign Minister Colonna released her report on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). We appreciate that UNRWA has taken steps to set internal policies and address its neutrality, but more must be done. And UNRWA must undertake substantial reforms to protect its sustainability and mission. We know that will take time and resources, but implementation of the reforms outlined in Colonna's report will be critical, and the United States will work closely with the United Nations and other partners to ensure UNRWA carries out its duties in a neutral and balanced way, for the benefit of the Palestinian people.

I fear many have lost sight of the fact that it is Hamas that set the conflict into motion on 7 October, when it carried out a heinous attack on Israel, slaughtering concertgoers, burning people alive and committing unspeakable acts of sexual violence. Let us not forget that important fact.

The United States has been clear from the beginning that it fully supports Israel's right to self-defence, and that support is ironclad. But we have also been clear that, as Israel continues to pursue the destruction of the remaining elements of Hamas, we are opposed to a full-scale military operation in Rafah, which would have catastrophic consequences for the civilian population. We reiterate our call for Israel to produce a credible and actionable plan to protect the civilian population in Rafah and address the humanitarian needs of those who have sought refuge in the south.

We are deeply concerned by the massive internal displacement within Gaza and the risk of forcible displacement from Gaza. Israel must act in compliance with its obligations under international law — full stop.

Since 7 October, so much suffering and pain, death and destruction has played out before our eyes on all sides of the conflict. Now more than ever, we need an immediate and sustainable ceasefire as part of a deal to release the hostages by Hamas, which will also allow us to scale up humanitarian assistance to Palestinian civilians. The United States is working with its partners in the region to make that possible. Hamas, however, continues to reject offers from Israel that would halt fighting and release hostages, over and over and over. If Hamas accepted the offer Israel has made, it would allow for an immediate ceasefire that would benefit Palestinians now. Hamas should take the deal. If not, it should explain to the world and to the Palestinian people why it has yet to do so, because right now Hamas is the sole obstacle to a ceasefire in Gaza.

We must all call on Hamas, especially those with the most influence, to take the deal. And we must continue to work together to support the work of Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag and all those working to save lives in Gaza at this moment of dire need.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): I thank Ms. Kaag for her briefing on the implementation of her mandate, as stipulated in resolution 2720 (2023), to facilitate humanitarian aid access to the Gaza Strip, despite facing multiple challenges and obstacles in her endeavour.

There have been over 200 days of ongoing aggression against the Palestinian people in Gaza, and we are still discussing access to basic human needs, such as access to food, water and sanitation, not to mention access to education, housing and health care, which have become luxuries for the entire population in Gaza.

Ms. Kaag's mission of expediting humanitarian aid delivery to Gaza's civilian population is crucial. However, more than four months after the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), despite Ms. Kaag and her team's efforts to establish a United Nations mechanism for accelerating the provision of humanitarian relief in Gaza, that call remains unanswered and the mandate not fully implemented. The international community, particularly Member States with influence on the occupying Power, should make every effort to help Ms. Kaag fulfil her mandate. Ensuring her success is a collective responsibility — not just one person's duty.

We firmly believe that successful humanitarian aid in Gaza depends on several factors.

First, it is obvious that there must be an immediate and lasting ceasefire. Safe humanitarian action throughout Gaza cannot be ensured without a ceasefire. The past six months clearly indicate that. In the words of Ciarán Donnelly, a senior vice president of the International Rescue Committee, which operates in Gaza,

“what is increasingly clear is that the deconfliction process is a fiction. It does not provide any guarantees of safety”.

Only a cessation of hostilities can help meet the civilian population's needs. Otherwise, humanitarian actors will need to risk their lives to deliver aid.

Secondly, there must be unhindered humanitarian access. That requires opening all possible crossings and using them at full capacity. According to the occupying authorities, since 7 October, only 40 per cent of the minimum basic needs required have been allowed into Gaza. After killing — I should say, assassinating — humanitarian workers from the World Central Kitchen, the occupying authorities launched a publicity campaign to highlight their decision to reopen the Erez crossing. However, according to the United Nations, as of last Friday, only 25 trucks have been authorized to use the Erez crossing.

The international community, including powerful countries, seems to be incapable of forcing the occupying Power to adhere to its obligations under international humanitarian law. Air drops, a last-resort solution, became the only option, but these represent only 0.3 per cent of total aid delivered to Gaza. The maritime corridor was undermined before providing tangible results. Our strong belief is that there is no alternative to land routes. All crossings must be reopened now.

Thirdly, we must recognize the irreplaceable role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). This Agency continues to be the backbone of humanitarian delivery in Gaza. It should operate freely, without threat. After Ms. Colonna's report, there is no need to further debate UNRWA's credibility and efficiency. The report states that UNRWA approach to neutrality is more developed than other similar United Nations agencies or non-governmental organizations. Moreover, I repeat that Israel has yet to provide supporting evidence of its allegations against UNRWA personnel. As Ms. Colonna's report indicated, even those agencies rely on UNRWA retaining its central and irreplaceable role of providing a platform and, in many cases, infrastructure for these specialized activities. UNRWA must be empowered again and allowed to operate across Gaza, including in the north, as the risk of famine looms.

Fourthly, Resuming commercial activities, regardless of the size and efficiency of humanitarian assistance, is imperative. That requires two main conditions — ending the siege imposed by the occupying authorities and launching a vast cash-transfer programme to help revive Gaza's local market. Starting such an operation is crucial.

Fifthly, there must be no ground offensive in Rafah. We once again warn against any military action in Rafah. Such an offensive should not be allowed by under any circumstances, as 1.5 million Palestinians have been crammed into Rafah, which has become the humanitarian hub of Gaza. The survival of Gaza's entire population depends on the situation in this city. A ground offensive would leave people with no choice but to flee to Egypt. It would become not only a humanitarian catastrophe, but also an irreversible breach of peace and security in the region and beyond.

The catastrophic situation in Gaza is a betrayal of humankind and a test of the international order and our multilateral system. This is not a natural disaster, it is a human-made disaster, and we bear the responsibility for it. The international community must ensure the implementation of the orders of the International Court of Justice and Security Council resolutions. Failure is not an option. The occupying Power, which causes death and desperation wherever it goes, cannot continue to dictate the rules. This catastrophe must be ended.

Mr. De La Gasca (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): I welcome the presence of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza in today's meeting and the briefing that she has just provided. I reiterate Ecuador's support for the efforts of Ms. Sigrid Kaag and the work of her entire team to create a mechanism to facilitate and speed up access to aid — an urgent and important task.

More than four months have passed since the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023) last December under Ecuador's presidency of the Security Council. Unfortunately, many of its provisions are far from being fulfilled, and the valuable progress made is insufficient faced with the magnitude of the task. The civilians of Gaza must have access to the assistance they need in sufficient quantities and in a continuous and predictable manner. Food, water, sanitation, electricity, telecommunications and medical services are essential for survival. My country has repeatedly called for the unhindered provision and distribution of humanitarian aid. It has done so since the start of the war in Gaza in October 2023. Ecuador therefore appreciates the efforts made to diversify aid routes and supply lines by land, air and sea and encourages those efforts to continue, despite the problems and challenges faced.

Regarding the operational difficulties in getting aid into Gaza and distributing it around the Strip, it should be reiterated that resolution 2720 (2023) requires the parties to the conflict to cooperate with Senior Coordinator Kaag without delay or obstruction.

The adoption of immediate measures to guarantee the provision of basic services and humanitarian aid has also been ordered by the International Court of Justice in the provisional measures issued in January and March. The resolutions of the Security Council and the provisions of the International Court of Justice must be respected. Regarding the mechanism for expediting the delivery of humanitarian relief shipments to Gaza, my country hopes that it will be fully operational as soon as possible and will contribute to alleviating the scarcity faced by the civilian population.

In conclusion, I reiterate Ecuador's condemnation of the heinous terrorist acts by Hamas that began on 7 October 2023 and of all acts of violence against civilians, including sexual violence. I reiterate our demand for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and, in the meantime, for the guarantee of humanitarian access to meet their medical needs, as required by the resolutions of the Council.

Ms. Persaud (Guyana): I thank you, Madam President, for organizing today's briefing, and I thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag for the updates provided on her work pursuant to the mandate outlined in resolution 2720 (2023).

The pressing need for a ceasefire in Gaza is driven home forcefully once again in what has been laid out to the Security Council this afternoon. The humanitarian situation in the Gaza Strip continues to worsen, as it remains subject to Israeli bombardments from air, land and sea. The death toll stands at a staggering 34,000 plus. The number of those injured has surpassed 77,000. Those figures should shock our collective conscience and compel us to bring the war to an immediate and just end after more than 200 days of unimaginable horror.

The provisions of resolution 2720 (2023) are clear on the obligations of the parties to the conflict. They must comply with international law, including international humanitarian law. That entails ensuring, inter alia, the protection of civilians and civilian objects, humanitarian access and the protection of humanitarian personnel and their freedom of movement. It also entails upholding the obligation to ensure the provision at scale of urgently needed basic humanitarian services and humanitarian assistance. Those obligations have not been met, in clear defiance of the legally binding orders issued by the International Court of Justice on 26 January and 28 March. Of particular note is the order of the International Court of Justice that Israel take all necessary and effective measures to ensure, without delay, in full cooperation with the United Nations, the unhindered provision, at scale and by all concerned, of urgently needed basic services and humanitarian assistance, “including by increasing the capacity and number of land crossing points and maintaining them open for as long as necessary”.

The unavailability of sufficient land crossings remains a major hindrance to humanitarian efforts in Gaza, compounded by excessive inspection processes. Guyana reminds Israel of its obligations to allow, facilitate and enable the immediate, safe and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale directly to the civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip. We call on Israel to honour those obligations. We take note of Ms. Kaag’s extensive efforts in extremely challenging circumstances, including towards the establishment of the United Nations mechanism, and reiterate Guyana’s continued support for those efforts.

Guyana also stresses the importance of guaranteeing the safety of humanitarian personnel for scaling up humanitarian assistance in the Gaza Strip. An unprecedented number of humanitarian workers have been killed in this war, principally because of non-compliance with international humanitarian law. Humanitarian workers have been directly attacked, as seen in the killing of the seven World Central Kitchen team members. Others have fallen victim to indiscriminate shelling because deconfliction and notification mechanisms are not functioning adequately.

Allow me to draw the Council’s attention to three important points.

First, while it is crucial to scale up humanitarian support and increase access across Gaza, that alone will not save lives. For humanitarian assistance to be delivered effectively and at scale in a sustainable manner, there must be a permanent ceasefire.

Secondly, Palestinians must not be expected to subsist on humanitarian aid for any lengthy period of time. For the preservation of their dignity, conditions must be created for them to build their own livelihoods. Re-establishing the means for trade and for the market to thrive is essential. I stress again that a secure environment is paramount if that is to happen. A ceasefire is indispensable. Deciding to increase humanitarian support to Gaza while delaying a decision about a ceasefire is self-defeating.

Thirdly, Guyana reiterates the need for accountability. There is perhaps no greater deterrent than accountability. Where accountability is lacking, impunity thrives, emboldening perpetrators to the detriment of all. In the case of Gaza, impunity has brought disproportionate consequences for women and children, who are the vast majority of those being killed and maimed.

I conclude by observing that the scale of devastation visited upon Gaza has created a multidimensional crisis that requires a multidimensional approach that takes account of immediate and future needs. Guyana is prepared to work with the Council to design and facilitate the implementation of that approach. At its heart must be the creation of a free and independent State of Palestine in accordance with the pre-1967 lines. That is our duty.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We would like to thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her briefing and her efforts to find ways to enhance the delivery of humanitarian relief to Gaza in accordance with resolution 2720 (2023). As the Council is aware, we abstained in the voting on that resolution, which among other things provides for the establishment of a United Nations mechanism to facilitate the delivery of humanitarian supplies, and whose parameters we are discussing today. The reason we abstained is the resolution’s lack of a direct demand for a ceasefire, which is a key condition for ensuring safe, unhindered access to those in need. It features the “creation of conditions” of some kind for a cessation of violence in Gaza. We warned that Israel would interpret such ambiguous language as a green light, and that is exactly what happened.

We are tired of repeating that it is simply not possible to give the population of Gaza adequate assistance while Israel’s military operation in Gaza is ongoing, which it has been doing for more than six months now with the full support of the United States. That is obvious. Humanitarian aid workers are unarmed and are defenceless under fire. It is simply inhumane to require them to die in air strikes while the Council has been completely unable to compel Israel to end its hostilities.

I want to point to another important point, which is that over time the Security Council has evolved a logic for its actions regarding conflict situations. First, the Council demands a ceasefire by the parties. Then it deploys military observers to monitor compliance, with the emphasis on “military”, because they are personnel who have been professionally trained for such monitoring. If they are not given access to the contact zone or report violations of the ceasefire, the issue arises of how to compel implementation, and in particular of whether to deploy peacekeepers. In Gaza’s case, that entire sequence of events has been turned on its head and humanitarian aid workers have in essence been asked to sacrifice their lives by doing the job of peacekeepers. That is preposterous and also very dangerous.

If the ceasefire is not being observed, let us discuss concrete measures to ensure that it is upheld. The Security Council has well-established algorithms and tools that include the deployment of peacekeeping contingents. To begin with, we could at least revisit the idea of more active involvement by the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization in monitoring the ceasefire. Major General Patrick Gauchat, its Head of Mission and Chief of Staff, has already briefed the Council once (see S/PV.9513) and has promised to provide more detailed information on the resources available to the mission. We suggest revisiting that issue.

Besides that, the Israeli authorities are openly impeding the delivery of essential goods to civilians in Gaza. Last week (see S/PV.9607) we discussed in detail the situation of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), which is simply unacceptable. As far as we know, United Nations humanitarian agencies, including UNRWA, have maintained a significant presence in the Palestinian territory. They have sufficient resources, including financial resources. Loaded convoys are waiting at the crossings at the Gaza border and the entire spectrum of legal conditions for delivering humanitarian assistance is in place, without the need for the additional structures envisaged by the mechanism in the resolution. First and foremost, I am referring to existing international humanitarian law, including the Geneva Conventions and the guiding principles set forth in General Assembly resolution 46/182. In the circumstances, we do not believe it is necessary to establish any special humanitarian regime for Gaza, especially as it obviously will not work while one of the parties is determined to continue military hostilities.

On that note, we all have to recognize one simple thing. The problem is not whether or not we have mechanisms for the delivery of humanitarian relief but the absence of the necessary conditions for it, owing to the intense fighting and to the fact that the Israel Defense Forces do not make exceptions for hospitals, schools or humanitarian convoys. We firmly believe that humanitarian access must be granted in accordance with international humanitarian law and that humanitarian aid workers should be guaranteed an adequate level of security and protection. In that connection, we want to once again repeat that the overriding aim of the international community, as represented by the Council, is to ensure an immediate and lasting ceasefire. Only then can we seriously discuss solving the problems of food security, sanitation, education and other vitally important services. We would of course like to believe that the proposed mechanism for the delivery of humanitarian relief will make a difference, but that is unrealistic given the fierce hostilities and the ongoing cleansing operations. Things have gone so far that Israeli settlers are raiding Palestinian villages, committing murder and arson. In such circumstances, humanitarian aid workers will continue to die and the one-stop shop that is proposed under the mechanism will hardly help.

Since our objective today is to have a focused discussion on the concept note regarding the modalities for the operation of the mechanisms, I would like to ask its authors a few questions. The main one is about whether the Israeli and Palestinian sides agreed on the implementation of such a mechanism. Were the details of the plans for the entry of humanitarian supplies discussed with them, and if so, with whom? Are there guarantees that the Israeli authorities will not inspect trucks, which they are doing now, and that they will not withhold authorization for their entry into Gaza for months on end? If there are no such guarantees, what value does the mechanism add? How is it different in practice from the current working methods? On the contrary, it would appear that the mechanism will become yet another bureaucratic barrier involving additional checks and inspections. Another important point is that the concept note refers to Kerem Shalom and Rafah, which are already letting supplies through, albeit in fits and starts. Why does it not consider other land and sea crossings, specifically the five checkpoints on the Israeli border, the temporary pier in Gaza and the Ashdod port?

There is no section in the document about the United Nations staff who are expected to cooperate with the Israelis and Palestinians, as well as various

United Nations agencies, to ensure that the mechanism functions. It mentions only some sort of key partners, relevant authorities and humanitarian actors. That needs to be precisely defined. We would also like additional information about commercial deliveries under the mechanism, which is supposed to handle strictly humanitarian tasks. Given that this approach has no analogies or precedents, we would be grateful for further clarification.

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her briefing.

It has been 200 days since the Gaza conflict began. In those 200 days, we have seen hunger and famine spread, the health-care system collapse, innocent lives lost and millions of people struggling desperately on the brink of death. There is no justification for prolonging the conflict, and there is no excuse for killing civilians. The international community must make every effort to mitigate the disaster, save lives and end the conflict. I have three points to make.

First, we are deeply concerned about the continually worsening humanitarian disaster. The three Council resolutions dealing with this — resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023) and 2728 (2024) — and the two International Court of Justice orders on provisional measures all explicitly call for greater humanitarian access, but they have never been effectively implemented and the delivery of humanitarian aid continues to encounter various kinds of human-made restrictions. If that continues, it will definitely result in more civilian deaths from famine and disease. We urge Israel to open all land crossings in order to guarantee the rapid and safe delivery of humanitarian supplies at scale into Gaza and their safe and orderly distribution within Gaza to those in dire need. We expect that the mechanism established by Senior Coordinator Kaag will play a greater role in reducing and eliminating obstacles to humanitarian supplies before and after their entry into Gaza. Israel should cooperate with all humanitarian efforts, including those of Senior Coordinator Kaag.

Secondly, we support the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in continuing to play its role. The guarantee of aid delivery by humanitarian agencies is the responsibility of the occupying Power. Hunger cannot be weaponized, and relief cannot be politicized.

The independent review group led by Ms. Colonna has released its report, which notes that UNRWA has had in place for many years a significant number of robust mechanisms to ensure the Agency's neutrality and ability to respond to non-compliance and hold those responsible for it accountable in a timely manner, and that it has far more such mechanisms than any other United Nations agency. At this point, the debate on UNRWA's neutrality should come to an end. We urge all countries to resume funding for UNRWA as soon as possible and to refrain from using any pretext to impose additional collective punishment on the population of Gaza. Israel made serious allegations against UNRWA linked to terrorism, for which no evidence has yet been shared. We are concerned about that. China reiterates that without solid evidence, it is unacceptable to attack UNRWA maliciously and even make false accusations against the entire United Nations system.

Thirdly, we again call on the Council to push for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza. More than six months of harsh reality has made it abundantly clear that a Gaza under fire does not have the conditions needed for aid delivery. Resolution 2728 (2024), which clearly calls for a ceasefire in Gaza, is indisputably binding, and all Member States are obligated to implement it. We are gravely concerned about Israel's frequent bombardments of Gaza in recent days. We urge Israel to immediately cease all military operations against Gaza and abandon its plan to conduct an offensive against Rafah. Countries with significant influence on Israel should be impartial and play an active role in bringing about a ceasefire. China supports the Council in taking further actions to ensure the implementation of the resolution.

Mr. Sowa (Sierra Leone): We want to thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her very comprehensive briefing.

My delegation recalls resolution 2720 (2023), which calls for the establishment of that position and of an effective United Nations mechanism for providing humanitarian aid to the people in the Gaza Strip. The Senior Humanitarian Coordinator's role of facilitating and expediting humanitarian aid in Gaza is especially critical at this juncture, given that 1.1 million people are projected to face catastrophic levels of food insecurity in the region. Regular updates from the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs on the situation in Gaza confirm that the volume of humanitarian supplies entering Gaza since the start of hostilities in October 2023 is far below the approximately 500 trucks per day that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) estimates are needed to meet the basic essential food, health and other needs of the people there.

Sierra Leone acknowledges the enormity of the task of increasing the quantum of humanitarian aid into Gaza in order to minimize the impact of the conflict on civilians, especially women, children and other vulnerable persons. We commend the continued engagement and consultation by the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator since her appointment with the Israel Defence Forces and other stakeholders in the region on removing the significant humanitarian access constraints in order to ensure unfettered access via all routes — air, land and sea — into the Gaza Strip. Such a consultative and well-coordinated approach is essential for seamless aid distribution to address the urgent and continuing needs of the people there, especially in the current environment of heavy bombardment and ongoing clashes. Additionally, we anticipate that an established United Nations mechanism, as stipulated in resolution 2720 (2023), will resolve current operational constraints, improve collaboration with humanitarian actors in the region and increase their delivery capacity throughout the Gaza Strip.

In supporting the Office of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator and ensuring that she delivers on her mandate to facilitate, coordinate, monitor and verify humanitarian relief consignments to Gaza, my delegation will continue to call for, first, an immediate humanitarian ceasefire in the Gaza Strip, as stipulated in resolution 2728 (2024) to enable full, rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian access to all civilians — the absence of which will only stifle progress. In that vein, we request the Office of the Senior Humanitarian Coordinator to coordinate efforts with UNRWA to ensure that Palestinians get full access to humanitarian aid.

Secondly, in reminding parties to the conflict of their obligations under international law, we draw their attention to the consequences associated with blatant violations. We urge parties to the conflict to prioritize the survival, security and dignity of all civilians. We further call for a functioning humanitarian notification system and a stable communication network that will guarantee the protection of United Nations and other humanitarian personnel and enhance the efficient delivery of essential commodities.

Sierra Leone reiterates its call for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas and, in the interim, demands that access be granted to the International Committee of the Red Cross and/or other humanitarian workers to visit and support the victims.

In conclusion, Sierra Leone reaffirms its support to the good offices of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator and stresses the need for the requisite resources to be made available for an efficient service delivery. As a Council member, we will continue to participate and engage in processes that seek to broker peace and improve the lives of the civilians in both Palestine and Israel.

Mr. Sangjin Kim (Republic of Korea): I thank Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag for her very useful and informative briefing on the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023).

I would like to express the Republic of Korea's sincere appreciation for Ms. Kaag's tireless efforts. Indeed, since her appointment earlier this year, we have witnessed some improvements in humanitarian efforts on the ground, as Senior Coordinator Kaag just indicated — some progress has been made.

Nonetheless, as the current situation shows no clear sign of ending, the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza is also being extended, exacerbating the long-standing suffering of Gazan civilians, especially women and children, as famine deepens. Sadly, that tragic trend has not changed despite numerous Security Council meetings, the adoption of resolution 2728 (2024) demanding an immediate ceasefire and ongoing diplomatic efforts by the United States, Egypt and Qatar.

The Republic of Korea takes note of Israel's announcement earlier this month that it would open further access points into Gaza, including the opening of the port of Ashdod and the Erez crossing, and enhanced deliveries from Jordan. During the Council's meeting last month, Ms. Kaag mentioned those measures as possible ways to enhance life-saving assistance into Gaza. Without the lifting of all barriers to ensure sufficient and sustained humanitarian assistance at scale, the suffering of civilians in Gaza will intensify even further.

As a close friend, the Republic of Korea calls on Israel to swiftly implement those commitments, as such measures will not only ease the suffering of Palestinians, but also enhance the credibility of Israel in the international community. And actions speak much louder than words. As the most efficient and swift routes for the delivery of humanitarian aid are through land crossings, we hope that all possible land crossings, including Karni, can soon be opened widely. The use of maritime corridors, being an important supplement for land crossings, should also be enhanced. And in that regard, we really appreciate efforts to expand the use of sea routes by relevant countries, including the United States and Cyprus.

As the Council has repeatedly stressed, the safety and security of humanitarian workers, regardless of their nationalities, must be guaranteed. Notifications and deconfliction mechanisms must be fully integrated into the systems and operations of the parties.

Lastly, we would like to reiterate our firm position that an immediate ceasefire is essential to end the humanitarian suffering in Gaza and simultaneously lessen regional tensions. Another major military operation, including the looming ground operation into Rafah, must not be realized.

And based on the ceasefire, Senior Coordinator Kaag's other major mandate — reconstruction — should begin, considering Gaza's immense needs. To resume meaningful negotiations towards the vision of the two-State solution, a ceasefire and the reconstruction of Gaza are essential.

Mr. Žbogar (Slovenia): I also thank Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza Ms. Kaag for her briefing to the Council. We welcome her update on the implementation of her mandate in line with resolution 2720 (2023).

In resolution 2720 (2023), the Security Council demanded that the parties to the conflict allow, facilitate and enable the immediate, safe and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale directly to the Palestinian civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip. People are dying in Gaza owing to malnutrition and dehydration. That is not assistance at scale. People are dying in Gaza collecting assistance. That is not safe. People are dying in Gaza, as basic humanitarian and medical items are being denied owing to their dual-use nature. That is not unhindered. People are still dying in Gaza, as they are not getting adequate assistance today. The resolution was adopted in December. That is not immediate.

Slovenia is deeply concerned about the continuously deteriorating humanitarian situation in Gaza, reaching catastrophic levels and imminent famine. We remain profoundly concerned about the threat of a full-scale operation in Rafah, and we join other Council members in calling on Israel not to carry it out.

We call for the removal of all barriers to the delivery of humanitarian assistance. As stipulated in resolution 2720 (2023), that includes opening all available routes and border crossings. We call on Israel to fully implement the announced opening of the Erez crossings and use of the Ashdod port. We stress the importance of facilitating the delivery of humanitarian aid from Jordan and Egypt.

We welcome Ms. Kaag's efforts to ensure the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023) and to establish the mechanism for the facilitation, acceleration and verification of humanitarian relief for Gaza. We welcome her engagement with a number of partners. We deeply appreciate the efforts of countries in establishing a maritime corridor and continuing to give hope through airdrops. However, we underline that land routes remain the safest and most efficient way of delivering assistance at scale.

We are particularly concerned about the safety and security of United Nations and humanitarian personnel working in Gaza. Much more is left to do to ensure full implementation of resolution 2720 (2023). That includes significant improvements in the deconfliction mechanism, the removal of constraints to fuel supply, addressing delays and insecurities at checkpoints and allowing the entry of appropriate safety equipment for United Nations and humanitarian workers. While we welcome the recent entry of 15 out of 30 new trucks to enhance delivery, we underline that many trucks have been destroyed in the ongoing conflict. All those barriers inevitably hinder the United Nations capacities and efforts.

Slovenia believes a number of barriers can be lifted only with political will. That includes better border crossing coordination and smoother inspection processes, as well as a sufficient number of drivers and trucks being cleared for use. It includes the full use of existing capabilities, such as the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, which remains the backbone of the humanitarian response in Gaza. And it includes ensuring the safety and security of humanitarian workers and drivers, also in different high-risk areas throughout Gaza. Lastly, and very importantly, it includes greater predictability in aid delivery.

Slovenia repeats its call for the full implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023) and 2728 (2024), as well as the International Court of Justice provisional measures of 26 January and 28 March. We call for the full respect of international law, including international humanitarian law and human rights law. We once again underline the need for accountability. We share the concern expressed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights regarding reported discoveries of mass graves in Al-Shifa and Nasser medical complexes.

I have said it behind closed doors, and I will repeat it again: the pictures and news coming from Gaza will haunt us. They will haunt us as individuals sitting on the Council and as the Council itself. There is only one way to adequately address the situation. Therefore, we once again call for an immediate ceasefire, the release of hostages and the removal of all barriers to humanitarian aid. That must be followed by a meaningful commitment to a political process.

Mrs. Baeriswyl (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I would like to begin by thanking the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, for her briefing and commitment. Four months have passed since the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), during which she has made every effort to coordinate the delivery of aid to the civilian population, at a time when we have been facing and continue to face a humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza.

As the Secretary-General said at the beginning of the year, “Humanitarian delivery is not an exercise of counting trucks. It is about ensuring that the right volume and quality of assistance reaches people in need” (S/PV.9534, p. 3), as required by international humanitarian law. To that end, we expect the parties to finally fully implement the binding resolutions the Council has adopted since Hamas’s acts of terror on 7 October, which Switzerland has strongly condemned. The same applies to the International Court of Justice’s order that Israel take all necessary and effective measures without delay, in close cooperation with the United Nations, to ensure — without restriction and on a large-scale — the provision of urgently needed basic services and humanitarian aid to the population. The Council must ensure compliance with the resolutions it has itself adopted. The effects, which are expected immediately, have been emphasized time and again: effective protection of civilians, the implementation of a ceasefire, humanitarian access to those in need and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. We must insist just as urgently on regional de-escalation.

Failing to do so, every day will bring new civilian victims. The prospect of a large-scale military offensive at Rafah is unacceptable, as it would further exacerbate the situation of the civilian population, which is beset by displacement, hostilities, epidemics and famine.

The Security Council must insist that the parties immediately comply with their obligations under international law. The use of starvation as a method of warfare is strictly prohibited by international humanitarian law and constitutes a war crime.

All humanitarian actors in Gaza, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, must have safe and unhindered access to the population in need. To achieve that, humanitarian aid must be able to flow through all crossing points and then be distributed throughout the Gaza Strip, in particular in the north. Reports that aid to Gaza yesterday reached its highest level since 7 October are encouraging. However, that is far from sufficient, and we must step up our efforts.

We recall that arbitrary obstruction of humanitarian access is also prohibited under international humanitarian law, as are attacks on humanitarian personnel, facilities and equipment. United Nations, humanitarian and medical personnel, as well as the infrastructure of the United Nations and other humanitarian organizations, must be strictly protected. It is imperative that the Council speak out on that issue, beyond specific contexts. Switzerland is in contact with all Council members on a draft resolution to that end.

Finally, Switzerland calls for independent investigations into all violations of international humanitarian law committed in the Middle East. The perpetrators of all these violations must be held to account.

I repeat that the immediate implementation of the relevant Council resolutions calling for a ceasefire, the safe, swift and unimpeded delivery of humanitarian aid to Gaza, and the release of the hostages must be our priority. As members of the Security Council, we must redouble our efforts in order to achieve those goals as quickly as possible and to avoid — at all costs — an even more serious regional escalation. That is a sine qua non if we are to restore the prospect of a peaceful future in which the people can live in dignity and security.

Switzerland remains ready to support efforts that can revive the hope of peace through a solution with two democratic States — Israel and Palestine — living side by side, in peace, within secure and recognized borders, based on the 1967 borders, with Gaza as an integral part of a Palestinian State.

Mr. Yamazaki (Japan): I too thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her valuable update.

The current situation in Gaza, which began 200 days ago with the brutal terror attacks by Hamas and other groups, has led to unprecedented destruction and a humanitarian catastrophe. Around half of Gaza's population, approximately 1.1 million people, are at risk of entering the most severe stage of famine. There is an acute shortage of basic necessities, including safe water, food, shelter and medicine. The gravity of the crisis in Gaza cannot be stressed enough.

In the light of the extreme challenge, we highly respect Ms. Kaag's tireless efforts to streamline and expedite the delivery of humanitarian aid to Gaza by proposing a United Nations mechanism in line with resolution 2720 (2023). We fully support the role of the United Nations Office for Project Services in that regard.

Japan underscores the urgent need to enhance the flow of humanitarian aid into and throughout Gaza. We call on Israel to reopen land crossings, particularly the Kerem Shalom crossing, in order to ensure the steady flow of aid. The land routes and more entry points into Gaza are vital, as there is no viable alternative. We also support the activation of a maritime corridor so as to ensure that aid reaches those in need. Japan also echoes and supports the voices calling for greater protection of humanitarian aid workers.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) plays a central role in Gaza's desperately needed humanitarian operations, and there is no substitute for its essential functions. In that regard, we welcome the final report and recommendations of the independent review group and hope that UNRWA will steadily implement those recommendations. Japan resumed its funding to UNRWA on 2 April and has already disbursed approximately $35 million since then. Also, our first in-kind contributions to UNRWA since the resumption will be delivered in early May in Egypt.

Lastly, the Security Council last month adopted resolution 2728 (2024), demanding an immediate ceasefire in Gaza. However, that has not been achieved, and the humanitarian crisis remains dire. A ceasefire is a critical component for improving the humanitarian situation in Gaza while laying the ground for future reconstruction efforts. Japan therefore expresses our strong support for the serious diplomatic efforts of the United States, Egypt and Qatar to bring about a cessation of hostilities and the release of the hostages. We appreciate their tireless efforts. We reiterate our strong appeal to all parties concerned to reach a deal, without delay.

Mr. De Rivièrè (France) (spoke in French): I would like to thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her briefing. France calls for the full implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023) and 2720 (2023).

Ms. Kaag's account confirms the catastrophic state of the humanitarian situation in Gaza. Two million people lack everything. The number of civilian casualties continues to mount. Famine is taking hold. In that context, it is critical that the aid matches the scale of the needs.

Humanitarian aid must be allowed access through all crossing points, as needed. France takes note of the measures announced by the Israeli Government in that regard and calls on Israel to fully implement them, without delay, and to take all necessary measures to ensure the large-scale delivery of aid throughout the Gaza Strip. That includes opening all crossing points and issuing all necessary permits to that end. We welcome the efforts of regional partners, in particular Egypt and Jordan, to enable more substantial aid deliveries, and we welcome the opening of a maritime corridor from Cyprus.

France is continuing its mobilization in that regard. We support the Grain from Ukraine initiative, which will enable the World Food Programme to deliver Ukrainian wheat to the civilian population of Gaza, and are in favour of an additional delivery of food aid by the World Food Programme to the north of the Gaza Strip.

It is imperative to remove all obstacles to humanitarian access. Israel must allow immediate, safe and unhindered humanitarian access, as demanded by the International Court of Justice. It is not enough to count the number of trucks entering Gaza each day, but to ensure that they are loaded with the needed goods. It is not enough for humanitarian aid to reach the Gaza Strip. It must also be able to circulate within it and be distributed safely. Obstructing the delivery of relief supplies can constitute a crime within the jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court. There are still many restrictions on the objects and goods that can enter Gaza, in particular for health infrastructure, but also for water and sanitation and waste treatment.

The protection of humanitarian workers must be guaranteed in all circumstances. The laws of war and the humanitarian principles of precaution and proportionality in the conduct of hostilities must also be respected. France calls on all actors to guarantee the effectiveness of deconfliction mechanisms.

France demands the full implementation of the relevant resolutions of the Council, starting with the release of all hostages. An immediate and lasting ceasefire must be reached, and the protection of civilians must be ensured. We are not facing a natural disaster. A cessation of hostilities is the best way of resolving the humanitarian crisis. France reaffirms its firm opposition to a ground offensive in Rafah, which would result in countless civilian victims and a humanitarian catastrophe.

The Security Council must resolutely commit to a resolution of the conflict and lay the foundation for a political settlement. Only the two-State solution can deliver to Israelis and Palestinians the peace and security to which they aspire. France is actively mobilized to that end and remains convinced of the central role that the Security Council must play.

We have submitted a draft resolution that addresses all aspects of the crisis to the members of the Council. It promotes this approach, and I call on all Council members to support it.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Malta.

I begin by thanking Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her informative briefing.

Four months after the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), we regret that there has been no meaningful increase in the scale and predictability of the Organization's humanitarian response in Gaza. Malta once again demands the immediate implementation of the relevant resolutions of the Council regarding the need for an urgent ceasefire, the release of all hostages and the facilitation of the desperately needed humanitarian aid into and throughout Gaza.

In the face of such dire humanitarian conditions, Malta is deeply dismayed by the unjustified blockade of aid into and throughout, Gaza. Famine has gripped the north of the Strip, and the rest of the population is now the most food-insecure in the world. More than 34,700 Palestinians have been killed in Gaza, the vast majority of them women and children. Furthermore, as the Secretary-General recalled, reports continue to emerge of the use in Gaza of deadly experimental artificial-intelligence targeting systems, to devastating effect.

Last week the Council also met to discuss the irreplaceable nature of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) (see S/PV.9607). There can be no meaningful aid response in Gaza without the Agency. We have also taken note of the final report regarding its neutrality, which determined that UNRWA has in place significant mechanisms to ensure compliance and respond to breaches of neutrality, and we welcome the Agency's commitment to implementing the recommendations in the report. However, UNRWA and indeed all humanitarian aid in Gaza continue to be undermined. In these difficult times, we must avoid politicizing the work of humanitarian actors and undermining the legitimacy of the United Nations in Gaza. We also reject and condemn the staggering number of humanitarian and United Nations staff killed so far by Israel during this conflict. It will be critical to ensure thorough and transparent investigations, leading to accountability, in every case.

The established humanitarian notification and deconfliction system must be respected, and yet we are seeing the opposite of that in the destruction of hospitals and bombing of aid convoys. We also echo the Secretary-General's call for a credible and independent investigation of the recent reports of mass graves at the Nasser Hospital in Khan Younis and the Al-Shifa Hospital in Gaza City. The provisional orders of the International Court of Justice on 26 January and 28 March, including those regarding the delivery of humanitarian aid into and within Gaza, must be complied with. While Malta welcomes the ongoing attempts to move aid to Gaza via alternative routes, mainly by air and sea, land access provides the only suitable aid modality that can immediately and comprehensively halt the humanitarian crisis. We are encouraged by the promises made by the Israeli Government regarding the opening of the port of Ashdod and the Erez crossing for humanitarian aid. We reiterate our call for such measures to be retained and strengthened in order to address the terrible situation on the ground.

While we recognize the fact that eight World Food Programme trucks have entered via the port in the past few days, the volume is insignificant when compared to the humanitarian needs, what was called for and what was promised. Israel must do much more to abide by its legal obligations as a Member State, a party to the conflict and an occupying Power. That includes opening crossings to enable the safe passage of aid into and throughout Gaza. The United Nations must be allowed to scale up its response in Gaza in a meaningful and principled way. The delivery of aid must not be part of the political negotiations.

In conclusion, we reiterate our support for the work of the United Nations, Ms. Kaag and her team. Malta will continue to underline the need for a massive scaling up of aid to address the needs of those who are suffering in the ongoing catastrophic conditions within Gaza.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

I give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Miller (Israel): First and foremost, we want to thank Ms. Kaag, the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator, for her briefing and her important work on the ground. Since Ms. Kaag's appointment to the role of Senior Humanitarian Coordinator following the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), Israel has done its utmost to give her and her staff the highest levels of support and cooperation. We greatly value the ongoing discourse with her, which is of course vital to promoting the very important efforts in the humanitarian domain. We will continue to work closely with Ms. Kaag and her team.

Despite the immense obstacles on the ground since 7 October 2023, Israel has continued to elevate and step up its support for the humanitarian efforts and has found creative solutions despite extremely complex and challenging circumstances, including, significantly, actions by Hamas that hamper and clash with those initiatives. Our ongoing efforts have nonetheless brought about substantial results on the ground, with a dramatic increase in the volume and quantities of aid over the course of the past few months. With regard to the daily flow of aid into the Gaza Strip, in recent weeks between 300 and 400 trucks a day carrying aid and essentials were inspected and granted access by the Israeli authorities. Since 7 October, more than 25,000 trucks, carrying almost 500,000 tons of aid, have been able to access the Strip. Significantly, the number of trucks inspected and approved in recent weeks is meaningfully higher than in previous months and was made possible by the Israeli authorities' ongoing efforts to increase activity at the Kerem Shalom and Nitzana crossings. We also recently announced the opening of Gate 96 crossing, which is utilized for direct humanitarian access to the northern part of the Gaza Strip, and we will soon allocate the opening of another route that will enable more aid to be shipped from Ashdod and other locations.

Together with that, recent days have seen more aid trucks using the route via Jordan. That channel, known as the Jordanian channel, coordinated jointly between Israel and the Kingdom of Jordan, will allow 100 Jordanian military trucks to enter daily for three days a week. That will be in addition to the United Nations aid trucks that will also use that route three days a week. Last week we witnessed a record 200 trucks using the route from Jordan, and we expect to see even higher numbers in the future.

The establishment of vital infrastructure is also under way. Israel would like to take this opportunity to thank the many countries and organizations involved in the construction of field and floating maritime hospitals, including those currently in the final stages of construction. Israel stands ready to provide any further support needed in those areas, including for the ongoing transfer of patients to third countries and for ambulances entering Gaza.

As for water supply and access, Israel recently repaired two additional vital water-pump lines — the Nahal Oz line, which will supply water to the northern Gaza Strip, and the second Bani Suheila line. In that regard, Israel's recent support for the reactivation of wells in the northern Strip is also an important aspect. Earlier this week, four tankers of cooking gas and four of fuel designated for the operation of essential infrastructure entered the Strip. We also note that 25 bakeries are currently operational in Gaza, providing more than 3 million loaves of bread, rolls and pitas daily. In addition, in March and April alone, around 7,000 packages were dropped by air into Gaza, with more than 1,600 packages specifically for the northern part of the Gaza Strip.

Those steps and others were all made possible through the commitment of the Israeli authorities to the humanitarian efforts, as well as our coordination and joint work with different partners in the region and beyond. In that regard, Israel would like to commend the United States for its immense efforts on the humanitarian front, led on the ground by Mr. David Satterfield.

While Israel has clearly stepped up its efforts — and that is according to external sources as well — it is essential for the United Nations to step up its capabilities too. As growing numbers of trucks are inspected and granted entry from Israel's side, we are concerned that those supplies are not always swiftly distributed in the Gaza Strip. As has recently been reported, the main problem at the moment is not getting assistance into Gaza but rather getting it distributed within the Strip. Unfortunately, we have seen several occasions lately when large numbers of trucks carrying aid, after being inspected and granted passage by Israel, stood ready and waiting on the Gaza side of the Kerem Shalom crossing. They waited there for days without being dealt with by the United Nations. On some days almost three times the amount of aid entering was left piled up on the Gaza side, and its distribution was therefore delayed. The truckloads on the Gaza side, which at times reached several hundred, were eventually attended to, but those situations create bottlenecks at the crossing and the logistical gaps affect the flow of delivery. The United Nations must find solutions to that logistical gap. Among other things, it should extend its hours of activity, increase the number of trucks and initiate more convoys to northern Gaza, especially as looting incidents have recently been reduced in that area.

As we sit here in the Chamber discussing the humanitarian efforts, which are indeed extremely important, we cannot remain silent in the face of the most horrific humanitarian case of injustice — the 133 hostages held by Hamas and other terrorist groups since 7 October. While the Council expects Israel to step up its efforts and do its part with regard to getting humanitarian aid to the Gaza Strip, the Council must step up its own efforts and demand that this horror, which has lasted more than six months, finally end. It is regrettable that the Council cannot bring succour to the hostages and their families. We are here to remind everyone that the monstrous terrorist kidnappers of the hostages have allowed them no basic humanitarian assistance at all. Israel will do whatever it takes to bring them home, and the Council must step up to that task too.

The President: I now give the floor to Ms. Kaag to respond to comments and questions raised.

Ms. Kaag: I believe there were three questions. I will respond to those.

First of all, on the question of consent with regard to the mechanism, which the representative of the Russian Federation asked about, the mechanism is mandated by the Council and is therefore not a voluntary arrangement or an à la carte option. But we have had very close and constructive discussions with the Israeli authorities at all levels regarding the operationalization of the mechanism and the details related to the notification system, as well as the database, and we intend to operationalize it, as I said. We count on the cooperation of everyone to ensure implementation because it is aimed at facilitating, expediting and, obviously, underpinning the actions on the ground by humanitarian actors. I also discussed it in a series of meetings with Mohammad Shtayyeh, the then Prime Minister of the Palestinian Authority, and with Prime Minister Mohammad Mustafa and a number of his senior officials. I have therefore engaged at the highest levels in both Israel and with the Palestinian Authority, as of course I have done with other important partners in the region.

With regard to the concept note, the funding proposal that was actually sent to donors and Member States on 15 March referred to crossings that had already been opened. However, the concept note itself indicates in the cover letter that “the mechanism will also be able to service additional aid delivery routes to Gaza as well as maximize efficiencies of existing routes”.

Taken in totality, it will therefore serve as a one-stop shop for the facilitation of humanitarian relief consignments to Gaza through all the current entry points and additional ones as well, which I listed in my remarks regarding the Israeli authorities' intention to open more, along with those that have been open since 5 April, with key functions in Gaza. In keeping with the mechanism, for goods coming from Jordan in the first instance, as well as to Gaza through Erez, other current and I hope prospective northern crossings, as well as the maritime route, will be used.

Regarding the last question about resolution 2720 (2023), it is clear that it requires the mechanism to be used to verify the humanitarian nature of aid. However, it is of course a logical premise that the way the mechanism is structured means that it could also be used for commercial goods in future, in due course, when we are talking about early recovery and reconstruction. But it is structured with a view to conforming to the language of the Council for humanitarian assistance.

However, that rests on the parties. I would like to stress that commercial goods are very much needed within the Gaza Strip. We need both the informal and formal economies to be rebooted and combined with cash assistance. The availability of cash is currently lacking in the Gaza Strip for a number of reasons, and that is critically important in helping to restore elements of human dignity for the civilians in Gaza.

I thank the Council very much for its support of political unity and a united voice, and we will continue with the teams in the wider United Nations family to do our utmost to deliver on the expectations.

The President: I thank Ms. Kaag for the clarifications she has provided.

The meeting rose at 6.05 p.m.

Resolution 2735 (2024)

Adopted by the Security Council at its 9650th meeting, on 10 June 2024

The Security Council,

Reaffirming the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations,

Recalling all its relevant resolutions on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question,

Underscoring the importance of the ongoing diplomatic efforts by Egypt, Qatar, and the United States aimed at reaching a comprehensive ceasefire deal, consisting of three phases,

1. Welcomes the new ceasefire proposal announced on May 31, which Israel accepted, calls upon Hamas to also accept it, and urges both parties to fully implement its terms without delay and without condition;

2. Notes that the implementation of this proposal would enable the following outcomes to spread over three phases:

(a) Phase 1: an immediate, full, and complete ceasefire with the release of hostages including women, the elderly and the wounded, the return of the remains of some hostages who have been killed, the exchange of Palestinian prisoners, withdrawal of Israeli forces from the populated areas in Gaza, the return of Palestinian civilians to their homes and neighborhoods in all areas of Gaza, including in the north, as well as the safe and effective distribution of humanitarian assistance at scale throughout the Gaza Strip to all Palestinian civilians who need it, including housing units delivered by the international community;

(b) Phase 2: upon agreement of the parties, a permanent end to hostilities, in exchange for the release of all other hostages still in Gaza, and a full withdrawal of Israeli forces from Gaza; and

(c) Phase 3: the start of a major multi-year reconstruction plan for Gaza and the return of the remains of any deceased hostages still in Gaza to their families;

3. Underlines that the proposal says if the negotiations take longer than six weeks for phase one, the ceasefire will still continue as long as negotiations continue, and welcomes the readiness of the United States, Egypt, and Qatar to work to ensure negotiations keep going until all the agreements are reached and phase two is able to begin;

4. Stresses the importance of the parties adhering to the terms of this proposal once agreed and calls upon all Member States and the United Nations to support its implementation;

5. Rejects any attempt at demographic or territorial change in the Gaza Strip, including any actions that reduce the territory of Gaza;

6. Reiterates its unwavering commitment to the vision of the two-State solution where two democratic States, Israel and Palestine, live side by side in peace within secure and recognized borders, consistent with international law and relevant UN resolutions, and in this regard stresses the importance of unifying the Gaza Strip with the West Bank under the Palestinian Authority;

7. Decides to remain seized of the matter.

Implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016)

Report of the Secretary-General

I. Introduction

1. The present report is the thirtieth quarterly report on the implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016), covering the period from 19 March to 10 June 2024.

II. Settlement activities

2. In its resolution 2334 (2016), the Security Council reaffirmed that the establishment by Israel of settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem, had no legal validity and constituted a flagrant violation under international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. The Council reiterated its demand that Israel immediately and completely cease all settlement activities in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, and that it fully respect all of its legal obligations in that regard. No such steps were taken during the reporting period, as settlement activities continued.

3. On 8 April, the Israeli planning authorities advanced a plan for 450 housing units in occupied East Jerusalem. In addition, on 16 April, the Ministry of Construction and Housing published a tender for nearly 1,050 housing units at the Lower Aqueduct site. Approximately half of the projected units are intended for construction across the Green Line in occupied East Jerusalem.

4. On 10 May, an Israeli military order was signed that would allow Israelis to enter areas in the occupied West Bank, including three previous settlements, Ganim, Kadim and Sa Nur, which were evacuated during the disengagement in 2005. On the same day, the military issued another order declaring the three areas as closed military zones, thereby prohibiting the entrance of Israelis and Palestinians. The first order followed the adoption on 23 March 2023 of an amendment to the 2005 Disengagement Law that repealed clauses in the legislation prohibiting Israelis from entering the areas where the settlements of Homesh, Ganim, Kadim and Sa Nur in the northern West Bank once stood. The Israeli military had issued an order on 18 May 2023 authorizing Israelis to enter the evacuated illegal settlement outpost of Homesh.

5. Demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures continued across the occupied West Bank, including in East Jerusalem, throughout the reporting period.

Israeli authorities, citing the lack of Israeli-issued building permits, which remain almost impossible for Palestinians to obtain, demolished, seized or forced people to demolish 190 structures. The demolition of those structures resulted in the displacement of 267 persons, including 138 children, and affected more than 1,255 other persons.

6. A total of 3 per cent of the structures were demolished or seized with no, or very short, notice based on military order 1797, which authorizes an expedited process for the demolition of unauthorized “new structures” in Area C and gives owners 96 hours to demonstrate possession of a valid building permit. Twenty-five of the structures were demolished by their owners after they received demolition orders in order to avoid heavy Israeli demolition fees. Of the structures that were demolished or seized, 14 had been funded by international donors.

7. On 9 May, 28 Palestinians were displaced in one incident in Duma village, when five Palestinian-owned homes and five livelihood structures were demolished. On the same day, five Palestinians were displaced, and one Palestinian girl was injured by shrapnel, when Israeli authorities detonated explosives in a house in Shu’fat refugee camp in East Jerusalem, citing punitive grounds.

8. On 26 May, the High Court of Justice of Israel upheld a previous court decision denying appeal from a magistrate court’s decision ordering the eviction of a Palestinian family of 15 members in the occupied East Jerusalem neighbourhood of Silwan. In total, 26 Palestinian-owned structures in occupied East Jerusalem were demolished by their owners to avoid heavy Israeli demolition fees after they received demolition orders.

III. Violence against civilians, including acts of terror

9. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror, as well as all acts of provocation and destruction, called for accountability in that regard and called for compliance with obligations under international law for the strengthening of ongoing efforts to combat terrorism, including through existing security coordination, and to clearly condemn all acts of terrorism.

10. The reporting period was marked by continued intense hostilities between Israel and Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Gaza, alongside sustained violence in the occupied West Bank.

11. In Gaza, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health, from 19 March to 10 June at least 5,305 Palestinians were killed, including approximately 1,059 women and 1,517 children, and at least 10,778 Palestinians were injured. This brings the total Palestinian fatalities in Gaza, according to the Ministry, to at least 37,124 since 7 October 2023, the majority of them reportedly women and children.

12. According to Israeli sources, during the same period 57 Israelis were killed, all members of the security forces, and 24 Israelis, including 6 women and 2 children, were injured in attacks either in or originating from Gaza. Israeli sources report a total of over 1,500 Israelis and foreign nationals killed in this context, including at least 338 women and 38 children, and 690 members of the security forces since 7 October 2023.

13. Also according to Israeli sources, 120 hostages are still being held captive in Gaza by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups. According to the findings of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict released on 4 March, based on the first-hand accounts of released hostages, the mission team received clear and convincing information that sexual violence, including rape, sexualized torture, and cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment occurred against some women and children during their time in captivity and has reasonable grounds to believe that this violence may be ongoing.

14. Israeli military operations continued throughout the Gaza Strip. Larger-scale operations continued to move south, and were met with significant and sustained attacks against the Israel Defense Forces and indiscriminate launching of rockets towards Israel, including central Israel, by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups. Intense fighting between the Israel Defense Forces and Palestinian armed groups also continued in areas in the central and northern parts of Gaza.

15. In early May, operations of the Israel Defense Forces and hostilities intensified in southern Gaza. Amid the preparations by the Israel Defense Forces for operations in and around Rafah, on 5 May Hamas launched mortars and rockets at soldiers of the Israel Defense Forces on the Israeli side of the nearby Karam Abu Salim/Kerem Shalom crossing, killing 4 Israeli soldiers and wounding another 10. The Israel Defense Forces subsequently ordered humanitarian workers at Karam Abu Salim/Kerem Shalom and its environs to evacuate and closed the crossing for three days. Tank shelling and a series of air strikes by the Israel Defense Forces in Rafah killed at least 19 Palestinians on the same date, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health. On 6 May, the Israel Defense Forces began a military offensive in and around the city of Rafah. In a statement on 6 May, the Israel Defense Forces said that it would operate with “extreme force” against Hamas elements in eastern Rafah and ordered approximately 100,000 Palestinians to immediately evacuate. On the morning of 7 May, the Israel Defense Forces said that it had established “operational control of the Gazan side of the [Rafah] crossing”. The crossing with Egypt, located along the so-called “Philadelphi Corridor”, has been closed to the movement of goods, including fuel, and people since the announcement.

16. Amid repeated air strikes in the area, on 26 May an Israel Defense Forces air strike hit the Tal al-Sultan neighbourhood of Rafah, killing 45 Palestinians in the air strike and the subsequent fire in a tent camp for displaced persons. The Government of Israel said that the strike targeted two senior Hamas operatives with two small munitions and that shrapnel sparked a secondary explosion and the fire. On 28 May, an Israel Defense Forces drone strike hit a camp for displaced persons west of Rafah, reportedly killing 21 Palestinians, including 13 women, according to the Ministry of Health in Gaza. On 28 May, strikes in the Mawasi area, west of Rafah, killed 21 Palestinians and injured 10 according to the Ministry in Gaza; the Israel Defense Forces subsequently denied striking the camp.

17. In northern Gaza, on 11 May, Israeli authorities issued orders for civilians in the vicinity of Jabaliya to evacuate. The Israel Defense Forces subsequently conducted over 30 air strikes in eastern Jabaliya amid expanded ground operations. On the same day, Palestinian armed groups claimed to have undertaken 86 attacks against advancing Israeli forces. On 18 May, Israel issued a new evacuation order for all or parts of 10 neighbourhoods in northern Gaza, with over 100,000 Palestinians displaced in the area between 6 and 18 May.

18. In Nuseirat, during the night of 5 to 6 June, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health, 45 people were killed when an Israeli air strike hit a school run by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), which had been converted into a shelter hosting 6,000 displaced people. According to the Israel Defense Forces, the strike targeted a container on the school’s premises being used by Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad (PIJ) militants. On 8 June, Israeli security forces undertook an operation that rescued four hostages who were being held by militants in the central area of Nuseirat camp. The Israeli security forces operation was accompanied by heavy aerial and naval bombardment by the Israel Defense Forces in multiple locations, resulting in severe damage, including to residential buildings and areas where no evacuation orders had been given. The Ministry of Health in Gaza reported over 270 Palestinian fatalities and more than 600 injuries, including many women and children, in the context of that operation. One personnel of the Israeli security forces was killed in the operation, according to Israeli authorities.

19. Attacks on Palestinians seeking aid and on humanitarian workers continued in Gaza. On 23 March, at least 19 Palestinians were reportedly killed by Israeli gunfire while waiting for food aid near Kuwaiti roundabout in Gaza City. Israel said that the incident would be investigated. Amid desperation, a breakdown of law and order has resulted in attacks on aid trucks by the local population, including armed actors. On 25 April, after the Israel Defense Forces announced that it would “provide security and logistics support” for the United States Joint Logistics over the Shore initiative (known as JLOTS), Palestinian armed groups in Gaza fired mortars at Israel Defense Forces troops in the area.

20. On 1 April, three World Central Kitchen-marked vehicles were hit by an Israel Defense Forces strike in Dayr al-Balah, killing seven humanitarian workers. The vehicles were clearly marked, and movement had been coordinated with the Israel Defense Forces in advance. The Prime Minister of Israel said that the Israel Defense Forces had conducted an “unintended strike” on “innocent people”. On 13 May, a United Nations staff member was killed, and another staff member seriously injured, when their United Nations-marked vehicle was hit by an Israel Defense Forces strike as they travelled to the European Hospital in Khan Yunis. Between 7 October 2023 and 10 June 2024, at least 272 aid workers were killed in Gaza, including 197 United Nations staff, and at least 186 United Nations buildings were damaged or destroyed. Three United Nations convoys were hit by live ammunition in the reporting period.

21. Repeated attacks in and around health-care facilities continued throughout the reporting period, resulting in the deaths of health-care workers, patients and internally displaced persons sheltering in those locations, and damage to or destruction of the facilities. From 18 March to 1 April, the Israel Defense Forces conducted a major operation in and around the Shifa’ Hospital in Gaza City, the largest hospital in the Gaza Strip, where some 30,000 people were sheltering. The Israel Defense Forces said that it had targeted senior members of Hamas and PIJ and that the attack had killed over 200 such members operating from inside the hospital. The Israel Defense Forces also said that it had detained over 500 members of Hamas or PIJ. The World Health Organization reported that 21 patients had died during the operation and that Israeli authorities had denied multiple requests for the agency to gain access to the hospital, with damage rendering the facility non-functional.

22. Following the withdrawal of the Israel Defense Forces from the Nasser and Shifa’ medical complexes, in mid-April Palestinian sources reported discovering more than 300 bodies buried in mass graves in and around the complexes. The Israel Defense Forces said that bodies buried by Palestinians had been exhumed during its search for the remains of hostages and that “bodies were examined in a respectful manner and those not belonging to hostages were returned to their place”.

23. Meanwhile, violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, continued at alarming levels. Israeli authorities continued to impose widespread movement restrictions and conducted extensive operations, arrests and detentions. High numbers of daily clashes and armed exchanges between Palestinians, including armed groups, and Israeli security forces and settlers were recorded, as were attacks perpetrated by Palestinians against Israelis and high levels of violence and intimidation by settlers.

24. During the reporting period, in the occupied West Bank, 95 Palestinians, including 2 women and 19 children, were killed by Israeli security forces during search-and-arrest operations, armed exchanges, air strikes, demonstrations and other incidents. One Palestinian was killed by Israeli settlers, and four were killed either by Israeli forces or by settlers. A total of 434 Palestinians were injured, including 55 by tear gas inhalation and 189 by live ammunition.

25. According to Israeli sources, 6 Israelis, including 1 child and 4 security forces personnel, were killed in the occupied West Bank and Israel, and another 60 were injured by Palestinians in shooting, stabbing and ramming attacks and in rock- and Molotov cocktail-throwing and other incidents.

26. In the occupied West Bank, most of the Palestinians were killed by Israeli security forces in the context of Israeli operations in Area A, including during subsequent exchanges with armed Palestinians. On 20 March, from 18 to 21 April and on 4 May, Israeli security forces carried out large-scale operations, including the use of drones, in and around Tulkarm, mostly in Nur Shams refugee camp, clashing with armed Palestinians, which resulted in 22 Palestinians, including 5 children, killed and 50 injured, as well as significant damage, and a reported 1 Israeli security personnel killed and another 10 wounded. Hamas claimed that four of the Palestinians killed on 4 May were members of its Qassam Brigades.

27. Israeli security operations were also carried out in Jenin city and refugee camp on 20 March and between 18 and 23 May, killing 16 Palestinians, including 4 children, and injuring 25. During the 20 March operation, Israeli security forces used a drone to strike a vehicle in the camp, killing four, all of whom were claimed by PIJ as members. Twelve Palestinians reportedly killed by Israeli security forces during the May operations in Jenin included a senior member of the Al-Quds Brigades of PIJ, an unarmed 51-year-old, a teacher shot near a school, and four children. Further Israeli security operations took place in Ramallah and Birah on 30 May, killing one Palestinian, injuring four and causing extensive damage to commercial sites; in Aqbat Jabr refugee camp in Jericho on 1 June, killing a 16-year-old and a 17-year-old, both Palestinian, and in Nablus on 3 June, killing three Palestinians and injuring nine, with ambulances reportedly being denied access.

28. During the reporting period, Israeli security forces conducted over 515 search-and-arrest operations, which resulted in the detention of more than 1,139 Palestinians, including at least 53 children.

29. In an attack on an UNRWA facility on 9 May, a group of Israelis set fire to the perimeter of the UNRWA compound in occupied East Jerusalem twice, causing extensive damage to the premises and prompting the site's closure for two days, as a crowd accompanied by armed men chanted "burn down the United Nations".

30. Violence against Israelis by Palestinians also continued in the occupied West Bank and Israel, resulting in three Israelis killed. On 22 March, a Palestinian opened fire at an Israeli bus near the settlement of Dolev in Ramallah Governorate. During the subsequent search operation, one Israeli security personnel was killed and eight were injured. On 31 March, a 19-year-old Palestinian from near Hebron stabbed and injured three Israelis, one of whom died on 4 April, in Israel, near Ashdod. Two Palestinian teenagers conducted a shooting and stabbing attack against Israel Defense Forces soldiers at Bayt Aynun junction near Hebron on 21 April. In each incident, the Palestinian perpetrators were killed by Israeli security forces. On 13 April, the body of a 14-year-old Israeli who had gone missing the day before was recovered near the Malachei HaShalom settlement outpost near Ramallah. The Israel Defense Forces said that he had been killed in an attack and that they had arrested a Palestinian suspect several days later. On 29 May, at a checkpoint near Nablus, a Palestinian man ran over two Israeli security forces personnel who subsequently died of their wounds in an alleged ramming attack; the man later surrendered to Palestinian security forces, saying that the incident had been an accident.

31. Settler-related violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, also continued at alarming levels. During the search for the 14-year-old Israeli boy from Malachei HaShalom settlement who had gone missing on 12 April and in subsequent days, settlers attacked the nearby villages, including Mughayyir, with gunfire and set homes and vehicles on fire, killing one Palestinian and wounding several others. By 16 April, settlers, in some cases in the presence of Israeli security personnel, had attacked at least 37 Palestinian villages, torching houses, cars and fields and shooting at residents, killing three more Palestinians, including a 17-year-old boy, and wounding 91 others. Eight Israelis were detained in connection with the attacks. On 20 April, approximately 50 settlers from the Eli settlement attacked Sawiyah village in Nablus Governorate, injuring two Palestinians. An ambulance driver evacuating the injured was shot and killed by either Israeli settlers or Israeli security forces.

IV. Incitement, provocations and inflammatory rhetoric

32. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon both parties to act on the basis of international law, including international humanitarian law, and their previous agreements and obligations, to observe calm and restraint and to refrain from provocative actions, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric, with the aim, inter alia, of de-escalating the situation on the ground, rebuilding trust and confidence, demonstrating through policies and actions a genuine commitment to the two-State solution and creating the conditions necessary for promoting peace. Incitement, inflammatory rhetoric and the glorification of the killing of civilians continued.

33. On 18 May, a senior Hamas official said, “We have an opportunity to change the world, and to make Palestine a blessing to mankind, by annihilating the Zionists and their sinful enterprise”. A spokesperson for Hamas’s Qassam Brigades called for an escalation “across all fronts” and praised the attack on Israel by the Islamic Republic of Iran.

34. An Israeli minister called for Rafah, Dayr al-Balah and Nuseirat to be “completely destroyed” and erasing “the lineage of Amalek” from Earth. An Israeli minister said in a video statement following calls to recognize a Palestinian State that “we do not have an interest to govern the people of Gaza, but also cannot live near a state of human animals”. On 22 May, a minister in the Government of Israel made a provocative visit to the holy sites in Jerusalem, during which he said that the site “belongs to the State of Israel”.

V. Affirmative steps to reverse negative trends

35. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called for affirmative steps to be taken immediately to reverse the negative trends on the ground that were imperilling the two-State solution. Negative trends on the ground continued during the reporting period.

36. Amid hostilities in Gaza, the humanitarian situation deteriorated further from an already unprecedented scale of destruction and the loss of civilian life at catastrophic levels. The military ground operation into Rafah and renewed fighting in the north and central Gaza, alongside recurrent displacement, a breakdown of law and order, and continued severe restrictions on the entry of fuel and aid, have had a disastrous impact on humanitarian operations. Commodities and services reaching people are grossly insufficient to sustain the population.

37. As at 15 May, nearly 1.7 million Palestinian people, or nearly 75 per cent of the population of the Gaza Strip, had been internally displaced across the Strip, many of them multiple times, with some 800,000 Palestinians displaced from Rafah. Evacuation orders issued by the Israel Defense Forces have directed people to sites that lack adequate shelter, latrines, water points and medical facilities.

38. Extensive destruction of residences and civilian infrastructure was reported across Gaza throughout the reporting period, including roads and other key infrastructure, such as for water and electricity. The decimation of the health sector and lack of basic services continue to drive the spread of communicable diseases, with only some seven field hospitals providing emergency care, of which four are fully functional. Another 17 hospitals are partially functioning. A total of 88 per cent of school buildings have been damaged. An interim damage assessment carried out by the World Bank and the United Nations with support from the European Union estimated the cost of direct damages to critical infrastructure in Gaza at around $18.5 billion as at the end of January. As at 1 April, the United Nations estimates the amount of debris in Gaza at around 38 million tons, which will likely take years to remove and will require significant international assistance and cooperation. On 31 May 2024, a United Nations Satellite Centre comprehensive damage assessment found that more than 90 per cent of buildings within 1 km of the Gaza perimeter fence – the so-called “buffer zone” of Israel – had been damaged or destroyed.

39. On 18 March, the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification partnership released findings indicating that 1.1 million people were projected to face catastrophic levels of hunger (phase 5) in northern Gaza governorates and that some 30 per cent of children under the age of 2 suffered from acute malnutrition. Persistent hostilities and Israeli military evacuation orders forced the closure of 25 of 35 medical points providing nutrition services in Rafah.

40. Palestinians, including children, in Gaza have faced catastrophic protection risks. The United Nations Children’s Fund estimated that at least 17,000 children in Gaza had been orphaned or separated from their families amid a spiralling risk of exploitation and abuse across all vulnerable groups. None of Gaza’s 625,000 students have had safe access to education since 7 October 2023, a setback that will require years to recover.

41. As the scale and depth of humanitarian needs continue to rise significantly, impediments to delivering assistance have persisted and access to humanitarian supplies has continued to be severely restricted since 7 October. During the reporting period, humanitarian operations faced attacks and severe access restrictions, including the closure of key crossings, denials and delays of planned missions, and the limited entry of critical items. In May, out of 349 coordinated humanitarian assistance missions within Gaza, 174 (50 per cent) were facilitated by Israeli authorities, 79 (22 per cent) were impeded, 38 (11 per cent) were denied and 58 (17 per cent) were cancelled. The capacity of humanitarian organizations to deliver vital assistance was also undermined by damage to roads and the presence of debris and unexploded ordnance, which could take up to 14 years to clear, according to Mine Action Service estimates.

42. Additional routes and points for the entry of goods were opened during the reporting period, including the Erez and Siafah/Ziqim crossings with Israel, the Jordanian corridor, and the maritime corridor through Cyprus using the pier off the coast of Gaza built by the United States of America. However, the closure of Rafah, intermittent closures of other points, congestion, damaged roads and insecurity, including attacks on aid convoys in Gaza and by Israeli civilians along routes in the occupied West Bank, undermined efforts to significantly scale up the entry of aid through these additional points. On 26 May, following an agreement between Israel and Egypt, humanitarian assistance and fuel from Egypt began entering Gaza through the Karam Abu Salim/Kerem Shalom crossing. On 28 May, the United States-built pier off the Gaza coast was temporarily removed for repairs.

43. As at 13 June, Member States had disbursed about $1.0 billion out of the $3.4 billion (31 per cent) requested to meet the most critical needs in the Occupied Palestinian Territory between January and December 2024.

44. Across the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, Israel continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinians, preventing access to services, including medical treatment, schools, and livelihoods, significantly affecting the economy, particularly around Jenin, Nablus and Tulkarm, and impeding access to occupied East Jerusalem. In another development, the Custodian of the State's Property in the Civil Administration of Israel declared approximately 8,000 dunums in the occupied West Bank as State land, the largest State land declaration in decades.

45. On 31 March, a new Palestinian Government headed by the Prime Minister, Mohammad Mustafa, was sworn in before the President, Mahmoud Abbas, including eight ministers from Gaza. In the Government's action plan, Mr. Mustafa outlined three priorities: alleviating the suffering of the population in Gaza, achieving financial stability and implementing an institutional reform and performance programme. On 23 April, following approval from the Palestinian Authority's Council of Ministers, Mr. Mustafa announced a package of reforms intended, inter alia, to address transparency and accountability, combat corruption, enhance the justice sector and the rule of law, promote democracy and human rights, reform the security sector, improve service delivery in health and education, reform public finance management and revive the economic sector.

46. The fiscal situation of the Palestinian Authority remains dire. In May, Israel suspended the transfer of all clearance revenues collected on behalf of the Palestinians in accordance with the Paris Protocol on Economic Relations. This development follows significant increases in the amount deducted by Israel, equivalent to what Israel calculated was paid by the Palestinians to Palestinian prisoners, their families or the families of those killed or injured in the context of alleged attacks against Israelis according to 2019 Israeli legislation, and for salaries and services in Gaza. Combined, these deductions had reached more than 70 per cent of total clearance revenues. Several Member States provided the Palestinian Authority with essential budget support, which when combined with domestic bank loans and dwindling domestic revenue allowed it to make partial salary payments from March to May. The World Bank estimated in May that the budget deficit could reach $1.2 billion in the third quarter of 2024. Participants gathered at the International Partners Meeting on Palestine, chaired by Norway on 26 May, expressed widespread concern over the Palestinian Authority's fiscal situation and Israeli financial and other measures undermining the Palestinian Authority, as well as broad support for the Palestinian Authority's priorities and plans with respect to Gaza, the reform agenda, and the economy.

47. On 20 May, the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court applied for arrest warrants for Yahya Sinwar (Head of Hamas in Gaza), Mohammed Diab Ibrahim al-Masri (Commander-in-Chief of the military wing of Hamas, known as the Qassam Brigades) and Ismail Haniyeh (Head of the Hamas Political Bureau), alleging that they bear criminal responsibility for "war crimes and crimes against humanity committed on the territory of Israel and the State of Palestine (in the Gaza Strip) from at least 7 October 2023". The Prosecutor also applied for arrest warrants for Benjamin

Netanyahu (Prime Minister of Israel) and Yoav Gallant (Minister of Defence of Israel), alleging that they bear criminal responsibility for war crimes and crimes against humanity “committed on the territory of the State of Palestine (in the Gaza Strip) from at least 8 October 2023”. On 24 May, the International Court of Justice reaffirmed the provisional measures indicated in its previous orders of 26 January and 28 March 2024, which, it stated, should be immediately and effectively implemented, and indicated further provisional measures, according to which Israel shall, in conformity with its obligations under the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, and in view of the worsening conditions of life faced by civilians in the Rafah Governorate: (a) immediately halt its military offensive, and any other action in the Rafah Governorate, which may inflict on the Palestinian group in Gaza conditions of life that could bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part; (b) maintain open the Rafah crossing for unhindered provision at scale of urgently needed basic services and humanitarian assistance; and (c) take effective measures to ensure the unimpeded access to the Gaza Strip of any commission of inquiry, fact-finding mission or other investigative body mandated by competent organs of the United Nations to investigate allegations of genocide. The Court further decided that Israel shall submit a report to the Court on all measures taken to give effect to its order within one month.

48. UNRWA continues to face serious funding shortfalls, with core operations funded only until August 2024. According to UNRWA, it requires $1.2 billion to provide for the most basic needs of the people in Gaza over the coming months, and currently only 17 per cent of those requirements are funded.

49. The attacks of 7 October, and subsequent hostilities between Israel and Hamas and other armed groups, including ongoing rocket launches and drone attacks, have had a significant social and economic impact in Israel. Some 120,000 Israelis, including 50,000 children, have been displaced from their homes in the south and north of Israel. Israeli authorities have registered nearly 40,000 cases of destruction and damage to properties and structures as a result of direct hits by rockets, drones and other attacks. Economic losses are significant, including in the tourism sector, with rising unemployment, and businesses have submitted over 520,000 cases for compensation for damage related to the hostilities.

VI. Efforts by the parties and the international community to advance the peace process and other relevant developments

50. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon all States to distinguish, in their relevant dealings, between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories occupied since 1967. No such steps were taken during the reporting period.

51. In the same resolution, the Security Council called upon all parties to continue, in the interest of the promotion of peace and security, to exert collective efforts to launch credible negotiations on all final status issues in the Middle East peace process and urged in that regard the intensification and acceleration of international and regional diplomatic efforts and support aimed at achieving, without delay, a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East on the basis of the relevant United Nations resolutions, the Madrid terms of reference, including the principle of land for peace, the Arab Peace Initiative and the Quartet Road Map, and an end to the Israeli occupation that began in 1967.

52. A number of countries took steps to sanction extremists, including extremist settlers and Palestinian groups. In April, the Council of the European Union sanctioned four persons and two entities. The United States sanctioned one person and two entities in connection with violence and human rights abuses committed by Israeli settlers against Palestinians and the financing of associated extremist organizations. The United States also imposed sanctions on a militant Palestinian group centred in the old city of Nablus in the occupied West Bank. In May, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland announced settler violence-related sanctions against two entities and four persons. Canada also announced sanctions against four persons accused of “engaging directly or indirectly in violence against Palestinians and their property”.

53. On 10 May, the General Assembly adopted a resolution in which, inter alia, it determined that “the State of Palestine is qualified for membership in the United Nations, in accordance with Article 4 of the Charter of the United Nations”. The Assembly recommended that “the Security Council reconsider the matter favourably, in the light of this determination and of the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice of 28 May 1948, and in strict conformity with Article 4 of the Charter”.

54. On 16 May, Arab leaders, in a statement at the 33rd session of the Arab Summit of the League of Arab States, called for, inter alia, the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces “from all areas” of Gaza and “the deployment of international protection and peacekeeping forces affiliated with the United Nations in the occupied Palestinian territory until the two-State solution is implemented”. They further called upon the international community to “take decisive measures to end the Israeli occupation” and “to convene an international peace conference and to take irreversible steps to implement the two-State solution”.

55. On 28 May, Ireland, Norway and Spain formally recognized the State of Palestine, as did Slovenia on 4 June.

VII. Observations

56. I once again strongly condemn the horrific armed attacks by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Israel on 7 October 2023 and the continued holding of hostages in Gaza. Nothing can justify these acts of terror. I reiterate my call for all hostages to be released immediately and unconditionally. I remain appalled that there are reasonable grounds to believe that hostages may be subjected to ongoing sexual violence and abuse. While in captivity, hostages must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the Red Cross. I reiterate that there is no justification for the deliberate killing, maiming, torture and abduction of civilians and other protected persons and the use of sexual violence against them. The use of human shields and the firing of indiscriminate rockets towards Israeli population centres are violations of international humanitarian law and must cease.

57. The scope of death and destruction in Gaza as a result of hostilities has been catastrophic and horrifying. The use by Israel of explosive weapons with wide-area effects in densely populated areas has caused the wholesale destruction of neighbourhoods and the destruction of or damage to hospitals and other civilian infrastructure, schools, mosques and United Nations premises. Nothing can justify the collective punishment of the Palestinian people. I unequivocally condemn the widespread killing and maiming of civilians in Gaza, including women and children.

58. The manner in which hostilities are conducted continues to leave me deeply alarmed at what may be violations of international humanitarian law by both parties to the conflict, including possible non-compliance with the requirements of distinction, proportionality and precautions in attack. International humanitarian law applies to all parties to a conflict at all times, and its application does not depend on reciprocity. The protection of civilians is paramount in any armed conflict.

59. I have repeatedly expressed my grave concern at the impact of the ongoing hostilities on the humanitarian situation in Gaza. The life-threatening conditions facing the more than 1.7 million internally displaced persons within an ever-diminishing space in Gaza, where nowhere is safe, must be addressed immediately. I reiterate my serious objection to the ongoing Israeli military operation in the city of Rafah amid clear indications of its devastating consequences for the civilian population.

60. Overall, the level of essential goods, including humanitarian assistance, that has been allowed into Gaza is completely and wholly inadequate to meet the overwhelming needs of the population. The United Nations and the civilian population need the predictable entry and unimpeded movement of food, shelter materials, medicine and fuel and the capacity to repair essential, life-saving infrastructure, including the health-care system. This must comprise commercial and humanitarian goods, given that humanitarian assistance alone cannot meet the needs of 2.3 million people. Attacks on hospitals have left health care decimated at a time of drastically increased needs, including life-saving treatment for those injured in the current escalation. While I positively note the opening of additional entry points for humanitarian aid, all necessary access points must be opened and made fully operational, and humanitarian access must be sustained. I call upon Israel to fulfil its obligations under international law, including allowing and facilitating the rapid and unimpeded passage of humanitarian relief into and throughout Gaza. All parties must protect humanitarian workers at all times. Attacks on humanitarian aid workers and facilities are unacceptable and must cease immediately. I reiterate my call for the full investigation of all such incidents and accountability for any violations of international law that may have been committed.

61. I am deeply alarmed by reports that mass graves have been discovered in several locations in Gaza, including the Shifa' and Nasser medical complexes. There are competing narratives around several of these mass graves, including serious allegations that some of those buried were unlawfully killed. It is imperative that independent international investigators with forensic expertise be allowed immediate access to the sites of these mass graves to establish the precise circumstances under which hundreds of Palestinians lost their lives and were buried, or reburied. The families of the dead and missing have a right to know what happened, and the world has a right to accountability for any violations of international law that may have taken place.

62. All parties to the conflict must respect their obligations under international humanitarian law, including by taking constant care to spare the civilian population and civilian objects and by taking all feasible precautions to avoid, and in any event to minimize, incidental loss of civilian life, injury to civilians and damage to civilian objects. Ordering and directing the massive displacement of the members of the population without ensuring that they will be provided with shelter, food, water, medicine, hygiene, health and safety also raises serious concerns about compliance with the applicable legal requirements. It is imperative that civilians be allowed to leave for safer areas and to voluntarily return, as soon as circumstances permit.

63. I reiterate my call for an immediate humanitarian ceasefire and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. Along with my Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, I am continuously engaged with all stakeholders towards these objectives and stand ready to support the implementation of an agreement. I welcome the efforts, including by Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to overcome the significant obstacles and reach a deal. I am deeply concerned that the failure to reach a deal, the continued intensity of fighting in Gaza and the advancement of military operations in Rafah complicate the resumption of negotiations to achieve a ceasefire and the release of all hostages and further risk an escalation to a wider regional conflagration. Security Council resolutions on the conflict must be fully implemented.

64. I remain deeply troubled by continued Israeli settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, which is fuelling tensions, impeding access by Palestinians to their land and threatening the viability of a future independent Palestinian State. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law and relevant United Nations resolutions. I urge the Government of Israel to cease all settlement activity immediately, in line with its obligations under international law.

65. I note with deep concern the large State land declaration by Israel in the Jordan Valley in the occupied West Bank, which could further undermine the viability of a fully independent, democratic, contiguous and sovereign Palestinian State. While I take note of a subsequent military order declaring the area a closed military zone, the announcement by Israel that the Disengagement Law restrictions on Israelis entering three areas of the northern West Bank will no longer apply is also concerning.

66. The demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures, including internationally funded humanitarian projects, as well as structures related to income generation and the provision of essential services, entail numerous human rights violations and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I once again call upon the Government of Israel to end this practice and prevent the possible displacement and forced eviction of Palestinians, in line with its international obligations, and to approve plans to allow Palestinians to build legally and address their development needs.

67. The escalating violence and tensions in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, are deeply worrying and could explode at any moment. Intensified armed exchanges between Palestinians and Israeli security forces using increasingly sophisticated weaponry in the occupied West Bank, predominantly in the context of Israeli security operations, alongside settler-related violence, have also exacerbated tensions and led to exceedingly high levels of detentions, casualties and extreme anger among the population. I am concerned that this dynamic is further undermining the Palestinian Authority, which is facing a severe fiscal crisis, and leading to an unliveable situation for thousands of Palestinians, many in refugee camps, with the population citing heightened insecurity, unemployment and decreasing services as central factors driving them from their homes.

68. I reiterate that security forces in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, must exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I call upon Israel to abide by its obligations under international law, including with regard to the proportional use of force, and ensure thorough, independent and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force, holding those responsible to account.

69. I am alarmed by the lethal attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, including sometimes in the proximity and with the support of Israeli security forces, and by Palestinians against Israelis. Israeli settlers are rarely held accountable for violent attacks, fuelling tensions and increasing the level of threat to Palestinians and their property. I urge Israel, as the occupying Power, to ensure the safety and security of the Palestinian population and to investigate and hold perpetrators of all attacks accountable. Attacks by Palestinians against Israelis must also cease. All perpetrators of attacks must be held accountable.

70. I am deeply concerned about the large number of Palestinians, including children, detained by Israeli security forces and the increase in the number of Palestinians held in administrative detention, without charge or trial, by Israel since 7 October 2023. Reports of torture and other ill-treatment during arrest and detention, including some forms of sexual violence, are also deeply concerning.

71. I am appalled at the numerous instances during the reporting period in which officials glorified violence and engaged in dangerous provocations, incitement and inflammatory language, which will only lead to greater polarization and risks further bloodshed. Leaders have an obligation to clearly and explicitly condemn acts of terror and violence directed against civilians. The incitement to violence must stop immediately.

72. I reiterate and amplify my call to the parties for the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem to be respected and upheld, taking into account the special and historic role of Jordan as custodian of the holy sites in Jerusalem.

73. I welcome the financial contributions of donors to UNRWA that will allow it to maintain core operations until August 2024 and urge further financial support to the Agency to close the significant financial gap to meet the needs in Gaza. I am, however, deeply concerned by continued attacks on the Agency's facilities and activities.

74. I welcome the appointment of a new Palestinian Government and am encouraged by its reform plan. The United Nations stands ready to support the Palestinian Authority in implementing critical reforms, including those that increase civic space, improve service delivery and prepare the Palestinian Authority to govern and lead recovery and reconstruction efforts in Gaza. With eight ministers from Gaza, the Government has a genuine opportunity to take concrete steps towards unifying Gaza and the occupied West Bank politically, economically and administratively. However, the new Government will be unable to make sustainable progress without significant support and assistance.

75. It is vital that the international community seize this pivotal moment and provide immediate support to the new Palestinian Government to address its fiscal challenges, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza. Palestinian unity is an essential building block to just and lasting peace. The devastation and misery of the past seven months have reinforced a simple truth: Palestinians and Israelis can no longer wait to establish a viable political horizon. Now is the time to lay the foundations for a better future for Palestinians, Israelis and the broader region. Israelis, Palestinians, the States of the region and the broader international community must urgently take steps that will enable the parties to re-engage on the long-delayed political path to achieving a two-State solution. I welcome the adoption of Security Council resolution 2735 \(2024\), in which the Council stressed "the importance of unifying the Gaza Strip with the West Bank under the Palestinian Authority". The United Nations will continue to support all such efforts.

76. I remain committed to supporting Palestinians and Israelis in ending the occupation and resolving the conflict in line with international law, relevant United Nations resolutions and bilateral agreements in pursuit of the vision of two States – Israel and a fully independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State, of which Gaza is an integral part – living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders, on the basis of the pre-1967 lines, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.

77. I express my deep appreciation to my Special Coordinator and his team for their outstanding service in what remains a deeply challenging context. I also pay tribute to all United Nations personnel who have lost their lives in this conflict and to all the United Nations personnel and heroic humanitarian aid workers who remain committed to their work despite the enormous danger to their health, well-being and lives.

The meeting was called to order at 10.05 a.m.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representative of Israel to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in this meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite Mr. Tor Wennesland, Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, to participate in this meeting.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Mr. Wennesland.

Mr. Wennesland: Before turning to my regular briefing, allow me to express my serious concerns about the risk of escalation in the region, particularly between Israel and Hizbullah along the Blue Line. I reiterate the Secretary-General's concern that further military escalation will only guarantee more suffering, more devastation to communities in Lebanon and Israel and more potentially catastrophic consequences for the region. In complement to the efforts of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon and the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon, I am encouraging all sides to immediately take urgent steps to de-escalate the situation.

The ongoing hostilities in Gaza are further fuelling regional instability. There must be an immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and an immediate humanitarian ceasefire — there is a deal on the table, and it should be agreed, and fast. I welcome the efforts, including by Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to reach such a deal. The United Nations stands ready to support its implementation.

I will now turn to my regular briefing on the situation in the Middle East devoted to the thirtieth report on the implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016) (S/2024/480). The Secretary-General's written report covers the period between 19 March and 10 June 2024.

Since the submission of the written report, intensive hostilities between Hamas and the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) in Gaza have continued, resulting in hundreds of fatalities. The devastating impact of the hostilities on the civilian population in Gaza and the unprecedented humanitarian crisis remain deeply alarming. I myself have witnessed the deterioration of the security situation on each of my visits. Ongoing military operations and a near-total breakdown of civil order have resulted in multiple reported incidents of theft of relief supplies and shootings that posed significant risks to the population and humanitarian workers. A shooting incident on 15 June, resulting in the killing of two Palestinians while an aid convoy was on the road, prompted the cancellation of convoys to the Kerem Shalom crossing between 16 and 18 June to mitigate risks.

Effective mechanisms for humanitarian notification, safe conditions for humanitarian operations and sufficient access to humanitarian needs remain sorely lacking and must be put in place without delay. Following another series of serious security incidents this past weekend affecting humanitarian actors in Gaza, the United Nations welcomes the opportunity for clarification with the IDF on how the current situation can be clearly improved.

Hunger and food insecurity persist. While projections of imminent famine in the northern governorates have been averted through an increase in food deliveries, food insecurity has worsened in the south. Nearly all of Gaza's population continues to face high levels of food insecurity, with nearly half a million people facing catastrophic insecurity. I welcome the high-level conference convened in Jordan on 11 June by Jordan, Egypt and the United Nations, which urged all parties to do their part to ensure that we can fully address the urgent needs of the population in Gaza.

Meanwhile, the Palestinian Authority's fiscal situation remains very precarious amid broader economic and security concerns across the occupied West Bank. Announcements by Israel's Finance Minister that he intends to continue blocking the transfer of all clearance revenues to the Palestinian Authority and to take measures that would end corresponding banking relations between Israeli and Palestinian banks at the end of this month threaten to plunge the Palestinian fiscal situation into an even greater crisis, potentially upending the entire Palestinian financial system.

I take note of the recent appointment by the Head of the Israeli military's Civil Administration of a civilian deputy and the delegation of authority to that position for oversight of many areas of land management and development, planning and day-to-day life in Area C of the occupied West Bank. That the appointment and delegation of authority is expected to expedite Israeli settlement expansion, and regularization under Israeli law of illegal outposts is concerning and undermines prospects for a two-State solution.

Allow me to reiterate several observations of the Secretary-General regarding the implementation of the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016) during the reporting period.

I once again strongly condemn the horrific armed attacks by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Israel on 7 October 2023 and the continued holding of hostages in Gaza. Nothing can justify those acts of terror. All remaining hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. The use of human shields and the indiscriminate firing of rockets towards Israeli population centres are violations of international humanitarian law and must cease completely.

The scope of death and destruction in Gaza has been catastrophic and horrifying. Israel's use of explosive weapons in densely populated areas has destroyed entire neighbourhoods and damaged hospitals and other civilian infrastructure, schools, mosques and United Nations premises. I unequivocally condemn the killing and maiming of civilians in Gaza, including women and children. The protection of civilians is paramount in any armed conflict. International humanitarian law applies to all parties to a conflict at all times.

The impact of the ongoing hostilities on the humanitarian situation in Gaza is deeply concerning. The life-threatening conditions facing the more than 1.7 million internally displaced people in Gaza, where nowhere is safe, must be addressed immediately.

The amount of essential goods, including humanitarian assistance, that has been allowed into Gaza continues to fall short of meeting the needs of the population. While it is positive that Israel has opened additional entry points for humanitarian aid, others have been closed, and it is imperative that all necessary access points be opened and made operational and for humanitarian access to be sustained. All parties must protect humanitarian workers at all times. Attacks on humanitarian aid workers and facilities are unacceptable, must cease immediately and should all be investigated. Donors' financial contributions to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East are welcome, and further financial support is needed to meet needs in Gaza and throughout the region. However, attacks on the Agency's facilities and activities are deeply concerning.

I remain deeply troubled by Israel's continued settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law and the relevant United Nations resolutions. I urge the Government of Israel to cease all settlement activity immediately. The escalating violence and tensions in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, are deeply worrisome. Intensified armed exchanges between Palestinians and the Israeli security forces, alongside lethal attacks by Palestinians against Israelis and by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, have also exacerbated tensions and led to exceedingly high levels of casualties and detentions. All perpetrators of violence must be held accountable and swiftly brought to justice. I urge Israel to ensure the safety and security of the Palestinian population. I reiterate that security forces in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, must exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I am encouraged by the Palestinian Authority's reform plan. The United Nations will continue to support the Palestinian Authority in implementing critical reforms and urges the international community to provide immediate support to address the Palestinian Authority's financial challenges, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza.

Palestinians and Israelis can no longer wait to establish a viable political horizon. Efforts to address security-related and humanitarian challenges that ignore or sidestep fundamental political questions are doomed to fail. All stakeholders must urgently take steps that will lead to a two-State reality. The United Nations will continue to support all such efforts. The United Nations remains committed to supporting steps towards ending the occupation and resolving the conflict, in line with international law, the relevant United Nations resolutions and bilateral agreements in pursuit of the vision of two States — Israel and an independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State — living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders, on the basis of the pre-1967 lines, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.

The President: I thank Mr. Wennesland for his briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mrs. Thomas-Greenfield (United States of America): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing today and for his most recent report.

The world's eyes are rightfully on Gaza, but we cannot ignore the situation in the West Bank. Last year saw the highest number of Palestinians killed in the West Bank since the United Nations began collecting data in 2005. Six months into 2024, the number of Palestinians having been killed in the West Bank remains deeply alarming. We are concerned about the significant uptick in deadly violence against Palestinian civilians by settlers in the West Bank and condemn it in the strongest terms. We urge Israel to prevent those attacks, working in coordination with the Palestinian authorities.

We reiterate our position that advancing Israeli settlements in the West Bank is an obstacle to the achievement of a two-State solution — the end state that we all want to see, as we seek to bring the fighting in Gaza to a close. Furthermore, we reiterate our belief that Israel's programme of support for the expansion of settlements is inconsistent with international law and serves only to weaken Israeli security.

In addition, we remain deeply concerned about the violence committed by extremist settlers in the West Bank. As members know, the United States has sanctioned a number of extremist settlers and their organizations for their involvement in acts of violence. We have also sanctioned the violent extremist Israeli group Tzav 9, which has repeatedly sought to thwart the delivery of aid to Gaza, including aid transiting the West Bank. And earlier this month, the United States designated a militant Palestinian group — Lions' Den — for violent activity in the West Bank. Those sanctions, implemented under an executive order that aims to promote peace, security and security in the West Bank, make clear that we will act in response to acts of violence in the West Bank, whomever the perpetrators may be. And we will use the tools at our disposal to expose and promote accountability for those who threaten peace, security and stability there. To that end, we commend the Palestinian security forces and the Palestinian Authority for their efforts in maintaining peace and security in the West Bank.

It is also essential for the Palestinian Authority to have the resources it needs to pay the salaries of those security forces and, more broadly, to govern effectively. The Government of the United States will continue to engage the Government of Israel to release the full clearance revenues owed to the Palestinian Authority on time, every month, including the transfers that Israel has not sent since 5 April. We encourage all members here today to provide support as needed in the interim to mitigate against a potential financial collapse of the Palestinian Authority. Of course, Israel and Palestinians should have faith in the Palestinian Authority's ability to govern as a non-corrupt, faithful actor working in the interest of the Palestinian people. It is essential, therefore, that the Palestinian Authority work to reform itself and that it do so as quickly as possible.

Regarding Gaza, a few weeks ago, the Security Council adopted resolution 2735 (2024), which urged Hamas to accept a deal put forward by Israel and called on all parties to implement the three phases of that deal. Unfortunately, Hamas has eschewed the calls from the Council and has ignored voices from across the international community. In fact, rather than accepting the deal, Hamas has added even more conditions. But we have not given up. We are working closely with Egypt and Qatar to see if there are ways to bridge the gaps and achieve an immediate ceasefire with the release of hostages. The reality is that, as Hamas continues to ignore the Council and the readiness of Israel to move forward on a deal, the world is not standing still. People are suffering every single day. Palestinian children, women and men are suffering every single day. From our perspective, it is time to end the intransigence of Hamas, start a ceasefire and release the hostages. We will continue to do the hard work on the ground, with Egypt, Qatar and Israel, to make that a reality, and we encourage all Security Council members to support those efforts.

As we have said since 7 October 2023, ensuring the sustained delivery of aid to people in need, both into and within Gaza, is a top priority. That is a message we have delivered consistently and will continue to reiterate going forward. As the latest Integrated Food Security Phase Classification report makes alarmingly clear, humanitarian needs inside Gaza are catastrophic, and humanitarian assistance must be scaled up and reach all in need across all of Gaza. With much of Gaza's population facing catastrophic levels of hunger, the situation is at risk of worsening rapidly, especially with sustained disruptions in aid flows.

We also consider the security of United Nations personnel and aid actors on the ground to be a top priority, and we continue to press Israel to create better conditions for facilitating aid delivery inside Gaza. In order for humanitarian organizations to be able to safely continue their life-saving work, the Israel Defense Forces must implement concrete actions to protect humanitarians and improve the overall security environment inside Gaza.

The lack of an effective deconfliction mechanism nearly nine months into the conflict is unacceptable and continues to put humanitarian actors at tremendous risk. But again, we cannot ignore that Hamas is standing in the way of the deal that the Council endorsed and continues to put Palestinian civilians at risk. From our perspective, it is time to end the intransigence from Hamas, start a ceasefire and release the hostages. We will continue to do the hard work of diplomacy on the ground, with Egypt, Qatar and Israel, to make that a reality. And we appreciate the support of all Council members to maintain and strengthen their support for those vital efforts.

Mr. Afonso (Mozambique): We wish to express our sincere gratitude to Mr. Tor Wennesland, United Nations Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, for his important briefing.

Mozambique welcomes the report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016) (S/2024/480), which covers the critical period from March to June 2024. That milestone resolution, adopted with 14 votes in favour, could not be clearer in its scope and content. Inter alia, it emphasizes the following.

First, it emphasizes the demand that Israel immediately and completely cease all settlement activities in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, as those activities are illegal and constitute a flagrant violation of international law as well as a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and a lasting peace.

Secondly, it emphasizes that all parties must take steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror, as well as all acts of provocation and destruction.

Thirdly, it emphasizes that both parties must act in accordance with international law, including international humanitarian law, and that they are under the obligation to fulfil their previous agreements and engagements to de-escalate tensions and build trust and confidence.

Fourthly, it emphasizes calls for the intensification and acceleration of international and regional diplomatic efforts for credible negotiations in the Middle East peace process based on the relevant United Nations resolutions, the Madrid terms of reference and other related instruments.

Unfortunately, reports from the ground, as expounded by the Special Coordinator, indicate that the current situation in the Middle East contradicts the tenets of the resolution. That is a matter of great concern for us, as it is for the entire Council.

We note with concern that, in addition to the catastrophic situation in Gaza, where there is complete disregard for human dignity and international legal instruments on conflicts, illegal settlement in the occupied territory continues. We are deeply concerned about the continued demolitions of local structures, leaving many people unprotected, with implications that undermine the efforts for peace in the region and the implementation of the two-State solution.

The continuing tensions and violence in the Gaza Strip must come to an end. This protracted conflict threatens to expand to other countries in the region, which could worsen the humanitarian crisis among refugees and displaced people.

We call for the immediate de-escalation of the conflict and for the parties to exercise maximum restraint and abide by Council resolutions, including resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024).

Mozambique supports all diplomatic initiatives by the international community, the countries of the region and the United Nations, along with the active and tireless involvement of the Council, to find the best ways to bring about a lasting peace to the region. As we have stated time and again, the only alternative to the conflict between Israel and Palestine lies in the solution of two independent and sovereign States, living side by side. We reiterate Mozambique's strong support for all initiatives aimed at bringing lasting peace and security to Palestine and Israel.

Mrs. Frazier (Malta): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing.

The situation in the occupied Palestinian territories remains dire. It is extremely troubling that since 7 October over 500 Palestinians, including over 100 children, have been killed in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, many of them during intensified operations by Israeli forces. Several casualties have resulted from settler violence. We stress that Israel, as the occupying Power, must exercise maximum restraint. It must abide by its obligations under international law and protect the Palestinian population against all acts or threats of violence.

Israeli illegal settlement expansion, the demolition of Palestinian property and forced evictions must cease. Settlements are illegal under international law. They constitute an obstacle to peace, threaten the viability of a two-State solution and are pushing the West Bank to the precipice.

Malta is also concerned at the numbers of grave violations reported in the Secretary-General's report on children and armed conflict (S/2024/384). We hope that Israel will engage with the Secretary-General and with the wider United Nations to address the concerns referred to in the report. They include the verified detention of hundreds of Palestinian children from the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. We echo the Secretary-General's call on Israel to resort to the use of detention only as a last resort, for the shortest period, and to prevent any violence or ill-treatment of the detainees, in line with its obligations under the Convention on the Rights of the Child. We also share his extreme concern regarding the escalating tensions between Israel and Hizbullah, which could provoke further devastation and human suffering in the region.

Malta reiterates its strong call for an immediate and permanent ceasefire. We also underline our repeated calls for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages held since the heinous 7 October terror attacks. The ground offensive into Rafah has only exacerbated the dire humanitarian conditions and led to the further displacement of over 1 million civilians. The recently published reports by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, and Israel (A/HRC/56/26) raise deeply alarming conclusions regarding the alleged commission of crimes under international law, including war crimes and crimes against humanity. All parties to the conflict have an obligation to respect the principles of international law, including international humanitarian law and its principles of necessity, distinction, proportionality and humanity.

Furthermore, the provision of humanitarian aid cannot be dependent on a ceasefire agreement or tactical pauses. Parties must ensure the unimpeded, safe delivery of humanitarian aid at scale into and across Gaza. The implementation of the relevant Security Council resolutions and the full, immediate and effective implementation of the orders of the International Court of Justice remains essential.

De-escalation and the revival of a political horizon must remain a core priority. Key to that are efforts focusing on fiscally and politically reinforcing the Palestinian Authority for effective governance over both the West Bank and Gaza and its inclusion in discussions of a recovery plan for Gaza. Regional and international backing to ensure the Palestinian Authority's stability and credibility is crucial. Recent Israeli actions, which threaten to undermine the Palestinian Authority's fiscal stability, undermine that and must be reversed.

The international community must rally behind the credible and irreversible realization of the two-State solution. Pivotal to that are the fulfilment of Palestinian aspirations for statehood and assurances for Israel's security.

In conclusion, Malta reaffirms its unwavering commitment to a political solution based on a two-State solution along the pre-1967 borders, addressing the legitimate aspirations of both sides, with Jerusalem as the future capital of two States living side by side in peace and security, in line with all relevant Security Council resolutions and internationally agreed parameters.

Mr. Žbogar (Slovenia): I too would like to thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing.

Since the terrorist attack of Hamas on 7 October and the taking of hostages, which Slovenia continues to condemn, the Council has spent hours and days debating the situation in Gaza. At every meeting, members of the Council called for a ceasefire, for a release of hostages and for the distribution of humanitarian aid. We also called for full respect for international law, including international humanitarian law and human rights law. We were united in arguing against a military operation in Rafah. We unanimously voiced our concerns in several press elements and statements. Despite all the differences and challenges, we have adopted four resolutions demanding a ceasefire, the release of hostages and humanitarian aid.

Yet again, as we meet here today, we continue hearing the same accounts of the situation in Gaza — accounts of desperation, destruction, hunger and danger, with women and especially children suffering the most. There is not even a glimmer of hope, but rather more dead, more maimed and more traumatized Gazans. And hostages are still being kept in the tunnels of Hamas without contact with their families or the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). It seems that both Hamas and Israel continue to use civilians — Gazans and hostages — as an instrument to bring pressure to bear on the other side. But they are human beings and are being exposed to inhumane treatment and suffering for a long nine months.

Extreme hunger is still present in Gaza. Slovenia is deeply troubled by the obstacles to the delivery of humanitarian aid and basic services. We underline the prime responsibilities of Israel as the occupying Power, in line with the Fourth Geneva Convention, to ensure food and medical supplies for the population, not merely allowing its passage. Only the cessation of hostilities in conjunction with sustained humanitarian access can reduce the risk of a famine.

We are deeply concerned by persistent attacks on civilian and United Nations infrastructure, as well as on safe zones and humanitarian personnel. The attack near the ICRC Office on Saturday and the strike on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) aid distribution facility on Sunday prove yet again that the Council's arguments, concerns, demands and decisions remain ignored. We were promised improvements in the deconfliction mechanism. We were told that safe zones would protect civilians. We were guaranteed investigations into incidents leading to massive casualties among civilians and humanitarian workers. We have seen little to nothing done to fulfil all those promises. I believe that my delegation is not the only one deeply disturbed and frustrated. We expect resolution 2735 (2024), our most recent resolution, to be implemented by both sides. But a follow-up to its non-compliance will be needed soon. The Council must find a way to ensure that it is done.

Slovenia is alarmed by the situation in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, including by the events that unfolded during the flag march, the continuing movement restrictions in the West Bank, the increase in the disproportionate use of force by Israeli security forces and the number of raids. The abuses, such as the one in Jenin on Saturday, are unacceptable, and we note that the Israel Defense Forces itself marked it as a violation of orders and standard operating procedures.

We remain concerned over the advancement of settlement plans, demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures before our very eyes. We are deeply concerned about the impunity for persistent settler violence, affecting the population in the West Bank and aid delivery to Gaza.

Assaults on the United Nations, its representatives and entities are an attack on what its membership created through decades of multilateral cooperation. We are concerned by the increasing challenges UNRWA is facing. In that regard, we would like to invite Member States to join the shared commitments on UNRWA as an expression of support to the Agency and its mandate.

Slovenia expresses its support to the Government of the State of Palestine as it undertakes much-needed and anticipated reforms in order to regain the trust of the Palestinians. We regret that the deteriorating fiscal situation of the Palestinian Authority is putting severe limitations on those endeavours. And we are deeply concerned about the decision of Israel to seize the Palestinian Authority's tax revenues.

On 4 June, Slovenia officially recognized the State of Palestine. Our recognition was a demonstration of our commitment to a two-State solution. We see it as the only guarantee of lasting peace and security for the State of Israel and the region, for Israelis and Palestinians. The road there leads only through negotiations between two equal and sovereign entities.

In recent months, we have often spoken about the danger of regional escalation, including in the Red Sea and between Israel and Iran. With war drums beating louder along the Blue Line, our fear of miscalculation is growing by the day. We call on both parties to show restraint, commit to full implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) and use the liaison and coordination mechanisms of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon. We welcome the efforts of France and the United States in offering their good offices. The Council should unanimously urge both parties to engage in those discussions and de-escalate.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We thank the Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, Mr. Tor Wennesland, for the detailed briefing on the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River.

For nine months now, Israel's operation in Gaza has been ongoing. During that time, more than 37,500 Palestinians, mostly women and children, have been killed; the number of wounded has surpassed 86,000 people; and tens of thousands are missing. More than 1,500 Israelis and foreigners have also died, and 120 people are still being held hostage. In the Strip, civilian infrastructure, including hospitals, schools and housing, has been almost completely destroyed.

The figures on the West Bank are appalling — approximately 600 Palestinians, including approximately 130 children, have been killed, and more than 5,000 have been wounded. Raids by Israeli security forces have resulted in the detention of at least 20 Palestinians over the past 24 hours. According to data from the Palestinian Ministry of Detainees and Ex-Detainees Affairs, 9,345 people have been arrested in the West Bank since 7 October 2023.

In parallel, Israelis continue building settlements on occupied Palestinian land, while forcing local residents out of their homes under the pretext that no permits have been issued by the occupying Power. It is horrific and cynical that Palestinians are being forced to demolish their own homes themselves so that they do not have to pay costly demolition fees to Israeli builders.

The magnitude of violence exhibited by radical Israeli settlers, as well as their complete impunity, are staggering. In response to the murder of a 14-year-old Israeli boy from Malachei Hashalom, angry mobs of settlers burned down 37 villages, killed four people and wounded 91 additional Palestinians — despite the prompt apprehension of the alleged perpetrator. Worst of all, that lawlessness took place in full view of law enforcement officers.

All of this illustrates the vicious cycle of violence in the occupied Palestinian territory, which inevitably leads to further radicalization on both sides. The only solution is to root out the culture of impunity and end the illegal occupation of the Palestinian territory.

Turning to Rafah, although all Security Council members have said that the operation in Rafah is unacceptable, it is, nevertheless, in full swing. Resolution 2735 (2024), which envisages some kind of a deal that is supposed to lead up to a ceasefire — at least that is what the United States alleged — is not working. Instead of a recipe for saving Gaza, the Security Council has been sold a pig in a poke, which, as we had warned, turned out to be a dead letter. What is worse, an outright lie has crept into the resolution, which explicitly states that Israel consented to the peace proposal of the international mediators. However, West Jerusalem has yet to confirm that. At the same time, Israel remains determined to completely destroy Hamas. As a result, none of the phases stipulated in resolution 2735 (2024) have been implemented. The Council was essentially dragged into a misadventure and forced to give its blessing to a plan that had no chance of being implemented. We urge the members of the Security Council to adopt a more responsible approach to the decisions they support and to think about their actual content.

The bleakest scenarios about the civilian implications of the assault on Rafah have come true. In an attempt to reach Hamas commanders, Israelis launched indiscriminate strikes against refugee camps, resulting in heavy civilian casualties. We all recall the devastating Israeli Air Force air strike on the Tal Al-Sultan area of Rafah on 26 May, killing 45 Palestinians. Only two days prior, the International Court of Justice had issued its third ruling on provisional measures demanding that Israelis stop the military operation in Rafah. This was yet another blatant demonstration of Israel's egregious violations — in its capacity as the occupying Power — of Security Council and General Assembly resolutions, International Court of Justice rulings and the norms of international humanitarian law, including the Geneva Conventions.

That is compounded by the unbearable living conditions of Palestinians evacuated from Rafah, who lack basic housing, sanitation, access to medicine and drinking water. According to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, 69 per cent of school buildings that sheltered displaced persons in Gaza have been and continue to be bombed daily.

We demand that Israel halt the Rafah operation. We also call for an immediate unconditional ceasefire, the release of hostages and Palestinian detainees.

Amid intense fighting, it is utterly impossible to ensure safe and sustainable access to those in need. The special humanitarian mechanism for Gaza, launched by Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag, also cannot remedy the situation. The main aid delivery channel, through the Rafah crossing point as well as the Kerem Shalom crossing point, is closed. The floating pier, erected by the United States, has also not lived up to expectations, as its transportation of cargo was suspended due to damage caused by inclement weather.

Now is the time to consider how to prevent a recurrence of the current escalation of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. An equitable negotiations process between Palestinians and Israelis must be launched on a range of final-status issues — one that would result in the establishment of a Palestinian State within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital, coexisting in peace and security with Israel, in accordance with the approved international legal decisions.

We are convinced that Palestine's membership at the United Nations would help bring that to fruition. In that context, we applaud the decisions of a number of Caribbean and European States to recognize the State of Palestine, thereby confirming their willingness to redress a historical injustice wherein one State was granted United Nations membership in 1948, while the other has been denied that legitimate right for three quarters of a century.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing on the Secretary-General's report (S/2024/480) on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). The report provides another grim picture of developments in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and, sadly, highlights the ever-widening chasm between the legal obligations of the occupying Power and the latter's compliance with those obligations. The Council must act urgently to curb this tide of impunity and to put an end to the indignities that the Palestinian people are subjected to on a daily basis.

Guyana is concerned that settlement activity continues unabated in the occupied West Bank, in violation of resolution 2334 (2016), and has noted that the occupying Power recently made the largest declaration of State land in the occupied West Bank. Those actions, coupled with the ongoing demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures, directly threaten the viability of the two-State solution, since they are a continuous encroachment on Palestinian territory, while simultaneously displacing its lawful residents. We call on Israel to immediately and completely cease all settlement activities in the occupied Palestinian territory. We underscore that the establishment of Israeli settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967 has no legal validity.

The level of violence that accompanies the occupying Power's illegal activities in the occupied Palestinian territory is distressing. We have seen, for example, recent reports of the Palestinian man who was strapped to the hood of a military vehicle and, in his injured state, driven around a neighbourhood in the West Bank. What accounts for that level of barbarity by one people against another? It is the cultivation and perpetuation of an ideology that dehumanizes the other, thus making it possible to devise and execute all kinds of violent and oppressive acts against those seen as inferior. By continuing to promulgate that ideology, Israel remains a constant threat — not only to the well-being of Palestinians, but also to the values of the United Nations, of which it remains a Member State. Guyana urges the Council to seriously consider how it might use the tools at its disposal to stop Israel's atrocities against the Palestinian people.

On that latter note, the current situation in the Gaza Strip remains of deep concern to Guyana. We were hopeful that the Council's various resolutions, including resolution 2735 (2024), supporting the efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States, would yield a ceasefire and the release of hostages and detained Palestinians, but that has not yet materialized. In the meantime, the human-made catastrophe has got worse, marked by a record death toll, starvation, disease, destruction and displacement, among other things. Amid those realities, it appears that the Israel Defense Forces have incorporated a strategy of bombing refugee camps, where thousands of Palestinians are now living in extremely vulnerable conditions. This war must end now. We reiterate our calls for an immediate and unconditional ceasefire, bringing an end to a hell in which women and children bear the brunt of the suffering.

Guyana also stresses the importance of adequate humanitarian access into Gaza using all available routes and calls on Israel to facilitate the entry of sufficient goods into Gaza to meet the needs of the besieged and ailing population. That is Israel's legal obligation. As States Members of the United Nations and members of the Security Council, we are duty-bound to ensure that justice and obligations under international law are upheld.

Allow me to reflect briefly on the provision in resolution 2334 (2016) requiring that all States distinguish in their relevant dealings between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories that have been occupied since 1967. I would like to emphasize in that regard that Member States should exercise greater diligence in ensuring full adherence to that provision in all their commercial dealings with Israel. We cannot simultaneously condemn the illegality of settlements and engage in the trade in commodities produced in those illegal settlements. There must be consequences for those who flout their obligations in that regard.

Let me conclude by once again emphasizing the urgency of halting the violence in the occupied Palestinian territory and ending the war in Gaza. We call on the parties to prioritize the lives of innocent civilians, who continue to suffer with no end in sight. I call on the Council to prioritize accountability and send a strong message of deterrence to those who hold the view that they can continue to kill and maim innocent civilians without consequences. Finally, I urge a redoubling of efforts to achieve a two-State solution. That will be the just end to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, and we must re-evaluate our strategies for achieving it. Guyana remains committed to that goal.

Mr. Hauri (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I thank you, Mr. President, for organizing this meeting, and I also thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing.

The situation in Israel and throughout the occupied Palestinian territory, along with the rising tensions along the Blue Line, is alarming. The Council's commitment to ensuring that all parties respect international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law, is also aimed at preventing the even more serious possibility of a spread of the conflict to the wider region. In the West Bank, the attacks, threats and intimidation by Israeli settlers against the Palestinian population, including in East Jerusalem, have continued with virtual impunity, and Switzerland condemns them. The numbers of their civilian victims were already reaching record levels before 7 October 2023 and have since increased significantly. They must stop. Resolution 2334 (2016) calls for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror, provocation and destruction. Allegations of the disproportionate use of force and of violence against civilians must be investigated and those responsible brought to justice. Switzerland would like to remind Council members of Israel's obligations under international law as an occupying Power, including the obligation to protect the civilian population.

We also want to point out that Israeli settlements are illegal under international humanitarian law, and according to resolution 2334 (2016) constitute a major obstacle to the achievement of a two-State solution and the establishment of a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. The recurring announcements of settlements by Israeli leaders and measures to expand them contribute to the escalation and must be stopped. In that regard, Switzerland notes with concern the recent Israeli decisions to transfer the management of settlers' civil affairs in the West Bank to the Israeli civil administration. In accordance with international humanitarian law, Israel must refrain from taking measures that would introduce permanent changes, particularly demographic and administrative changes, in the occupied territory.

In resolution 2730 (2024), the Council reaffirmed the responsibility of States and parties to conflicts to respect and protect the civilian population, including humanitarian personnel. Infrastructure and property used for humanitarian relief operations, as well as convoys, must also be respected and protected. That includes the premises of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, including in East Jerusalem, and the premises of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC).

When resolution 2735 (2024) was adopted on 10 June, Switzerland emphasized that the resolution currently represents the best chance for an end to the appalling conflict, which has claimed tens of thousands of civilian victims since the acts of terror committed by Hamas on 7 October, which we strongly condemned. However, despite resolution 2735 (2024) and the related resolutions that the Council has adopted (resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), and 2728 (2024)), hostilities in the Gaza Strip continue to expose hundreds of thousands of civilians, including many children, to danger, forced displacement and an increased risk of starvation. Moreover, dozens of hostages are still in captivity in Gaza.

Switzerland reiterates its opposition to the current offensive in Rafah and points to the provisional measures ordered by the International Court of Justice. They are binding, and Switzerland expects Israel to comply with them. We reiterate our call for an immediate ceasefire in order to facilitate the safe, rapid and unimpeded delivery by all routes of humanitarian aid into the Gaza Strip and for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. Those held captive in connection with the conflict must be able to be visited by the ICRC and receive the assistance and protection to which they are entitled.

Finally, the Council must continue to support the concept of a two-State solution, which is the only foundation capable of guaranteeing peace between Israelis and Palestinians and stability in the region. Without further delay, we must help to rebuild that foundation for two democratic States, Israel and Palestine — of which Gaza is an integral part — living side by side in peace within secure and recognized borders.

Mr. De Rivièrè (France) (spoke in French): I thank Mr. Wennesland for his briefing and assure him of France's full support.

In adopting resolution 2735 (2024), the Security Council demanded that Hamas accept, as Israel did, the United States peace plan, and urged both parties to implement its provisions fully, without any delay or conditions. The resolution must ultimately be implemented, in accordance with Article 25 of the Charter of the United Nations. France demands an immediate ceasefire and the release of all hostages without delay, and we once again condemn the terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas on 7 October 2023. We are opposed to the ongoing operation in Rafah, which has led to the displacement of hundreds of thousands of civilians. In accordance with the ruling of the International Court of Justice, Israel must immediately halt its military offensive and any other action in the Rafah governorate. The delivery of aid must not be hindered and must benefit the civilian population. France calls for strict compliance with international humanitarian law.

While the humanitarian situation in Gaza continues to deteriorate, Israel's settlement of the West Bank is accelerating. France condemns that policy, which contravenes international law and undermines the prospects for a two-State solution. We will never recognize the illegal annexation of territories or the legalization of illegal settlements, and we condemn the violence committed by settlers. We deplore the forced displacement of Palestinian communities and are resolved to adopt new sanctions against violent settlers. The tensions of the past few weeks in Jerusalem are worrisome. France calls for refraining from any measures that could lead to a conflagration in Jerusalem and the West Bank. The historic status quo at the holy sites must be preserved. France and the European Union do not recognize Israeli sovereignty over areas that have come under Israel's administration since 5 June 1967. Together with its partners, France is actively monitoring compliance with international law, including resolution 2334 (2016). The policy of differentiation through it is aimed at realizing the legal distinction between Israel's internationally recognized territory and the occupied territories.

It is more urgent than ever to lay the foundations of a political settlement for implementing a two-State solution, the only one that can guarantee peace and security for the Israelis and Palestinians. France reaffirms its commitment to Israel's security and to building a State for Palestinians. We are working actively in that regard with the parties and with all regional and international partners. We support a reformed Palestinian Authority capable of exercising its responsibilities throughout the Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip. Israel must stop impeding the transfer of revenues to the Palestinian Authority. France is concerned about the aggravation of regional tensions, which risks causing a conflagration, particularly between Israel and Lebanon. We remain fully committed to preventing any risk of escalation on the Blue Line and to promoting a diplomatic solution. We call on all stakeholders in the region to adopt a responsible approach.

Mr. Fu Cong (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing.

The conflict in Gaza has been going on for more than eight months and has caused unprecedented destruction and a humanitarian disaster. The international community has long since reached an overwhelming consensus. Both the General Assembly, in its emergency special session, and the Security Council have adopted multiple resolutions calling for an immediate and lasting ceasefire, the release of all hostages, the removal of obstacles to humanitarian access and the effective protection of humanitarian workers' safety.

After announcing a three-phase ceasefire proposal on 31 May, the United States spearheaded the adoption of resolution 2735 (2024) by the Security Council, urging Israel and Hamas to accept and implement the proposal. At the time, the United States claimed that Israel had already accepted the proposal. Regrettably, so far we have seen no tangible signs from Israel that it has agreed to a lasting ceasefire. On the contrary, we have witnessed its continuing large-scale military operations and repeated attacks on refugee camps in Rafah, Nuseirat and Gaza City, resulting in new and major casualties and putting the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, the International Committee of the Red Cross and other humanitarian agencies in danger. There must be an immediate ceasefire, and once that is achieved the war should not be resumed. That is at the core of resolutions 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024). If the hostages are to be rescued, creating more civilian casualties is not the way to go. China urges Israel to heed the international community's resounding call for it to immediately cease military operations in Gaza and end its collective punishment of the Gazan population. We call on the countries that have significant influence on the parties to make concrete and sincere efforts to achieve a cessation of the hostilities.

Gaza is in the grip of a dire humanitarian situation. As long as Israel's military operations pose a grave threat to humanitarian workers, its suggestion or even accusation of inaction on the part of humanitarian agencies is unacceptable. Under international humanitarian law, Israel has an obligation to protect the safety of humanitarian organizations and their staff and ensure the rapid entry of sufficient humanitarian relief into Gaza and its safe and orderly delivery to all people in need. In the West Bank, searches, arrests and raids by Israeli enforcement agencies against Palestinians are daily occurrences. We call on Israel to effectively curb the violence against Palestinian civilians and stop undermining the basis of governance for the Palestinian Authority, including by returning the tax revenues it has withheld without delay. China reiterates that settlement activities are in violation of international law and resolution 2334 (2016), and that they are eroding the prospects for a two-State solution. Israel must immediately cease all settlement activities.

As the repercussions of the Gaza conflict continue to spill over rapidly, we are seeing worrisome tensions in the Red Sea and along the Lebanon-Israel border. China is gravely concerned about reports regarding Israel's plan for military offensives in Lebanon. As Secretary-General Guterres cautioned on Friday, the situation in the Middle East is very precarious and cannot afford for Lebanon to become another Gaza. China calls on all the parties to exercise restraint and refrain from actions that could escalate tensions, so as not to plunge the entire Middle East into an even greater catastrophe. We call on the international community to take all necessary action to bring about an immediate and lasting ceasefire in Gaza, a speedy relaunch of a two-State solution and the realization of lasting peace and security in the Middle East as soon as possible.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing. I would like to highlight three areas following our most recent meeting on this topic (see S/PV.9650).

First, let me start by reaffirming the United Kingdom's commitment to the principles enshrined in resolution 2334 (2016), which serves as a clear reinforcement of international support for a two-State solution. More than ever, the suffering that we saw on 7 October 2023 and have continued to see since those horrific attacks underlines the importance of a diplomatic solution to this conflict that guarantees the safety and security of both the Israeli and Palestinian peoples. We call for the immediate release of all the remaining hostages, including the return of the bodies of those who have died in captivity. And we are appalled by reports of sexual violence and abuse. The United Kingdom stands firm in its condemnation of those heinous acts. The best way to get the hostages out is to get a deal done. We also urge Israel to let humanitarian aid enter Gaza through all crossing points immediately and guarantee deconfliction for aid convoys and other humanitarian work. We echo the Secretary-General's tribute to the United Nations workers who have tragically lost their lives in this conflict, and we call on Israel to ensure the protection of United Nations facilities and staff. The integrity of the United Nations and its ability to operate are paramount. It serves as a crucial lifeline for the many innocent civilians affected by this conflict.

Secondly, the United Kingdom remains deeply concerned about the indiscriminate firing of rockets towards Israeli population centres, as noted in the Secretary-General's report (S/2024/480). That must stop. We also note with concern the continuing construction of settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. We are clear that those settlements are illegal under international law. We reiterate our call on Israel to immediately and completely stop all settlement activities. We condemn the human rights abuses and incitement of violence against Palestinian communities in the West Bank, where the United Kingdom has taken action in the form of sanctions against a number of those individuals and groups responsible. We are also deeply concerned about Israel's suspension of revenue transfers to the Palestinian Authority and the risks to correspondent banking relations. Such measures harm the chances for peace, security and stability.

Finally, as the United Kingdom has said throughout, a negotiated pause in the fighting that leads to a sustainable ceasefire, without a return to fighting, is the best way to secure the release of the hostages, enable a significant scaling up of much-needed humanitarian aid and lead to a permanent settlement of the issue. There is now a deal on the table, endorsed by the Council in resolution 2735 (2024), to achieve those goals. The onus is on Hamas to accept it and end the suffering of the Palestinian people and the remaining hostages. We must then work to reach a credible and irreversible pathway towards a two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine living side by side in peace and security for both nations and the wider region.

Mr. Montalvo Sosa (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing this morning, and the Secretariat for the report circulated. Ecuador values and supports the work of the United Nations and its agencies.

The Security Council has once again received and heard reports of increasing numbers of people dead, wounded or displaced and of the steady deterioration of living conditions in Gaza. The restrictions on humanitarian operations have continued. The Secretary-General reports that in May barely 50 per cent of the humanitarian missions coordinated in Gaza were successfully facilitated. The military operations in Rafah have affected the already inadequate supply of aid, while at least 120 hostages remain in captivity, almost nine months after the terrorist acts perpetrated by Hamas on 7 October 2023, which Ecuador once again unequivocally condemns.

The bombing has also continued. It is severely affecting the civilian population and causing dozens of deaths and injuries in Gaza. The fighting continues unabated and there is still no end to the indiscriminate firing of rockets into Israel. The situation is particularly discouraging given that a fortnight ago the Council adopted a resolution supporting a ceasefire proposal (resolution 2735 (2024)) which, had it been implemented, would have already put an end to the hostilities, enabled the release of hostages, facilitated the safe, sufficient and timely delivery of humanitarian aid to all in need and helped reduce tensions throughout the region. It is essential to ensure that the negotiations between the parties towards such an agreement continue. My country reiterates its support and appreciation for the efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States to that end. It is also essential, and indeed obligatory, to implement all of the relevant resolutions of the Council and to respect the norms of international humanitarian law, which are also binding on all parties and which if violated demand serious accountability.

Regarding the situation in the West Bank, Ecuador once again calls for respect for the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016). The increase in violence since 7 October and the continuing settlement activities are worrisome. Among other factors, statements and actions that undermine the viability of a two-State solution perpetuate the conflict and worsen the security situation. All the actors concerned must show restraint, avoid exacerbating tensions and demonstrate the political will to reach agreements. Without that, the cycle of violence will inevitably repeat itself.

Finally, every opportunity must be seized to start down a path towards a peaceful, negotiated, definitive and just solution for the parties, with the existence of two States, Palestine and Israel, based on the 1967 borders and the relevant resolutions.

Mr. Yamazaki (Japan): I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his informative briefing.

More than 250 days of violence, grief and suffering have passed and still the situation worsens day by day. Japan maintains its condemnation of the heinous terror attacks by Hamas and others on 7 October as well as their taking of hostages. At the same time, Israel's military operations across Gaza have continued unabated. Japan is appalled by the fact that dozens of casualties, including civilians, are being reported on a daily basis, amounting to more than 37,000 Palestinians killed, with tens of thousands more injured or buried under the rubble. We are also deeply alarmed to hear that 1.7 million people have been displaced, with many families among them displaced again and again. People in southern Gaza are suffering from poor access to shelter, health, food and sanitation. This humanitarian situation defies description.

Two weeks ago, the Security Council adopted resolution 2735 (2024), offering a glimmer of hope that the three-stage proposal could pave the way for the hostages to be released and humanitarian aid increased and eventually bring about the long-awaited ceasefire. However, the tragedy is still unfolding. Japan strongly urges Hamas to work in good faith, based on resolution 2735 (2024), without further delay. In that context, we reiterate our support for the tireless and commendable diplomatic efforts of the United States, Qatar and Egypt, and our call on Israel to lift the impediments to humanitarian activities on the ground. We would also like to stress that the staff and premises of the United Nations and other humanitarian agencies, including the International Committee of the Red Cross, must be protected. We express our continued support for the work of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East as the backbone of the United Nations' humanitarian operation in Gaza.

A ceasefire is necessary not only for Gaza but in order to halt destabilization in the region and beyond. The ongoing settlement activities are in violation of international law, and Japan once again strongly urges the Government of Israel to stop those activities. We also deplore the increase in settler violence and attacks on refugee camps in the West Bank.

We are very worried about the fact that exchanges of fire are rapidly increasing across the Blue Line. Japan echoes last Friday's statement by the Secretary-General that a further military escalation between Israel and Hizbullah would be disastrous for people in Lebanon, Israel and the wider region. All parties must exercise full restraint and immediately recommit to ensuring a cessation of hostilities along the Blue Line in accordance with resolution 1701 (2006). Actors with influence on the parties should also make every effort towards that end. Even in this terrible moment, we must keep a political horizon as our goal.

Japan maintains that a two-State solution with Israel and Palestine living side by side in peace and security is the only viable way to end the conflict and the plight it continues to cause.

Mr. Sowa (Sierra Leone): I would also like to thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his thorough briefing on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) and the current situation in the occupied Palestine territory overall.

We acknowledge the report of the Secretary-General on this subject (S/2024/480) and note the lack of implementation of the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016). The reports of plans for the construction of housing units by the Jerusalem District Planning Committee across the Green Line in occupied East Jerusalem, the illegal outposts in the occupied West Bank and the demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures across the occupied Palestinian territory are serious violations of that resolution and pose risks to peace efforts between Israel and Palestine.

The continued hostilities in the Gaza Strip for the past eight months and the volatile security situation across the Middle East undermine the prospects for durable and sustainable peace in the region. It is crucial at this stage therefore that the parties to the conflict in the Gaza Strip adhere to the call for a permanent ceasefire without any further delay. It is also important that attacks between Israel and other parties across the region in Lebanon, Yemen, Iran and elsewhere cease immediately.

Since 7 October 2023, there have been reports of more than 37,000 Palestinian fatalities in the Gaza Strip, as well as more than 1,200 fatalities in Israel. The consistent attacks on civilians and civilian infrastructure in the Gaza Strip, including humanitarian aid workers and volunteers serving in the region, are outright violations of resolutions of the Council. The Council must continue to strongly condemn those violations of international human rights.

Sierra Leone remains deeply concerned about the significant rise in the scale and depth of humanitarian needs in the Gaza Strip, which are being exacerbated by severe access restrictions, including the closure of key crossings, denials and delays in processing humanitarian relief access. The destruction of essential infrastructure, such as roads, and the presence of debris and unexploded ordnance in the armed conflict, further limits the capacity of humanitarian organizations to deliver vital assistance at scale to the suffering population.

We empathize with the 1.7 million internally displaced men, women and children in the Gaza Strip, crammed in congested areas and exposed to unfavourable weather conditions. Unsanitary conditions, overcrowding in makeshift shelters and inadequate water have resulted in increases in waterborne diseases.

At this crucial stage of finding common ground for peace negotiations between Israel and Palestine, the situation in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, demands our sustained attention. Recent developments between settlers and Palestinians indicate the potential for possible escalation and increased casualties.

To that end, permit me to emphasize the following points in ensuring compliance with resolution 2334 (2016).

First, we reaffirm that any attempt to expand settlements activities in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, constitutes a flagrant violation under international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution.

Secondly, we reiterate our calls for parties to the conflict to stop all violence against civilians and honour their obligations as outlined in international law, including international humanitarian law and all International Court of Justice orders issued on the matter. In the light of that, we demand the safe release of the remaining 129 hostages held by Hamas since 7 October 2023 without further delay.

Also, parties to the conflict are reminded to refrain from unilateral and provocative actions, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric, which undermines trust, erodes confidence and limits the space for dialogue and negotiations. Those actions are counterproductive to the aim of having two effective States coexisting side by side. Protracted military attacks and restrictive administrative measures being deployed by Israel against Palestine ultimately destroy its ability to develop the good governance, effective security and sustainable socioeconomic development conditions necessary to support peace and security in the region.

In conclusion, my delegation urges parties to the conflict to respect and abide by the decisions of the Council as outlined in all its resolutions, including resolutions 2334 (2016), 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024). We emphasize the binding nature of all the resolutions and the implications associated with non-compliance under international law.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): I would like to extend my gratitude to the Secretary-General for his report (S/2024/480) and to Mr. Wennesland for his briefing.

Once again, we convene to address the situation in the occupied Palestinian territories, nearly nine months after the occupying Power initiated its senseless aggression against the defenceless Palestinian people.

There is no need to reiterate the figures. The humanitarian situation in Gaza, already catastrophic, has further deteriorated. People are dying from starvation. They are dying from hunger in Gaza. That is the cruel reality. The culprit is well known — the Israeli occupying Power. It must be held accountable for that devastation.

Ms. Navi Pillay, Chair of the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, and Israel, has stated

“The Commission concluded that Israeli authorities were responsible for war crimes, crimes against humanity, using starvation as a method of war, forcible transfer and cruel or inhuman treatment.”

The objective of that barbarity is clear — a second Nakba. Yes, the occupying Power is aimed at destroying Gaza and displacing its population. An Israeli minister has even stated:

“We do not have an interest in governing the people of Gaza, but also cannot live near a state of human animals.”

We echo the Secretary-General’s warning against the risk of further escalation in the region. The risk of the Middle East conflict widening is real now. It must be avoided. Continued violence serves no one’s interests.

While the situation in Gaza is catastrophic, the Secretary-General’s report indicates clearly that conditions in the West Bank are no better.

In that regard, I would like to highlight several points.

First, the situation in the West Bank will deteriorate further if the occupying Power does not cease its policy of terror, expansion and settlement. We call for full compliance with resolution 2334 (2016). Security Council resolutions are binding and must be implemented. The purpose of our meeting today is to monitor the implementation of this very resolution and to draw the appropriate conclusions.

Secondly, settler terror has reached an unprecedented level. Such activities are often perpetrated under the protection of the Israel Defense Forces, which, under international humanitarian law, has the obligation to protect the Palestinian civilians. We demand accountability for the perpetrators of these acts of terror.

Thirdly, provocations by settlers in Al-Quds Al-Sharif and at Al-Aqsa Mosque will definitely fuel tensions and risk further escalation. We condemn these repeated provocative assaults on the holy sites and reaffirm that the entire area of Al-Aqsa Mosque, is an exclusive Muslim place of worship. The historic and legal status quo of the holy site must be respected.

Fourthly, the Palestinian Authority should be empowered to assume its responsibilities. We condemn the occupying authorities' decision to suspend the transfer of clearance revenues collected on behalf of the Palestinians. Those revenues belong to the Palestinians and are not a charity from the Israeli occupying Power. They must be released without delay.

Fifthly, If those violations had occurred elsewhere, sanctions would have already been imposed. We therefore demand sanctions against the occupying Power for non-compliance with Security Council resolutions, including resolution 2334 (2016).

In conclusion, those who believe that they can uproot the Palestinians from their land by force are mistaken. The Israeli occupying Power's plans will ultimately fail, not because of international intervention or a change in the Israeli behaviour, but because the Palestinians — the people of Palestine — have learned from the Nakba of their ancestors. They will not leave their homeland. They will continue their struggle until they fully enjoy their rights, including the right to self-determination and the establishment of their State with Al-Quds Al-Sharif as their capital.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of the Republic of Korea.

I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing.

International norms regarding Israeli settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967 are obvious. Paragraph 1 of resolution 2334 (2016) clearly provides that such settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, constitute a flagrant violation under international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and peace. The Republic of Korea is deeply worried that settlement activities by the Israeli Government and illegal settlers are not only ongoing, but indeed expanding — even during this dire juncture. We urge Israel to cease such activities and to respect relevant international law and United Nations resolutions.

The adoption of resolution 2735 (2024), earlier this month, showed the strong support of the Council for diplomatic efforts by the United States, Egypt and Qatar to achieve an immediate ceasefire and release of hostages. And we were highly hopeful for the success of the deal. Sadly, we have yet to hear any news on the finalization of the deal and, as of now, the conflict in Gaza has not shown any sign of abatement.

However, we expect that negotiations will be maintained, and urge all parties, notably Hamas, to say yes to the deal for the release of hostages and an immediate ceasefire, and to implement Council resolutions.

We note, with serious concern, that the report of the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, and Israel (A/HRC/56/26) found evidence of grave crimes, including war crimes and crimes against humanity, committed on and after 7 October by Hamas and Israeli security forces. We remain horrified by the heinous and unjustifiable terrorist attacks by Hamas and other militant groups, which included killing and sexual violence. We are also gravely alarmed by Israeli acts in Gaza, including widespread attacks against civilians, resulting in massive fatalities and destruction. We call for accountability for the crimes described in the Commission of Inquiry's Report.

We also observe that the Secretary-General's report (S/2024/480) on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) details ongoing violence in the West Bank, either by the Israeli security forces and settlers or by Palestinians. We call on Israel to respect the rights of Palestinians and to take measures to prevent and punish settler violence. Also, in accordance with resolution 2334 (2016), calling for a halt to all provocative actions and incitement, we urge both parties to cease all inflammatory rhetoric, including remarks by Israeli high-level officials that promote settlement expansion and population transfer. We also appeal that Israel cease withholding tax revenue from the Palestinian Authority.

As resolution 2735 (2024) reiterates, the commitment of the international community to the two-State solution is unwavering and, in order to take meaningful steps toward that goal, the current conflict in Gaza must come to an end as soon as possible. All the hostilities in the region, including those across the Blue Line between Israel and Lebanon, should also cease. Now is the time to move towards the realization of peace for all.

I resume my functions as President of the Council.

I now give the floor to the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine): I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his presentation of the Secretary-General's quarterly report (S/2024/480) on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016).

The report of the Secretary-General tells a story — a story members know only too well, but to which they should never grow accustomed. It is a story of the dispossession and displacement of communities by violence and unjust laws and orders; a story of colonial settlement and annexation that are undeniable, unrelenting and unapologetic; a story of indiscriminate attacks against Palestinians, mass killing and maiming of an entire civilian population, mass graves, attacks on hospitals and the United Nations and its personnel; the killing of humanitarian workers and wanton destruction of civilian infrastructure and living conditions. It is the story of Israelis' continuing attempt to destroy Palestine and its people and the world's failure to put an end to it.

I did not come here to speak about policies that all members know and denounce. I am here to sound a wake-up call to us all and to underscore that the writing of this ongoing tragedy started long ago. All the signs were there, and yet no action was taken to address this existential threat we are facing. It is time to break the taboo of Israel's impunity. Let me put this in the clearest terms possible: there must be no arms with which to kill us, no money with which to colonize us, no trade with which to rob us. Every State has a duty to make this its starting point: it must ensure its Government, entities, companies and citizens do not contribute in any way or anymore to Israelis' crimes against the Palestinian people.

Let me commend all of those countries that have actively supported Palestinian rights, supported our people and our Government, provided humanitarian relief, taken legal action, adopted concrete measures aimed at putting an end to these crimes and adopted sanctions against settlements and violent, extremist settlers. I of course commend those countries that have recognized the State of Palestine and advocated for its membership of the United Nations and urge those that have not yet done so to take the right step of recognizing the State of Palestine as a means of investing in peace and saving the two-State solution.

But much more is needed to restrain the Israeli Government, which while members help us build, destroys; while they fund, steals; while they promote Palestinian rights and independence, denies our rights and acts to destroy our State, and with it, the two-State solution and any chance for peace. Whose will is stronger? The will of the extremists in Israel or the will of the peacemakers around the world? The Israeli extremists in power are ready to do whatever is necessary to destroy peace. Are members ready to do whatever is necessary to salvage it? We will do our part, as we have done in the worst of circumstances, with an ironclad commitment to the rule of international law, but the party breaching the law every single day must be held accountable. Laws are adopted to ensure justice, but there can be no justice without enforcement. One cannot have one party acting responsibly, while the other is acting with full impunity, and expect a different outcome than the appalling situation we face.

This Israeli Government is defying every measure the Council takes to support our freedom and to achieve peace and security for Palestinians and Israelis alike. They take punitive measures against us and against members. They openly declare for the whole world to hear that, in response to our actions and those of the Council grounded in international law and aimed at upholding it, they will commit further crimes. They openly declare that they will settle more of the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, breach the historic and legal status quo, continue their assaults on the sanctity of the holy sites and withhold Palestinian tax revenue. They so declare with the utmost shamelessness, in disregard of the law, confident that their impunity will endure. Such is the arrogance of the fundamentalists and colonizers. They attack their closest allies as if they were enemies just because they criticize Israeli policies and show no hesitation in attacking and insulting all of those here. They are very quick to do so with such regularity in this Chamber, in the General Assembly and elsewhere. Criticism, therefore, is not enough. Consequences are what is needed.

Let me speak of those who are mentioned only at the very end of the Secretary-General's report but barely ever mentioned in this Chamber and are left to their suffering and terrible ordeal as if they do not deserve to be recognized and to have their humanity and rights respected.

We are a nation of prisoners. There is scarcely a Palestinian family that has not had, or does not have, members imprisoned in Israeli occupation jails. Those prisoners were already suffering on account of arbitrary arrest, torture, ill-treatment and sexual abuse and violence long before 7 October 2023. Since then, they have been living in sheer hell. We are a nation of 1 million Palestinian prisoners. Thousands of Palestinians have been abducted and tortured and many have been killed in detention; several have undergone amputation as a result of ill-treatment. The number of Palestinians who have died in Israeli detention in the last eight months is four times that of the number of prisoners who have died in Guantánamo in 20 years. Abduction, torture, enforced disappearances, the use of prisoners as human shields and sexual violence against men, women and children — yes, children — are not worthy of outrage if the victims are Palestinians. Some of the first rules of humanitarian law, adopted hundreds of years ago, were about the treatment of prisoners, because they were vulnerable in the hands of the enemy and it was considered an indignity to harm them when they were defenceless. And that was to protect combatants, so imagine when the detainees are civilians, when they are children. An essential part of the freedom of our people is the freedom of our prisoners.

In conclusion, as has been roundly and repeatedly affirmed around this table, the resolutions of the Security Council are binding, including resolution 2735 (2024). We call for their full implementation, without delay and as a matter of urgency. Resolution 2735 (2024) is clear that there are three phases in the ceasefire proposal, including phase 2, which foresees a permanent end to hostilities and Israel's full withdrawal from the Gaza Strip. The proposal is not subject to a destructive process of picking and choosing that renders it devoid of meaning. We are well aware of the objective of the conflicting messages from Israeli leaders, notably Netanyahu himself, suggesting that this is all a scheme and that the assault will continue under any circumstances. The aim is to sabotage the initiative of the United States without taking the blame for it and to sabotage the efforts of Egypt and Qatar and of the international community as a whole.

The best way to frustrate Netanyahu's goals is to achieve an immediate ceasefire and to do so now to not allow him to continue to play with so many members' minds. The best way to save human lives is to achieve an immediate ceasefire, and we want to save lives — all lives, not only Palestinian lives. An immediate ceasefire is indispensable for all — for Palestinians first and foremost — to stop the mass killing and maiming, the arbitrary arrests and wanton destruction, the mass starvation of our people in Gaza, of whom 96 per cent face catastrophic levels of food insecurity, but also for the Israelis being held captive and their families, for our region, which cannot bear further escalation and destruction, for humankind and for what remains of our international-law-based order.

It is time to end this illegal, abhorrent 57-year occupation, time to free the Palestinian people from the endless oppression and torment that their ruthless occupier has inflicted on them for decades and vows to continue inflicting without end, driven by its colonial agenda, ethnic cleansing, apartheid and now genocide, the pillars of its policies against the Palestinian people. No one can survive by simply relying on the power of the sword, especially a sword provided by another. Justice and peace are the best guarantees for our peoples. We call on the Council to go further and act faster in ensuring that they are not forever lost in this assault, leaving us prey to a reality that will devour us all. Blessed be the peacemakers. Now is the time for them to demonstrate that they have the will and the courage to do what is needed before it is too late.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Miller (Israel): Just this past week, the international community and the United Nations commemorated the International Day for the Elimination of Sexual Violence in Conflict. While the world advocated for the eradication of sexual violence as a weapon of war and terror, that is the reality of 16 Israeli women who are still being held hostage by Hamas terrorists in Gaza, ever since the 7 October 2023 massacre. In all, 120 Israeli hostages are still being held captive in harsh conditions, undergoing mental, physical and sexual abuse. One of them is Naama Levy, who turned 20 in captivity just three days ago, surrounded by terrorists and rapists for the past 262 days. Why is the Security Council not focused on addressing the dire humanitarian situation of the hostages? What does it have to say to Hersh Goldberg-Polin, Eliya Cohen and Or Levy, whose brutal kidnapping video from 7 October was released yesterday? What would members say to their families, who watched their children being dragged from a shelter, bloody, scarred and hurt, being abused throughout their torturous drive into Gaza?

Hamas's refusal to release the hostages through diplomacy proves that the efforts to bring our hostages home must also include military means. The recent Israel Defense Forces rescue operation that brought four hostages back home was an example of how that can be achieved. Israel stands firm on its principles, and they have not changed. We will continue until the last remaining hostage is returned, and we will not stop until Hamas's military and governing capabilities are dismantled. We are committed to the Israeli proposal, which President Biden has welcomed. Our position has not changed. Those have been our goals from day one.

As for the humanitarian situation in Gaza, since the beginning of the war, more than 36,000 aid trucks have been brought into Gaza. That is more than 682,000 tons of humanitarian aid, which has included food, water, shelter, equipment, medical supplies, fuel, gas and more. The problem was, and remains, the collection and distribution of that aid by the United Nations. Almost all United Nations requests for the coordination of humanitarian convoys have been or are being approved, and the daily pauses in operations against terrorists continue to enable the distribution of aid. Yet Hamas continues to attack aid convoys, serving their dual objectives of stealing food and supplies for terrorist combatants and disrupting the delivery of aid. On 14 June, Hamas fired five projectiles towards Israel from a humanitarian aid area in central Gaza. Two of them crossed into Israeli territory, and three fell within Gaza. Where was the Council's outrage at that?

Hamas is entirely to blame for this conflict. It launched an unprovoked, brutal invasion of Israel, a sovereign country, murdered innocent civilians and took hundreds of hostages. They are still holding our loved ones in Gaza, while continuing their attacks on Israel. They use Gazans as human shields, while pursuing their genocidal aims. Alongside that, more and more weapons of the Hamas terrorists continue to be discovered inside United Nations facilities, universities, civilian homes, mosques and other civilian sites. It is imperative that the Council finally hold Hamas accountable, assign blame where it belongs and unequivocally condemn terror and its sponsors.

The Security Council has a responsibility to exert relentless pressure on terrorists, whether it be Hamas in Gaza or Hizbullah in Lebanon. Over the past months, Hizbullah has increased its attacks on Israel, firing thousands of rockets, suicide drones and missiles from Lebanon towards Israel on a daily basis. Israel will not allow the Hizbullah terror organization to continue attacking its territories and citizens. In an all-out war, Hizbullah, which has been violating Security Council resolutions for years, endangering both the Israeli and Lebanese peoples as well as United Nations peacekeepers, will pay the price.

The meeting rose at noon.

Expression of thanks to the outgoing President

The President (spoke in Russian): I should like to take this opportunity to pay tribute, on behalf of the Council, to His Excellency Mr. Joonkook Hwang, Permanent Representative of the Republic of Korea, for his service as President of the Council for the month of June.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President (spoke in Russian): In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023), to participate in this meeting.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Ms. Kaag.

Ms. Kaag: Nearly nine months have passed since the horrific terror attack by Hamas against Israel on 7 October 2023. The scars of that day run deep, and the pain of the hostages and the torment for their families are constant reminders to the Israeli people and political life. During the same period, Palestinian civilians in Gaza have been plunged into an abyss of suffering. Their homes lie shattered, their lives upended. The war has not merely created the most profound of humanitarian crises, it has unleashed a maelstrom of human misery. The public health system, as members know, has collapsed, schools have been destroyed and the disrupted education system threatens future generations acutely. With summer temperatures soaring and severe shortages of basic services, such as waste management, sanitation facilities and water supplies, the spectre of outbreaks of infectious and communicable diseases looms large.

Following the Israeli offensive against Rafah since 6 May, more than 1 million people have been displaced once again, desperately seeking shelter and safety. In total, 1.9 million people are now displaced across Gaza. I am deeply concerned about reports of new evacuation orders, issued in the area of Khan Younis, which have a deep impact on the civilian population. In Gaza, nowhere is safe. Behind every statistic is a human story of hope, dignity and aspirations. On my visits to Gaza, I am met with voices that echo a single, heart-wrenching question: will our suffering ever end?

It cannot be repeated often enough: we need an immediate, full and complete ceasefire in Gaza. We demand the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and unimpeded and continuous access to deliver aid at scale throughout the Gaza Strip, in line with resolution 2735 (2024). International humanitarian law and international human rights law must be respected by all. The protection of civilians remains the paramount priority. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East must be allowed to deliver on its mandated role.

Since my previous briefing (see S/PV.9617), I have continued to engage with key Governments and other regional stakeholders at the highest political levels. I met Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and key Cabinet members again two weeks ago, further to resolution 2720 (2023). The resolution establishes a framework to expedite, streamline and accelerate the delivery of humanitarian assistance throughout Gaza. As expected, that has been fraught with challenges. Yet deliverables include the establishment of additional supply routes and the streamlining and facilitation that have taken place, while the space for acceleration remains very much subject to political will, as well as the enabling environment and the conditions on the ground. There is no substitute for political will.

In addition, the resolution mandated the establishment of a mechanism for the monitoring and verification of humanitarian assistance. The mechanism is now capturing humanitarian aid shipments from Jordan, Cyprus, Israel and the West Bank into Gaza, ensuring greater volumes at certain times — I underline, at certain times — transparency and prioritization. Its establishment in a matter of months is the result of tremendous collaboration and support from the United Nations Office for Project Services. The activation of the mechanism for supplies from Egypt is expected by mid-July. Subject to visa approval, United Nations monitors are getting ready to deploy to the mechanism's newly established offices in Gaza. Options are being discussed on the feasibility and longer-term planning of the Cyprus maritime corridor with continued direct access to Gaza.

Finally, the mechanism will also serve as the main platform to facilitate the entry into Gaza of all critical humanitarian items, consolidating existing practices, further to the intent of the resolution. I encourage Member States to continue to preposition supplies and to allocate financing to humanitarian agencies. Additional contributions are urgently needed to address and meet the gap in the $2.5 billion flash appeal. As foreseen by the resolution, in September, I will submit my last report to the Council, at which point I will also share my broader observations.

During my previous briefing, I reported that, on 5 April, the Israeli war cabinet made several commitments related to resolution 2720 (2023). My mission has been monitoring the implementation of those and other commitments, some of which are in place. They include: the direct entry of humanitarian aid to Gaza from the north via the Zikim and Erez crossings, as well as the use of the port of Ashdod; approval for the resumption of the electricity line into the desalination facility in Khan Younis — while the Nahal Oz water line was also opened, I note that there are reports this morning that indicate that the water line was unfortunately damaged again in hostilities last night; permission for select medical items to enter, for instance the United Nations Population Fund maternity wards and field hospitals in northern Gaza; further critical communication and protective equipment, which are vital for United Nations and broader humanitarian operations in Gaza have recently been approved and transferred to Gaza, while discussions on other essential items are still ongoing; and the continued use of Gate 96 to allow the entry of humanitarian supplies and fuel. We have seen an increase in the volume of commercial cargo entering Gaza, albeit irregularly, and we are in discussions to ensure that commercial supplies are in line with the immediate needs of the population, meeting humanitarian requirements.

Prime Minister Netanyahu has made further commitments to expedite the delivery of essential supplies for water, sanitation, waste management and medical and educational needs. Urgent action is needed. Following last week's evacuation of 21 Palestinian children with serious illnesses and their accompanying adults from Gaza to Egypt via the Kerem Shalom/Karem Abu Salem crossing, discussions are ongoing to establish a more regular and predictable system for medical evacuations for patients, facilitated by the World Health Organization. In view of the immense need, I consider that to be a priority and ask for members' urgent attention and support.

In line with the resolution, a sustained flow of assistance to Gaza is needed to deliver the necessary quantity and quality of goods through all land and sea crossings, including the Rafah border crossing. That requires a continued focus. The ability of the United Nations and humanitarian partners to operate safely and securely within Gaza is equally important in view of the ever-growing risks. Since the start of the Israeli military operation in Rafah and the subsequent closure of the Rafah border crossing in early May, the volume of aid entering into or being distributed across Gaza has dropped significantly. Military activity and the lack of safe routes within Gaza continue to have a severe impact on humanitarian operations. Furthermore, a near-total breakdown of civil order has led to an environment of lawlessness and criminality.

That worrisome trend further hampers the ability of the United Nations to deliver on its mandate. Many members will be familiar with the images of supplies accumulated at the Kerem Shalom/Karem Abu Salem crossing. The United Nations has asked Israel to find solutions to enable the safe delivery of aid, including its distribution — aid that should be reaching Palestinian civilians across the Gaza Strip. Since 26 May, trucks from Egypt have been temporarily rerouted via Kerem Shalom/Karem Abu Salem. To further the reopening of the Rafah border crossing, my mission has submitted proposals to the parties regarding the possible reopening of the Rafah border crossing based on the options provided.

Urgent action is still necessary regarding the following: the establishment of an effective, credible and predictable deconfliction and coordination system across Gaza — discussions on that matter are currently under way, as members know; continued access to all security and communications equipment, as well as the critical humanitarian items needed for the delivery or repair of basic services; route clearance from mines and unexploded ordnance and the approvals urgently needed to undertake those assignments; the prepositioned storage and movement of the daily volume of fuel needed; and the import of spare parts and relevant maintenance equipment.

Concerning the diversification of routes and sustainability of supplies, we need a further scaling up of the Jordan corridor; an expansion of the volume of aid entering via the Zikim and Erez crossings respectively; the opening of additional crossings, especially to south Gaza; a consideration of the movement of aid from north to south Gaza; and last but not least, the urgent reopening of the Rafah border crossing, also with a view to the important planning for recovery and reconstruction.

While humanitarian assistance will be required for years to come, planning and preparing for the early recovery and reconstruction of Gaza is essential. We cannot ask Palestinian civilians to put their future on hold while they cling to their human dignity under the most inhumane circumstances. Establishing the framework and priorities for early recovery and reconstruction is both political and technical. While politics and conditions on the ground may dictate the pace and nature of those efforts, preparations should not wait. Let us also look at what can be done now to complement and support the humanitarian response. Palestinians in Gaza, young and old, should not be asked to wait.

The Palestinian Authority has a critical role to play in the Gaza Strip. It is integral to planning for the implementation of Gaza's recovery and reconstruction, and the international community must ensure its financial stability and support its reform, governance and other capacities needed to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza. I would also like to underline that the creation of a modern local economy across the Gaza Strip should be a priority. Palestinians cannot be expected to depend on humanitarian assistance alone. Commercial activity must grow, and the private sector must be revitalized. The mechanism established pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023) can be used to facilitate the scale-up, acceleration and expedition of all goods needed for Gaza for early recovery and reconstruction, which is beyond the current humanitarian focus.

Ambitious reconstruction planning also requires ambitious and generous financing. That means the international community must consider a range of financing options and instruments, from traditional development financing to the establishment of new trust funds and tried-and-tested innovative financing instruments, with a view to sustaining the necessary levels of investments and guaranteeing financing flows, including those from the private sector.

When we talk about recovery, reconstruction or financing, it can seem abstract, but if we view it through a human lens, that of our fellow human beings, it means the following: dignified shelter while more permanent housing is being built and/or refurbished; the restoration of basic functioning health, sanitation and water systems; the urgent rehabilitation of schools or the establishment of other places of learning relevant to education; the creation of income-generating jobs; sustained and specialized mental health and psychosocial support services; support to local civil society organizations or non-governmental organizations, in particular those led by those inspiring young people or the strong women of Gaza I keep meeting on every visit; special attention and support is needed for the estimated 17,000 children orphaned by this war alone; and, to restore people's dignity and quality of life, we must urgently extend our hand to those with disabilities, including the vast number of young and old civilians who have suffered amputations and require constant support, including through the import of prostheses. Some of that work should start now despite conditions on the ground, and it deserves unwavering international support.

Resolution 2720 (2023) has achieved the intended and significant progress, but as I mentioned there is no substitute for political will, full respect for international humanitarian law — especially when it comes to the protection of civilians — and a safe and enabling environment to secure effective distribution. Although intentions and commitments may be convincing, the only credible measure of change and progress are the improvements in the lives and well-being of Palestinian civilians in Gaza. There is a long road to travel to realize that, and much more remains to be done, lest we fail the Palestinians in the Gaza Strip. And of course, it remains our duty to advocate for lasting peace between Israel and a fully independent, viable and sovereign Palestinian State, alongside a safe and secure Israel.

In conclusion, I would like to share a few lines from a Palestinian girl, in Gaza, shared with me on one of my field visits. It is not necessarily in my style to do so, but I would like to read them to the Council:

(spoke in Arabic)

My name is Fatima Al Masri. I am 8 years old. I am from Gaza. I love my country. I love my friends. I live in a camp. I would like to live in my house, like all other children.

(spoke in English)

We owe it to all children.

The President (spoke in Russian): I thank Ms. Kaag for her briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mrs. Shino (Japan): I thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, for her valuable updates describing the human misery, as she said, that is having a negative impact even on future generations, as well as for her valuable observations and calls for urgent action.

The humanitarian situation in Gaza remains catastrophic, with no end in sight. As hostilities continue, Palestinians are experiencing repeated displacement, starvation and little to no access to essential goods and services. Every passing day of the conflict only brings more casualties, devastation, trauma and destruction. We must do all we can to meet the dire needs of those suffering in Gaza.

In that regard, Japan welcomes the full operationalization of the resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism dedicated to accelerating the delivery of humanitarian aid to Gaza. While Israel's military operation continues, we are relieved to hear of the significant progress in the coordination and management of humanitarian assistance to Gaza. We highly value the extensive and tireless engagement of Ms. Kaag and her team with the parties and relevant stakeholders, including the Government of Israel. We also commend the close cooperation of the countries of the region, such as Cyprus, Egypt and Jordan, as well as the United States, to expand the scale of aid delivery by maximizing access routes, including the maritime and additional land corridors. At the same time, we listened carefully to the words of Ms. Kaag describing the many persisting challenges that she and her team are facing, such as insecurity, a lack of deconfliction mechanisms across Gaza and the continued closure of the Rafah crossing. Japan offers its full support to the endeavours of Ms. Kaag and the resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism and stands ready to work with fellow Security Council members to effectively implement the mandate of the mechanism and address the remaining obstacles to humanitarian assistance.

Given the vast scale and scope of the needs in Gaza, the work of the United Nations, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), the backbone of the humanitarian response in Gaza, plays a crucial part in alleviating the suffering of the people, and therefore requires further financial support and other resources. For its part, since October 2023, Japan has provided humanitarian aid worth more than $120 million in sectors such as food, water, sanitation and hygiene, health and medical care through several international organizations and through Japanese non-governmental organizations. We have also made extensive in-kind contributions of blankets, jerry cans, plastic sheets and sleeping mats to UNRWA and other aid organizations. We will continue to provide necessary assistance and encourage others to provide further support as well. Ultimately, however, what is needed more than ever is the implementation of resolution 2735 (2024), which can pave the way for the release of hostages and an immediate ceasefire, leading to the safe and unimpeded distribution of humanitarian assistance throughout Gaza. Japan strongly urges Hamas to work in good faith based on resolution 2735 (2024) without further delay.

Lastly, we would like to stress that international law must be respected by all parties at all times. In particular, civilians must be protected, and the safety of United Nations and other humanitarian workers and premises must be ensured. We must continue to play our part in saving the lives of the innocent and work towards bringing peace and stability to the region.

Mr. Fu Cong (China) (spoke in Chinese): I congratulate Russia on its assumption of the presidency of the Security Council for this month. The Chinese delegation will fully support you and your colleagues, Mr. President, in your work. I also commend the Republic of Korea for completing its presidency of the Council last month.

I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag for her briefing. Ms. Kaag's briefing demonstrates once again the unprecedented deterioration of the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza owing to extreme shortages of supplies for survival and dire health conditions. Millions of people are struggling with hunger, disease, pain and despair. The humanitarian disaster in Gaza is human-made. The tragic scenes on the ground are serious breaches of international law and international humanitarian law.

Before our eyes, Gaza has been under blockade for nine months, with the supply of water, electricity, food, medication and fuel having been cut off and more than 2 million people living in an open-air prison in a state of precariousness and struggling to get by without food and other means of survival.

Before our eyes, the most important Rafah crossing has been forced to close for two months because of Israeli military operations, and thousands of trucks loaded with humanitarian supplies have to wait in long lines. The existing crossing points are far from being able to meet the demand for humanitarian aid. The huge investment in the floating dock by some countries and the many twists and turns in its use once again show that land transport routes are the key to expanding humanitarian access at scale and that their role is irreplaceable.

Before our eyes, the entry of humanitarian supplies into Gaza has been obstructed at every level, and a large number of people in need have been unjustifiably denied access to the most basic necessities, which they urgently need for survival. Humanitarian workers are not only denied effective cooperation, but they also face unreasonable difficulties and accusations.

Also before our eyes, the facilities of humanitarian agencies have become repeated targets, and the safety and security of humanitarian workers are not guaranteed. The facilities of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East have been repeatedly attacked, and humanitarian agencies, such as the International Committee of the Red Cross, have been put at risk by the fighting. The conflict has resulted in the deaths of more than 200 humanitarian workers, which is shocking and unprecedented in history. Deconfliction mechanisms have been rendered ineffective, and humanitarian workers have even been prevented from carrying essential communication equipment, such as radios.

All of the that is just the tip of the iceberg of the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza. We reiterate that hunger cannot be weaponized, humanitarian issues cannot be politicized and the human-made exacerbation of the humanitarian disaster is unacceptable. China urges Israel to fulfil its obligations under international humanitarian law, heed the overwhelming call of the international community, take concrete actions to ensure the rapid and safe entry of humanitarian supplies at scale into Gaza, ensure the safe and orderly distribution of humanitarian supplies throughout Gaza and cooperate fully with the United Nations and other humanitarian organizations.

The Council adopted resolution 2720 (2023) with the intention of expanding, at scale, humanitarian access, but that has clearly not materialized. It is necessary to examine the reasons that the resolution has not been effectively implemented. We call on the countries concerned to work harder to push for political will from the parties concerned to effectively remove obstacles preventing the large-scale entry of humanitarian aid into Gaza. We support Senior Coordinator Kaag in her continuing efforts and expect her to bring about tangible progress in accordance with the requirements of the Council resolutions, the expectations of the international community and the urgent needs of the people in Gaza.

The fundamental way to alleviate the humanitarian disaster and save innocent lives is through the immediate implementation of a lasting ceasefire and the early relaunch of the two-State solution. China calls on the international community to continue to make unremitting efforts to that end. We support the Council in taking further necessary action as soon as possible.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I would like to thank Ms. Kaag for her briefing. I once again pledge France's full support and call for the full implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024).

Ms. Kaag's briefing confirms the catastrophic nature of the situation in Gaza, with no glimmer of hope on the horizon. The number of civilian casualties continues to rise endlessly. The population needs aid to survive. Famine has set in, and 80 per cent of civilian infrastructure has been damaged or destroyed, including 95 per cent of educational facilities. Thousands of children are dead, missing, trapped under rubble, detained or isolated. An entire generation of children is being deprived of education and will suffer long-term trauma.

It is therefore imperative to remove all obstacles to humanitarian access. Such aid must be able to use all crossing points. France calls on Israel to immediately reopen the Rafah crossing to Egypt. We once again call on Israel to take all necessary measures to ensure the provision of basic services and humanitarian aid throughout the Gaza Strip. Israel must allow immediate, safe and unhindered humanitarian access, as ordered by the International Court of Justice. That means issuing the necessary permits to all humanitarian programmes and agencies, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East.

I thank the Special Coordinator for implementing a mechanism for coordinating aid so that goods entering Gaza match the reality of needs and reach their beneficiaries. While the volume of aid must be increased, the goods must also be able to be transported throughout the Gaza Strip and distributed safely.

There are still many restrictions on what objects and foods can enter Gaza, particularly when it comes to infrastructure related to health, water, sanitation and waste treatment. It is essential that the United Nations and humanitarian actors have access to suitable equipment to carry out their operations and prevent the situation from worsening. With the heat, there is a heightened risk of the spread of disease, which would lead to more civilian casualties.

The protection of humanitarian workers must also be guaranteed in all circumstances. The Council renewed its commitment in that regard in May, with the adoption of resolution 2730 (2024). This is a moral and legal imperative that applies to everyone. France pays tribute to all the humanitarian personnel killed in Gaza.

The laws of war and the humanitarian principles of precaution and proportionality in the conduct of hostilities must be respected. We call on all actors to guarantee the effectiveness of deconfliction mechanisms. The coordinating role of the United Nations is essential in that respect.

France demands an immediate ceasefire and the release of all hostages. We once again condemn the terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas on 7 October 2023. France is opposed to the current operation in Rafah. Pursuant to the order of the International Court of Justice, Israel must immediately cease its military offensive and any other action carried out in the Rafah governorate. France will continue to work towards a rapid end to the crisis, based on the two-State solution. The Israeli people must have security guarantees, and we must work to build a State for the Palestinians. A reformed Palestinian Authority will have a central role to play in that process, both in the West Bank and in Gaza, which are to be part of that Palestinian State. It is urgent to act towards that end.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I would like to thank the Republic of Korea for its presidency last month, and wish you, Mr. President, success during your presidency this month. I also thank you for organizing this briefing and express appreciation to Ms. Kaag for the updates provided on her work, pursuant to the mandate outlined in resolution 2720 (2023). Her briefing allows us to once again contemplate the depth of suffering that the Palestinian people continue to experience and the enormous challenges associated with alleviating their suffering. Meanwhile, hope remains distant.

Guyana has taken note of the complex operating environment in which humanitarian workers are attempting to bring relief to the ailing Palestinian population, and that aid is not reaching Palestinians at scale. It is especially concerning that humanitarian workers appear to be systematically targeted, presumably as part of a larger strategy to annihilate as many Palestinians as possible through deprivation and other means.

The lack of aid at scale is attributable, inter alia, to the inadequate number of available access points into Gaza and the absence of functioning notification and deconfliction mechanisms for the safety of humanitarian workers operating in Gaza. Those factors are compounded by the lack of security guarantees for civilians accessing aid and by the near total breakdown of law and order, which is affecting service providers' ability to deliver. Ms. Kaag also confirmed that today. The result of this consistent onslaught of challenges is multidimensional.

I will highlight two of the most concerning aspects.

The latest Integrated Food Security Phase Classification report on Gaza conveyed that 96 per cent of the population is facing acute food insecurity at crisis levels or higher, with almost half a million people living in catastrophic conditions. Guyana has also taken note that at least 557,000 women in Gaza are facing severe food insecurity, with mothers and adult women in a more precarious situation since they often prioritize feeding others and report greater difficulty in accessing food, compared to men. It has been observed, at various points, that improved humanitarian access has contributed to modest improvements in food security indicators and improvements in the diets of children. That reinforces the critical link between sufficient access and improvements in the humanitarian situation.

The collapse of the health system, as pointed out by Ms. Kaag, is another appalling consequence of concern. According to the World Health Organization, evacuation orders, deteriorating security conditions and population displacement are affecting the provision of health care. Fuel shortages and shortages of medicines and health supplies in Gaza Strip hospitals are hindering the delivery of life-saving medical care. Together with the unavailability of water, sanitation and hygiene services, these circumstances have led, inter alia, to a rise in infectious diseases and deaths due to simple injuries and chronic diseases.

Against that backdrop, Guyana reiterates three important calls.

First, there must be increased humanitarian access into Gaza. The number of crossings into Gaza is too limited, thus hindering the supply of humanitarian aid. In keeping with its international legal obligations, Israel must facilitate humanitarian aid. Guyana recalls the orders issued by the International Court of Justice on 26 January, 28 March and 24 May. We recall, in particular, that the Court stated in its May order that, “unhindered provision at scale by all concerned of urgently needed basic services and humanitarian assistance, necessitates that [Israel] maintain open land crossing points, and in particular the Rafah crossing”.

While Guyana supports efforts to scale up humanitarian assistance by all means, we stress that there is no substitute for land crossings. Guyana therefore supports the work of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza to that end.

Secondly, Guyana calls on the parties to ensure the safety of humanitarian personnel operating in Gaza. Humanitarian workers have been casualties of this war in unprecedented numbers. That is principally due to non-compliance with international humanitarian law, which dictates the proper functioning of deconfliction and notification mechanisms to facilitate the safe movement of humanitarian workers. Guyana recalls the recent adoption by the Council of resolution 2730 (2024) on the security of humanitarian and United Nations personnel, and it calls on the parties to fully comply with the provisions of that resolution.

Thirdly, Guyana demands an immediate ceasefire and an end to this war, which has claimed the lives of nearly 40,000 thousand civilians in the Gaza Strip. After nearly nine months of unrelenting war, the devastation is catastrophic and grows worse every day. That must stop, and Palestinians must be able to rebuild their lives. That is a critical factor. Furthermore, the international community must facilitate the rebuilding of Gaza. That is a critical factor in advancing the two-State solution. To that end, Guyana recognizes and supports the mandate of Ms. Kaag as outlined in resolution 2720 (2023). We stress the importance of cooperation from all parties for the successful implementation of that resolution. We also stress the critical role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East in any reconstruction effort in Gaza, owing to its decades of experience providing services to Palestinians in the territory.

In conclusion, the Council must never grow accustomed or immune to the reports of pain and suffering of the Palestinian people, especially when news cycles move on to different issues and the eyes on the Council gaze elsewhere. Our hunger to act must never diminish. I therefore conclude by reiterating Guyana’s commitment to working with the Council to bring this war to a swift end so that civilians can experience relief and the reconstruction of Gaza can commence in earnest.

Mrs. Baeriswyl (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I would like to thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, for her report. For me, the key takeaways are the urgent need to safeguard human dignity and the very concrete recommendations, which address issues ranging from education for children to reconstruction.

Since the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023) in December 2023, Ms. Kaag and her team have made every effort to speed up the delivery of aid to the civilian population. Nevertheless, we continue to face a humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza that defies description. Nine months after the acts of terror of 7 October 2023, which Switzerland has firmly condemned, we remain deeply concerned about the conflict in the Middle East, in particular the appalling humanitarian situation in Gaza. We condemn the fact that the hostilities continue to claim many civilian victims, particularly among children and the 1.7 million displaced persons in the Gaza Strip.

The new Integrated Food Security Phase Classification report confirms that already very bleak picture. Approximately 96 per cent of the population of the Gaza Strip is facing high levels of acute food insecurity, 15 per cent are at the highest — that is to say, catastrophic — level, and that proportion is likely to increase still further. The substantial risk of famine will remain as long as the conflict continues and humanitarian access is hampered.

Switzerland calls on all parties to comply strictly with their obligations under international law, in particular international humanitarian law and human rights law. International humanitarian law obliges parties to allow and facilitate humanitarian access to civilians in need and prohibits the use of starvation as a method of warfare. Civilians must have access to goods and services essential to their survival, such as drinking water, food and electricity.

In its orders, the International Court of Justice has confirmed the urgent need to deliver humanitarian aid to all of the Gaza Strip. However, the level of aid remains clearly and vastly insufficient in the face of the immensity of the need. As the Special Coordinator pointed out, safe, rapid and unhindered access through all crossing points remains a major challenge. It is urgent that that change. Sufficient assistance must reach those who need it. The parties to the conflict and other stakeholders must act.

We thank Jordan, Egypt and the United Nations for the conference on emergency humanitarian assistance for Gaza held in Amman earlier this month, which sent a strong political signal. At the conference and at Council meetings, Switzerland also reiterated its urgent call for an immediate ceasefire and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. Switzerland also demands that the parties respect their obligations under international law with regard to the persons they are holding. All such persons must be able to receive visits from the International Committee of the Red Cross and be treated humanely.

Switzerland calls for the full implementation of the relevant resolutions adopted by the Security Council, in particular resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024). Furthermore, as reaffirmed in resolution 2730 (2024), which was introduced by Switzerland, all parties to the conflict have an obligation to respect and protect humanitarian, United Nations and associated personnel, as well as their premises and property.

We all know that increasing humanitarian aid cannot by itself provide a lasting solution to the conflict in the Middle East. There must be a cessation of hostilities, and a political horizon must be urgently re-established. We therefore reiterate our firm support for the two-State solution. Indeed, the existence of two democratic States — Israel and Palestine, of which Gaza is an integral part — living side by side in peace within secure and recognized borders is the only way to peace, security and dignity to the people of the region.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): Sierra Leone congratulates and expresses its full support to the Russian Federation on its assumption of the presidency for the month of July. We also commend and congratulate the Republic of Korea for their successful presidency in June. I thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, for sharing her assessment of the humanitarian situation in Gaza and her efforts to implement resolution 2720 (2023).

The humanitarian situation in the Gaza Strip remains a high priority, especially with regard to addressing the critical security and administrative challenges that threaten the full implementation of resolution 2720 (2023) and all other relevant resolutions of the Council on that issue.

In the past eight months, Palestinians in the Gaza Strip have experienced a devastating war with catastrophic consequences, ranging from a massive death toll, injuries, multiple displacements, inadequate shelter and shortages of water, sanitation facilities, medications and other daily essential products to food insecurity and famine. That cannot be normalized, and we must refuse to normalize that human tragedy of epic proportions. The plight of women and children has been particularly devastating, as they still struggle to access the right quantity and quality of aid. As we heard in Ms. Kaag's briefing, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) has recently reported that essential sexual and reproductive health services in Gaza are severely limited, as only a few hospitals remain partially operational following multiple attacks on health-care facilities. A similar absence of specialized health-care facilities for children remains a key concern.

For months, heightened tensions and insecurity have continued to hinder the operations of aid agencies and the unimpeded flow of humanitarian assistance throughout the Palestinian territory. The continuous escalation of the conflict has affected the ability of these agencies to work effectively and provide life-saving assistance to civilians, despite their best efforts. Furthermore, as reported by OCHA, more than 193 United Nations personnel have been killed during the conflict, along with other humanitarian workers.

In support of United Nations efforts to address the challenges of effective humanitarian support in the Gaza Strip, Sierra Leone would like to emphasize the following two points.

First, we reiterate our support for the office of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator and recognize her sustained efforts through meaningful engagement and consultations with relevant stakeholders to enhance the facilitation and improve the coordination, monitoring and verification of all relief consignments into Gaza. We welcome her recent visit to the north of Gaza and her discussions with Israeli authorities to advance that mandate. In that regard, we believe that ongoing discussions with the Israeli Government and wider engagement aimed at resolving the protracted conflict between Israel and Palestine should prioritize the issue of the unimpeded provision of, and access to, humanitarian aid and essential services, which are so desperately needed in the Gaza Strip and in the occupied Palestinian territories. We also therefore welcome the high-level conference entitled “A Call for Action: Urgent Humanitarian Aid for Gaza”, held in Jordan on 11 June.

Secondly, we reiterate our call for all parties to the conflict to adhere strictly to their obligations under international law, in particular under international humanitarian law, all relevant resolutions of the Council and the binding provisional measures ordered by the International Court of Justice, aimed at protecting civilians, including humanitarian workers and civilian infrastructure. An effective deconfliction mechanism is necessary to guarantee the safety and security of all humanitarian personnel and allow for the rapid facilitation of humanitarian relief.

We welcome the operationalization of the United Nations mechanism and improved access in the north through the western Erez crossing. However, we note the constraints that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and other partners are encountering on the ground in storing, transporting and distributing aid to south and central Gaza. We call for access to be granted via all possible routes into the Gaza Strip and for such obstacles to be reduced together with delays and restrictions resulting from checkpoint and aid clearance procedures.

We are of the view that an immediate and sustained truce, leading to a cessation of hostilities, will significantly improve the humanitarian situation on the ground. We echo the words of the United Nations Secretary-General, calling for the current opportunity created by the recent peace initiative be seized: “It is high time for a ceasefire along with the unconditional release of hostages”.

In conclusion, Sierra Leone calls for continued support for the mandate of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator, who is working collaboratively to improve the lives of Palestinians in the Gaza Strip. We call for stronger collaboration and coordination with other United Nations agencies and consultants. Ultimately, adherence to the calls for an immediate ceasefire would go a long way to securing a deal that will finally end the current cycle of violence and suffering.

Mr. De la Gasca (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): Given that this is the Council’s first meeting of the month, I join in the commendation of the Republic of Korea for the considerable work it accomplished in June and would also like to extend my best wishes to the Russian Federation for its presidency during July; it can count on the full support of Ecuador.

I begin this statement by thanking Ms. Sigrid Kaag, United Nations Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for the report she has just given us and by renewing my country’s support for her stewardship.

A little over two months ago (see S/PV.9617), on the occasion of the latest report on the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023), I recalled that, since the beginning of the war in Gaza in October 2023, my country had repeatedly underscored that the civilian population of Gaza must have access to humanitarian aid in sufficient quantities and in a continuous and predictable manner. Today, despite the efforts made by Senior Coordinator Kaag and her team and other stakeholders, it has not been possible to ensure the unimpeded provision and distribution of humanitarian aid on a scale necessary to ensure the population of Gaza’s access to food, water, sanitation, electricity, telecommunications and medical services, which are essential to their survival. Humanitarian efforts continue to be affected by restrictions. Military operations in Rafah have affected the already insufficient entry of aid. Distribution remains a complicated and an extremely hazardous task. Meanwhile, living conditions are deteriorating and the risk of famine is not decreasing.

Ecuador values efforts to give effect to resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism and encourages the pursuance of that endeavour, notwithstanding the problems and challenges encountered. Those problems and challenges stem from a lack of political will. As Coordinator Kaag pointed out in April, a paradigm shift underpinned by political will is necessary. Without political will, it will not be possible to increase the quality and quantity of aid, to take measures to allow its safe and unhindered distribution within Gaza or to plan and prepare for early recovery and reconstruction. My country urges all parties to recall that resolution 2720 (2023) requires parties to the conflict to cooperate with Coordinator Kaag without delay or obstruction and to demonstrate their political will in that regard and all areas of the conflict.

In conclusion, I reiterate Ecuador's condemnation of the terrorist acts of Hamas that began on 7 October 2023 and all acts of violence against civilians, and I must reiterate my call for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and the immediate cessation of hostilities, in compliance with the resolutions of the Council.

Mr. Afonso (Mozambique): Mozambique wishes to begin by warmly congratulating you, Mr. President, and your country, the Russian Federation, on your assumption of the important position of President of the Security Council for this month of July. We wish to assure you of our fullest cooperation. We also commend the Republic of Korea on a most successful presidency in June. We thank the Russian Federation presidency for convening this important briefing on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question. We extend our profound gratitude to Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her insightful and very moving briefing on the situation in Gaza and on compliance with resolution 2720 of 22 December 2023 in particular.

By adopting resolution 2720 (2023), three months after the outbreak of the crisis in the Gaza Strip, the Council took an important step. We were moved by a determination to address effectively the catastrophic humanitarian situation that has befallen the Gaza Strip and the Palestinian people. Through the resolution, important mechanisms were envisaged and established in order to allow for a humanitarian response to the crisis, with regard afforded to full respect for the human dignity of the Palestinian people.

Six months have elapsed since the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023). From the report that we just heard, the stated goals of the resolution are far from being achieved as we meet today in the Council. On the contrary, we are witnessing deaths on a daily basis and on a large scale in Gaza. Hostages, on the other hand, have not yet been released and humanitarian assistance has not reached the millions of Gazans in need. We are deeply convinced that there are no plausible reasons for the current unjustified and unbearable suffering of the Palestinian people in Gaza. We demand that the humanitarian catastrophe come immediately to a halt. As Council members, we are duty-bound to continue addressing the situation in Gaza as a matter of urgency.

Mozambique commends the efforts of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, as well as the tireless work conducted by her team to ensure the implementation of that important resolution. We strongly encourage engagement with the relevant parties and the international community as a whole in the implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023) and 2720 (2023) and even the spirit of resolution 2728 (2024). We hold the view that the Council must stand united in its support for the work of Ms. Sigrid Kaag, her team and other stakeholders, with a view to addressing the current humanitarian crisis in Gaza.

The humanitarian efforts in Gaza require a solid ceasefire. In parallel, efforts must be made for the release of hostages, for full humanitarian access and assistance, for dialogue, for peace, for the reconstruction of Gaza and for the implementation of a two-State solution leading to a peaceful coexistence between Palestine and Israel, living side by side within secure and internationally recognized borders.

Mr. Camilleri (Malta): I would like to thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Kaag, for her briefing and her efforts.

Resolution 2720 (2023) sought to address the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza. It is gravely alarming that, nine months into the conflict, the conditions in the Strip remain dire and continue to deteriorate. Since 7 October 2023, more than 37,000 people have been killed as a result of the Israeli military operation, with countless others wounded. Seventy-five per cent of the Gazan population has been internally displaced — the majority on more than one occasion. Nearly the entire population is facing high levels of food insecurity, with concerning reports detailing the use of starvation as a method of warfare. Children continue to bear the brunt of the war. Israel's continued and expansive military operation into Rafah has further compounded existing risks for civilians and debilitated the humanitarian response, including through the seizure of the vital Rafah crossing, which remains inoperative.

The implementation of the relevant Security Council resolutions and the full, immediate and effective implementation of the orders of the International Court of Justice remain essential. The obligation to ensure the unimpeded and safe delivery of humanitarian aid into and throughout Gaza, including through the lifting of all barriers to the provision of humanitarian assistance on a large scale, remains paramount.

We are encouraged to note from Senior Coordinator Kaag's briefing that the mechanism established under resolution 2720 (2023) is now operational and contributing to improving coordinated efforts for aid delivery into Gaza. We maintain that land routes remain the most feasible and effective way to ensure that unprecedented levels of aid now enter the Strip.

It is troubling that fuel shortage issues persist, hindering aid operations and the functioning of critical civilian facilities such as water, health and sanitation, increasing the risks of communicable diseases in rising summer temperatures. Commercial goods must also be prioritized, as the people of Gaza cannot depend on aid alone. Furthermore, Malta is deeply concerned at reports of increased challenges for aid distribution within Gaza owing to rising insecurities, including lawlessness, criminality and looting. That deterioration on the ground places significant strain on the United Nations and its partners in continuing their respective relief efforts.

As demanded in resolution 2720 (2023) and in accordance with international humanitarian law, United Nations and humanitarian personnel must have robust assurances for their safety and security. Last week's killing of a Médecins sans frontières staffer is another tragic demonstration of the high price humanitarians and health workers continue to pay, with impunity.

All parties must fully respect and utilize the deconfliction mechanism. Independent investigations into all killings of United Nations and humanitarian staff must also be held. Furthermore, the work of the United Nations must not be politicized. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East is an irreplaceable actor, without which there can be no meaningful comprehensive aid operation in Gaza. It is operating under extremely difficult conditions, and it is crucial that the international community ensure that the Agency receives the required funding and support.

As we sit in another meeting on the situation in Gaza, we cannot risk normalizing this state of affairs. This persistent despair cannot become the inherent status quo for Palestinian civilians and the hostages who are still being held captive by Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad. On that note, we reiterate our call for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages.

Malta reiterates its call for an immediate and permanent ceasefire. We urge both Hamas and Israel to accept the terms of the proposal outlined in resolution 2735 (2024) and to put an end to further human suffering. That is the only way to allow for a significant surge of aid into and across Gaza. It would also allow the space for the massive recovery and reconstruction efforts that are necessary. Crucially, a ceasefire will bring us a step closer towards a vital political horizon. That is a fundamental requirement for the realization of the two-State solution and lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): At the outset, I congratulate you, Mr. President, on your assumption of the Security Council presidency for July, and I wish you every success in your duties. I also thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag for her briefing.

After nine months of a brutal killing machine being launched against the defenceless population in Gaza, the humanitarian situation is catastrophic. World Food Programme Executive Director Cindy McCain stated,

"People in Gaza are starving to death right now. The speed at which this man-made hunger and malnutrition crisis has ripped through Gaza is terrifying. ... There is a very small window left to prevent an outright famine, and to do that we need immediate and full access to the north [of the Gaza Strip]. If we wait until famine has been declared, it is too late. Thousands more will be dead".

Last December, the Security Council adopted resolution 2720 (2023) to establish a mechanism aimed at facilitating and simplifying the procedures for delivering humanitarian aid to Gaza — a mechanism that was presented as a solution to the obstacles imposed by the Israeli occupying authorities. What, then, is the situation today? A quick look at the latest United Nations statistics reveals an undisputed conclusion: resolution 2720 (2023) has proven ineffective. When that resolution was adopted, approximately 100 trucks entered Gaza daily. Before 7 October, there were 500. Today the same problems remain in spite of Ms. Kaag's efforts, and humanitarian actors continue to face numerous difficulties in gaining access to Gaza.

According to the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification (IPC) report, extremely limited humanitarian access to, and within, the Gaza Strip continues to impede the safe and equitable delivery of life-saving multi-sector humanitarian assistance critical for famine prevention and response. That includes severe limitations to the supply of goods and spare parts, as well as basic services. In June, the rate of access did not exceed 73 trucks per day. That small number is the result of the Israeli occupier's deliberate policy of using starvation as a means of war. How can we justify the destruction and burning of the Rafah crossing, which is now out of service? How can we justify all the bureaucratic obstacles that the occupation administration imposes on humanitarian access? Images of more than 1,200 trucks lined up on the Egyptian side of the Palestinian border demonstrate the deterrent and complex administrative processes. The rate of truck entry increased to 170 trucks per day in April, proving that the smooth entry of aid is linked only to international pressure and, unfortunately, to the occupier's willingness. We have repeatedly stated that the food crisis in Gaza is human-made; it is not a result of the failure of the international community or of United Nations mechanisms. It is due to the occupier's policy of using starvation as a means in its dirty war against the Palestinians.

Today the distribution of humanitarian aid remains a major concern. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), the backbone of humanitarian action in Gaza, is prevented from operating throughout the Gaza Strip. It is unacceptable that, even after the report of the Office of Internal Oversight Services and Ms. Colonna's report, UNRWA continues to be subject to attacks. We note that UNRWA was almost absent from the briefing that we heard today. Also, no provision related to its role in the distribution and reconstruction effort in Gaza was mentioned. In that regard, legitimate questions should be asked regarding the plans for that Agency, whose mandate is vital for the Palestinian people.

For us, UNRWA is irreplaceable, and the choice of non-governmental organizations to take on its tasks has proven ineffective. Furthermore, security issues related to distribution are to be expected. The Israeli occupying forces systematically attack Palestinian local police during aid deliveries. Today no one takes the risk of escorting aid convoys, because they will be targeted by the occupying Power. That is part of a deliberate policy aimed at destroying civil order and pushing Gazans out of their homeland.

While we debate the number of trucks entering Gaza and how to compel the Israeli occupier to respect its obligations under international humanitarian law, people in Gaza are starving to death. This is the worst situation ever documented. No one in Gaza is food secure — no one. The impact of blocking humanitarian aid from entering Gaza is seen in videos on social media that show people eating tree leaves, with some reports saying that leaves have become a commodity, not for livestock, but for people to feed on. The consequences of blocking aid are shown in the faces of all the people of Gaza — 2.2 million people — who are suffering from famine, as reported by the IPC.

In conclusion, we wonder if we in the Security Council will really be able to impose a solution that will put an end to the suffering of the Palestinians. The lives of Palestinians in Gaza are threatened by hunger and disease. Without urgent action, the world will witness a humanitarian tragedy that will go down in the dark annals of history.

Ms. Sullivan (United States of America): We thank Senior Coordinator Kaag for her briefing and for the continued work and dedication of her team to alleviating the dire humanitarian situation in Gaza. The United Nations humanitarian response capabilities and leadership are essential.

The Integrated Food Security Phase Classification recently projected that 96 per cent of Gaza's population, more than 2 million people, will likely experience crisis, emergency or catastrophic levels of food insecurity between now and the end of September. With much of Gaza's population facing catastrophic levels of hunger, the situation is at risk of worsening rapidly, especially with sustained disruptions to aid flows. We have consistently conveyed to Israel's senior leadership the need to provide sustained and unhindered access for humanitarian assistance to enter via all routes into Gaza. Expanding and accelerating humanitarian imports at Ashdod and opening all existing land crossings into Gaza, including at Rafah, are vital steps.

Relatedly, we appreciate Coordinator Kaag's update on efforts to distribute aid within Gaza so that it will reach the most vulnerable, including mothers and children. In that regard, we welcome Israel's commitment to fulfil specific United Nations requests and continue constructive conversations with United Nations officials on how best to meet the further needs of United Nations agencies and facilitate their work.

In order for humanitarian organizations to be able to safely continue their life-saving work, the Israel Defense Forces must implement concrete commitments to protect humanitarians and improve the overall security environment inside Gaza. We reiterate that the lack of an effective deconfliction mechanism, nearly nine months into the conflict, is unacceptable and continues to put humanitarian actors at tremendous risk.

While we continue to press Israel to improve humanitarian access, we know that the best way to address the crisis is for Hamas to accept the ceasefire proposal endorsed by the Council in resolution 2735 (2024). Doing so would create conditions to support a massive surge of relief for Palestinians, take steps to restore essential services and start early recovery efforts in Gaza. If the operating conditions improve, the humanitarian community can then provide life-saving assistance to the most vulnerable, including the many unaccompanied and separated children, pregnant women, the elderly and the many, many families who are going hungry and dying from preventable infections and disease. A ceasefire would also allow for increased commercial activity in Gaza, getting needed supplies to people and markets. Unfortunately, Hamas has ignored the calls from the Council and across the international community, coming back with new demands outside of the framework outlined by resolution 2735 (2024).

We continue to work with Israel, Egypt and Qatar to try to bridge the gaps, and as we heard this week, Israel remains on board. We urge all Council members to continue to press Hamas to accept this deal without delay or conditions and to bring about the ceasefire with a release of hostages.

At the same time, the United States remains committed to providing humanitarian aid and sustaining humanitarian access. In June, we announced an additional $404 million in life-saving humanitarian aid to support Palestinian civilians in Gaza, the West Bank and the region by providing food, safe drinking water, health care and protection. We also stand ready to continue supporting Senior Coordinator Kaag's efforts and would urge others on the Council to do so as well.

Mr. Žbogar (Slovenia): I would like to thank Senior Coordinator Kaag for her briefing today.

We are deeply disturbed by the findings of the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification report issued last week and mentioned a number of times already today. It emphasizes that nearly the entire population of Gaza — approximately 96 per cent — is facing acute food shortages. A high risk of famine persists across the Strip. In spite of four resolutions, in spite of the International Court of Justice's order, in spite of this mechanism and in spite of all briefings and commitments, the humanitarian situation is not getting better. The needs are on the rise and the humanitarian operational environment is collapsing. Diseases are spreading. Public order has crumbled. Criminal gangs are taking over. The social fabric is disintegrating.

We have no right to be surprised. Starvation and famine in Gaza are man-made, on this we agree with Algeria. It is a choice — a choice by Hamas, which is willingly sacrificing its people rather than agreeing to a ceasefire as defined in our resolution (resolution 2735 (2024)), and a choice by Israel not to fulfil its prime duty as the occupying Power. Israel is obliged to ensure access to food and medical supplies for the population on the territory it occupies, not just to allow the passage of aid. We fail to comprehend why Israel is not complying with the Geneva Conventions, the Council's resolutions or the International Court of Justice's order. We underline that using starvation as a method of warfare is prohibited under international law and may amount to a war crime.

We have heard from Israel that there are no restrictions on aid reaching Gaza. We find that hard to believe. Verified and trustworthy reports about hunger and the dire needs of Gaza's civilian population have been reaching us for months. If there are no restrictions on aid reaching Gaza, why do 50,000 children require treatment for acute malnutrition? We condemn the continuing attacks on humanitarian workers and United Nations humanitarian premises and convoys, including on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and others. Some have halted their operations out of concern for the lives of their staff.

More than 270 humanitarian workers have been killed in Gaza. Others are facing a multitude of operational challenges and obstacles. We repeat our call for the implementation of all measures to ensure the safety and security of humanitarian workers. This includes a fully functioning deconfliction mechanism and the honouring of other commitments made, such as tactical pauses. We also repeat our call for the immediate release of all hostages and for the ICRC to be granted unrestricted access to them. Holding them in Hamas tunnels for the past nine months is simply inhumane.

We welcome the sustained efforts by Jordan, Egypt and other countries to de-escalate the crisis and for their convening of a humanitarian conference in Amman.

We highly appreciate the efforts of Ms. Kaag and her team. We value her high-level contacts and advocacy work to keep the world's attention on this humanitarian crisis. We believe that the start of the work of the mechanism can provide us, humanitarian organizations and donors with an overview and analysis of the aid reaching and being distributed in Gaza. Yet, the main goal of accelerating the safe delivery of aid to every corner of Gaza is not in sight. We are missing the main ingredient for the mechanism's success, which is a ceasefire.

An end to the bombing and a ceasefire will not magically solve the problems for civilians in Gaza. It will only be the beginning of the end of their suffering. It will neither automatically lead to sustained and unhindered humanitarian access nor reduce the risk of famine. It will neither automatically restore public order nor open doors to reconstruction. It will neither automatically enable a political process leading to the two-State solution nor ensure that a human tragedy of epic proportions, as the representative of Sierra Leone described it, never again happens.

We agree with France that it is urgent that the Security Council start reflecting on Gaza beyond a ceasefire, even if today that seems so far away.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): Let me take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude to all Council members for their kind support during the Republic of Korea's presidency last month. We congratulate the Russian Federation on assuming the July presidency and wish you, Mr. President, all the best for this month. I thank Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag for her detailed and insightful briefing.

The Republic of Korea would like to express its sincere appreciation and support for Ms. Kaag and her team, as well as the relevant countries, for their efforts to advance the humanitarian mechanism established under resolution 2720 (2023). We welcome the improvements made to the process of humanitarian assistance, detailed by Ms. Kaag, including expediting the entry process for humanitarian cargo and activating some land and maritime corridors into Gaza. We hope that the mechanism can continue to contribute to the effective monitoring and tracking of humanitarian assistance and commercial goods.

However, we are deeply worried that, even with the launching of the mechanism in May, the humanitarian situation in Gaza is still deteriorating, particularly since Israel commenced military operations in Rafah in May. Some 1.1 million Palestinians are experiencing catastrophic food insecurity, and 67 per cent of Gaza's water and sanitation systems have been destroyed, while heat and dehydration surge. It is highly worrisome that, as the Secretary-General described last week, total lawlessness in Gaza is making the delivery of aid to those in need impossible. Tangible steps to end the tragedy must be implemented.

First, we stress that, under international law, it is the obligation of the occupying Power, Israel, not the United Nations or non-governmental organizations, to restore and ensure public order and safety in Gaza. When aid cannot be delivered to civilians, the number of trucks crossing the border into Gaza is meaningless and a mere statistic.

Secondly, humanitarian goods should be prioritized over commercial ones. Of course, humanitarian assistance alone cannot meet the needs of the 2.3 million civilians in Gaza. That is why we have called for the entry of commercial goods into Gaza, which commenced two months ago. However, permissions for commercial goods should not lead to a decrease in humanitarian cargo entering Gaza. Considering the economic collapse due to the ongoing hostilities, the rapid and safe delivery of essential humanitarian aid should be ensured and prioritized, especially for the most vulnerable people, who have limited access to commercial goods.

Thirdly, Israel should do more to protect humanitarian workers. Too many aid workers, including 193 United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East staff members, have been killed. Improved notification and a more effective deconfliction mechanism should be implemented. Coordination meetings between the Israel Defense Forces and humanitarian agencies should function as an effective platform to share all relevant information and prevent any security incidents. Resolution 2730 (2024), on the protection of humanitarian personnel and civilians, should be faithfully implemented.

Fourthly, all land crossings, leading to every corner of the Gaza Strip, must be opened. That will not only increase the volume of aid into Gaza, but also shorten the distance between the entry and distribution points. Opening the Rafah crossing is vital, as it is not only a crucial humanitarian entry point but also the main entry and exit point for people in Gaza, especially those in need of medical treatment.

To ensure all of those requirements, an immediate ceasefire, along with the release of all hostages, is urgently needed. People all around the world are eagerly watching to see the agreement detailed in resolution 2735 (2024) be finalized. Therefore, diplomatic efforts should continue, and all parties, including, notably, Hamas, must accept the conditions of the deal, without further delay. Then, based on the ceasefire, reconstruction, which is another key mandate of the Senior Coordinator, needs to begin, and negotiations towards the vision of the two-State solution should follow.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): At the outset of the Russian presidency, let me put on record the United Kingdom's strong view that all Council members — particularly permanent members, and even more so the presidency of the Council — have a responsibility to uphold the principles of the Charter of the United Nations. We deplore the fact that Russia is shamefully failing to do that in Ukraine.

I would like to start by joining others in thanking the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza for her important work to alleviate the suffering of Palestinian civilians in Gaza, including the focus on women and children. They are still suffering a devastating and deteriorating humanitarian crisis. Too many people have died.

We reiterate our strong condemnation of Hamas' 7 October 2023 attacks, and we call for the immediate release of all the remaining hostages and the return of all those who have died in captivity. We are appalled by reports of sexual violence and abuse. The United Kingdom stands firm in its condemnation of those heinous acts. A negotiated pause in the fighting that leads to a sustainable ceasefire is the best way both to secure the release of the hostages and to enable the major and essential scaling up of humanitarian aid. There is now a deal on the table, endorsed by the Council, to achieve those goals. The onus is now on Hamas to accept it.

We also continue to call on Israel to fulfil its commitments to increase the amount of aid getting into Gaza and to meet its obligations to facilitate unhindered humanitarian access. The findings of the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification famine risk assessment demonstrate that not enough aid is getting into Gaza and reaching those in need. We also call for the immediate reopening of the Rafah crossing, to scale up aid through all other crossing points.

The distribution of aid within Gaza also needs to improve. A guaranteed and functioning deconfliction mechanism is critical to that. We call on Israel to support the minimum operating requirements of the United Nations agencies by providing a timely approval of visas and allowing the entry of armoured vehicles and personal protective equipment.

Resolution 2720 (2023) provides for a mechanism that will show whether aid is reaching those who need it. I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag and her team for their work to establish that mechanism and urge her to continue her efforts to ensure it can deliver this in a comprehensive and timely way.

The President (spoke in Russian): I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of the Russian Federation.

(spoke in English)

Before I read my statement, I just wanted to say that we took note of the disclaimer made by the representative of the United Kingdom at the beginning of her statement. Also, we would like to note that it is not for the United Kingdom to teach and lecture Council members, including permanent ones, on upholding international law. The United Kingdom and other Western partners have long deviated from international law for the sake of the rules-based international order. The United Kingdom is the country that ignited and fuelled the conflict when it was about to be stopped in April 2022, and it was the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom who prevented the conclusion of a negotiated treaty between Russia and Ukraine that would have allowed the conflict to end at that time, which could have saved the lives of numerous unfortunate Ukrainians.

(spoke in Russian)

We would like to thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, for her briefing on the situation in the enclave and her efforts to ensure humanitarian access to the territory, pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023).

Today's briefing makes it abundantly clear that the nearly nine-month military operation of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) in the Gaza Strip, fully supported by Washington, renders useless all efforts to sustainably and adequately provide the necessary assistance to the people of Gaza. The situation on the ground is not only deteriorating, but also bringing Gazans to the brink of starvation. That is not a figure of speech, but a tragic reality.

In particular, the estimates of the World Food Programme clearly demonstrate that 96 per cent of Gazans — 2 million people — are in need of food aid. Almost half a million people are already suffering from famine, at the highest level of the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification — phase 5.

The ongoing military operation and Israeli raids have claimed the lives of more than 38,000 people, mostly women and children, and injured more than 87,000. Tens of thousands are missing. Civilian infrastructure has been nearly destroyed, including hospitals, schools and residential buildings. The situation is most dire in Rafah, where more than 1.5 million refugees had gathered by the beginning of the Israeli operation that the members of the Security Council unequivocally opposed. Those people are now, yet again, being forced to flee to wherever they can. Nothing can justify such actions by the occupying Power.

Given the complete lack of security, it is extremely difficult to talk about the effectiveness of the work of humanitarian organizations. The deconfliction mechanism and humanitarian notification system promoted by Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) is not working. That is a fact. On 13 May, a member of the United Nations Department for Safety and Security was killed, and a second member was injured when a United Nations vehicle was attacked. The Israeli side reported that an investigation was under way, yet we know nothing about the results of that investigation. Perhaps United Nations representatives could shed some light on the matter and provide some answers.

Since the start of the crisis, 274 humanitarian workers have died. Of them, 197 were United Nations personnel, and the majority — 193 — were staff of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). In addition, it is reported that 500 health workers have been killed.

Despite Ms. Kaag's carefully chosen words to describe her engagement with the parties to the conflict and the special humanitarian mechanism for Gaza established under resolution 2720 (2023), the reality is that humanitarian access is not being ensured. The main channels for aid delivery are operating at limited capacity and open for only short periods of time, when allowed by the Israeli authorities. But even when they are open, their capacity does not adequately cover the needs of the civilian population. Mr. Lazzarini, UNRWA Commissioner-General, stated that even after the IDF announced tactical pauses in fighting along aid delivery routes, nothing changed on the ground.

We are also deeply concerned about the latest reports by the Gaza Ministry of Health stating that fuel provisions to run hospitals will run out within 48 hours. We must understand that the lives of very sick patients hang in the balance.

Ms. Kaag cannot be blamed for this. It was clear from the outset that safe and sustainable humanitarian access to those in need cannot be ensured during intense fighting. We have said that on many occasions and have repeatedly called for a ceasefire.

We would like to make it clear. We commend the efforts of humanitarian organizations and the heroism of humanitarian aid workers, who continue to risk their own lives as they continue to work and assist the Palestinians. We believe that any aid, even in small amounts, is crucial and can save lives or, at the very least, alleviate suffering. We must continue working with the Palestinian and Israeli sides to seek ways to deliver humanitarian aid.

Meanwhile, Ms. Kaag, her team, OCHA and humanitarian organizations, in general, must soberly assess the situation on the ground and appropriately set priorities for their humanitarian efforts. For instance, it is high time to recognize that the maritime corridor between Cyprus and the Gaza Strip, along with the temporary pier built by the United States off the coast of the enclave have not lived up to expectations. Since the pier opened on 17 May, it has already been destroyed several times by inclement weather, and the amount of aid delivered through it is insignificant. It is unclear whether there are plans to rebuild the pier after its latest destruction. Its construction and operation cost hundreds of millions of dollars. In our view, instead of building the pier, Washington could have demanded that Israel ease its blockade on Gaza and allow the delivery of truly significant volumes of aid. We believe that continuing to rely on the maritime route and positioning it as the main artery for assisting the Palestinians is merely wishful thinking.

For our part, we will provide as much aid as we can to the Palestinians. Since the beginning of the crisis, more than 500 tons of humanitarian aid have been delivered by the Ministry of Emergency Situations of the Russian Federation aircraft to the Egyptian border town of Arish, for subsequent shipment to the besieged Palestinian enclave through the Egyptian Red Crescent Society. The latest round of deliveries occurred on 19 June. In addition to Government agencies, numerous Russian non-governmental and civil society organizations, as well as private individuals, have been actively involved in the collection of humanitarian aid for Palestinians in need. Thanks to all of their efforts, hundreds of tons of medicines, warm clothes, tents, foodstuffs and other essentials have been collected throughout Russia to be sent to the conflict zone for subsequent distribution among the people of Gaza.

We are convinced that given the unrelenting escalation of violence in the Palestinian-Israeli conflict zone, the Security Council must continue to exert pressure on Israel and its American ally in order to ensure an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire. That is the only way to establish the conditions for channelling the conflict into a political and diplomatic track. That requires, first and foremost, direct dialogue between Palestinians and Israelis on the entire range of final-status issues. This process should result in the implementation of the internationally recognized two-State solution providing for Israel and Palestinian, coexisting in peace and security within the 1967 borders.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

There are no more names inscribed on the list of speakers.

I now invite Council members to informal consultations to continue our discussion of the subject.

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: On behalf of the Council, I would like to note that, with regard to rule 37 and rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, the Council's approach will be to consider only those requests for participation that were submitted before the start of the meeting.

In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representative of Israel to participate in this meeting.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023); and Mr. Jorge Moreira da Silva, Executive Director, United Nations Office for Project Services.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Ms. Kaag.

Ms. Kaag: This will be a sober and sombre assessment of the situation on the ground. I remain deeply mindful of the profound responsibility the international community bears in addressing the tragedy of the war.

Nearly a year has passed since the horrific terror attack by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups against Israel on 7 October 2023, which claimed 1,250 Israeli and foreign lives and led to the abduction of approximately 250 hostages. At least 101 hostages are reported to be still alive and still held in Gaza. They are still denied humanitarian visits. All hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. For as long as they are held in accordance with international legal obligations, they must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the International Committee of the Red Cross.

The essence of our common humanity is at stake. In Gaza, more than 41,000 Palestinians have been killed, and more than 93,000 have been injured.

Recent data from the World Health Organization (WHO) estimate that more than 22,000 people have sustained life-altering injuries. Severe limb injuries number between 13,000 to 17,000, often resulting in amputation. They are a sad reflection of the tragedy of the war. Many of those injured have more than one injury. The health infrastructure, already crippled, has been further decimated.

At least 625,000 children remain out of school — children whose futures are marred by trauma, loss and deprivation. Every parent hopes for a better, more prosperous future for their children. In Gaza, that universal parental desire is dimmed by the grim realities of destruction and hopelessness.

Time is slipping away as a man-made humanitarian crisis has turned Gaza into the abyss. It cannot be repeated enough: we need an immediate ceasefire, the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and unimpeded, continuous humanitarian access to deliver aid at scale throughout the Gaza Strip. The continued lack of effective protection for civilians in Gaza is unconscionable. The infrastructure that civilians rely on must be protected, and their essential needs met. As the Secretary-General has reiterated, all parties must refrain from using schools, shelters, or the areas around them for military purposes. All parties to the conflict must comply with international humanitarian law at all times. Equally, humanitarian workers need an enabling environment to ensure unimpeded and safe access to people in need. Tragically, in Gaza, nowhere is safe.

Diseases such as the polio virus, which had been consigned to history in the Gaza Strip, have now reappeared owing to the collapse of essential services. Following the detection of the virus, the Israeli authorities immediately engaged with my team. Following intensive coordination, the first round of a two-round vaccination campaign led by the World Health Organization (WHO), the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and UNICEF has successfully been completed. The second phase of the vaccination campaign should commence in approximately four weeks. I visited Gaza, as I regularly do, a week and a half ago. Agreed pauses in fighting allowed parents and children to safely visit health centres and clinics, providing them with a very brief glimpse of relief and respite. The polio campaign shows that, even in the direst of circumstances, with sufficient political will and real-time political commitment, humanitarian action is possible. The polio campaign equally underscored the vital role UNRWA plays, not only in accordance with its mandate but also as a critical, trusted partner in the social fabric of Gaza and as the backbone of our humanitarian operations.

The outbreak of polio is also a stark reminder of the desolate living conditions in the Gaza Strip. Given the ongoing hostilities and the lack of a proper enabling environment, effective deconfliction and a timely implementation of commitments made, the United Nations and partners remain constrained in their ability to address the catastrophic situation.

Taking one step back, 11 months ago Gaza was largely cut off from most of its supply lines, with all but one access point closed. When resolution 2720 (2023) was adopted, in December 2023, it was not foreseen that the war would rage on for this long without a ceasefire. In that context, and despite the complexity of the situation, my mission has negotiated and strengthened supply lines and systems as well as additional routes with the intent to facilitate, accelerate and expedite, in a sustained and transparent manner, the flow of supplies into Gaza. Those routes cover supplies from or via Egypt, Jordan, Cyprus, the West Bank and Israel. That required the streamlining of intricate logistics and relevant regulations. The Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS), Under-Secretary-General Jorge Moreira da Silva, will update you on the operationalization of the mechanism.

The systems in place today are not a substitute for the political will required to reach civilians and respond to their needs. Systems do not save lives nor provide dignity for those who have lost everything. Effective humanitarian operations require the right quality and quantity and a broad range of goods to meet the daily needs of civilians in Gaza. That goal is not being met.

Ongoing hostilities across the Strip, the breakdown of law and order and looting of supplies are additional significant impediments to the United Nations ability to distribute assistance to the Palestinian population in Gaza. Furthermore, the operating conditions for humanitarian workers include denials, delays, a lack of safety and security and poor logistical infrastructure. That continues to hamper relief operations, despite the recent approvals provided for trucks, satellite phones and other equipment. My mission continues to engage on those vital issues with a view to seeking immediate redress. Commitments and intentions must be translated into tangible actions on the ground. Any delay in implementation comes at a direct cost to human lives. The Security Council is fully aware of the asks of the humanitarian community. I will highlight a few critical areas.

First, my mission continues to focus on securing access to Gaza for a diverse range of goods from the humanitarian and commercial sectors. Modest progress in select areas, such as waste and sewage management, has been made. However, that does not address the totality of needs. For example, the need for cash, prepositioned adequate volume in fuel and hygiene items are urgently needed. The scope of humanitarian items allowed entry remains too restricted for effective humanitarian operations. Furthermore, the United Nations itself also urgently needs the entry of further vital security communications and tracking equipment in order to work in Gaza.

With regard to coordination and deconfliction, a joint coordination board is operational. Recent security incidents, including shootings at humanitarian convoys, are unacceptable and demonstrate that agreed protocols and procedures still require comprehensive on-time implementation. The recent medical evacuation of 251 patients and family members — in this case to the United Arab Emirates — the largest thus far, is a good development. However, much more is needed. More than 14,000 patients require specialized treatment outside of the Gaza Strip, and I would like to take this opportunity to call on all Member States to extend their solidarity by hosting those patients and their families.

Progress on all of that becomes even more important as winter nears, and the humanitarian catastrophe deepens. The United Nations team on the ground continues to coordinate with the Israeli authorities to ensure the implementation of a winterization plan.

Humanitarian assistance is only a temporary pathway to alleviate suffering. A comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East can only be realized through a two-State solution and the achievement of an independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State, living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders with Israel, whose legitimate security concerns must be addressed. In that light, the recovery and reconstruction of Gaza should not wait, and members have heard me say that before. As much as political conditions will dictate the pace and nature of this process, children need to learn, they need to be in school, health care should be provided to all, and the refurbishing and rebuilding of housing needs to start.

It is important that governance and security arrangements are established without further delay. The United Nations position is clear: the Palestinian Authority must resume its full responsibilities in Gaza. And Prime Minister Mohammed Mustafa's Cabinet has developed comprehensive plans to restore local governance and security and re-establish the rule of law. International planning efforts by the United Nations, the European Union, the World Bank and others are ongoing in support of the Palestinian Authority. My mission has also developed financing options for the international community to consider. Rebuilding Gaza offers an opportunity to involve all members of Palestinian civil society. Fostering a conducive environment that enables the Palestinian business community to play its role is equally important. Palestinian businesspeople and investors have the drive, the knowledge and the commitment to contribute in a meaningful way.

Over the past 10 months, my mission has fostered partnerships and enhanced coordination among Member States, United Nations agencies and the many humanitarian partners. The team established pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023) has continuously engaged on issues of access and addressed obstacles and proposed solutions to enable assistance by all humanitarian partners, including — and it goes without saying — UNRWA. My mission has proposed solutions to overcome political and operational impediments, maintaining a lean, agile and efficient operation through a hybrid model with UNOPS and seconded experts from certain agencies. Routes have been established, systems are in place and proposals have been made to the parties concerning the option to re-open the Rafah border crossing. That is just one of the many examples.

But despite those continuous efforts, the only credible measure of change and progress are the actual conditions on the ground in Gaza, and the horrors of the past 11 months have made it painfully clear that a political solution is the only sustainable path forward. Without a political solution, the cycle of suffering will continue. In the face of the tragedy that befell innocent civilians, our shared humanity demands that we respond with compassion and humility. We have a responsibility to provide protection and aid, remaining steadfast in our duty to advocate for a lasting peace, a secure Israel and a fully independent, viable and sovereign Palestinian State.

The President: I thank Ms. Kaag for her briefing.

I now give the floor to Mr. Moreira da Silva.

Mr. Moreira da Silva: I would like to thank you, Mr. President, for the invitation to brief the Security Council on the operationalization of the mechanism for Gaza established under resolution 2720 (2023).

I would like to start by thanking the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, for her leadership and tireless efforts. They have been not only fundamental to enabling the activation of the mechanism, but also crucial in bringing the key stakeholders together on the critical political decisions that enable our work and that of our humanitarian colleagues. The United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS) is committed to supporting the mandate of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator, along with our other efforts to enable the work of the United Nations system and humanitarian responders in Gaza.

In January, during my visit to Gaza, I had the chance to speak with not only colleagues from UNOPS but also colleagues from the United Nations system about the truly challenging environment and its impact on their work. When UNOPS was asked by the Secretary-General to support Ms. Kaag's mandate in December 2023, we delivered a design of the mechanism that was meant to deliver a single, comprehensive humanitarian aid supply chain management system for Gaza, address the unpredictability of pipelines, delays at the screening points, multiple inspection and transloading points, and build confidence and transparency in the flow of humanitarian aid into Gaza.

Since May, the mechanism has been running the integrated database covering humanitarian consignments going through Cyprus and, since June, those along the Jordan corridor. It has also captured consignments being sent from the West Bank and from inside Israel. The database moves away from counting trucks and provides the capacity to look at actual supplies entering Gaza, compared to the identified needs. It is publicly accessible to anyone who wishes to send humanitarian aid to Gaza. Since its activation, 229 humanitarian aid consignments have requested clearance through the mechanism, 175 consignments have been approved, 101 have been delivered, 17 are pending clearance and 37 have been rejected. That information is available. That translates into more than 22,000 metric tons of humanitarian aid cargo delivered to Gaza through the mechanism's facilitation, of which more than 20,000 metric tons were food and nutrition consignments, close to 1,000 metric tons of shelter consignments, 400 metric tons of washing supplies, more than 170 metric tons of medical aid and close to 50 metric tons of protection supplies and smaller consignments of other humanitarian aid supplies. Those figures are also publicly available on the mechanism's live dashboard, which was launched early last week.

The consignments were primarily delivered through the Jordan corridor, the direct route from Jordan to Gaza that was formalized and regularized under the mechanism to provide much-needed predictability and regularity and to address the backlog challenges that accompany convoys undergoing multiple inspection and transloading points. The humanitarian aid consignments delivered through the Jordan corridor pass through one single inspection point in Jordan and a single transloading point in Gaza, compared to three inspection points and four transloading points on the back-to-back route before the mechanism.

A smaller portion of the aforementioned consignments was delivered through the Cyprus corridor, which represents a vital supplementary route for delivering humanitarian aid to Gaza. It is not intended to replace or divert attention from existing land or sea corridors, but rather to enhance overall capacity. Responding to donor requests for a United Nations-led and humanitarian-focused approach, UNOPS stands ready to address the Cyprus corridor's current logistical challenges by offering an end-to-end solution, ensuring the coordinated, efficient and transparent delivery of aid.

In order to support the regularization of those corridors under the mechanism, UNOPS has deployed 14 international monitors to Cyprus and Jordan. They verify the humanitarian nature of each consignment, facilitate the approval for the consignments to proceed to Gaza and track the consignments from their point of origin until they are handed over to the final consignee in Gaza for onward delivery. That very mechanism fosters confidence-building among all and provides transparency by informing all of us that what was sent to Gaza indeed made its way to its final destination. For consignments that are not permitted, the mechanism requires a justification from the concerned parties.

Together with the Office of the Senior Coordinator, we continue to call for more items and consignors to be allowed to enter Gaza. Eleven of our international monitors are also ready to deploy inside Gaza in order to reinforce that important verification and tracking mechanism, as an additional enabler of our collective efforts to accelerate the delivery of and increase the amount of humanitarian aid reaching the civilian population in Gaza.

Regarding the Egypt corridor, over the past 11 months the Egyptian route has served as a vital lifeline for delivering aid to the people of Gaza. We are working closely with the Egyptian authorities to fully integrate that route into the resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism. Initial approval has been secured, and my team is in Cairo this week to finalize the integration process. Once completed, the resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism will provide a comprehensive, real-time overview of all humanitarian cargo entering Gaza from every supply route. That will enable better prioritization, tracking and monitoring of relief efforts right up to the point of delivery. Through the resolution 2720 (2023) mechanism's joint database, we will strengthen coordination and efficiency, ensuring that aid reaches those who need it most swiftly and effectively.

As part of the mechanism, we have committed to support the full operational capacity of each corridor. That is why I would just like to add two more elements that strengthen that aspect. UNOPS is procuring 280 trucks for the Jordan corridor, constructing 10 additional warehousing spaces for the Jordan Hashemite Charity Organization and establishing two truck-holding areas at the King Hussein Bridge crossing and inspection site in Jordan. In addition, we are procuring 38 trucks for use by the humanitarian community inside Gaza, in order to enable the delivery of the humanitarian aid consignments arriving via the different corridors.

We have procured the necessary armoured vehicles, communications and other security equipment that will ensure the operational capacity of the mechanism's 11 international monitors inside Gaza, without exerting pressure on the already limited resources of the rest of the humanitarian community. Our progress toward the design, establishment and operationalization of the mechanism would not have been possible without the generous and dedicated support of the Member States that have made financial contributions in support of the mechanism. Here, I would like to specifically recognize the Governments of Australia, Denmark, Estonia, the Kingdom of the Netherlands, the United Arab Emirates and the United States of America, the Minderoo Foundation and the Governments of Canada and Germany, which have pledged additional contributions.

I would also like to thank the Member States and our local partners who are enabling the operations of the mechanism on the ground. We cannot overemphasize the challenges of delivering humanitarian response in Gaza right now. The design and the implementation of the mechanism matter immensely, and we remain committed to excellence. Yet, the effective delivery of aid at the scale required simply will not be possible without political will, the necessary security and safety guarantees and an enabling environment.

Along with the rest of the United Nations family, UNOPS is determined to stay and deliver for the people of Gaza, both to respond to immediate humanitarian needs and to support the immense recovery and reconstruction efforts that are so desperately needed. Allow me here to also emphasize the critical and irreplaceable role that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East plays in Gaza as the key implementer of our collective will.

The President: I thank Mr. Moreira da Silva for his briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mrs. Baeriswyl (Switzerland) (spoke in French): As is customary, I would like to begin by thanking the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, and the Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services, Mr. Jorge Moreira da Silva, for their briefings. Switzerland welcomes the remarkable commitment of his team and that of the team of the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs to setting up the mechanism established pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023) in order to increase the supply of humanitarian aid to Gaza. His regular briefings to the Council are particularly useful, given that, as we have just heard once again, the humanitarian catastrophe continues to worsen throughout the occupied Palestinian territory.

In Gaza, hostilities continue to claim numerous civilian casualties, and Israeli evacuation orders are putting additional pressure on an already desperate population, many of whom are children, limiting access to essential services. In addition, more than 100 hostages remain in captivity, and we once again call for their immediate and unconditional release. Switzerland reiterates its condemnation of all violations of international humanitarian law committed by all parties, which must cease immediately.

Almost nine months after the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), the provision of humanitarian aid remains more vital than ever in Gaza. Allow me therefore to highlight three particularly important aspects related to the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023).

First, the resolution places a strong emphasis on humanitarian access. Switzerland once again calls on all parties to implement their human rights obligations and their obligations under international humanitarian law. That includes allowing and facilitating safe, rapid and unhindered humanitarian access to civilian populations through all crossing points. We condemn the incident at a checkpoint on 9 September involving a United Nations team responsible for carrying out the vaccination campaign in Gaza. Such incidents are unacceptable. As the occupying Power, Israel has an obligation to meet the basic needs of the population under its control. We also recall that the deliberate use of starvation as a method of warfare is a war crime under the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court.

Secondly, the protection of civilians, including humanitarian and medical personnel, must be guaranteed at all times. The use of heavy weapons, which have a destructive capacity that makes it impossible to distinguish between civilians and combatants in densely populated areas, is unacceptable. Furthermore, the civilian population, persons hors de combat and civilian infrastructure such as residential buildings, schools and hospitals must not be the targets of attacks. Switzerland condemns such attacks, which constitute violations of international humanitarian law, in the strongest possible terms. The deadly consequences of Israeli military operations in areas in which civilians have taken refuge are intolerable, as we saw last Wednesday, for example, when a school used as a refuge for 12,000 people was once again attacked. The attack resulted in many casualties, including six staff members of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, and we offer our condolences to their loved ones. Establishing reliable protection and security guarantees for humanitarian personnel is an obligation. The Council reaffirmed that fact by adopting resolution 2730 (2024).

Switzerland recalls that international humanitarian law prohibits any party to a conflict from using the presence of civilians or persons hors de combat to shield a military objective from attack. Nonetheless, even if that rule is violated, in no way is the obligation on the other party to the conflict to adhere strictly to international humanitarian law in the conduct of hostilities suspended. Civilian property, including schools and places of worship, are protected by international humanitarian law.

Thirdly, we welcome the implementation of the polio vaccination campaign, which Switzerland has supported with funding of 1 million Swiss francs. The campaign has shown what the United Nations and their humanitarian partners are able accomplish if the parties to the conflict discharge their duty to ensure safe and unimpeded access. That, however, does not suffice. As we have repeated on numerous occasions and as the Council has decided, an immediate ceasefire is necessary.

Despite the considerable efforts of the Under-Secretary-General and her team, the reopening of all crossing points is required given the magnitude of the needs. The reconstruction that Council members had envisaged nine months ago in resolution 2720 (2023) also requires an immediate ceasefire and the prospects of a peace process. Compliance with international law and the Council's resolutions constitute a further sine qua non for de-escalation, including regional de-escalation, and a first step towards establishing lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians. We reaffirm our strong support for a negotiated solution entailing two States, Israel and Palestine, of which Gaza is an integral part, living side-by-side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, and the Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services, Mr. Moreira da Silva, for their briefings on the situation in the Strip and their efforts to ensure humanitarian access to the territory as part of the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023).

Unfortunately, as we warned, without a full-fledged ceasefire in Gaza, that document has essentially remained a dead letter. Today's statement by the Senior Coordinator generally confirms that, although we understand that Ms. Kaag has been most cautious in her choosing her words, because today, if United Nations officials give a frank assessment of Israel's actions, they are immediately put on Israel's stop list and denied entry to the Gaza Strip, and their efforts are obstructed.

The Security Council, however, operates according to a different paradigm: it simply has an obligation to call things what they are. The humanitarian situation in the Palestinian Strip is dire and that is because of the ongoing Israeli military operation, which Israel has been conducting with no regard for international humanitarian law or the Council's decisions. Such self-assurance stems from the unconditional support for all of its actions by the United States, which for almost a year has been blocking any slightly meaningful Council resolution.

Meanwhile, the number of Palestinian civilian deaths caused by Israeli bombardments, armed incursions and ground operations has exceeded 42,000, with almost 100,000 wounded and tens of thousands missing. In the past week alone, shelling by the Israeli armed forces claimed the lives of approximately 100 civilians. There is no justification, nor can there be any justification, for that. Nor is there any justification for the 11 September attack targeting a school run by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Nuseirat refugee camp, killing 18 people, including women and children. Among the dead were six UNRWA staff members. Today there was another strike on the camp and the school, taking more than 10 lives.

Aside the immediate danger of hostilities, United Nations staff are enduring frequent pressure from the authorities of West Jerusalem, which takes various forms — frequent detentions, interrogations, restrictions on movement and, in general, an information campaign unleashed against United Nations staff. Not only does all of that put their lives in danger, but it also endangers the people whom they are helping. Humanitarian workers have been increasingly subjected to violence by Israel. Last month, Israeli soldiers shelled a World Food Programme (WFP) vehicle that was clearly marked as such. The WFP was forced to suspend operations in the Strip for several days. In early September, another incident took place in which Israel Defense Forces heavy equipment rammed a United Nations food convoy. The soldiers threatened United Nations staff with weapons and took them away for interrogation. That incident happened even though the humanitarian missions had been coordinated with Israel in advance and shows, yet again, that neither deconfliction nor the notorious notifications system are actually working.

We find it regrettable that, with rare exceptions, fellow Council members are unable to summon the courage to talk about that. Western countries are particularly hypocritical. When it comes to giving an honest assessment of what is happening to the Palestinians, they just clam up. After all, if it were any other State, they would vociferously condemn such actions. And now, on the eve of the anniversary of 7 October 2023, instead of discussing the situation in the Strip during the high-level week, our Western colleagues are actively engaging in a public relations exercise for the Ukrainian president, who is past his expiration date. I hope that those Council members realize how hypocritical their words sound today, given the circumstances.

In the context of active military operations and constant pressure from West Jerusalem, it is extremely difficult for humanitarian workers to deliver aid. Incidentally, the delivery of humanitarian aid continues to be another problem. All the data from humanitarian organizations indicates that there has been no meaningful progress in that regard. The most important artery for the delivery of supplies, the Rafah border crossing, is closed. The establishment of a maritime corridor from Cyprus and the floating pier failed miserably.

Humanitarian workers are increasingly voicing their concern not only about the meagre supplies of food, fuel and medical supplies delivered, but also about the obstacles created by Israel and its frequent refusals to allow humanitarian operations to take place. For example, in August, according to the United Nations, the number of refusals doubled as compared to July. It is clear that the routes now open from Jordan, Egypt and Israel do not allow the necessary volumes of humanitarian aid to be delivered. In fact, the average daily capacity is now only 70 trucks, whereas before the crisis 500 trucks entered Gaza every day. The figures speak for themselves.

If things continue this way, the United Nations might have to halt operations in the Gaza Strip. If so, more than 2 million Palestinians will be left to face death alone. That is not a figure of speech, but a real prospect. And we cannot allow it to happen. Council members must do their utmost to prevent such a scenario from occurring — a scenario in which part of the Israeli establishment is not concealing its interest. The Security Council has all the necessary tools, but what is lacking is political will on the part of the United States and its satellites.

In essence, the only thing that the United Nations can now take credit for is the ongoing campaign to vaccinate children against polio. We hope that humanitarian pauses for vaccination will be effective. However, there is no point in emphasizing those efforts today, as the polio situation is but one of the multitude of problems confronting the Strip's inhabitants. With the complete destruction of the sanitation and health-care system in the Strip, there could be an outbreak of other infectious diseases at any moment. In Gaza, stocks of routine vaccines for tuberculosis or for immunization against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough are almost exhausted. Patients with serious chronic diseases suffer from shortages of medication such as insulin. Those patients are doomed. The supply of basic medication to Gaza is a problem that needs to be urgently addressed. And Israel, as far as we can see, is impervious to such requests.

Let us not mislead anyone. With Israel's military operation continuing for more than 11 months now, sponsored and overseen by the United States authorities, adequate assistance to the population of the Strip is simply impossible. Humanitarian workers are powerless, they are defenceless in the face of Israeli strikes. It is simply inhumane to demand that they die in those strikes while Council members have been going around in circles for almost a year and have been unable to compel the Israeli authorities to stop their punishing war machine. Let us recall that if the Security Council decision on a ceasefire, which we have already formally adopted, is not being enforced, then Council members can consider measures to ensure its implementation. The Security Council has the relevant experience and all the necessary leverage and means, including in the context of its peacekeeping presence in the Middle East.

We are all perfectly cognizant of the fact that, as long as intense fighting is under way, it is unrealistic to bank on any meaningful progress in stabilizing the humanitarian situation on the ground or stepping up humanitarian assistance to the people of Gaza. We must recognize a simple fact — the problem lies not in the presence or absence of any mechanism for the delivery of humanitarian assistance, but in the absence of the conditions for that due to the ongoing hostilities, in which the Israelis are not making exceptions for schools, hospitals or United Nations humanitarian convoys.

Therefore, regardless of what has been said in this Chamber today about humanitarian operations, the priority remains the same — we must ensure an immediate and comprehensive ceasefire in Gaza. However, this time there must not be empty words, such as those in resolution 2735 (2024), which was not viable even when it was adopted — and we have talked about that on numerous occasions — rather a focus on a real, explicit demand from the Council. Only then will it be possible to engage in meaningful discussions to address the challenges related to delivering humanitarian assistance to civilians.

As for the calls we have heard to focus on the rebuilding of the Gaza Strip, that is, of course, extremely important. However, that is a long-term objective. Before we talk about the day after tomorrow, we must at least understand what tomorrow will look like, and that implies assessing what is happening today, rather than shamefully sweeping the facts we have at our disposal under the rug. What will remain of Gaza if Israel's military operation continues at the current pace? And what will happen to the surviving Israeli hostages? Is their fate of no concern to the Israeli authorities? Have they already taken the decision to sacrifice most of them? That is, unfortunately, where things are heading. We hope that all members of the Security Council will ultimately have a sense of collective responsibility for what is happening in the Gaza Strip, and that they will be able to work together to urgently develop the necessary de-escalation measures and ensure their implementation. So far, unfortunately, we have not seen that happening. And we continue hear empty and hypocritical calls in this Chamber.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I would like to thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag for her briefing and especially for her tireless commitment on the ground. France supports her mandate and calls for the full and immediate implementation of resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024).

I would like to stress on two points.

First, international humanitarian law must be respected by all parties. The protection of humanitarian workers must be guaranteed under all circumstances. The proliferation of incidents targeting them is intolerable. Deconfliction mechanisms must be implemented. The smooth operation of the anti-polio vaccination campaign shows that this is possible. It is essential to remove obstacles to assistance. It must be possible to use all access points, as Gazan civilians are in a situation of absolute emergency, and the International Court of Justice demanded that. The goods entering Gaza must correspond to the reality of humanitarian needs and reach their intended recipients. There are still too many restrictions on the goods and supplies that can enter Gaza, in particular for health infrastructure, but also for water, sanitation and waste treatment. The United Nations and humanitarian actors must have access to equipment to carry out their work on the ground. Finally, France calls for the release of all the hostages.

Secondly, we must restore a horizon for the people of Gaza. An immediate and permanent ceasefire is essential. However, we must also immediately work with the countries in the region to create the conditions for rebuilding with early recovery projects to restore basic services. France supports the work of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza to that end. Undoubtedly, it will be necessary to review the terms of her mandate. The lives of 2 million people are at stake.

A political settlement of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is urgently needed. Only the establishment of a unified, independent, viable and contiguous Palestinian State, living in peace and security alongside Israel, will guarantee security in the Middle East. A strictly humanitarian response will not suffice, nor will a purely security-related response. Otherwise, the current crisis will repeatedly erupt.

France will remain committed to ending the crisis on the basis of a two-State solution. At the same time, we need security guarantees for the Israelis, to whom France reiterates its solidarity following the terrorist attacks of 7 October 2023. The Palestinian Authority has a central role to play in that process, both in the West Bank and in Gaza, which are to be part of the Palestinian State.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): I thank the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza, Ms. Sigrid Kaag, and the Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services, Mr. Jorge Moreira da Silva, for their important briefings.

As we have listened in this Chamber almost every week to reports about the humanitarian and security situation in the Gaza Strip, one can hardly imagine what it is like for the men, women and children who are living the harrowing, nightmarish reality of deaths, torture, displacements, hunger and disease every day.

The adoptions of resolution 2720 (2023) and all other resolutions of the Council regarding the conflict in the Gaza Strip were seen as beacons of hope, particularly in underscoring “the importance of coordination, humanitarian notification, and deconfliction mechanisms” in paragraph 5 of resolution 2712 (2023) and the need to facilitate, coordinate, monitor and verify the expedited delivery of humanitarian assistance to the civilian population in the Gaza Strip, with the appointment of a Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator. Regrettably, almost a year to the current phase of the escalation of the conflict and months after the adoption of resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024), their full implementation is disturbingly lacking. Violence and deliberate obstruction continue to undermine humanitarian efforts. Aid workers must deal with many bureaucratic measures aimed at preventing them from accessing the devastated population in the Gaza Strip or are outrightly denied access at checkpoints during major humanitarian deliveries.

According to the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, the frequency of denial of access by Israeli authorities nearly doubled in August, as compared to July. It is also reported that persistent obstacles hampering the entrance of aid vehicles through the Kerem Shalom crossing are causing shortages of medical supplies throughout the Gaza Strip. It is even more alarming when humanitarian personnel themselves are subject to violent attacks, contrary to international humanitarian law.

In that regard, we reiterate the strong condemnation by the Secretary-General of the attack on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) school serving as a shelter in Nuseirat, in central Gaza, which killed six UNRWA personnel, as well as women and children. Those actions, which violate international law, including international humanitarian law, cannot be justified under any circumstances.

Repeated evacuation orders are shrinking the so-called safe zones in the Gaza Strip and increasing danger for many displaced Palestinians sheltering in makeshift sites. The report of an Israeli air strike on 10 September in Al-Mawasi, part of Khan Younis, confirms that unacceptable narrative.

The constant bombardment and exchange of rockets between the Israel Defense Forces and Hamas and the other militant groups in the Gaza Strip for the past 11 months has severely affected critical infrastructure and cropland. A satellite assessment conducted by the United Nations Satellite Centre revealed that 68 per cent of the roads and cropland across the Gaza Strip have been destroyed. It is estimated that there has been over $18.5 billion of infrastructural damage to the area.

Full operationalization of resolution 2720 (2023) would require achieving an immediate and permanent ceasefire and restoration of law and order in a society now characterized, at the minimum, as a war crime scene, with lawlessness, looting and social disorder. The absence of internal security structures has increased risks of attacks on aid convoys and humanitarian personnel.

As we collectively pursue the objective of making humanitarian aid delivery processes faster, efficient and directly beneficial to civilians in the occupied Palestinian territory and as we assess the reconstruction outlook, Sierra Leone would like to make several points.

First, we acknowledge the importance of facilitating, coordinating, monitoring and verifying unhindered humanitarian aid delivery into Gaza and the significance of rebuilding the Gaza Strip and the work of the Office of the Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator, including through meaningful engagement at all levels with relevant stakeholders. Sierra Leone remains supportive of that work and its continuation, and we emphasize that the provision of and access to humanitarian aid and essential services, which are in scarce supply in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, should remain a priority during the allocation of relief consignment.

Secondly, we reiterate our call for all conflicting parties to strictly adhere to their obligations under international law, in particular international humanitarian law and all relevant resolutions of the Council aimed at protecting civilians, including humanitarian workers and civilian infrastructure. An effective deconfliction mechanism is also necessary in order to guarantee the safety and security of all humanitarian personnel and to allow for the rapid facilitation of humanitarian relief.

We welcome the operationalization of the United Nations mechanism that supported the timely delivery of 1.6 million doses of polio vaccine type 2 to the Gaza Strip, currently being administered to the at-risk children. As the first round of the polio vaccination campaign has ended, it is absolutely critical that medical and aid personnel are able to continue with the next round throughout Gaza.

We maintain our view that an immediate and permanent ceasefire would significantly improve the humanitarian situation on the ground. We therefore call on the parties to the conflict to recommit to the ongoing diplomatic efforts and explore options to resolve outstanding issues and conclude the negotiations.

An end to the current conflict would enable the start of the arduous, but vital task of rebuilding Gaza in order to make it habitable as a home to its people. The establishment of State functions for governance, security and law and public administration; the reconstruction of essential services for water, sanitation, transportation and housing; and the establishment of structures, systems and processes for private sector revitalization can be achieved only through a cessation of hostilities.

In our maiden statement on the Middle East/Palestine question this year (see S/PV.9531), we noted the significance of the prevailing context, that is, the continuing occupation by Israel of the Palestinian territories and the escalation following 7 October. Accordingly, the issue of humanitarian aid coordination and reconstruction must now be gleaned through the lens of the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice.

With regard to the germane issue of the right to self-determination, the Court opined that, while it is for the General Assembly and the Security Council to determine the modalities required to ensure an end to Israel's illegal presence in the occupied Palestinian territory and the full realization of the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination, all States must cooperate with the United Nations in order to put those modalities into effect.

In addition, all States parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention have the obligation, while respecting the Charter of the United Nations and international law, to ensure that Israel complies with international humanitarian law, as embodied in that Convention.

In effect, the response needed to bring about a lasting, sustainable reconstruction of Gaza and other parts of the occupied Palestinian territories is to put an end to the unlawful occupation and to ensure that the necessary modalities be put in place by the General Assembly and Security Council, including the declaration of a ceasefire in the Gaza Strip, in line with the United Nations Charter. It has been made clear that this is a legal obligation that requires the cooperation of all Member States.

Let me conclude by continuing to look at the future from the perspective of Sustainable Development Goal 4 and leaving no one behind. Sierra Leone, a strong advocate for education, remembers the children in the Gaza Strip and other parts of the occupied Palestinian territory who have been denied access to learning due to the ongoing hostilities and displacement. We stand in solidarity with those young minds, acknowledging the devastating impact of this prolonged conflict on their education. With this future generation in mind, we will continue to work towards a peaceful and lasting solution to the conflict. Without a doubt, in order to rebuild or re-engage the mind, let alone the land, there must be a ceasefire.

Mr. Yamazaki (Japan): I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag and Mr. Moreira da Silva, Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services, for their informative and sobering briefings.

Gaza's agony continues. Japan is appalled at the ever-increasing death toll, which has now exceeded 41,000, including many civilians, mostly women and children. We remain concerned that Israel's repeated evacuation orders have left nearly the entire population of the Gaza Strip squeezed into only 10 per cent of the land. Much of it is not fit for human habitation, and basic essentials such as food, clean water and sanitation are difficult to come by.

The swift, effective and unhindered delivery of humanitarian aid is crucial if we are to alleviate the suffering of Palestinians. But that requires a safe operating environment, which Gaza unfortunately does not have. While Japan welcomes that humanitarian pauses have led to a successful round of the emergency polio vaccination campaign, it is gravely concerning that humanitarian access remains severely constrained due to insecurity and long delays.

Israeli attacks in densely populated areas continue unabated. The recent air strike on a school in Nuseirat killed six United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East staff members.

Japan deplores the casualties among aid workers, who are working tirelessly to deliver the necessary relief supplies to the people of Gaza. We are frustrated and deeply disappointed that our appeal for protecting humanitarian personnel and United Nations staff has not been heard and that their lives continue to be cut short. That is totally unacceptable, and actions need to be taken in order to make real changes on the ground. United Nations staff and partners must be able to safely carry out their duties. Let us be clear — compliance with international humanitarian law is not a matter of discretion, but an obligation for all Member States, including Israel.

Japan praises the efforts, led by Ms. Kaag and her team, to increase the flow of aid through multiple corridors and to improve coordination and access. We also note that the mechanism established by resolution 2720 (2023) is consulting with key parties and within the United Nations to ensure preparedness for a ceasefire by pre-positioning supplies and utilizing all aid routes into Gaza. Those facts show that Ms. Kaag's mandate and her reporting to the Council under resolution 2720 (2023) remain critical. Japan expresses strong support for the renewal of her reporting mandate and will actively participate in Council discussions to that end.

As stated by many of our colleagues around this table and echoed by voices around the world, a ceasefire in Gaza is the only path towards peace, security and stability in the region. Japan continues to extend our strong support to the diplomatic efforts by the United States, Qatar and Egypt towards an immediate ceasefire, the release of the remaining hostages and the delivery of humanitarian aid at scale in Gaza. At the same time, a ceasefire will be only the first step towards a sustainable peace in Israel and Palestine. Ultimately, only a two-State solution can finally resolve this tragic conflict.

Mrs. Frazier (Malta): I thank Ms. Kaag and Mr. Moreira da Silva for their briefings.

The adoption of resolution 2720 (2023) represented a glimmer of hope for the people of Gaza last December, and we are truly appreciative of Ms. Kaag's tireless efforts over the past eight months. Unfortunately, the situation on the ground remains beyond desperate. Despite endless appeals by the international community, military tactics are still being used to deny essential services to the Gazan population. It is heart-wrenching to see the people of Gaza suffer acute hunger, with famine conditions affecting more than 1 million people.

Eighty per cent of the population have faced repeated evacuation orders, complicating the extremely insufficient aid deliveries taking place. Entire communities have been crammed into so-called humanitarian zones, which are regularly targeted by the Israeli military. Markets, schools, mosques, churches, hospitals, health clinics, roads, water mains and electricity lines have been destroyed. More than 70,000 tons of explosives have been dropped onto the Strip in the past 11 months. The official toll stands at 41,000 killed and 95,000 wounded.

It is deeply troubling that those who are dedicated to assisting the most vulnerable are at risk of becoming targets themselves in Gaza and the West Bank. Less than two weeks ago, a clearly marked World Food Programme convoy in Gaza came under fire from the Israeli forces. On 9 September, a fully notified and deconflicted United Nations convoy, carrying 12 staff members for a polio vaccination campaign, was rammed with tanks and bulldozers, and shots were fired. On 11 September, a school of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Nuseirat that was sheltering 12,000 people was struck by missiles. Thirty-four people lost their lives, including six UNRWA workers. That incident is the latest in a long line of attacks that have, this year alone, resulted in the deaths of approximately 200 United Nations and humanitarian staff in Gaza. The repeated targeting and intimidation of the United Nations in Gaza is deeply concerning.

If there is to be any cessation of the destruction and unabated violence in Gaza, we, the members of the Council, must demand and ensure the full implementation of all Security Council resolutions, adherence to international law and accountability. Countries with influence over the parties must also continue to strive to bring the bloodshed to an end.

The full and immediate implementation of the International Court of Justice provisional measures is an essential first step, particularly as they relate to the unhindered facilitation of humanitarian assistance and the cessation of attacks against the civilian population.

We stress that humanitarian assistance must never be up for negotiation. It is a legal obligation enshrined in the Geneva Conventions and their Protocols Additional. States providing military support must also ensure that their armaments are used in a manner that is consistent with international humanitarian law.

As we approach the one-year mark in this dreadful conflict, the Council must not reduce itself to simply commenting helplessly on the catastrophe. I repeat — a permanent ceasefire is needed without further delay. Nevertheless, that would just be the first step out of the nightmare. The road after that will be an even more arduous one. However, although we still cannot see the light at the end of this very dark tunnel, peace must never be regarded as an unattainable goal. On the contrary, we must never give up. We must redouble our efforts to make sure that, once the conflict is over, we lay the foundations to secure a just and lasting peace, a peace based on a two-State solution along the pre-1967 borders, addressing the legitimate aspirations of both sides, with Jerusalem as the future capital of two States living side-by-side in peace and security, in line with all the relevant Security Council resolutions and internationally agreed parameters.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): I must begin by addressing a matter of grave concern. The recent loss of six staff members of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Israeli air strikes is not merely condemnable — it is a stark reminder of the perilous erosion of international norms that we have long laboured to establish. Such incidents, along with attacks on other humanitarian personnel, including the World Food Programme convoy, strike at the very heart of the principles enshrined in international humanitarian law. We stand at a critical juncture. As Mr. Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of UNRWA, wisely observed, the longer impunity prevails, the more international humanitarian law and the Geneva Conventions will become irrelevant. That is a path we cannot afford to tread.

I thank Ms. Sigrid Kaag and Under-Secretary-General Moreira da Silva for their briefings. I commend Ms. Kaag for her efforts in implementing resolution 2720 (2023). That resolution, born of noble intent, sought to ensure the unimpeded flow of humanitarian aid to Gaza's starving population. However, nine months on, we must confront an uncomfortable truth — the mechanism we established, while now operationally sound, has not yielded the intended impact.

The figures are before us as a reminder. The stark reality is that daily aid deliveries have decreased significantly since the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), last December. According to United Nations data, only 62 trucks entered Gaza daily during the first 10 days of this month, as compared to 97 trucks in December 2023, before the resolution was adopted. There were more than 500 trucks last year. That is not a logistical shortcoming. It is the manifestation of a deeper, more intractable political impasse deliberately caused by the Israeli authorities. We must recognize that our well-intentioned efforts to address a political crisis through purely logistical or humanitarian means have proven insufficient. In that context, I must emphasize again and again that a ceasefire in Gaza, without conditions, is not merely desirable; it is imperative.

Even in these dark times, there are glimmers of hope. The recent polio vaccination campaign, which, by 13 September, had reached more than 560,000 of the total 625,000 children in Gaza, is a testament to what can be achieved if there is political will. We commend the work of the World Health Organization, UNICEF and particularly UNRWA towards that achievement. We also commend the work of Ms. Kaag and her team. That achievement demonstrates what is possible when there is political will and when there is effective coordination between United Nations agencies and international donors. It underscores several critical points.

First, while law and order have deteriorated in Gaza, that cannot justify the low level of humanitarian aid. The current situation is the result of the occupying Power's policy. Its cooperation is pivotal in facilitating humanitarian efforts, not opposing them by administrative means. For example, why have the 11 United Nations Office for Project Services members of staff been unable to reach Gaza for months now?

Secondly, inter-agency coordination is essential for effective action in Gaza.

Thirdly, UNRWA's role is indispensable, with its staff at the forefront of crucial initiatives. Again, that was highlighted during the polio vaccination campaign.

Fourthly, early-recovery projects must be prioritized to prevent the further deterioration of living conditions for Gazans. While polio is preventable through vaccination, other diseases may not be. We must act before it is too late.

The path forward is clear, although challenging. Fulfilling the mandate of resolution 2720 (2023) requires not only a ceasefire but also the restoration of stability in Gaza and the implementation of a comprehensive and well-coordinated reconstruction plan. Central to that effort must be the empowerment of the Palestinian Authority to govern Gaza effectively. The international community bears a weighty responsibility. It is incumbent upon us to work tirelessly towards achieving a ceasefire and laying the ground for a more stable, prosperous future for the region.

Mr. Afonso (Mozambique): Mozambique thanks the Slovenian presidency for convening this important briefing.

We highly value the updated information offered by Ms. Sigrid Kaag, Under-Secretary-General and Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator for Gaza. Her briefing today gives us a picture of a gloomy humanitarian situation in Gaza, in the light of resolution 2720 (2023), of 22 December 2023. We wish to reiterate our strong support for Ms. Kaag and her team. We praise their devoted work for the Palestinian people, that is to say, for our own common humanity. We thank Mr. Moreira da Silva, Executive Director of the United Nations Office for Project Services, for his briefing and for the work in Gaza and Palestine carried out by him and his team.

The Security Council's adoption of resolution 2720 (2023) is a testament to our collective recognition of the severe suffering faced by the civilian population in Gaza and the urgent need for coordinated efforts to provide relief and support. Regrettably, those Council efforts have not been matched by the action of the conflicting parties. Nine months after the adoption of resolution 2720 (2023), the situation in Gaza has worsened. The humanitarian crisis has deepened. And the resolution that we adopted in December is far from achieving its intended results.

In that regard, the prevailing situation continues to be a matter of great concern. It continues to demand our profound reflection and action, as this is one of the biggest humanitarian crises, and our inability to address this crisis adequately constitutes a blight on our conscience. From escalation to escalation, the conflict has been claiming more lives, it has been causing more displacement and it has been inflicting widespread and indiscriminate destruction of civilian infrastructure. In short, an immense and horrendous tragedy has befallen the people of Gaza, with no end in sight.

We note, in that regard, that this degree of insecurity has a direct and negative impact on the delivery of humanitarian assistance to those in need, as it hinders the safe mobility of humanitarian workers on the ground.

The reconstruction of Gaza is a critical and urgent task, especially after 11 months of intense conflict and destruction. But we are also conscious of the fact that given the current state of conflict, the reconstruction of Gaza is a challenging undertaking, to say the least. The conflict poses a permanent risk to any reconstruction effort. Residences, schools, hospitals, health wards and places of refuge are a target of war and destruction. We can hardly speak of reconstruction under these circumstances.

As Council members, we must shoulder the obligation and responsibility to change the course of events. We must continue to work for the cessation of hostilities and a ceasefire. They are an urgent imperative for peace in Gaza and in the region. Only this option can pave the way for a sustainable plan of reconstruction, as it is clear that reconstruction without peace is not viable.

The recent humanitarian pause that has enabled the vaccination of children against polio, constitutes a clear indication that a ceasefire and peace are possible if the warring parties have the political will to follow the path of mutual accommodation and peace. That is why we place our hopes in and are encouraged by the diplomatic efforts of the United States of America, Egypt, Qatar and other countries of the region, aimed at finding a negotiated solution leading to a permanent ceasefire.

Mozambique wishes to underscore once again that the vision of a two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine, living side by side in peace and security, as full members of the United Nations, must continue to guide our collective efforts.

Mrs. Thomas-Greenfield (United States of America): I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag and Executive Director Moreira da Silva for their sobering briefings and for all of their efforts to get assistance to the Palestinian people in Gaza.

At the outset, let me reiterate my outrage and President Biden's outrage, at the death of Ayşenur Ezgi Eygi, an American citizen shot and killed in the West Bank last week. No one should have to put their life at risk for simply attending a protest or freely expressing their views. This horrific tragedy should never have happened. We will continue to demand details and access into Israel's investigation and press for accountability regarding the circumstances that led to Ms. Eygi's death. I also offer my sincere and heartfelt condolences to her family and friends. Her death, like that of so many others over the past year, was tragic and unnecessary. We must not grow numb to human suffering, no matter whose suffering it is or where it occurs.

Notwithstanding the efforts of Senior Coordinator Kaag, her United Nations colleagues and humanitarian workers on the ground, the situation in Gaza remains catastrophic. Children are dying, suffering from preventable illnesses and missing school. Thousands have lost parents, relatives, teachers and friends — and have the physical and psychological scars to show for it. In recent weeks, there have also been numerous attacks in which United Nations personnel and humanitarian workers have been injured or killed. We offer our deepest condolences to the families of United Nations personnel killed and recognize the tragic and unprecedented toll this conflict has taken on the United Nations family.

Many of these incidents were preventable. We will continue to raise the need for Israel to facilitate humanitarian operations and protect humanitarian workers and facilities, such as the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) school, targeted by the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) last week in Nuseirat. We have also been unequivocal in communicating to Israel that there is no basis — absolutely none — for its forces to be opening fire on clearly marked United Nations vehicles, as recently occurred on numerous occasions. The IDF is a professional military and knows well how to ensure that incidents such as these do not happen. The United States therefore expects that the IDF's leadership will implement fundamental changes in the way the IDF operates, including changes to its rules of engagement, and will take steps to fix the obvious shortcomings in how the deconfliction procedures are implemented.

At the same time, we continue to see Hamas hiding in, taking over and otherwise using civilian sites to conduct operations and pose an ongoing threat. There is no clearer evidence of Hamas's total indifference to Palestinian civilians in Gaza. For their sake and that of innocent people on all sides of this conflict, this must stop. All sides to the conflict must adhere to their obligations under international humanitarian law to protect civilians.

These recent incidents underscore, once again, the urgency of reaching a ceasefire with a release of hostages, as the Council called for in resolution 2735 (2024). That is the best way to ensure humanitarians can safely and effectively carry out their life-saving work and massively increase the flow of humanitarian assistance to those who desperately need it. Until such a ceasefire is reached, we continue to work hard towards that end. It is vital that Israel cooperate with the United Nations in order to improve humanitarian access and humanitarian conditions, generally. Palestinian civilians in Gaza have endured far too much suffering.

We are pleased that the first round of polio vaccinations in Gaza has been largely successful, reaching 90 per cent of its target population. And we commend the humanitarian community and all participating United Nations agencies for their life-saving work. We thank them for their commitment and their sacrifice. We also encourage the continued cooperation between Israel and the humanitarian community in order to make this campaign happen. This level of cooperation should be the norm, not the exception. Indeed, the polio campaign is evidence that this can be done, that life-saving assistance can get to those in need without undercutting Israel's security. And so, we call on Israel to invest just as much energy into the broader humanitarian effort in Gaza as it did for this first round of the vaccination campaign.

Three weeks from today, we will mark a grim milestone — one year since Hamas's barbaric 7 October attacks and one year since 1,200 citizens from Israel and many other countries were massacred and hundreds more taken into the tunnels beneath Gaza, where many still wait in captivity today. They must be released immediately to their families. We mark one year since the civilians of Gaza first began to bear the brunt of a terrible conflict, set in motion by Hamas. It bears repeating that it is manifestly in the interest of Israelis, Palestinians and civilians in every country in the region for this desperation and this devastation to end, for there to be a ceasefire. We continue to work with Egypt and Qatar in order to find a way forward in the negotiations that will be acceptable to both parties.

But as hard as we are going to work on texts and creative formulas, this is ultimately a question of political will — whether or not leaders on both sides are prepared to recognize that enough is enough — and that the time has come to make some hard choices and some difficult compromises to end this carnage. We urge all Council members with influence over Hamas to join others in pressing its leaders to stop stalling, make these compromises and accept the deal without delay. Lives depend on it. The future depends on it.

We remain committed to a two-State solution that would allow Israelis and Palestinians to live side by side in peace and security.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): At the outset, I wish to thank you, Mr. President, for organizing today's briefing and I express our appreciation to Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag for her update on the implementation of the mandate given her pursuant to resolution 2720 (2023). I also thank Under-Secretary-General Jorge Moreira da Silva for his briefing.

The operating environment in Gaza has become extremely challenging and dangerous, primarily owing to the grave security situation. Humanitarian actors and United Nations personnel who continue to operate in Gaza do so at serious personal risk, as we have seen time and time again, including with the recent attack on the Nuseirat refugee camp, where six staff of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East were killed.

Indeed, this war is the deadliest for the United Nations, with 224 United Nations personnel senselessly killed. Guyana therefore applauds the unselfish and unflinching decision of those who press on in these unfathomable circumstances. It is unfortunate that the parties have to be continuously reminded of their obligations, under international humanitarian law, to ensure the protection of humanitarian actors. Those appeals have been to no avail, as evidenced by the continuing non-functioning of deconfliction and coordination mechanisms and the direct attacks and intimidation that many of them face. This must stop now.

Having examined the Senior Coordinator's update on the implementation of resolution 2720 (2023), as of 2 September, one sees tiny threads of optimism interwoven throughout the report. We note for example, that the Senior Coordinator has been able to engage the parties and other stakeholders at the highest political level — resulting in improved access, enhanced logistical capabilities and the operationalization of the mechanism established by resolution 2720 (2023), inter alia.

While we commend the incremental progress, Guyana remains deeply concerned about assessments that show that the humanitarian situation in Gaza remains extremely dire. We note, for example, that ninety-six per cent of the population is facing acute food insecurity, civilian infrastructure continues to be destroyed — with the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs reporting significant damage increases since July, and violence and obstruction continue to impede humanitarian aid workers' ability to support those in need.

Most important, and foundational to all humanitarian efforts, a ceasefire appears to be elusive. Guyana believes that there will be a deal for a ceasefire only when there is sincere concern for the protection of civilians, including the persons taken hostage on 7 October. As of now, that concern is largely absent, despite narratives to the contrary.

Turning now to the reconstruction of the Gaza Strip, this will be a monumental task with heavy financial implications. But let us not forget that the destruction of Gaza is not because of a natural disaster. It is Israel's doing. We are all familiar with the consistent spate of military operations against the Gaza Strip by Israel prior to 7 October and the resulting destruction of civilian infrastructure. The pattern of financing and refinancing reconstruction in Gaza is unsustainable and the international community, including the Council, must contemplate measures to end this cycle so that Palestinians are not left behind in the global quest for sustainable development. Guyana believes that the only viable reconstruction plan is one that includes a road map to the two-State solution, with the relevant security guarantees.

Against that backdrop, Guyana reiterates the following appeals.

First, we call for an immediate and unconditional ceasefire in the Gaza Strip and for an end to all hostilities in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Guyana is prepared to work with fellow Council members both to mandate the permanent cessation of hostilities in the occupied Palestinian territories and to activate the relevant provisions of the Charter of the United Nations in order to ensure compliance with this mandate.

Secondly, we demand the immediate and unconditional release of all persons taken hostage from Israel on 7 October. We reiterate that the taking of hostages is a war crime. We also call for the release of Palestinians detained in Israeli prisons without charge. In both cases, persons have the right to be treated with dignity and respect, to be free from torture and other forms of ill treatment and to be afforded humanitarian visits. Under no circumstance are they to be arbitrarily detained.

Thirdly, Guyana calls on Israel to comply with its obligations under international law, including the Geneva Conventions, and adhere to the demands of resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 and 2735 (2024). We further demand Israel's compliance with all of the International Court of Justice orders directed at it, in response to its war in Gaza.

Finally, we demand that the highest priority be given to the protection and preservation of civilians. This necessitates, inter alia, improved humanitarian access, proper functioning of deconfliction mechanisms and the setting up of real safe zones for displaced persons. This war has gone on for far too long, and nothing justifies the horrors that have been perpetrated against innocent men, women and children in the name of self-defence. Civilians of Gaza are not just casualties of war but, in fact, victims of a senseless ideology in which one party refuses to see the other as it is — human beings desiring to live in peace and security. The Council must rescue the two-State solution because it is the only potent solution to the Palestinian question. I pray we all live to see it.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): I join others in thanking Senior Humanitarian and Reconstruction Coordinator Kaag and Executive Director Moreira da Silva for their briefings.

The United Kingdom strongly supports the Organization's tireless efforts to scale up aid into Gaza and pays tribute to them and the whole United Nations community for their work under increasingly difficult circumstances. As Ms. Kaag said, her briefing was sober and sombre. It could not be otherwise, describing an intolerable humanitarian situation in Gaza. As we heard, more than 41,000 people have now been killed, tens of thousands more are injured, 17,000 children are without parents, and 101 civilians remain hostage in Gaza, subject to horrific conditions for almost a year. We also remain concerned about the risk of wider regional escalation. We condemn the Houthi attack over the weekend, and we reiterate our demand for an immediate ceasefire and for Hamas to release all hostages.

We welcome the news that the first round of the Organization's polio vaccine campaign in Gaza has now concluded, facilitated by Israel's implementation of agreed tactical pauses. Despite the challenges, including the attack on a United Nations vaccination convoy last week, this shows that deconfliction can work where there is political will.

First, we now need to see this capacity for deconfliction applied to the wider humanitarian operation. Israel has committed to flood Gaza with aid, but that has not materialized. This is unacceptable.

Secondly, mass Israeli evacuation notices and the use of heavy weaponry mean that nowhere is safe in Gaza. We join the Secretary-General's call for compliance with international law, especially the principles of distinction, proportionality and precaution in attacks. We are horrified by the further killing of aid workers. As mentioned by my colleagues, just last week, we heard appalling reports of 18 people, including six staff members of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), as reported by the Secretary-General, killed by an Israeli military strike on the Al-Jaouni school-turned shelter. In total, 300 aid workers have been killed in this conflict, and we once again express our condolences to their families and their loved ones. We reiterate that humanitarian workers must be allowed to carry out their work safely.

Thirdly, the United Kingdom will continue to play a leading role in addressing this humanitarian crisis, including through our renewed funding for UNRWA and support for other aid agencies providing life-saving relief, as well as continued advocacy.

We are all rightly focused on the immediate priority of securing a ceasefire and hostage-release deal. We fully support United States, Qatari and Egyptian efforts and call on both Israel and Hamas to take the deal on the table. But we must also consider what comes next. There will be an enormous task in helping those in Gaza to rebuild. Early recovery will include clearing unexploded ordnance and rubble and providing essential services. The rebuilding of Gaza must be accompanied by the rebuilding of hope — hope for an end to this cycle of violence, hope for long-term peace and security for Palestinians and Israelis alike. That can be achieved only with a two-State solution, which affords Palestinians their inalienable right to self-determination alongside security for Israel.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): I would like to thank Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag and Executive Director Moreira da Silva from the United Nations Office for Project Services for their detailed and sombre briefings.

At the outset, my delegation commends the improvements achieved by Senior Coordinator Kaag and her team, including the implementation of the mechanism established by resolution 2720 (2023), on the Cyprus maritime corridor through Ashdod port and the Jordan land corridor. We also appreciate the work of Ms. Kaag's Office in contributing the massive polio vaccination campaign throughout Gaza. We hope that Senior Coordinator Kaag keeps updating the Security Council on the implementation of her mandate for humanitarian aid and reconstruction in Gaza, which is critical even after the current hostilities cease.

While we once again condemn in the strongest terms the horrendous terrorist attacks by Hamas on 7 October, it is deeply regrettable that, due to the continuing Israeli military operations targeting civilian and humanitarian infrastructure, the repeated evacuation orders and the total breakdown of law and order, the delivery of humanitarian aid in Gaza has been seriously hampered. It is now clear that, without a fundamental change in the political stance of the direct parties, the logistical advancements cannot achieve the intended results of resolution 2720 (2023).

Under international humanitarian law, it is the legal obligation of the parties to this conflict to protect humanitarian workers and facilitate rapid and unimpeded passage of humanitarian relief for civilians. The dangerous incident at a checkpoint in Gaza on 9 September is unacceptable, wherein a United Nations convoy sent to deliver polio vaccines, already approved by the Israel Defense Forces (IDF), was held at gunpoint for more than 7 hours. We call on the parties to this conflict, especially Israel, to implement every measure to prevent similar incidents. Deconfliction and notification mechanisms must be respected.

We are also deeply troubled, once again, by repeated Israeli air strikes on civilian infrastructure, including last week's attack on a United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) school, reportedly killing 18 people, including women and children, as well as six UNRWA staff members. We fully sympathize with the condemnation, frustration and anger expressed by Secretary-General Guterres in his recent statement.

The massive polio vaccination campaign shows what is urgently needed to bring about humanitarian improvements in Gaza — an immediate ceasefire or, at least, temporary humanitarian pauses. The Council adopted resolution 2735 (2024) three-months ago, calling upon parties to accept and implement the terms of the deal still on the table. It is profoundly disappointing that, despite the ongoing pressure on Hamas to accept the deal and on Israel to stick to its conditions, we are not seeing a finalization of an agreement regarding an immediate ceasefire and release of hostages, combined with a massive influx of humanitarian aid into Gaza.

However, even before the finalization of a deal or an implementation of a ceasefire, humanitarian aid must be expanded throughout Gaza. It is a miserable reality that since May, when the IDF began its operations in Rafah, the volume of humanitarian assistance into Gaza has remained far below even the minimum needs of 2.3 million people, most of whom cannot afford commercial goods. Denial of so-called dual-use items by Israel must be fully explained and the criteria must be transparent and reliable. As skin infections run rampant, we are deeply concerned that even items for basic hygiene, like soap, are being denied entry into the Gaza Strip. Israel must demonstrate to the rest of the world that it is actually doing its best to facilitate humanitarian aid to the Gazan people.

I would like to conclude my statement by reiterating a simple principle — all Security Council resolutions should be implemented without any delay, without any excuse. Both Hamas and Israel need to secure a ceasefire agreement, which should serve as the starting point for a permanent ceasefire and critical reconstruction efforts, as provided by resolution 2735 (2024), alongside the active participation of a reformed and strengthened Palestinian Authority, with the long-term vision of the two-State solution.

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Senior Coordinator Sigrid Kaag and Executive Director Moreira da Silva for their briefings. China commends the Senior Coordinator and humanitarian agencies for their efforts to expand humanitarian deliveries to Gaza over the past nine months. We support Ms. Kaag's continued reporting to the Security Council.

As we have heard from the briefers, despite the four resolutions adopted by the Council, the International Court of Justice orders on provisional measures and the herculean efforts of the United Nations and other humanitarian agencies, the humanitarian situation in Gaza has been steadily worsening, and violations of international law, in particular, international humanitarian law, have continued without stop. Just last week, a United Nations vehicle transporting polio vaccines, approved by Israel, was forcibly detained for nearly eight hours, during which shots were fired. Also last week, six United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) employees were killed in an air strike.

China strongly condemns such appalling attacks on humanitarian agencies and personnel, which are unacceptable. UNRWA is mandated by the General Assembly to provide relief for Palestinian refugees and is a pillar of strength for humanitarian operations in Gaza. Even at the most perilous of times, the Agency has not abandoned Gaza and to date, 240 of its staff have perished in the line of duty. We pay the highest tribute to all the humanitarian workers who continue their work and convey our deepest condolences over the deaths of those who have made the ultimate sacrifice. We call on Israel to investigate in earnest all attacks on humanitarian workers and to hold the perpetrators accountable.

The successful conduct of the polio vaccination campaign is telling proof that when the parties show political will, scaling up humanitarian operations in Gaza is perfectly achievable. China renews its call on Israel to fulfil its obligations under international humanitarian law by putting lives and the spirit of humanity first, lift the blockade, open all crossings, abandon restrictions on humanitarian deliveries, cease and desist from attacking and suppressing the United Nations and other humanitarian agencies and allow access for the safe and unimpeded operations of those agencies — and it must do so without delay.

We are nearing the first anniversary of the conflict in Gaza. Over the past year, despite repeated strong joint international calls for a ceasefire and the cessation of killings, Israel has not halted its military operations, which have led to the death of more than 41,000 Palestinian civilians. That is alarming. It is beyond belief. The Security Council has the primary responsibility to maintain international peace and security. Why has it been unable to stop this human tragedy — the worst of its kind to this day?

An analysis shows that had the United States not stood in the way on all those occasions, the Council could have adopted a resolution demanding a ceasefire soon after the conflict erupted. Had the United States not shielded one side time and again, multiple resolutions of the Council would not have been flagrantly rejected and defied. We urge the United States to show a responsible attitude, use the significant influence it holds over the party and take tangible actions to persuade Israel to cease its military operations without delay, as demanded by the Council resolutions, in order to give the long-suffering Palestinian people a chance to live. China supports further action on the part of the Council to put out the flames of war, mitigate the humanitarian disaster and bring peace to the region as soon as possible.

Mr. De La Gasca (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): I thank Senior Coordinator Kaag and Executive Director Moreira da Silva for their briefings and renew my country's support for their efforts.

Ecuador supports the efforts that the Office of the Coordinator is making with all parties to advance in the opening and reopening of additional crossings into Gaza in order to ensure the urgent increase in aid, and we value the efforts made to gain entry to Gaza of critical humanitarian items for health, waste management, education, water supply, sanitation and hygiene.

As of 28 August, the work of the Office of the Coordinator has facilitated the entry of more than 27,000 tons of aid. The mechanism established by resolution 2720 (2023) is operational. What is lacking, without a doubt, is the political will to make possible the entry of aid in the quantities necessary to alleviate the terrible situation of the civilian population in Gaza.

More than 11 months have passed since the beginning of the war following the terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas, which Ecuador once again condemns, and it is now more than 8 months since the adoption — during the Ecuadorian presidency — of resolution 2720 (2023), in which the Council demanded the parties to allow, facilitate and enable the immediate, safe and unimpeded delivery of large-scale humanitarian assistance to the civilian population in Gaza.

Despite the efforts made by the Coordinator, her task force and other actors, it has not yet been possible to ensure the unimpeded provision and distribution of humanitarian aid at scale so as to ensure access to food, water, sanitation, electricity, telecommunications and medical services for the people of Gaza.

Resolution 2720 (2023) also requires the parties to take the necessary measures to ensure the safety of humanitarian personnel and to protect and respect them. Unfortunately, there are regular reports that this requirement, reiterated in resolution 2730 (2024), is not being met.

My country therefore calls once again for the full and immediate implementation of resolution 2735 (2024), which will make possible an immediate ceasefire, the release of hostages, the entry of sufficient aid into Gaza and the safety of humanitarian personnel. Ecuador appreciates the efforts that continue to be made to that end.

Until that moment arrives, however, it is necessary to continue preparations for the ceasefire in order to ensure the pre-positioning of supplies, the use of all aid routes to Gaza and the creation of an environment conducive to humanitarian work. My country appreciates and supports the activities that the Office of the Coordinator is carrying out to that end.

I conclude this statement by calling on all actors in a position to do so to contribute to the mechanism established by resolution 2720 (2023) and by thanking the countries that have already done so. The humanitarian work continues despite all the difficulties and is a beacon of hope in the midst of war. It is our collective duty to support it.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Slovenia.

First, I want to thank Ms. Kaag and Mr. Moreira da Silva for their work and for their briefings today.

Today I will focus on political will, or the lack thereof. Both briefers spoke about it and so did several members of the Council.

Ms. Kaag concluded her July briefing (see S/PV.9678) by underlining that there is no substitute for political will and that there is no substitute for the full respect of international humanitarian law. In fact, today she and Mr. Moreira da Silva repeated that a mechanism cannot replace a lack of political will. Indeed, today's briefing and the humanitarian catastrophe on the ground, unfortunately, continue to confirm that both have been in very short supply throughout the duration of this sad conflict. It confirms that nothing can replace the absence of Israel's political will to ease or help ease the suffering of civilians in Gaza.

In December 2023, the Council showed strong political will to alleviate humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza. It adopted resolution 2720 (2023), which mandated a mechanism and a senior coordinator, with a focus on humanitarian aid and the reconstruction of Gaza. Nine months later, the mechanism is operational, the Coordinator has been committed, yet the main purpose of the resolution — the delivery of humanitarian aid at scale — has not been achieved for lack of political will and non-compliance with international humanitarian law.

Corridors have been established and additional crossings opened, yet some are largely or completely non-operational, including Rafah. Obstacles, uncertainty and unpredictability keep dictating aid delivery. In Gaza, challenges continue to mount — from attacks on deconflicted shelters and convoys, evacuation orders, food insecurity, diseases, breakdown of law and order to the destruction of basic infrastructure. We condemn recent incidents, including the attack on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) school-turned shelter.

We have to end the sense of impunity for non-compliance with international humanitarian law — as if civilians could be killed, maimed, bombed, tortured, displaced and starved under the eyes of the international community and the Security Council. That is unacceptable.

There have been a few glimmers of hope. We welcome the medical evacuations that took place last week and the first round of the polio vaccination campaign, which was carried out by the World Health Organization, UNICEF and UNRWA, with Israel's support. When there is political will, the civilian population can be protected and can be taken care of.

This war has passed the limits of the conceivable, of human suffering and of the international order we trust. Yet even now, more than three months since the adoption of resolution 2735 (2024), we see an absence of political will to implement it and to finalize the ceasefire deal. What is growing, I sense, is the political will in the Council to do more to ensure that a ceasefire is implemented.

We are approaching 7 October, which will mark a year of this tragic conflict. This is not an opportunity but a duty for the Security Council to show political will and determination in order to help end it.

It is time for the Security Council to ensure compliance with its resolutions. The way forward for us is a cascading approach — to exert pressure to ensure a ceasefire that holds; to rebuild life in Gaza — from security, education, health and psychosocial services to garbage collection; to immediately start the time-bound political process and implementation of the two-State solution; and to reconstruct Gaza, which, unfortunately, represents a long-term project. The Palestinian Government should be at the centre of these efforts and plans.

The political will of the international community to rebuild Gaza can only be effective in parallel with the political will of Israel to engage in a political process leading to its security and mutual recognition. No other solution to the situation in Palestine is acceptable for the international community.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

I give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Danon (Israel): First, I would like to thank Ms. Kaag and Mr. Moreira da Silva for their briefings.

As we gather here once more to discuss the humanitarian situation in Gaza, I cannot help but reflect on the narrowness of these discussions. We speak, as if by habit, about aid deliveries, food and medicine. And yet, there is hardly a mention of the hostages — of our people still held captive in the most brutal conditions imaginable. The six hostages executed in cold blood, whose faces the members of the Security Council all saw last time we gathered here (S/PV.9717), were kept in a tunnel whose entrance was hidden beneath a child's bedroom.

We all must ask ourselves how much of the aid ends up fuelling the very tunnels that imprison the innocent. How much — if any — of the aid reaches the hostages? How much is stolen by the Hamas terror machine, never reaching the Palestinians?

Let me be clear: Israel's humanitarian efforts during the war are unparalleled for a country that underwent its most tragic day and has since been forced to go to war. We have gone above and beyond our obligations, aiming to improve the well-being of a civilian population embedded within the enemy.

The statistics are there for all to see. While they differ from the terrorist-supplied statistics, we urge the Council and the United Nations to stick to the facts. Over 1 million tons of aid have been delivered via more than 50,000 trucks. There have been nearly 1 million land crossings, providing vital supplies and assistance to the people of Gaza. Hardly a fraction of the crossings has ever been stopped, and 800,000 tons of food and aid have crossed into Gaza under Israeli coordination.

We have also acted dynamically in response to the changing circumstances. The polio vaccination campaign, run in collaboration with UNICEF and the World Health Organization (WHO), is well under way. As of 10 September, over half a million Gazan children had been vaccinated. We appreciate our partners at UNICEF and the WHO for their efforts. Despite the slander, the noise and the panic, we have clearly demonstrated our willingness to work with cooperative agencies, with those who truly care about the welfare of civilians and wish to work meaningfully with us. Our cooperation with UNICEF and the WHO has been productive. Together we have responded to the needs of Gazans as they arise, adapting to the humanitarian situation in real time. We also value the ongoing cooperation with Senior Humanitarian Coordinator Kaag and her team.

But we must draw a line — we cannot work with everyone, and we will not work with those who do not care for civilians, but only care to harm Israel. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Gaza has become nothing more than a cartel, fostering hatred and prolonging misery in Gaza. UNRWA in Gaza does not assist, it enables. It enables the very forces that keep Gaza in a state of despair. We have documented proof of UNRWA staff involved in the Hamas-led atrocities of 7 October. Earlier this year, we provided more than 100 names and military identity documents of terrorist operatives currently employed by UNRWA in Gaza to Commissioner-General Lazzarini.

That list is part of an ongoing process and does not yet reveal the full extent of the infiltration of UNRWA in Gaza. Yet some here continue to fund the Agency as if it were neutral, as if it were part of the solution and not part of the problem. As many mentioned today, just last week, on Wednesday, 11 September, our forces conducted a strike on terrorists operating inside a building that was once a school. After we were accused by a few dignitaries of killing local UNRWA workers in the strike, the Israel Defense Forces requested that the Agency provide the details and names of the workers so that we could review the claim, as any liberal democracy would do. No answers have been provided by UNRWA thus far, despite repeated requests. We, however, have confirmed several terrorists who were eliminated in the strike, including Muhammad Adnan Abu Zayd, Yasser Ibrahim Abu Sharar and Ayad Matar. Each of those terrorists were Hamas military operatives, and each of them was also employed by UNRWA. They had a day job with UNRWA and a night job with Hamas.

The most effective way to improve the humanitarian situation is clear: the removal and dismantlement of the Hamas terror organization — the cause of the suffering, the monsters who bear sole responsibility. Defeating Hamas will allow the people of Gaza to shape their own future and rebuild their lives, working alongside the most successful and prosperous nations in the region. Let me be clear — with Hamas left in control, no meaningful discussion can take place about Gaza's future, not about its governance, its reconstruction or its prospects. The root of the humanitarian crisis in Gaza is not a shortage of food or medicine. It is that Hamas continues to hold its people hostage in service of their evil ideology. Our goal is very clear — to defeat Hamas, to secure the return of all our hostages and to allow Gazans to take control of their own future, free from the grip of terror of Hamas and free from the incitement and hatred that has poisoned their society for too long.

Once Hamas is gone, we want the people of Gaza to administer their own affairs, to rebuild their lives with dignity and in peace, alongside their Israeli neighbours. As long as Hamas rules Gaza with its hateful ideology, the people there will never have a chance at a decent life. As long as Hamas holds our citizens hostage, as our families wonder if their loved ones are dead or alive, the real humanitarian work cannot begin.

It is time for the Council to acknowledge the truth — the humanitarian crisis in Gaza is not due to a lack of food or medicine. It is the result of a lack of genuine leadership, poor management and the grip of a terror organization that values death over life. The defeat of Hamas is not just an Israeli interest, it is a humanitarian imperative.

The President: There are no more names inscribed on the list of speakers.

I now invite Council members to informal consultations to continue our discussion of the subject.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representative of Israel to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in the meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and the previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Mr. Tor Wennesland, Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process; and Ms. Helen Clark, member of The Elders.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I would like to remind everyone that this is an official meeting of the Security Council. Being fully aware that today's briefing is not an easy one for anyone in the Chamber, I would like to remind all participants and speakers at today's discussion to engage in the meeting with the utmost respect and to observe appropriate standards of tone, wording and content in their remarks.

I give the floor to Mr. Wennesland.

Mr. Wennesland: I would like, at the outset, to express my grave concern over the growing risk of a widescale regional escalation. The series of explosions across Lebanon and rockets fired towards Israel in recent days adds to the volatility. I call on all sides to refrain from steps that will further exacerbate the situation and take immediate steps to de-escalate.

Turning to today's briefing, which is devoted to the thirty-first report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), the report covers the period from 11 June to 11 September. Resolution 2334 (2016) calls on Israel to immediately and completely cease all settlement activity in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, and to fully respect all of its legal obligations in that regard.

Settlement activity has continued. In total, some 6,370 housing units were advanced or approved in settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Of those, 5,840 housing units were in Area C, including three outposts legalized under Israeli law, and nearly 530 housing units were advanced in the Gilo settlement, in East Jerusalem. Construction tenders were published for approximately 1,100 housing units in settlements, including 780 in East Jerusalem.

In settlement-related steps, on 18 July, the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) Central Command signed a military order amending an order from 1995 that implemented the Oslo Accords, so as to grant to the military commander in the area authority over planning and construction in certain parts of Area B that had been transferred to the Palestinian Authority. On 25 June, the civil administration declared over 12,700 dunums as State land in the Jordan Valley, adjacent to 8,000 dunums declared in March.

Demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures continued across the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Citing the lack of Israeli-issued building permits, which are almost impossible for Palestinians to obtain, Israeli authorities demolished, seized or forced people to demolish 373 structures, displacing more than 550 people, including 250 children; 26 of those structures were donor-funded.

Evictions of Palestinians from their homes in East Jerusalem also continued. Following a Supreme Court ruling, on 15 August Israeli security forces evicted the Shehadeh family from their home in Silwan, in favour of a settler organization, displacing 35 Palestinians. One hundred and eighty-eight Palestinians, including 111 children, left their occupied West Bank communities, citing violence and harassment by settlers and shrinking grazing land.

On 19 July, the International Court of Justice rendered its advisory opinion on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. Among its findings, the Court reaffirmed that the Israeli settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem and the regime associated with them have been established and are being maintained in violation of international law. And, among other things, it concluded that it was of the opinion that the State of Israel is under an obligation to immediately cease all new settlement activities and to evacuate all settlers from the occupied Palestinian Territory. It further stated that the State of Israel's continued presence in the occupied Palestinian territory is unlawful, that the State of Israel is under an obligation to bring to an end its unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory as rapidly as possible and that all States are under an obligation not to recognize as legal the situation arising from the unlawful presence of the State of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory and not to render aid or assistance in maintaining the situation created by the continued presence of the State of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory.

Resolution 2334 (2016) calls for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror as well as all acts of provocation and destruction. Unfortunately, the devastating conflict in Gaza has continued alongside daily violence in the occupied West Bank, with the high number of fatal incidents precluding me from detailing them all.

In Gaza, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health, from 11 June to 11 September, at least 3,920 Palestinians were killed and at least 10,200 were injured. That brings the total number reported by the Ministry of Health since 7 October 2023 to more than 41,000 Palestinians killed, a majority of whom are reportedly women and children.

According to Israeli sources, 101 hostages are still being held captive, of the 251 hostages abducted on 7 October 2023. On 1 September, the IDF discovered six hostages in Gaza killed by Palestinian armed groups, including two women, and in separate operations recovered the bodies of 12 other killed hostages and rescued one hostage alive. Israeli sources also reported over 1,580 Israelis and foreign nationals killed by Hamas or by other Palestinian armed groups, including at least 338 women and 40 children, and 783 members of the security forces since 7 October 2023 in attacks either in or originating from Gaza.

Israel continued to conduct strikes from air, land and sea, resulting in tens of thousands of Palestinian casualties, massive displacement of civilians and widespread destruction, including civilian infrastructure.

Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups continued to hold hostages in horrific conditions, with reports of severe maltreatment, launched attacks at Israeli forces and fired rockets and other projectiles indiscriminately towards Israel. Israel stated that Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups continued to place fighters and military equipment among and underneath areas with dense concentrations of civilians.

Israeli operations continued throughout Gaza, displacing hundreds of thousands of Palestinians. Eighty-nine per cent of Gaza has been placed under evacuation orders at one point or another since 7 October 2023. New evacuation orders have reduced the size of the Israeli-designated humanitarian zones in Al-Mawasi to just 11 per cent of the size Gaza Strip. Repeated attacks on 30 schools and airstrikes in densely populated areas continued, resulting in the deaths of internally displaced persons (IDPs) sheltering in those locations.

On 11 September, three IDF air strikes on IDP tents in Al-Mawasi, in Khan Younis, killed at least 19 people and injured at least 60 others. The next day, two IDF air strikes hit the Al-Jaouni school, sheltering IDPs in Nuseirat, killing at least 18 people, including children, women and six staff of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). UNRWA said it was the deadliest incident in the Agency's history. The IDF stated that the target in each strike was a Hamas command and control centre.

On 13 July, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health, at least 91 Palestinians were killed, and over 300 were injured, in an IDF air strike on Al-Mawasi, which, according to the Israeli Government, killed the commander of Hamas's Al-Qassam Brigades, Mohammed Deif. On 10 August, an IDF air strike on the Al-Tabbeen school in Gaza City, sheltering approximately 6,000 IDPs, killed at least 93 Palestinians and wounded dozens of others, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health. The IDF said 31 militants were killed in that attack.

On 27 August, despite being clearly marked, a World Food Programme team was struck by gunfire as it was moving towards an IDF checkpoint, sustaining 10 bullet shots. On 9 September, the IDF shot at a United Nations convoy supporting polio vaccinations for children in northern Gaza, caused heavy damage to United Nations vehicles and held the convoy at gunpoint for eight hours, threatening to arrest 12 United Nations staff. During the reporting period, at least 27 United Nations personnel were killed in Gaza, bringing the total number of United Nations staff killed since 7 October 2023 to 224.

Meanwhile, violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, continued at alarming levels. One hundred and sixty Palestinians, including four women and 28 children, were killed during Israel security forces air strikes, search-and-arrest operations, armed exchanges, demonstrations and other incidents. One Palestinian was killed by Israeli settlers. A total of 849 Palestinians were injured, including 147 by tear gas inhalation and 370 by live ammunition. A total of 86 Palestinians, including nine children and three women, were killed by air strikes. In August, Israeli air strikes in the occupied West Bank killed at least one Palestinian every day on average. Since 7 October 2023, 185 Palestinians, including 33 children, have been killed in air strikes in the West Bank. As reported by Israeli security forces, it is hitting military targets.

According to Israeli sources, 14 Israelis, including two women and nine security forces personnel, were killed and another 67 were injured by Palestinians in shooting, stabbing and ramming attacks and other incidents. Israeli security forces carried out 1,673 search-and-arrest operations in the occupied West Bank, resulting in 1,295 Palestinians detained, including at least 57 children.

The Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Sexual Violence in Conflict expressed her deep concern about recently published reports by the United Nations describing a dramatic deterioration in conditions of detention for Palestinian men, women and children under Israeli custody since the 7 October 2023 attacks. Those reports of sexual violence and other inhumane and degrading treatment could amount to sexualized torture perpetrated against Palestinian men and women. In July, Israeli military police arrested several Israeli reserve soldiers suspected of the serious sexual abuse of a Palestinian detainee.

In the occupied West Bank, most Palestinians were killed in the context of Israeli security forces operations in Area A, including during exchanges of fire with armed Palestinians. Those situations are characterized by the increased use of air strikes, improvised explosive devices (IEDs) and the destruction to both private property and civilian infrastructure. From 5 to 6 August, the IDF conducted a major operation in Jenin, killing at least six Palestinians in two air strikes and one with live ammunition, injuring another seven in armed clashes. From 28 August to 6 September, the IDF conducted its largest operation in the occupied West Bank since 2002, stating that it was targeting Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad members and infrastructure in Jenin, Tulkarem and Tubas. The Palestinian Ministry of Health said that 36 Palestinians were killed and dozens wounded during the operation, including eight children. The IDF bulldozed water, sewage, electricity and communications lines and approximately 70 per cent of the road network in Jenin city, citing the IED threat to its soldiers. One IDF soldier was shot and killed during the operation.

High levels of settler-related violence continued. On 16 August, scores of armed settlers attacked the Palestinian village of Jit, in Qalqilya, shooting and killing one Palestinian man, injuring another and setting fire to Palestinian-owned houses, vehicles and agricultural land. Israel launched an investigation into the incident. A number of senior Israeli officials condemned the attack. On 26 August, dozens of armed Israeli settlers attacked Wadi Rahal village in Bethlehem, during which a Palestinian man was killed.

Violence against Israelis by Palestinians also continued at high levels. On 11 August, an Israeli man was killed in a shooting attack in the Jordan Valley, for which Hamas claimed responsibility. On 18 August, a Palestinian killed a guard in the Israeli settlement of Kedumim. The following day, Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad claimed to have conducted what appeared to be an attempted suicide bombing in Tel Aviv, which led to the death of the attacker and injury to one civilian.

The Security Council, in resolution 2334 (2016), called upon both parties to refrain from provocative actions, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric. Unfortunately, such acts continued.

A joint statement from Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad threatened a return to the use of suicide bombings, a call echoed in a speech by a senior Hamas official, while Hamas's Al-Qassam Brigades published a graphic leaflet showing an explosive belt and a bombed Israeli bus.

In a video posted on social media, an Israeli minister said "Palestinian prisoners must be killed, shot in the head" while urging that the Knesset adopt a bill allowing capital punishment for terrorist offences. Another minister said, of Palestinians in Gaza, "Nobody will let us cause 2 million civilians to die of hunger, even though it might be justified and moral until our hostages are returned."

Two Israeli ministers made visits to the holy sites in Jerusalem, with one of the ministers calling the site “Israeli sovereign territory”, while speaking of policies to change the status quo. Israel’s Office of the Prime Minister stated that there was no change to the status quo.

Resolution 2334 (2016) reiterated calls by the Middle East Quartet for affirmative steps to be taken immediately to reverse negative trends on the ground that are imperilling the two-State solution.

The catastrophic public health conditions in Gaza continued to deteriorate as access to safe drinking water and sanitation facilities continued to shrink. Severe shortages of fuel and medical supplies continued to limit the functionality of remaining hospitals and health-care centres, particularly in northern Gaza. Education continued to suffer, with Gaza’s 600,000 children having missed an entire year of school and evacuation orders forcing over 30 temporary education centres to close. Despite these setbacks, UNRWA expanded learning activities. In August, the Palestinian Ministry of Health confirmed the first case of polio in 25 years. A polio vaccination campaign was launched on 31 August by the World Health Organization and UNICEF, with support from other agencies, including UNRWA. Thus far, the campaign has vaccinated 70 per cent of some 650,000 children under 10.

Following the Israeli military ground operations into Rafah and the subsequent closure of the Rafah crossing in May, humanitarian organizations faced many obstacles that impeded their ability to regularly pick up supplies entering through the Karem Abu Salem/Kerem Shalom crossing, including continued hostilities, impassable roads and deteriorating civil order.

On 6 August, the Israeli Minister of Finance said Israel would confiscate $26 million of Palestinian clearance revenues that Israel collects on behalf of the Palestinian Authority and transfer it to the families of terror victims. The next day, Israel terminated a customs clearance mechanism with Norway that reportedly holds nearly $220 million of Palestinian clearance revenues in escrow and demanded that the funds be returned to Israel. Israel described this as a response to Norway’s recognition of the State of Palestine in May.

In Israel, some 120,000 Israelis, including 50,000 children, have been displaced from their homes in the south and north of Israel in the context of the hostilities.

In resolution 2334 (2016), the Security Council also called upon all States “to distinguish, in their relevant dealings, between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories occupied since 1967.” No new steps are known to have been taken in this period.

In its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024, the International Court of Justice, expressed the view that Member States “are under an obligation ... to distinguish in their dealings with Israel between the territory of the State of Israel and the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967”. Resolution 2334 (2016) also called upon “all parties to continue ... to exert collective efforts to launch credible negotiations on all final-status issues in the Middle East peace process”.

Intense negotiations between international mediators and the parties continued in Doha and Cairo to formulate a deal for a ceasefire and the release of the hostages in Gaza. On 27 June, Canada announced that it was imposing new sanctions on seven individuals and five entities for their role in facilitating, supporting or financially contributing to acts of violence by Israeli extremist settlers against Palestinian civilians and their property. The United States and the European Union also announced another round of sanctions and restrictive measures against settlers and entities. On 13 July, Argentina designated Hamas a terrorist organization and ordered a freeze on its financial assets. From 21 to 23 July, Palestinian factions, including Fatah and Hamas, attended reconciliation talks in Beijing, where they signed a declaration reiterating their commitment to form a national unity Government and implement previous agreements.

In conclusion, allow me to share the Secretary-General’s observations on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016).

“I once again strongly condemn the horrific attacks by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Israel on 7 October 2023, their continued holding of hostages in Gaza and the recent deliberate killing of six hostages whose bodies showed signs of severe mistreatment. There is no justification for the deliberate killing, maiming, torture and abduction of civilians and the use of sexual violence. Hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. And, for as long as they are held, they must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the International Committee of the Red Cross. I condemn the continued indiscriminate attacks, including the firing of rockets towards Israeli population centres and the use of human shields, which are prohibited by international humanitarian law and must cease.

“I again unequivocally condemn the widespread killing and injury of civilians in Gaza, including women and children, and the deprivation of essentials to survive. Nothing can justify the collective punishment of the Palestinian people. I am concerned about what may amount to serious violations of international humanitarian law, including possible non-compliance with the principles of distinction, proportionality and precaution. I mourn the United Nations staff killed in Gaza and strongly condemn the killing of all health and humanitarian personnel. These incidents must stop immediately and be thoroughly and independently investigated.

“The level of suffering witnessed in Gaza is unprecedented in my mandate as Secretary-General. To address the colossal humanitarian needs and improve the intolerable conditions of civilians, Israel must fully open all crossings into Gaza and facilitate the immediate, safe and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance at scale directly to the Palestinian civilian population throughout the Gaza Strip in accordance with its obligations under international humanitarian law.

“I reiterate my call for an immediate ceasefire to end human suffering and urge all sides to redouble efforts to reach a deal that will bring about an immediate ceasefire and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. I continue to engage all stakeholders towards these objectives. A deal is crucial to saving lives, releasing all the hostages, reducing regional tensions and enabling the United Nations, in cooperation with the Palestinian Authority, to accelerate efforts to address the pressing needs of Gaza’s population. I welcome the efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to reach a deal.

“I strongly condemn all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror. The escalation of violence in the occupied West Bank and Israel is highly alarming. Palestinian refugee camps are sustaining significant infrastructure damage during Israeli security forces operations throughout the occupied West Bank. I urge the security forces to exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I call on Israel to abide by its obligations under international law. All those injured must have access to medical care, and humanitarian workers must be able to reach everyone in need. I also recall that Israel, as the occupying Power, has a responsibility to ensure that the civilian population is protected against all acts of violence and call on Israel to ensure thorough, independent and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force.

“I am deeply concerned about the large number of Palestinians, including children, detained by Israeli security forces and the increase in the number of Palestinians held in administrative detention by Israel since 7 October 2023. Reports of torture and other ill treatment during arrest and detention, including sexual violence, are also deeply concerning.

“I condemn the attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, including in the proximity and with the complicity of Israeli security forces. The attack on Jit was illustrative of the increasingly coordinated and deadly nature of these attacks. Attacks by Palestinians against Israel must also cease immediately. I condemn Hamas’s attempted attack in Tel Aviv, and I am alarmed by its call for a return to the use of suicide bombings. All necessary steps must be taken to hold perpetrators accountable.

“I reiterate the utmost need to uphold the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem, taking into account the special and historic role of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan as custodian of the holy sites.

“I remain deeply troubled by the relentless expansion of Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Israeli policies and practices are systematically altering the land in the occupied Palestinian territory, creating dangerous dynamics and an existential threat to the two-State solution. Settlement expansion, settler violence and recent Israeli administrative steps and large-scale State land declarations in the occupied West Bank are fundamentally changing the landscape and deepening the occupation. I reiterate that the establishment of Israeli settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem, has no legal validity and constitutes a flagrant violation of international law. In that respect, I note the recent findings of the International Court of Justice, mentioned above, in its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024.

“The demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures may entail numerous human rights violations and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I note the conclusion of the International Court of Justice in that regard. I urge the Government of Israel to end these practices, in line with its obligations under international law. Palestinians must be allowed to build legally and address their development needs.

“I am alarmed by the multiple instances in which officials have engaged in dangerous provocations, incitement and inflammatory language, which must be rejected by all.

“I express my deep appreciation to UNRWA and all the United Nations agencies and personnel and humanitarian aid workers, who remain committed to their work across the occupied Palestinian territories despite the significant security risks. I am deeply concerned about efforts to undermine their life-saving work. The inviolability of United Nations premises must be respected at all times by all.

“To meet the challenges ahead, we must establish political and security frameworks that can address the humanitarian catastrophe, start early recovery, rebuild Gaza and lay the groundwork for a political process to end the occupation and establish a two-State solution. These frameworks must facilitate a legitimate Palestinian Government that can reunify Gaza and the occupied West Bank politically, economically and administratively while reversing the steadily deteriorating dynamics in the occupied West Bank. Palestinian unity is an essential building block to just and lasting peace. Israeli measures that undermine the Palestinian Authority must be urgently addressed. The Government of Palestine will require significant support from the international community to advance these objectives.

“Finally, any lasting progress cannot be divorced from the ongoing Israeli occupation and unresolved Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Progress towards peace must address and fully realize the fundamental and legitimate right of Palestinians to self-determination and sovereignty over the entirety of the occupied Palestinian territory. It must also address Israel’s legitimate security concerns. We must collectively take steps to establish a political framework that outlines tangible, irreversible steps towards ending the occupation and establishing a two-State solution of Israel and Palestine — of which Gaza is an integral part — living side by side in peace and security on the basis of United Nations resolutions, previous agreements and international law, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States. The United Nations will continue to support all efforts towards that goal.”

The President: I thank Mr. Wennesland for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Ms. Clark.

Ms. Clark: It is an honour to speak to the Council today as a member of The Elders. Resolution of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict has been a priority for our group since its founding by Nelson Mandela in 2007.

The implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) is acutely relevant to the current devastating phase of the conflict and to any chance of securing a fair and durable two-State solution in line with international law. But its failure so far also poses an existential question: can the Security Council enforce its own resolutions? That is surely crucial to its credibility.

The Elders unequivocally condemn the 7 October 2023 terrorist attacks and the holding of hostages by Hamas, which have caused deep trauma for the Israeli people. We also unequivocally condemn Israel’s disproportionate military response, including its bombardment, siege and blockade of Gaza. This amounts to collective punishment and is causing great suffering and trauma to the Palestinian people.

The Security Council has a responsibility to chart a path towards a sustainable peace. A full, immediate and complete ceasefire in Gaza is an indispensable step. It is deeply disturbing that resolution 2735 (2024), calling for this, remains unimplemented. It is clear that unless and until the root causes of the conflict are addressed, violence will persist and escalate. The conflict-management approach pursued by powerful members of the international community has failed. A new approach, grounded in international law, including the enforcement of the Council’s resolutions, is needed.

Council members who question the binding status of those resolutions or who use their veto to protect an ally or to oppose a geopolitical rival are eroding the Council's authority. They also undermine their own reputations and long-term interests.

All Member States are also bound to respect and comply with decisions of the International Court of Justice. That includes the provisional measures ordered to protect Palestinians in Gaza. The International Court of Justice's recent advisory opinion on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, while non-binding, is an authoritative, landmark ruling. It concludes that Israel's presence in the occupied Palestinian territory is unlawful and must end as rapidly as possible. That obligation does not depend on achieving a successful outcome to peace negotiations.

The General Assembly and Security Council should give effect to the advisory opinion by adopting resolutions endorsing it and setting out what action is required by Israel, other Member States and the United Nations to bring an end to the occupation. The Elders welcome the adopting of General Assembly resolution ES-10/24 on that issue yesterday. How will the Security Council respond to the advisory opinion?

Resolution 2334 (2016) reaffirmed the illegality of the settlements. Yet settlement expansion in the West Bank and East Jerusalem continues to accelerate while attention is focused on Gaza. More decisive Member State action is needed. All Member States must distinguish between Israel and the occupied Palestinian territory in all forms of cooperation and cease any assistance to or trade with illegal settlements.

Targeted measures should be applied against State and non-State entities and individuals responsible for maintaining and expanding illegal settlements. Steps have already been taken, including by the United States of America and the European Union, to sanction settlers for attacks on Palestinian civilians. But sanctions should also target financial flows to entities which are funding and constructing illegal settlements, and those in the Government of Israel who are pursuing annexation.

The Council must respect the process of criminal accountability through the International Criminal Court (ICC), including the ICC Prosecutor's request for arrest warrants in response to alleged atrocity crimes by Hamas and the Government of Israel. Member States seeking to undermine the ICC are damaging the international rule of law. They are undermining accountability in other contexts, including in the context of Russia's illegal war on Ukraine. That must stop.

There will be no security for Israelis or Palestinians if the war in Gaza is followed by a continuation of unlawful occupation and annexation. But without a decisive change of direction, that seems likely.

The Elders propose a set of guiding principles to underpin a pathway towards sustainable peace, based on self-determination, sovereignty and mutual security for both peoples.

First, full United Nations membership and recognition of the State of Palestine should be supported by all Council members and other States now. Statehood is not dependent on peace negotiations. Strengthening the Palestinian Authority remains crucial, but statehood should not have to wait for governance reforms.

Secondly, the normalization of relations between Israel and Arab States is essential for Israel's long-term security and for regional stability and prosperity. But full normalization must be conditional on Israel ending the occupation permanently and supporting the implementation of a two-State solution.

Thirdly, the security of Palestinians and Israelis must be given equal weighting. There can be no sovereign State of Palestine with continued Israeli security control over the Palestinian people. Israel's security concerns do not justify unlawful occupation or annexation.

Fourthly and finally, the goal of a single, unified Government overseeing Gaza, the West Bank and East Jerusalem should be supported by all Palestinian factions, including Hamas and by the entire international community. Sustainable peace will require reconciliation under the umbrella of a revitalized Palestine Liberation Organization, based on adherence to international law. Violence against civilians by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups must end.

All of that requires bold, principled leadership and the political will to break with the failed policies of the past. All forms of leverage should be applied, including the suspension of arms transfers in response to continued violations of international law. Only by implementing international legal obligations, ensuring accountability and ending impunity can a path to end the conflict be created once and for all.

The President: I thank Ms. Clark for her briefing.

I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign and European Affairs of Slovenia.

In March, I hosted, in our capital, the representatives of two organizations: Women Wage Peace and Women of the Sun. Together they are leading the mothers' call. They are Palestinian and Israeli mothers determined to stop the cycle of violence and change the reality of the conflict between the two nations for the benefit of their children and for generations to come. I was very much inspired by what they described as resistance in hope.

We are at the precipice. Almost a year into the war, the devastation and immense suffering of civilians continues relentlessly. The hostages have not returned home. Civilians in Gaza continue to endure unprecedented levels of violence and destruction. The potential to engulf the region in a wider conflict remains at an all-time high. The most recent escalation in Lebanon is another sign of it. Despite that, I, just as the mothers I spoke with, continue to embrace hope — hope that peace returns to Gaza and the West Bank.

First, we need compliance with international law. Since day one of the conflict, we have called for compliance with international law. Instead, serious violations of international humanitarian and human rights law persist, challenging the very notion of the international legal framework, which we collectively established to safeguard all people and to protect the most vulnerable in particular. On top of that, resolutions of the Security Council and provisional orders of the International Court of Justice are being blatantly disregarded. Such violations weaken the credibility of our institutions and erode global trust. In the shadow of the appalling situation in Gaza, policies in favour of settlements and settlement expansion have accelerated at an unprecedented pace, settler violence is on the rise and the situation in the West Bank is boiling. The status quo of the holy sites in Jerusalem is being repeatedly violated. Negative trends must be met with positive and concrete steps. I therefore warmly welcome the adoption of General Assembly resolution ES-10/24, following the International Court of Justice advisory opinion on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, which provides tangible steps towards a blueprint for peace. It is now time for the Council to follow suit.

Secondly, we need respect — more respect for the prevailing sentiment of the wider United Nations membership which demands a ceasefire and a just and lasting peace. We need more respect for the United Nations system, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, and more compliance with its Charter. That is the best prospect for alleviating the unimaginable suffering. We need a more respectful and action-orientated dialogue in the Chamber — one that prioritizes peace over partisanship. We also need respect and dialogue between people in the region. That starts, first and foremost, with leadership for peace on both sides. Leadership cannot be based on incitement, hatred, provocation or terrorism, and neither can it endorse such actions. It must also be respectful of other opinions, especially in civil society.

Thirdly, we need courage, in order to uphold our commitments to a two-State solution, which remains the only path to durable peace. I say that as the Foreign Minister of a country that has taken a clear stance for peace in the conflict. We have decided to be active in the Council and to deliver on what we promised during our campaign — building trust and securing the future. We therefore took a decision to vote for admitting the State of Palestine to membership in the United Nations. We also recognized the State of Palestine. I urge others to take similar steps. Universal recognition of Palestine and its admission as a full United Nations Member is an essential element in our shared agenda for peace. The future of peace in the region will slip away if tangible steps are not taken. It is the job of the Council as a whole, and of its individual members as well, to act as guarantors for peace, with courage. Clearly, we need also courageous leaders in the region — leaders willing to set aside their individual interests, who dare to dream of a different region, turning a new page in this decades-long conflict, and who dare to envision a different future, one where the normalization of relations is possible and where militarization gives way to cooperation.

Lastly, we need diplomacy. We need diplomacy to succeed in delivering a ceasefire. Yes, we must do the hard work of diplomacy bilaterally, but we must also do the hard work of diplomacy multilaterally. Past peace processes have not yielded the results we want to see. We therefore believe that there should be an inclusive, meaningful and time-bound peace process, coupled with reconstruction. We want to see the United Nations playing a central role in that, and a Palestinian Government strong enough to shoulder its responsibilities. I welcome the day-after plan presented by the Palestinian Prime Minister. But diplomacy must be more than words — it requires concerted action. We call for the swift convening of an international peace conference, as agreed in Madrid, to advance a two-State solution.

I imagine a mother in Gaza beaming with joy as her child can study again. I imagine a mother in Tel Aviv not needing to teach her child how to use a shelter. I imagine a mother in Jenin not worrying whether her child will be detained. That is the future I dream of — a future in which peace is not just a possibility but a reality. The first step towards that reality is an immediate ceasefire.

The Council is the most powerful body for peace and security in the world. I have always maintained that the strongest and most suitable and sustainable tool in diplomacy is dialogue. However, dialogue cannot consist of words alone. It must include listening and understanding. But here in this Chamber, dialogue must lead to meaningful action. If not, the Council must also open a new chapter in the tools that it is ready to use.

I resume my functions as President of the Council.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mr. Wood (United States of America): I thank Coordinator Wennesland and Ms. Clark for their briefings.

This is a decisive moment for the parties to the ongoing conflict and for the security of the broader region. The Council will have an opportunity to further discuss the situation with regard to Lebanon tomorrow afternoon. The United States continues to gather facts, and we reiterate that it is not in any party's interests for there to be a broader regional conflict. Indeed, Secretary Blinken continues to work for an immediate ceasefire and hostage release deal consistent with resolution 2735 (2024). As he emphasized yesterday during his visit to Egypt, we all know that the ceasefire deal is the best chance to tackle the humanitarian crisis in Gaza and address regional stability. It is imperative that all parties refrain from actions that could lead to an escalation of broader regional tensions and undermine the ongoing negotiations.

We have also called on all parties to the fighting in Gaza to avoid putting civilians at risk and to take serious steps to ensure that humanitarian personnel are able to do their jobs and help save lives. There is no clearer evidence of Hamas's total indifference to Palestinian civilians in Gaza than the fact that its members continue to hide under civilian sites. For the sake of civilians on all sides of the conflict, that must stop. We must not grow numb to the human suffering in the region. Again, it is manifestly in the interests of Israelis, Palestinians and every country in the region for the fighting in Gaza to stop and a broader conflict to be averted. As we have emphasized before, a ceasefire in Gaza could reduce tensions along the Blue Line, creating conditions for displaced Lebanese civilians to go home in the south, and for Israeli civilians displaced by Hizbullah's persistent rocket attacks since 7 October 2023 to return to their homes.

As we heard today, the situation in the West Bank also remains one of grave concern. We condemn deadly violence against Palestinian civilians by extremist settlers in the West Bank. Moreover, we reiterate that Israel would be well advised to refrain from military operations and other measures that risk further inflaming tensions and destabilizing an already combustible situation. Israel's programme of support for expanding settlements is inconsistent with international law and only serves to weaken Israel's security by inflaming tensions and undercutting the efforts to achieve a two-State solution.

The Security Council can and should play a constructive role consistent with the principles that President Biden outlined in May and that the Council endorsed in resolution 2735 (2024) — to encourage Hamas to accept the deal on the table, promote a de-escalation of regional tensions and reaffirm to all parties that unilateral measures such as settlements and one-sided resolutions in New York will not bring about a two-State solution. Implementing resolution 2735 (2024) will also require political will from leaders in the region. There is no alternative to a negotiated end to the fighting in Gaza and there is no alternative path to achieving a two-State solution other than through direct negotiations between the parties. The United States will continue to do everything possible to put forward ideas and proposals to achieve a ceasefire and hostage release in Gaza that will help lay the foundation for a better future for Israelis and Palestinians alike.

We see the paths before us. One would save lives, bring relief to the people of Gaza, bring the hostages home and de-escalate regional tensions. The other, darker, path that we should all endeavour to avoid going down any further is marked by further impasses in ceasefire talks, civilian suffering in Gaza and a risk of additional unilateral actions that could set off a broader conflict. Hamas wants the region to go down the second path, for the fighting and suffering in Gaza to continue and for there to be a broader regional conflict. It is therefore on the shoulders of anyone who wants to see the war end and cares about the plight of Palestinian civilians to press Hamas to engage constructively and close the deal on the table. That is the best way to ensure that the war ends and the region does not go down a darker path in the coming weeks.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his oral briefing on the Secretary-General's report on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). I also thank Her Excellency Ms. Helen Clark for her valuable insights.

The report by the Special Coordinator has once again confirmed Israel's obstinate stance on settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, in violation of resolution 2334 (2016). Israel continues to dig in its heels on its colonial settler policy. That is despite the resolution's clear provisions that Israel's establishment of settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem, has no legal validity and constitutes a flagrant violation under international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of a two-State solution and a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. The extent of Israel's ongoing settlement activities is reflected in the fact that demolitions of homes and civilian infrastructure this year have reached the highest number seen in two decades, and with a greater number of fatalities, owing to the use of more brutal tactics in the demolitions. The recent advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice also definitively established Israel's obligation to end its unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory, cease all new settlement activities immediately and evacuate all settlers from the occupied Palestinian territory. The resolution that the General Assembly adopted yesterday (resolution ES-10/24) laid out the next steps following the issuance of the advisory opinion, and we call on Israel and all Member States to fulfil their obligations as set out in that resolution.

We have taken note that since our previous briefing on resolution 2334 (2016) (see S/PV.9667), the situation in the occupied West Bank has worsened considerably, with several air strikes on civilian infrastructure and a recent large-scale military operation that left many Palestinians displaced, their homes destroyed and their property taken over by Israeli settlers. We note, for example, that according to the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, 1,628 Palestinians have been displaced in incidents involving Israeli settlers since 7 October 2023. All of that is enabled by the Israeli legal system, which systematically awards Palestinian lands to colonial settlers, thereby empowering its security officials to protect the people who act based on those decisions. We have been talking about this issue for so long that the danger of becoming rote in our response to that illegality is very real. We must never become numb to such violations of international law, because we risk normalizing Israeli settlement policies and practices. Let us not forget what those policies and practices translate to for the thousands of Palestinians who are paying high prices — even that of death — for resisting the destruction of their homes and livelihoods.

The danger of Israel's settler policy lies in the fact that it is intended to alter the demographic composition, character and status of the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem, in furtherance of the one-State solution that it unabashedly advocates and pursues. It is in clear violation of international humanitarian law and the relevant resolutions of both the Security Council and the General Assembly. Guyana therefore condemns in the strongest terms Israel's continuing disregard for the decisions of the Council and international law more generally. A two-State solution remains the only viable pathway to bringing about an end to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The Council must therefore respond to Israel's actions, which are steadily eroding the possibility of a two-State solution and entrenching a one-State reality. We must not countenance the illegalities that are born from such a plan.

All members have a responsibility, pursuant to resolution 2334 (2016), to make Israel's continuation of its settlement expansion consequential. When there are more than 700,000 illegal settlers, a few visa restrictions can hardly be expected to have any real impact. Visa restrictions for anyone living in settlements set up in areas outside the pre-1967 borders could have a much greater impact. Refusing to engage commercially with any individual, group or entity living, operating or maintaining interests in settlements that violate the pre-1967 borders will definitely have a real impact. Collectively and individually, Member States must consider such decisions, with a view to stemming the tide of illegality and disregard for the resolutions and decisions on the question of Israel's illegal settlements in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Let me conclude by once again emphasizing the urgency of redoubling efforts to achieve a two-State solution. That must be in tandem with the obligation created by the General Assembly for Israel to vacate all of the Palestinian territory that it now occupies. We also call again for an immediate ceasefire and for the return of all hostages held in Gaza and Palestinians detained illegally in Israel.

The unresolved conflict between Israel and Palestine continues to hinder peace and security in the Middle East, and we appeal to all Member States to act urgently and genuinely to bring the conflict to a permanent, peaceful and just end. Guyana is prepared to do its part.

Mr. Sangjin Kim (Republic of Korea): I too would like to thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland and Ms. Helen Clark for their briefings.

We are sadly moving towards the first anniversary of the brutal terrorist attacks by Hamas on 7 October 2023 and Israel's subsequent military operations, resulting in the unfathomable humanitarian suffering in Gaza. The Republic of Korea once again reiterates its call on both parties to faithfully engage in the negotiations for the deal detailed in resolution 2735 (2024). An immediate ceasefire and the release of hostages, combined with a surge in humanitarian aid throughout Gaza, will and should lay the ground for a path of peaceful coexistence between Israel and Palestine.

As my delegation has repeatedly stressed, it is a legal obligation of the parties, including Israel, to protect civilians and humanitarian workers at all times. In that regard, we are deeply concerned about the fact that Israel has now targeted Al-Jaouni School in Nuseirat camp five times since October 2023. The targeted facility was sheltering 12,000 displaced people. We believe that Israel can do more to satisfy its obligations under international humanitarian law. At the same time, Hamas must stop endangering civilians by using civilian infrastructure for military purposes.

For almost a year, the focus in the Security Council has been on the dire situation in Gaza. However, it is clear that we should not forget the ongoing instability and exacerbating violence in another part of Palestine, the West Bank. We are witnessing, with grave apprehension, escalating violence by multiple actors in the West Bank, including the Israeli security forces, Palestinian militant groups and extremist settlers. In addition, we are appalled that more than 600

Palestinians, including 158 children, and 18 Israelis have been killed in the West Bank since 7 October 2023. We call for immediate steps to be taken to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, in accordance with resolution 2334 (2016). We are particularly concerned about the killing of a staff member of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) last Friday, the first UNRWA employee to be killed in the West Bank in more than a decade. We are also deeply troubled by the killing of an American-Turkish activist in the West Bank earlier this month. We call for a thorough investigation, as well as accountability for any wrongdoing.

At the same time, we remain deeply dismayed by the ongoing land seizures, home demolitions and illegal outpost construction being carried out in the West Bank with impunity by both extremist settlers and Israeli security forces. We are also shocked by the ongoing vandalism by settlers, often alongside the military, against Palestinian families and their property. It is urgent that Israel fundamentally change its policies towards Palestinians.

Resolution 2334 (2016) was adopted long before the current conflict in Gaza started, yet that eight-year-old resolution details all the agreed-upon guiding principles that we should keep in mind as we strive to resolve the Palestinian question. As provided for in the resolution, the establishment of Israeli settlements constitutes a flagrant violation under international law. We urge Israel to stop any measures that amount to annexation of Palestinian land, including the expansion of settlements in the West Bank.

I would like to conclude my statement by reiterating one important element of resolution 2334 (2016) that we should not forget: a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East through negotiations between parties based on the principle of land for peace. We believe that any action in the United Nations — both in the Council and in the General Assembly — intended to resolve the decades-long conflict between Israel and Palestine should be firmly based on the negotiated peace process reflected in resolution 2334 (2016). We believe that a negotiated solution is still possible. Once a ceasefire is in place, we call on Israel and Palestine, the latter represented by a reformed and strengthened Palestinian Authority, to directly engage in talks that will revisit the long-overdue aspiration, based on the vision of the two-State solution, which will, in turn, lead to a durable peace and stability in the whole region.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I thank Mr. Wennesland and Ms. Clark for their briefings.

Faced with the acceleration of settlement activity in the West Bank and East Jerusalem, the Security Council must react. France's position is consistent: settlement activity is in contravention of international law, and we condemn it. France will never recognize the illegal annexation of territories or the legalization of illegal settlements. We have condemned the Israeli attacks on schools in the Gaza Strip. France has also condemned the recurring attacks by violent settlers on schools in the West Bank. We call on Israel to take the necessary measures without delay to protect the Palestinian population in the occupied territories and to ensure that their right to education is upheld.

Everything must be done to avoid a conflagration in East Jerusalem and the West Bank. France condemns the acts of violence committed by settlers and deplors the forced displacement of Palestinian communities. In East Jerusalem, the historic status quo regarding the holy sites must be upheld. Resolution 2334 (2016), which aims to establish the legal distinction between the territory of Israel recognized by the international community and the occupied territories, must be fully respected.

France demands an immediate and permanent ceasefire and the immediate release of all hostages. France once again condemns the terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas and other terrorist groups on 7 October 2023.

The humanitarian situation in Gaza has become unbearable. Full humanitarian access must be guaranteed so that populations can be rescued.

It is more urgent than ever to lay the foundations for a political settlement in order to implement the two-State solution, which alone can guarantee peace and security for Israelis and Palestinians. France reaffirms its unwavering commitment to Israel's security and to the establishment of a viable, sovereign and contiguous State for the Palestinians. We call for the establishment of a reformed Palestinian Authority capable of fulfilling its responsibilities throughout the Palestinian territories, including the Gaza Strip. Measures aimed at weakening the Palestinian Authority must cease. France calls on Israel to stop obstructing the transfer of revenues. We remain committed to preventing any risk of escalation on the Blue Line and to promoting a diplomatic solution. We urge all stakeholders in the region to adopt a responsible attitude.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): We meet in a period of deep uncertainty for the Middle East. We have warned, cautioned and called for restraint, but with Lebanon rocked and shocked by indiscriminate explosions of communication devices, we fear that we are on the cusp of the dreaded regional escalation, if not in it already. Sierra Leone shares the Secretary-General's deep alarm and urges all concerned actors to exercise maximum restraint in order to avert any further escalation.

We also meet at a time of great hope, with the effective response by the General Assembly to the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice of 19 July 2024 on the legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, and with the overwhelming vote to adopt the resolution (General Assembly resolution ES-10/24) that demands that Israel "brings to an end without delay its unlawful presence" in the occupied Palestinian territory.

The action of the General Assembly and the International Court of Justice advisory opinion do have a bearing on our meeting today. I therefore thank our briefers, Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland and Ms. Helen Clark, member of The Elders and former Prime Minister of New Zealand, for their comprehensive and instructive briefings.

Resolution 2334 (2016) underpins the relevance of international law and the Charter of the United Nations, as the resolution examines some of the fundamental causes of the decades-long Israel-Palestine conflict. The prolonged nature of the conflict stems, in part, from the problems of settlements, annexations and blockades and their destabilizing effect on the Palestinian people and their institutions. The painful realities resulting from the illegal settlement policies of Israel are evident in the lives of the Palestinians, whose basic freedoms and associated human rights are suppressed daily.

In the Gaza Strip, the escalation of violence since the 7 October 2023 attack by Hamas on Israeli civilians and the Israeli military response since then have had a huge humanitarian impact on the civilian population. Millions of Palestinian civilians live through a perpetual nightmare of fear, suffering and trauma from Israeli bombs and guns, while civilians still struggle to gain access to the most basic services. A recent update from the World Food Programme highlighted that, as winter approaches, the worsening security situation and damaged roads in Gaza will complicate the delivery of vital food, water, medicine and hygiene supplies to areas where those supplies are critical for the survival of communities. As reported by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, hygiene items, such as soap, shampoo, detergent and sanitary pads for women, are in short supply, and families struggle to maintain basic hygiene in overcrowded shelters. That has led to the spread of high-risk health conditions.

The pattern of repeated evacuation orders and closures of crossing points for aid delivery continues to hamper humanitarian efforts and discourage humanitarian personnel, who also have to deal with the very real fear of being attacked and killed by Israel Defense Forces weapons. Further, we remain deeply concerned about the situation in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, where approximately 674 Palestinians, including 150 children, as confirmed by UNICEF, have been killed between 7 October 2023 and 9 September 2024. The conflicting parties' failure to take the necessary precautions to spare and protect civilians is a grave violation of international humanitarian law.

Sierra Leone condemns the resumption of violence in the northern West Bank in the Tulkarm, Nur Shams and Al-Far'a camps. As reported, that operation affected residential and commercial buildings, resulting in the interruption of basic services in the area. The reported increases in settler violence, annexation, demolitions and displacement are all contrary to the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016), which stresses the importance of ending all settlement activities and calls for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, as well as acts of provocation and destruction.

Importantly, in its 19 July 2024 advisory opinion, the International Court of Justice noted that Israel has continued its settlement policy in the West Bank and East Jerusalem since 1967, and that before the removal of Israel's settlements from the Gaza Strip in 2005, the settlement policy it carried out in the Gaza Strip was not substantially different from the one that continues in the West Bank and East Jerusalem today. Among other things, the Court notes that Israel's construction of settlements is accompanied by a specially designed civilian infrastructure in the West Bank and East Jerusalem that integrates the settlements into the territory of Israel. Israel's transfer of settlers to the West Bank and East Jerusalem and maintenance of their presence is found to be contrary to the sixth paragraph of article 49 of the Fourth Geneva Convention. Accordingly, and as noted by Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland, the International Court of Justice is of the opinion that the State of Israel is under an obligation to cease all new settlement activities immediately and to evacuate all settlers from the occupied Palestinian territory.

In view of resolution 2334 (2016) and the Council's mandate, the Security Council now stands in judgment of the Member States of the United Nations and the international community as a whole. As a member of The Elders and a former Prime Minister, Ms. Clarke has asked how the Security Council will respond. In keeping with the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016), Sierra Leone would like to emphasize the following points.

First, the establishment of Israeli settlements in Palestinian territory continues and constitutes a flagrant violation of international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of a two-State solution. New settlement activities must cease immediately and all settlers must be evacuated from the occupied Palestinian territory.

Secondly, parties to the conflict are reminded of their obligation to comply with international law, including international humanitarian law, the International Court of Justice's provisional measures — which are binding on the parties — and the customary international law that has been crystallized by the International Court of Justice, even in advisory opinions.

Thirdly, we support international efforts towards a resumption of peace negotiations to end the hostilities in the Gaza Strip, as endorsed in resolution 2735 (2024), that will put in place and set in motion a political settlement. The ongoing tireless efforts of the mediators — Egypt, Qatar and the United States — need the impartial support of the international community, especially States that have influence on the conflicting parties.

Allow me to conclude by reiterating Sierra Leone's support for the ongoing initiatives aimed at reforming the governance structure of the Palestinian Authority so as to guarantee its access to resources and further strengthen its autonomy and influence. A two-State solution needs a strengthened Palestinian Authority.

Mr. Fernandes (Mozambique): I would like to thank Mr. Tor Wennesland and Ms. Helen Clark, a member of The Elders, for their briefings on the current situation regarding settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory.

Israel's settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory remain a matter of grave concern, exacerbated by the complex political, social and humanitarian implications for both Israelis and Palestinians. The heightened tensions in the Gaza Strip and the potential for a regional escalation of the conflict further complicate an already tense situation. Recent reports indicate the presence of between 600,000 and 750,000 Israeli settlers in at least 250 settlements across the West Bank and East Jerusalem, involving the transfer of Israel's civilian population into the occupied territory.

Mindful of the gravity of the situation, the International Court of Justice recently issued an advisory opinion, declaring that Israel's settlement activities in the occupied Palestinian territory, including the West Bank and East Jerusalem, violate international law. The Court also emphasized that the settlements and the policies associated with them amount to de facto annexation and systematic discrimination against Palestinians. The ruling has significant implications in that it calls for Israel to cease all new settlement activity and evacuate the settlers from these areas. Furthermore, we acknowledge the General Assembly's adoption yesterday, 18 September, of its resolution ES-10/24, demanding that Israel end its unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory. The resolution calls for Israel to comply with international law, cease all new settlement activity, evacuate the settlers and dismantle parts of the separation wall in the West Bank. Resolution 2334 (2016), the International Court of Justice's orders and the recent General Assembly resolutions collectively provide a robust foundation for our concerted action. They reflect the international community's steadfast commitment to addressing the situation and pursuing a just, lasting and sustainable peace in the region. They also demonstrate human awareness on the part of the international community of justice and the noble cause of Palestine.

We emphasize the crucial role of the international community, including the Security Council, in facilitating dialogue and negotiations between the parties involved and in addressing the root causes of the conflict, such as the issue of land ownership and the status of Jerusalem.

Mozambique, drawing on its own historical experiences of conflict, firmly opposes the forced displacement of the Palestinian population, particularly women and children. We also urge strongly for the full implementation in good faith of all relevant instruments related to settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory in order to reverse the ongoing situation and end the people's suffering. Mozambique reaffirms its unwavering support for the Palestinian people's inalienable right to self-determination. We also recognize the State of Israel's right to exist. That dual recognition serves as a foundation for peaceful coexistence, envisioning both nations as independent and sovereign States in accordance with resolution 242 (1967) and other relevant United Nations resolutions.

In conclusion, we call on all parties to engage in constructive dialogue, adhere to international law and work towards a peaceful solution that ensures the rights and security of both Israelis and Palestinians.

Mr. Yamazaki (Japan): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland and Ms. Clark for their respective updates and briefings.

The current catastrophe in Gaza began with the horrifying acts of terror perpetrated by Hamas and other militant groups. We reiterate our strong condemnation of the 7 October 2023 attack, as well as the taking and killing of hostages, some of whom are enduring an unimaginable horror, which is totally unacceptable.

At the same time, the conflict rages on with no end in sight, and the suffering of the Palestinians only grows. Japan is appalled at the unconscionable toll of deaths and injuries, including many civilians and even United Nations staff and aid workers. The devastation of the Palestinian people is beyond our comprehension. They are trying to survive in overcrowded makeshift shelters and tents while suffering a severe shortage of essential supplies and restricted access to basic services. No human should have to experience what they have been experiencing for nearly a year now.

Beyond Gaza, the conflict continues to spread. In the West Bank, we are concerned about the casualties and level of destruction following Israel's recent military operations. Japan condemns continued settlement expansion and violence and seizures of land by Israeli settlers. That must cease.

Twenty-four hours ago, the General Assembly adopted resolution ES-10/24, regarding the International Court of Justice advisory opinion. We underscore once again that settlements are in violation of international law, as pointed out in the advisory opinion.

With regard to Lebanon, we are seriously concerned about the alarming incidents this week, which reportedly caused multiple casualties and thousands of injuries.

Continued attacks across the Blue Line are very dangerous. No one desires a full-scale war between Israel and Hizbullah. We must all do all we can to avoid one.

We must change the course of the never-ending vicious cycle of violence in the Middle East.

Let me make three points in that regard.

First, we need an immediate ceasefire in Gaza and the release of the hostages based on the outlines of resolution 2735 (2024). Japan continues to support the tireless mediation efforts of the United States, Egypt and Qatar to bring about a ceasefire in Gaza, which will also help bring calm to the inflamed region.

Secondly, even before a ceasefire is achieved, the international community must make plans for early recovery and reconstruction in Gaza. Removing the rubble alone will take decades, while restoring the basic civil system and infrastructure, including health and education, will require enormous time and resources. These are only some of the numerous challenges we will face on the day after. In that vein, it is imperative to strengthen the Palestinian Authority, including its financial governance capacities.

Thirdly and finally, a two-State solution is the only viable path to resolve this decades-long tragic conflict. Japan sincerely hopes to see a Middle East where Israel and Palestine live side by side in peace and stability, with recognized borders, and we will spare no efforts to that end.

Mr. De La Gasca (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): At the outset, I thank Special Coordinator Tor Wennesland for his briefing this morning. I reiterate Ecuador's support for his work and that of all the staff of the United Nations and its agencies. I also thank Ms. Clark for her valuable contribution.

Gaza has been called the most dangerous place in the world for humanitarian activities. I think that is undoubtedly so. The events of the past days and weeks have confirmed it. The urgent and sufficient provision of humanitarian aid is therefore a necessity. Obstacles to the entry or distribution of aid are unacceptable. Attacks against humanitarian personnel are reprehensible. Conflict deconfliction mechanisms must be effective and reliable. It is hard to believe that they are not so, even as we are almost a year into the war. The 28 August incident, in which fire was opened on a World Food Programme convoy, is particularly alarming.

The fighting continues unabated, while some 100 hostages remain in captivity almost a year after the terrorist acts perpetrated by Hamas on 7 October 2023, which included the abuse and rape of women in Israel and which Ecuador once again firmly condemns.

This situation is discouraging, especially considering that three months ago the Council adopted resolution 2735 (2024) in support of a ceasefire proposal, which, had it been implemented, would have resulted in a cessation of hostilities, would have allowed the release of hostages, would have facilitated the safe, sufficient and timely delivery of humanitarian aid to all those in need and would have contributed to reducing tensions in the region.

Developments in the West Bank are not encouraging either. My country, in line with the Council's February 2023 presidential statement (S/PRST/2023/1), strongly opposes all unilateral measures that hinder peace and jeopardize the two-State solution, such as settlement construction and expansion, land confiscation, the legalization of settlement outposts, the demolition of homes and the displacement of civilians. The death of Ayşenur Eygi — the circumstances of which must be thoroughly investigated and those responsible identified — and repeated attacks by settlers are examples of the ongoing risk faced by Palestinian civilians in the West Bank.

The vicious cycle of destruction, death and revenge must be stopped now. To achieve this, it is time for leaders to act with courage and humanity.

I conclude this speech by reiterating my country's conviction that the only way out is to move towards a peaceful, definitive and just solution for the parties, with the existence of two States, Palestine and Israel, on the basis of the 1967 borders and the relevant resolutions. It is necessary to act with pragmatism and realism so that this solution, which is supported by the vast majority of the international community, can become a reality.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): I join others in thanking Special Coordinator Wennesland and Ms. Helen Clark for their briefings today.

The death toll in Gaza has surpassed 40,000. Water, sanitation and health infrastructure has been almost completely destroyed. Disease and the risk of famine pose further deadly threats. And Israel continues to reckon with the appalling toll of 7 October 2023, with 101 hostages still held captive in Gaza, subject to unspeakable horror.

Elsewhere in the occupied Palestinian territories and across the region, tensions are escalating.

We need to see three things in that regard.

First, there must be an immediate ceasefire, the release of hostages and a ramping up of aid in Gaza. A deal is the best way to get the hostages home. Force will not provide a sustainable solution to the conflict. The ceasefire and hostage deal, driven by the commendable efforts of the United States, Qatar and Egypt, has to be finalized as a matter of urgency. We call upon Hamas and Israel to agree to a deal and, in the meantime, for Hamas to grant the International Committee of the Red Cross humanitarian access to the hostages, whose ordeal continues. Our message to Hamas is let them go.

With winter fast approaching, we call on Israel to take swift action to allow the United Nations and humanitarian actors to do their job by making deconfliction work, reopening land routes for aid and supporting preparations for winter by allowing a rapid increase in the volume of items for shelter and infrastructure repair.

Secondly, we must address the deteriorating situation in the West Bank. The expansion of settlements, in clear violation of international law, undermines prospects for peace and must cease immediately. We have witnessed with grave concern how an increasing number of Israeli settlers have systemically used harassment, intimidation and violence to pressure Palestinian communities to leave their land. We call on Israel to hold those responsible to account. We reiterate our clear position that any attempt to alter the geographic or demographic make-up of the occupied Palestinian territories through the use of force and outside of a negotiated solution is wholly unacceptable and illegal. We also call for an end to the divisive and inflammatory rhetoric we have seen from Israeli ministers, which serve to fuel aggression towards Palestinians and humanitarian workers.

Finally, we need to galvanize a political process towards a two-State solution. As the International Court of Justice has advised, Israel should bring an end to its presence in the occupied territories as rapidly as possible. The United Kingdom is clear: that must be done through a negotiated solution, with the reunification of Gaza and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, in line with the 1967 borders and under the effective control of the Palestinian Authority. Peace must be premised upon a safe and secure Israel, alongside a safe and secure Palestinian State.

Mr. Hauri (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I thank you, Madam President, for your presence today and for organizing this quarterly debate. I would also like to thank the Special Coordinator for his presentation of the report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). I thank Ms. Helen Clark for her briefing as well.

Switzerland supports the International Court of Justice and its advisory opinion of 19 July on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. The illegality of the Israeli occupation of the Palestinian territory, which has been ongoing since 1967, is now beyond doubt. It must end, and a political horizon must be re-established.

We remain convinced that the two-State solution is the only possible option for Israelis and Palestinians to live side by side in peace, security and dignity, within secure and recognized borders, in accordance with international law and internationally agreed parameters. To that end, Switzerland welcomes the fact that resolution ES-10/24, adopted yesterday, recognizes the need to relaunch a process to achieve a two-State solution. We support the call for a United Nations-led peace conference to be held during the seventy-ninth session of the General Assembly.

For its part, Switzerland, as depositary State of the Geneva Conventions and its Protocols Additional, will honour the mandate conferred on it yesterday by the General Assembly and organize a Conference of High Contracting Parties within six months.

In accordance with article 1 common to the Geneva Conventions, it is indeed imperative to respect and ensure respect for international humanitarian law, including throughout the occupied Palestinian territory. Concrete measures must be taken immediately to protect the civilian population.

Since 7 October 2023, settler attacks, threats and intimidation against civilians, including humanitarian workers, have exponentially increased in the West Bank. One example among many is Monday's settler attack on an elementary school near Jericho, in which at least seven pupils and teachers were injured, according to reports. Switzerland condemns such attacks, which, along with the construction of settlements, contribute to the creation of a coercive environment and lead to the forced displacement of Palestinian communities. That is compounded by an intensification of Israeli military operations. The use of force in those operations must meet the criteria of necessity and proportionality and respect every individual's right to life and security.

Furthermore, Switzerland condemns the announcements by Israeli leaders to expand the settlements, which are illegal under international humanitarian law. The establishment of a new settlement, by legalizing an outpost, in Wadi Makhrur, near Bethlehem, in an area listed by UNESCO as a world heritage site, is the most recent example in a series of similar decisions that sabotage the two-State solution.

In Gaza, hostilities continue to claim numerous civilian victims against the backdrop of a catastrophic humanitarian crisis. The success of the first wave of polio vaccinations shows that large-scale humanitarian operations can be carried out in Gaza with sincere political will. The parties must respect international humanitarian law and facilitate safe, rapid and unhindered humanitarian access to civilians in need, including hostages, whose immediate and unconditional release we call for.

A ceasefire is urgently needed. The Council has clearly demanded it in resolutions 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024), which must be implemented. We support the mediation efforts of the United States, Qatar and Egypt to that end. That is essential to prevent further escalation in the region. Switzerland is deeply concerned about by the explosions in Lebanon on 17 and 18 September and the reports of numerous civilian casualties. We also call on all parties to exercise the utmost restraint and to work towards immediate de-escalation. We also call on all parties to respect international humanitarian law, in particular the principles of distinction, proportionality and precaution in all circumstances. Switzerland stands ready, both within and outside the Security Council, to contribute to restoring peace and security in the region.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): I would like to begin my statement by expressing my gratitude to Mr. Wennesland for his alarming briefing in which he once again underscored the stark realities in the Middle East. In his presentation of the report of the Secretary-General on the on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), the words most used by Mr. Wennesland were "killing", "killed" and "kills". I wish also to extend my thanks to Ms. Helen Clark for her remarks and especially for her recommendation.

Today we are called upon to take a serious and clear stand against the deteriorating situation in the region. The primary task of the Security Council is the maintenance of international peace and security. That cannot be achieved through fleeting words eloquently delivered before the cameras. The gravity of the situation in the Middle East requires more than rhetoric. It demands decisive and swift action. Everyone under this roof must recognize that the region is on the edge of an abyss or a precipice, as you, Madam President, have stated. If it falls into the darkness, the consequences will be far-reaching, and no one will be immune. We must heed the lessons of history to prevent the worst, which is no less than a full-fledged regional war.

The Israeli occupying Power is continuing its apartheid policies, relentlessly pursuing plans for ethnic cleansing in Gaza and pushing the West Bank to the brink of chaos. It is also creating a new fait accompli on the ground. This year alone we have witnessed unprecedented levels of settlement, expansion and annexations of land. It is evident that resolution 2334 (2016) has had no tangible impact. The Israeli occupier is acting with impunity, as if operating in a lawless jungle. It has continued to renege on previous agreements and has consistently violated international law, the very foundation of civilized society. If we are serious about protecting future generations from the scourge of war, as we pledged in the Charter of the United Nations, the solution is clear. There can be no peace in the Middle East without the establishment of an independent Palestinian State.

The advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice delivered on 19 July of this year is addressed to both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The Court states that the precise modalities for ending Israel's unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory are matters that both organs should address. The General Assembly has already heeded that call through its adoption yesterday of resolution ES-10/24. Will the Council remain deaf to the Court's demands? Will it continue to disregard the principles that underpin the United Nations? What will remain of the Council if it does not respond to the directives of our Organization's highest judicial body? It is the Council's inaction that is encouraging the Israeli occupying Power to continue its brutal policies. The deteriorating situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, as Mr. Wennesland highlighted in his briefing, makes clear the terror endured by Palestinians, a terror that spares no one, not even children. No Palestinian, regardless of gender or age, has been spared that violence, but we see no investigations into the killing of Palestinians. And yet the Israeli authorities rush to investigate the deaths of foreigners — but definitely not of Palestinians. That double standard around death reveals a profound disregard for Palestinian lives, a contempt rooted in a hateful racism that the world has long condemned. For us, Palestinian lives also matter. Yet today one group seems to be monopolizing human rights principles at the expense of another.

Today we urgently need decisions backed by robust follow-up and accountability mechanisms. That is why my country reaffirms its belief that those who reject peace, who do not believe in peace, must have peace imposed upon them. The Council has a legal and moral responsibility to act, and we cannot afford to remain passive spectators. The Council possesses the tools and the authority needed to respond, but only if there is the political will to rise to the challenge. If we fail in that duty, the Council risks becoming a mere platform for speeches rather than the guardian of international peace and security that it was created to be.

It is time to move beyond narrow calculations and take the necessary step to make the necessary binding decisions that will restore peace and security in our region.

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Special Coordinator Wennesland and Ms. Clark for their briefings.

Yesterday the General Assembly at its tenth emergency special session overwhelmingly adopted resolution ES-10/24, submitted by the State of Palestine, demanding the implementation of the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice. At this critical juncture, when the world is grappling with the prolonged Gaza conflict and the complex and intractable situation in the Middle East, the Assembly's adoption of the resolution is a historic landmark.

The resolution demands that Israel end its unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory. Independent statehood is an inalienable national right of the Palestinian people, but the prolonged illegal occupation has prevented the Palestinian people from realizing their national self-determination and given Israel an exclusive veto of Palestinian statehood. The occupation will not make Israel more secure. It will only breed more hatred and antagonism and perpetuate a vicious cycle of violent clashes between Palestinians and Israelis. Only ending the occupation and establishing an independent State of Palestine will lead to peaceful coexistence for Palestine and Israel and lasting peace and security in the Middle East.

The resolution urges all parties to stop arming Israel so that it can maintain its occupation. Military means are not a solution to the problem, and tit-for-tat violence will only exacerbate hatred. The conflict has cost the lives of many Palestinian and Israeli civilians over several decades, and the bloodshed and carnage continue today. Tackling the question of Palestine needs political will and diplomatic efforts, not an endless stream of arms, ammunition and violent conflict. All peace-loving nations should respond to the calls made in the resolution and work for that end.

The resolution reaffirms that the international rule of law must be upheld. International law is a cornerstone of the international order and a body of international norms that must be respected by all parties. There can be no exceptions to the fulfilment of obligations under international law, before which all States are equal. Any double standards or selective applications are unacceptable. As a member of the international community and a United Nations Member State, Israel must fulfil its legal obligations, implement the relevant Security Council resolutions and comply with international law, particularly international humanitarian law. The resolution calls for accelerating the implementation of a two-State solution. Over the past decades we have seen Israel continually expanding its settlements in the West Bank, encroaching on Palestinian territory and squeezing the space and viability of Palestine as a State. Its actions continue to erode the foundations for a two-State solution and increasingly reveal its rejection of and resistance to such a solution. The international community must act with the utmost urgency to revitalize the prospects for a two-State solution. China supports the proposal in the General Assembly resolution for holding an international peace conference under the Assembly's auspices to discuss the implementation of the relevant United Nations resolutions and of a two-State solution.

The resolution adopted by the Assembly yesterday embodies the broad consensus in the international community on promoting a settlement of the Palestinian question. It testifies to the international community's resolve to uphold justice and realize peace in the Middle East. The Security Council should heed the calls of the international community and respond effectively to those concerns. Regrettably, owing to one individual country's negative attitude, the Security Council has long been unable to take strong action to resolve the Palestinian question, let alone stop the conflict in Gaza, which is now almost a year old. More than three months ago, when pushing for the adoption of resolution 2735 (2024), the United States claimed that Israel had accepted a ceasefire deal, but the facts seem to indicate otherwise. Instead, for more than three months we have all witnessed the constantly intensifying Israeli military operations, the stipulation of growing numbers of conditions for negotiations and the escalating provocations. Not one moment should be wasted in the quest for a lasting ceasefire and the easing of the humanitarian catastrophe, but the United States has instead repeatedly asked for more time and patience for diplomatic efforts. Meanwhile, civilians in Gaza are paying for that time and patience with their lives and suffering. How is it that the time and patience that the United States needs are so costly?

The spillover effect of the continued fighting in Gaza is being manifested increasingly rapidly. Lebanon and Israel are on the verge of all-out conflict, imperilling the peace and stability of the entire Middle East. China urges Israel to abandon its obsession with the use of force and its illusion of achieving a complete military victory, and to immediately end its military operations in Gaza, cease its infringements on Lebanon's sovereignty and security and stop the risk-taking that may well plunge the region into another conflagration. We support the Security Council in using all available options in its toolbox to promote the implementation of the relevant resolutions and in taking further action to put a speedy end to the conflict, mitigate the humanitarian catastrophe and achieve peace in the Middle East as soon as possible.

Mrs. Frazier (Malta): I would like to begin by thanking Special Coordinator Wennesland for his briefing and Ms. Helen Clark for her important statement.

Today we are discussing the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), which states unequivocally that Israeli settlements in Palestinian territory constitute a flagrant violation of international law and are a major obstacle to a two-State solution. In its advisory opinion of 19 July, the International Court of Justice reaffirmed that settlements are unlawful under international law and must come to an immediate halt. The Court further emphasized Israel's obligation to end its occupation, halt all settlement activity and evacuate the existing settlers. Yesterday the General Assembly overwhelmingly voted in favour of a resolution (resolution ES-10/24) on modalities that would ensure that the advisory opinion is fully respected and implemented. Malta voted in favour of that historic resolution and calls on Israel to end its unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory as rapidly as possible.

Meanwhile, the conditions in Gaza remain intolerable, and the security and humanitarian situations in the occupied West Bank continue to deteriorate rapidly and steadily. Nearly 700 Palestinians have been killed in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, since 7 October 2023. The Israeli incursions into Palestinian cities now regularly feature military operations, including air strikes, the destruction of infrastructure and the unlawful use of force. The most recent operation targeting militants in refugee camps left 36 Palestinians dead, including eight children. Malta once again condemns any acts that target or endanger civilians. Palestinians are also forced to contend with mass arbitrary detainment, and there are reports of other types of mistreatment and disturbing incidents of sexual violence. The incessant attacks and intimidation by Israeli settlers have resulted in several deaths and injuries, property damage and forced displacement. Amid the traumatizing violent raids, insecurity and terrible conditions, mothers and children have extremely limited access to maternal and reproductive health care and are facing unthinkable mental challenges. We strongly emphasize the importance of ensuring that the distribution of aid takes the specific needs of women and girls into consideration. At the same time, while such mitigation efforts are important, they do not address the root causes of the insecurity. We stress that as the occupying Power, Israel must abide by its obligations under international law and protect the Palestinian population from all acts or threats of violence.

The restoration of a political horizon must remain central to our efforts. It must start with an immediate and permanent ceasefire in Gaza, the safe return of hostages to Israel and adequate humanitarian relief for the Gazan population, in line with resolution 2735 (2024). That must be accompanied by de-escalatory efforts in the wider region, including along the Blue Line, which can be achieved only through diplomatic progress. Another integral element is providing the fiscal and political support to the Palestinian Authority that can enable it to govern the West Bank and Gaza effectively, while ensuring its active participation in discussions on Gaza's recovery.

In conclusion, the international community must unite behind an irreversible realization of a two-State solution, in line with the relevant Security Council resolutions and internationally agreed parameters, which can put an end to the occupation and ensure that Palestinians' aspirations for statehood and Israel's need for security are equally fulfilled. That is the only way to bring a lasting end to the unprecedented suffering in the region.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We thank Mr. Tor Wennesland, Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, for his comprehensive briefing on the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the river Jordan. We also thank Ms. Helen Clark for her briefing.

Yesterday the General Assembly adopted a genuinely historic resolution (resolution ES-10/24) reaffirming the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice, which addresses unequivocally the illegality of Israel's occupation of Palestinian lands and the importance of bringing it to an end. It is encouraging that an overwhelming majority of Security Council members support that initiative, which aims to bring about a fair and lasting resolution of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and realize the right of Palestinians to establish their own independent State within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital. The result shows clearly that a solution to this question is long overdue.

At the same time, thanks to the efforts of our Western colleagues, the Council's discussions on the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory have been rather mundane and routine for the past months. That is despite the fact that dozens, if not hundreds, of Palestinian civilians are slain every day. In nearly a year of Israeli operations in the Gaza Strip, more than 41,000 Palestinians, mostly women and children, have been killed, almost 100,000 have been wounded, and tens of thousands have gone missing.

However, Palestinians are dying not just in Gaza. An equally catastrophic crisis is unfolding in the West Bank, to which the Council has objectively paid less attention thus far. More than 600 Palestinians have been killed, and more than 5,000 have been wounded. During the Israel Defense Forces' recent Operation Summer Camps alone, 39 Palestinians, including eight children, were killed, and civilian infrastructure was severely damaged by drones, artillery and missiles, resulting in the destruction of administrative buildings, roads, water and electricity systems.

Before our very eyes, the Israeli leadership, taking advantage of the Council's paralysis due to the actions of the United States of America, is achieving its objective of expelling the West Bank's Palestinian population. Israel's settlement activity has been ramped up at a record rate, with the de facto colonization of occupied Palestinian land and the establishment of more and more new settler outposts. In parallel, Palestinian homes in East Jerusalem and Area C continue to be demolished. Law enforcement is utterly indifferent to the violence committed by radicalized settlers against the local civilian population. Nevertheless, none of our western colleagues have voiced any concerns about the erasure of Palestinian identity, even though we are not even talking about that any longer, but rather about the literal erasure of the Palestinian people, who are being wiped off the face of the Earth.

Israel is not limiting itself to rendering Gaza uninhabitable. West Jerusalem is deliberately adopting measures to make the lives of Palestinians unbearable in the West Bank as well. As Israel continues to withhold Ramallah's tax revenues, the unemployment rate in the West Bank has reached 40 per cent. Owing to the lack of roads and the proliferation of Israeli checkpoints, the staff of agencies and institutions located in neighbouring towns cannot get to work. Agricultural facilities are being raided by extremist settlers. As a result of Israeli attacks, 69 schools and five universities have been damaged, depriving children and youth of access to education. All of that attests to West Jerusalem's persistent policy of resolving the Palestinian question by creating irreversible facts on the ground and using brute force and financial pressure. The Israeli authorities have nothing to fear, for the boundless support from Washington allows Israel to elude responsibility for any crimes.

The rapidly deteriorating situation in the West Bank requires a response from the Security Council, just as the appalling situation in Gaza does. Palestinian civilians are being killed and displaced in the West Bank too. We are all fully aware that what is happening is the targeted and deliberate policy of the Israeli authorities. There can be no justification for the collective punishment of all Palestinians. However, the Council remains inactive. Unfortunately, its practical efforts on the Middle East track have continuously been blocked by the United States of America, which pushed through the completely unviable resolution 2735 (2024). And the United States has since continued to block any attempts to give a fair assessment of Israel's actions, even in the context of the inadmissibility of imperilling the lives and health of United Nations and humanitarian personnel in Gaza. Let us recall that since 7 October 2023, the United States has cast five vetoes to shield its ally and to block the Council from adopting an unequivocal demand for a ceasefire.

The only thing that the Americans expect from the Security Council is to exert pressure on Hamas and not to interfere with Israel's actions "on the ground". And that is despite the fact that the vaunted "deal" has repeatedly been blocked by none other than Israel, for whose benefit the United States has essentially been violating resolution 2735 (2024), which did set out the parameters for that agreement, even though that was diluted.

Given the growing demand from the entire international community for a modicum of concrete measures to alleviate and improve the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, Council members simply must summon the political will and courage and adopt a decision on a ceasefire in Gaza and measures to enforce compliance therewith. It is not so much Hamas that needs to be pressured, but rather our American colleagues, who continue to regard both the Council and multilateral diplomacy as a whole as an unnecessary burden. Their hard-headed policy of rejecting the authority of the Security Council and the United Nations as a whole has not only failed to generate any progress towards resolving the current conflict, but it has also caused the conflict to continue for nearly a year, with the risk of metastasizing into a full-blown regional conflict.

The ongoing shelling along the Blue Line with Lebanon, the arbitrary air strikes on Syria and the targeted attacks in both countries continue unabated. In that context, we strongly condemn the unprecedented cyberattack against the friendly country of Lebanon and its citizens, which constitutes a flagrant violation of its sovereignty and a grave threat and challenge to international law. We view what has transpired as yet another act of hybrid warfare against Lebanon, which has caused the suffering of thousands of entirely innocent people.

Against the backdrop of growing tensions in the Lebanese-Israeli border areas, such reckless actions are fraught with highly dangerous consequences, leading to further destabilization of the military and political situation in the Middle East region. The current developments and escalation in the south of Lebanon and the Israeli air strikes clearly demonstrate the dangerous threshold that the Israeli-Arab conflict has reached.

From the very beginning of the current crisis, Russia has consistently advocated a permanent and comprehensive ceasefire, sustained and secure humanitarian access, the release of all hostages and forcibly detained persons and the relaunching of the peace process with a view to a two-State solution, which would result in the establishment of a Palestinian State coexisting in peace and security with Israel, in accordance with the endorsed international legal decisions. We stand ready to support any constructive initiative in the Council aimed at attaining those objectives. We would like to hope that the need for decisive collective measures to halt Israeli operations will also become clear to our American colleagues. For now, it is Palestinian women and children who are paying with their lives for our colleagues' hard-headedness and imperialistic ambitions.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of the Observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine): Palestine welcomes the Foreign Minister of Slovenia presiding over this meeting of the Security Council, and we thank her for her statement as well. Allow me at the outset to thank the briefers for their presentations. We thank the honourable Ms. Helen Clark for her significant contribution to our deliberations and, through her, express our deepest gratitude to The Elders for their moral leadership in this time of unprecedented crisis.

The situation in occupied Palestine is beyond grave and, although televised across the world, the suffering of the Palestinian people under Israel's illegal occupation remains truly untold. There are no words left to describe Gaza's agony, yet the reality is that what Gaza needs is not more words, but actions. Israel speaks in bombs and bullets, in displacement and destruction, in starvation and trauma. It claims for itself all the rights afforded by international law and the Charter of the United Nations, while rejecting and breaching all the obligations. It has a unique understanding of international law that somehow makes the crimes of genocide, apartheid and ethnic cleansing legal when perpetrated by Israel.

The Council's role is to uphold international law, not to bend the law to fit Israel's breaches or sacrifice the Charter to accommodate Israel. That is the action needed to uphold international law and implement the resolutions of the United Nations — including resolution 2334 (2016), which we are debating and discussing and the implementation of which we are reporting on — and not merely more words decrying the abhorrent situation.

The International Court of Justice — our highest judicial organ — made clear and unequivocal determinations. Israel's presence in the occupied Palestinian territory is unlawful and must be brought to an end as rapidly as possible. The Court shouldered its responsibility, made the ruling and issued a historic advisory opinion. That advisory opinion reaffirmed the illegality of Israel's settlements and the associated regime, which encompasses the wall across the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, and stressed the occupying Power's obligations to cease all settlement activities immediately and to evacuate its settlers from our territory. The Court clearly recognized the settlements as one of the main drivers of the illegal occupation and recalled the Council's numerous relevant resolutions — including resolution 2334 (2016), with its demand for a cessation of all Israeli settlement activities — and the need to respect and implement those resolutions forthwith. The Court reminded Israel, all States and the United Nations of their respective obligations under international law.

Yesterday, by an overwhelming majority, the General Assembly voted to endorse the Court's determinations and to spell out the actions and set up the mechanisms that are needed to ensure compliance with them. The General Assembly adopted that resolution, the first ever presented by the State of Palestine under the Uniting for Peace formula (resolution ES-10/24), in a meeting of its emergency special session convened because of the Security Council's failure to exercise its primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security and in order to bring the illegal 57-year occupation to an end. The Court therefore acted and issued an opinion — a historic one. The General Assembly acted on the basis of the Court's request to adopt modalities for bringing the illegal occupation to an end as quickly as possible. Two important organs of the United Nations shouldered their responsibilities because there are no powers of veto in those two institutions. Will the Security Council follow suit and act in accordance with the mandate vested in it by the Charter to maintain international peace and security? That is the big question before the Council.

The historic resolution that the General Assembly adopted yesterday embodies the collective will to act, and we have every intention to follow up on every aspect of the resolution and to react to any failure to comply with it without delay. In accordance with the resolution and the advisory opinion, within three months the Secretary-General will submit a report on the parties' compliance or non-compliance with their obligations under international law, including that of Israel, the occupying Power. We will then ask the Assembly to take the necessary steps. We will not relent until we see the illegal occupation end as quickly as possible — within 12 months, as the General Assembly has stated.

What the Court determined is wholly and directly relevant to the duties of the Council. Among other things, it states that

“[t]he sustained abuse by Israel of its position as an occupying Power, through annexation and an assertion of permanent control over the occupied Palestinian territory and continued frustration of the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination, violates fundamental principles of international law and renders Israel's presence in the occupied Palestinian territory unlawful.” (Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, para. 261)

If we needed to identify two cardinal rules — two pillars on which the international law-based order is built, two principles whose observance is critical for international peace and security — they would be the right of peoples to self-determination and the prohibition on the acquisition of territory by force. Those are the rules that Israel has been breaching openly and brazenly for decades, without consequences. The International Court of Justice and the General Assembly were able to rise to the historic and tragic challenge before us. When will the Security Council, the body entrusted with the primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security, step up, live up to its mandate and defend those cardinal principles to ensure the survival of the international law-based order? It has been eight years since the Council adopted resolution 2334 (2016). Since then, Israel has ignored and violated it, just as it has ignored every other resolution, persisting in its breaches of the Charter of the United Nations, the most fundamental rules of international law and the determinations of the Council. Should the Security Council give in and surrender to Israel's colonial will or should it deploy the necessary means to ensure respect for its resolutions and international law? I want to say it again, as I have so many times before. The Council has the tools, the power and the mandate to enforce its resolutions and international law. Will it act on that, or will it continue to drag its feet and appease one country or another?

Let me say it again. Palestinians want to live, not merely survive. They want to be safe in their homes. They want their children to go to school without fear. Palestinians want to be free in reality, as they are in spirit. Free to live, free to come and go, free to determine their own fate, subject to God alone. They want to be Palestinians, to be themselves — just to be. Neither heroes nor victims — just human beings with the simplest of dreams or the greatest of aspirations, living in dignity, peace and security in their own homeland. The Palestinian people are an extraordinary people whose true desire is to lead an ordinary life. They will settle for nothing less. Anybody expecting them to accept their servitude, to live with their chains, is truly misguided. Freedom is their birthright. Freedom is their destiny.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Danon (Israel): The world is experiencing a period of extraordinary instability. Yet here we are, trapped in endless debates that miss the true heart of the issue. We gather here time and time again, like surgeons debating how to stitch a wound while the patient bleeds out before us. The longer this body remains blind to the reality, the greater the cost the world will pay.

Israel is not just fighting for itself; we are the front line in a battle that threatens the entire region and the world. We are standing firm, facing down the forces of the most oppressive regime in the world, the Islamic Republic of Iran. There is only one regime that openly, proudly and consistently calls for the destruction of entire nations: the Islamic regime of Iran.

I look at all the members. They are accustomed to debating conflicts across the world. And in every conflict, they identify its cause, whether it be a dispute over territory or a dispute over resources or history between nations. Have they asked themselves what the conflict is that the Iranian regime has with Israel? Why? There is no territorial dispute, as we are separated by over 1,000 miles between Iran and Israel. There are no shared resources, no violent history between us. The only reason is their fanatical ideology and festering hatred against the existence of our religion and State.

Iran's grand ambition is the creation of a Shiite supremacist empire that stretches across the entire Middle East and beyond. They seek dominance, not diplomacy. They seek to impose their dark vision on the region, reshape the Middle East in their own image and then extend their influence far beyond our borders. The Council and the world must wake up to the reality of the threat Iran poses.

The dark force driving the violence we see today is not a collection of independent groups; it is Iran pulling the strings. The Iran proxies, Hizbullah in the north, Hamas and the Palestinian Islamic Jihad in Gaza, the Houthis in Yemen, Shiite militias in Iraq and Syria and terrorists cells in Judea and Samaria, are all Iran's attack dogs, unleashed to spread death and destruction across the region. Those proxies are the claws of a beast that is not content with attacking Israel alone but is clawing a path towards the domination of the Middle East.

While Iran pulls the strings, the Palestinian Authority (PA) stands by utterly weak and impotent. When they are not turning a blind eye due to their weakness, they are actively collaborating with those very terror networks. As I have reminded in the Council many times, it has now been 348 days since the massacre of 7 October 2023. And yet the Palestinian Authority, including Mr. Riyad Mansour, still refuses to condemn Hamas. We met here in the Chamber on Monday (see S/PV.9725). I listened to members' words. Not one condemnation. We met in the General Assembly on Tuesday. Nothing. On Wednesday in the General Assembly, no one from the PA mentioned Hamas. Here we are meeting again today; tomorrow we will meet again at 3 p.m. Zero. Nothing. We want to hear that, to see a distinction between Hamas and the Palestinian Authority. And yet neither Mr. Mansour nor President Abbas is capable of saying that.

With leaders such as them, is it any wonder that terrorism continues to worsen in Judea and Samaria? The PA's failure to confront these threats head-on has only emboldened those who seek to spread terror in our region. With the Palestinian Authority failing to act and Iran's proxies continuing their relentless campaign, the threat to Israel's security grows more urgent by the day.

On our northern border, Hizbullah, armed and funded by Iran, continues to launch rockets, drones and missiles into Israel, with thousands of missiles poised to target our major civilian centres. In Gaza, Hamas weaponized an entire territory, building the world's most extensive network of terror infrastructure. Now Iran is attempting to replicate that strategy in Judea and Samaria. Consider what has been uncovered in recent months. Iran is flooding Judea and Samaria with explosives, grenades, anti-tank mines and advanced weaponry, while recruiting terrorists to execute attacks against Israeli civilians. Iran's goal is to turn Judea and Samaria into another Gaza, a hotbed of terror that threatens to overflow into neighbouring countries.

The Iranian weapons that are now flooding Judea and Samaria are not improvised weapons; they are sophisticated munitions manufactured by Iran and deployed in Judea and Samaria for the sole purpose of murder. Earlier this year, Israeli forces exposed one of Iran's key operatives — his name is Munir Makdah — who had been actively recruiting terrorists in Judea and Samaria. Makdah had been orchestrating the smuggling of advanced Iranian weaponry, including anti-tank missiles and explosives, to carry out massive attacks on Israeli civilians. Thanks to the coordinated efforts of our security and defence forces, an enormous stockpile of those weapons was seized, preventing another potential wave of terror. Enough weapons were recovered to equip a small army, an army funded and armed by Iran.

Iran has transformed our region into its railway of terror. They are taking advantage of their grip, as members all know, over Syria and Lebanon to deliver its advanced weapons to terrorists in Judea and Samaria. Iran's murderous Orient Express is operating right under the world's nose. As a result of those murderous efforts — and we have heard the reports — our security forces have been forced to engage intensely. And it is true: we are engaging. Otherwise, our civilians would become the victims of Iran's terrorist mercenaries. These preventative measures in Judea and Samaria are not just an option; they are a necessity.

While we have stopped many Iranian attempts to smuggle weaponry, we cannot stop them all. Just two weeks ago, Tel Aviv narrowly escaped a tragedy. A terrorist armed with a backpack full of explosives intended to enter a synagogue and murder the worshippers inside. But fate intervened, thank God, and the suicide bomber exploded outside the synagogue before carrying out his plot. By nothing short of a miracle, countless innocent lives were spared. That was not an isolated moment, but a reminder of the dark web of terror Iran and its proxies continue to weave in Judea and Samaria.

In the past two months alone, two car bombs were discovered and defused in Gush Etzion. A third one was planted along the path of a school bus filled with young children. Those were not distant threats or theories. They were immediate and deadly and were stopped just moments before disaster. And then came the rockets fired from the heart of Jenin, which is a major city in northern Samaria, and exploding in a city nearby, Afula, among civilians. Therefore, rockets can fly not only from Gaza into Israel, but also from Judea and Samaria. That is a chilling demonstration of the terror that Iran and its proxies are determined to bring into our cities and into our very homes.

That is why Israel must take preventative steps. We do not wait for disaster to strike before we act. Let me ask members: what would their security forces do if they had intelligence about terrorists planning a massive attack on their civilian population? I ask that they think about their capital cities. Would there be any doubt about what to do? Well, we have no such doubts. And neither does anyone here. When a terrorist threat to the Taylor Swift concert in Austria was intercepted, the authorities cancelled the show immediately, tracked down who was responsible and arrested them. Afterwards, we were all relieved that a disaster was averted. But when Israel takes the very same reasonable steps, gathers intelligence and neutralizes the threat to prevent terror attacks against our civilians, what happens? We are condemned.

Members have heard facts such as these before, but they bear repeating because the Council remains paralyzed by indecision. We are not dealing with isolated acts of terror. We are dealing with an orchestrated campaign of destruction directed by the ayatollahs in Tehran. And while this body debates restraint and diplomacy, Iran's network grows stronger. The time for half measures, blind eyes and empty statements is over. What is required now is not talk about the symptoms, but action against the disease itself, which is the Iranian regime.

Hizbullah and the Iranian Revolutionary Guards must be designated as terrorist organizations worldwide. Sanctions against Iran must be intensified until its capacity to support terror is completely diminished. While we prevent their murderous aims before they take place, we expect the Council to stop them at the root.

Israel will defend itself with all the force necessary to protect our people. We will dismantle every terrorist network, uproot every Iranian proxy and strike down those who seek to harm us. The international community must stand with us, not just for Israel but for the very future of the Middle East. The stakes could not be higher. The time for inaction has passed.

The President: There are no more names inscribed on the list of speakers. I now invite Council members to informal consultations to continue our discussion on the subject.

The meeting rose at 12.45 p.m.

Security Council Press Statement on United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in Near East (UNRWA)

The following Security Council press statement was issued today by Council President Pascale Christine Baeriswyl (Switzerland):

The members of the Security Council emphasized the vital role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in providing life-saving humanitarian assistance to Palestinian refugees through essential education, health, relief and social services programmes and emergency assistance in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, Jordan, Lebanon and the Syrian Arab Republic.

The members of the Security Council underscored that UNRWA remains the backbone of all humanitarian response in Gaza, and affirmed that no organization can replace or substitute UNRWA's capacity and mandate to serve Palestinian refugees and civilians in urgent need of life-saving humanitarian assistance.

The members of the Security Council strongly warned against any attempts to dismantle or diminish UNRWA's operations and mandate, recognizing that any interruption or suspension of its work would have severe humanitarian consequences for millions of Palestinian refugees who depend on the Agency's services and also implications for the region.

The members of the Security Council expressed their grave concern over legislation adopted by the Israeli Knesset. In this regard, they urged the Israeli Government to abide by its international obligations, respect the privileges and immunities of UNRWA and live up to its responsibility to allow and facilitate full, rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian assistance in all its forms into and throughout the entire Gaza strip, including the provision of sorely needed basic services to the civilian population.

The members of the Security Council demanded to all parties to enable UNRWA to carry out its mandate, as adopted by the General Assembly, in all areas of operation, with full respect for the humanitarian principles of humanity, neutrality, impartiality and independence, and to respect international humanitarian law including the protection of UN and humanitarian facilities.

The members of the Security Council highlighted the findings of the Independent Review of Mechanisms and Procedures to Ensure Adherence by UNRWA to the Humanitarian Principle of Neutrality, led by Catherine Colonna, and welcomed the Secretary General's and the Agency's commitment to fully implement its recommendations and called for their accelerated implementation, in line with UNRWA's commitment to the principle of neutrality.

They took note of the measures taken to terminate the employment of nine UNRWA staff members following the attacks of 7 October 2023. They underscored the importance to take timely measures to address any credible allegations and to ensure accountability for any violations of the Agency's policies related to the principle of neutrality.

The members of the Security Council called upon all parties to take necessary steps to allow and facilitate humanitarian aid to civilians in Gaza, in accordance with international humanitarian law.

The members of the Security Council expressed appreciation for the work of the staff of the Agency, including in very dire circumstances, in fulfilment of the Agency's mandate, underscored the importance of ensuring the continuity of UNRWA's vital services to Palestinian refugees and recognized Member States' efforts to enhance their support to UNRWA.

Implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016)

Report of the Secretary-General

I. Introduction

1. The present report is the thirty-second quarterly report on the implementation of Security Council resolution 2334 (2016), covering the period from 12 September to 6 December 2024.

II. Settlement activities

2. In its resolution 2334 (2016), the Security Council reaffirmed that the establishment by Israel of settlements in the Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem, had no legal validity and constituted a flagrant violation under international law and a major obstacle to the achievement of the two-State solution and a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. The Council reiterated its demand that Israel immediately and completely cease all settlement activities in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, and that it fully respect all of its legal obligations in that regard. No such steps were taken during the reporting period, as settlement activities continued.

3. On 19 July 2024, the International Court of Justice rendered its advisory opinion on the legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem. Among its findings, the Court reaffirmed that “the Israeli settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem, and the régime associated with them, have been established and are being maintained in violation of international law”; and, among other things, concluded that it was of the opinion “that the State of Israel is under an obligation to cease immediately all new settlement activities, and to evacuate all settlers from the Occupied Palestinian Territory”.¹

4. During the reporting period, the Israeli planning authorities advanced or approved approximately 540 housing units in the occupied West Bank settlements of Immanuel, Alon Shvut, Givat Ze'ev, Karnei Shomron and Negohot.

5. On 14 October, the Israeli Ministry of Housing published a tender for approximately 290 housing units in the settlement of Ramat Shlomo in occupied East Jerusalem.

6. On several occasions during the reporting period, Israeli security forces demolished structures, which are illegal under Israeli law, in settlement outposts in the occupied West Bank, including on 11 November in the Oz Zion outpost and 4 December in the Or Yosef outpost, on some occasions accompanied by clashes between Israeli security forces and Israeli settlers.

7. Demolitions and seizures of Palestinian-owned structures continued across the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, throughout the reporting period. Israeli authorities, citing the lack of Israeli-issued building permits, which remain almost impossible for Palestinians to obtain, demolished, seized or forced people to demolish 292 structures, including 34 structures that were demolished by their owners, after they received demolition orders, in order to avoid heavy Israeli demolition fees. Another 52 structures were demolished, seized or destroyed during Israeli security operations or as punitive measures. Of the structures that were demolished or seized, 22 had been funded by international donors. The demolition of those structures resulted in the displacement of 618 persons, including 248 children.

8. In one incident, on 5 November, nine Palestinian residences, housing 42 people, including 19 children, were demolished by the Israeli authorities in the Al-Bustan neighbourhood in occupied East Jerusalem, citing a lack of Israeli-issued building permits. The demolition could facilitate Israeli plans to connect the area to the nearby "City of David" tourist attraction in occupied East Jerusalem.

III. Violence against civilians, including acts of terror

9. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror, as well as all acts of provocation and destruction, called for accountability in that regard and called for compliance with obligations under international law for the strengthening of ongoing efforts to combat terrorism, including through existing security coordination, and to clearly condemn all acts of terrorism.

10. The reporting period was marked by continued hostilities between Israel and Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Gaza. Israel continued to conduct strikes from air, land and sea, resulting in thousands of Palestinian casualties, the massive displacement of civilians and widespread destruction, including of civilian infrastructure, which worsened the already appalling conditions for civilians in Gaza. Israeli military evacuation orders covered approximately 80 per cent of the Gaza Strip during the reporting period. Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups continued to hold hostages in horrific conditions (with reports of severe maltreatment), launch attacks at Israeli forces and fire rockets and other projectiles indiscriminately towards Israel. Israel states that Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups continued to place fighters and military equipment among and underneath densely populated civilian areas.

11. According to the Gaza Ministry of Health, from 12 September to 6 December at least 3,494 Palestinians were killed and at least 10,709 were injured in the Gaza Strip. This brings the total reported by the Ministry of Health to more than 44,612 Palestinians killed since 7 October 2023, a majority of whom were reportedly women and children.

12. According to Israeli sources, during the same period 45 Israelis were killed, including 1 woman, all of whom were members of the security forces, in attacks in Gaza, and 2 Israelis were injured in Israel in attacks originating from Gaza. Israeli sources reported that more than 1,720 Israelis and foreign nationals have been killed in attacks in or originating from Gaza, including at least 310 women and 57 children, and at least 767 members of the security forces, since 7 October 2023. According to Israeli sources, 100 hostages, including 13 women and 2 children, are still being held captive by Palestinian armed groups in Gaza. A total of 251 persons were abducted from Israel on 7 October 2023.

13. During the reporting period, at least 31 United Nations personnel were killed in Gaza, bringing the total number of United Nations personnel killed since 7 October 2023 to 255.

14. The intensity of hostilities and of Israel Defense Forces strikes in Gaza during the reporting period, including numerous mass casualty incidents, precludes detailing them all, but several significant incidents are reported below.

15. Repeated attacks and airstrikes in densely populated areas, including 65 schools, continued, resulting in the reported deaths of hundreds of internally displaced persons sheltering in those locations. Between 21 and 23 September, at least 33 Palestinians were reportedly killed, including at least 5 women and 14 children, when two schools were targeted in Gaza City and one school was targeted in Nuseirat camp, Deir al-Balah, all three of which were being used as shelters. The Israel Defense Forces stated that it had conducted a targeted airstrike on Hamas operatives in the schools, including a command centre in the school compound in Deir al-Balah. On 10 October, 28 Palestinians were killed, including, reportedly, at least 6 women and 2 children, and 54 were injured in an Israeli air strike impacting a school west of Deir al-Balah. The Israel Defense Forces stated that it had conducted the strike because of the alleged presence of armed Palestinians operating a “command and control centre” inside the school. Late in the evening of 13 October, Israel Defense Forces fired a number of shells towards a school run by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) north of Nuseirat camp, reportedly killing 22 Palestinians, including at least 2 women and 5 children.

16. Israeli military operations have intensified in northern Gaza since 6 October, with intense fighting, the siege of northern Gaza, the widespread destruction of homes and infrastructure, the forced displacement of most of the population of North Gaza Governorate and strikes on civilian infrastructure, including hospitals, schools and residential buildings, resulting in high numbers of civilian casualties. Only 65,000 to 75,000 people are estimated to remain in northern Gaza, following the forced displacement of hundreds of thousands of residents southward, with most remaining in Gaza City. Residents of northern Gaza who were displaced to central and southern Gaza since the first Israel Defense Forces evacuation order on 13 October 2023 are still prohibited from returning to northern Gaza due to Israel Defense Forces restrictions and checkpoints, including military infrastructure along the Israel Defense Forces-controlled Netzarim corridor that cuts Gaza in two.

17. On 11 October, 22 Palestinians were killed and 90 others injured in an Israeli strike near a mosque in Jabaliya. On 13 October, 17 Palestinians were killed in an Israeli strike on a tented camp for displaced people next to the al-Yemen al-Saeed Hospital. The Israel Defense Forces stated that they “struck terrorists operating within a command-and-control centre embedded in an area in Jabaliya that previously served as a medical compound”. The following day, Israel Defense Forces artillery shells hit in and around an UNRWA food distribution centre in Jabaliya, killing at least 10 and injuring 40 Palestinians. Several residential buildings in Beit Lahya were struck by the Israel Defense Forces, including on 29 October, reportedly killing at least 93 displaced people, including at least 25 children, and on 4 and 5 November, killing at least 40 Palestinians, including 13 children. In Jabaliya, an Israel Defense Forces strike on a building on 7 November killed between 25 and 30 Palestinians. At least 24 Palestinians, including 14 children and 5 women, were reportedly killed as a result of an Israel Defense Forces strike on a residential building on 10 November.

18. Since late October, Israeli security forces operations have also intensified in Nuseirat camp, with ground operations to the north and airstrikes reported. On 31 October, at least 26 Palestinians, including 4 children and 4 women, were reportedly killed in Israel Defense Forces strikes on two houses. The second house was reportedly struck when medical and rescue crews gathered, resulting in the injury of at least 30 people, including a medic and 2 journalists. The following day, 12 Palestinians were reportedly killed, and dozens injured, in an Israel Defense Forces strike at the entrance of a school hosting internally displaced persons. On 10 and 11 November, at least 14 Palestinians, including 4 children and 3 women, were killed in additional strikes by the Israel Defense Forces.

19. In Khan Younis, on 13 November, four separate Israel Defense Forces airstrikes in the Al-Mawasi area resulted in at least 10 Palestinian fatalities, as missiles were fired towards a gas distribution point, a house and a tent. The Israel Defense Forces said the strikes were targeting a rocket launcher used by Palestinian armed groups and reported secondary explosions.

20. Attacks on humanitarian convoys and humanitarian actors continued during the reporting period. On 30 November, Israel Defense Forces airstrikes in the vicinity of a food distribution point in Khan Younis reportedly killed at least 12 Palestinians, including a Save the Children employee, and in a separate incident an Israel Defense Forces airstrike on a car killed three World Central Kitchen employees. The Israel Defense Forces said it was targeting a Palestinian involved in the attacks on 7 October 2023.

21. On 4 December, Israel Defense Forces struck tents sheltering displaced persons in Al-Mawasi in an attack which the Israel Defense Forces said was targeting Hamas commanders. The strike, together with secondary explosions, destroyed all 21 tents and reportedly killed at least 23 Palestinians, including at least 4 children and 2 women.

22. On 16 November, a United Nations convoy in Gaza comprising 109 trucks of food supplies was violently looted by armed Palestinians; 98 trucks were lost and the drivers were forced to unload aid at gunpoint. In 2024, United Nations trucks have been looted 75 times by armed Palestinians in Gaza, with 15 attacks occurring since 4 November. On 19 November, more than 20 people, said to be alleged looters of humanitarian aid, were reportedly killed by armed Palestinians said to be led by the Gaza Ministry of Interior.

23. Meanwhile, violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, continued at an alarming rate in the context of operations, airstrikes, clashes and armed exchanges between Palestinians, including armed groups, and Israeli security forces and settlers, as well as attacks perpetrated by Palestinians against Israelis and violence and intimidation by settlers against Palestinians.²

² In its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024, the International Court of Justice expressed the view that “Israel’s systematic failure to prevent or to punish attacks by settlers against the life or bodily integrity of Palestinians, as well as Israel’s excessive use of force against Palestinians, is inconsistent with its obligations” pursuant to article 46 of the Hague Regulations and article 27, paragraph 1, of the Fourth Geneva Convention, as well as article 6, paragraph 1, and article 7 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

24. In total, in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, 94 Palestinians, including 3 women and 12 children, were killed by Israeli security forces during operations, demonstrations, clashes, air strikes and other incidents during the reporting period. Of those, 34 Palestinians, including 1 woman and 3 children, were killed by airstrikes. In addition, one Palestinian was killed by an Israeli settler. A total of 860 Palestinians were injured, including 57 women and 222 children; of those, 334 were injured as a result of tear gas inhalation, 226 by live ammunition and 3 by airstrikes.
25. According to Israeli sources, during the same reporting period, a total of 8 Israelis, including 1 member of the security forces and 3 women, were killed in the occupied West Bank and Israel, and another 262 Israelis, including 2 children, were injured by Palestinians in shooting, ramming and stabbing attacks, armed exchanges and clashes, and in rock- and Molotov-cocktail-throwing and other incidents.
26. In the occupied West Bank, most of the Palestinians were killed by Israeli security forces in the context of Israeli operations, including those in Area A and those involving airstrikes, as well as during subsequent exchanges with armed Palestinians. On 19 September, Israeli security forces conducted a nine-hour operation in Qabatiya in Jenin Governorate, resulting in seven Palestinian fatalities. On 25 September, Israeli security forces killed a 34-year-old Palestinian woman who appeared to be a bystander during an operation in Anza, Jenin Governorate.
27. On 3 October, 18 Palestinians, including 4 women and 3 children, were killed in an Israeli airstrike on a residential building in Tulkarm camp. The Israeli military said they were targeting a top commander of Hamas in Tulkarm who was killed along with six other key operatives. This was the deadliest single incident in the occupied West Bank since the United Nations started systematically recording casualties in 2005.
28. On 9 October in Nablus city, undercover Israeli forces killed four Palestinians who they said had been involved in previous attacks against Israelis. On 10 October, an Israeli drone-fired missile killed two Palestinians in a vehicle during a six-hour operation in Nur Shams refugee camp, Tulkarm. The Israel Defense Forces said that the strike had targeted the head of Palestinian Islamic Jihad in the camp, as well as another operative of that group.
29. On 14 October, Israeli forces killed two Palestinians, including a 14-year-old boy, during a nine-hour operation in Jenin refugee camp. On 22 October, Israeli forces shot and killed an 11-year-old Palestinian boy who was throwing stones at the military jeeps as they were withdrawing from Nablus city. On 31 October, Israeli forces raided Nur Shams refugee camp in Tulkarm, during which an airstrike killed two Palestinians, aged 19 and 20. The Israel Defense Forces said it had conducted an airstrike targeting armed individuals who had fired at Israeli forces. A 32-year-old Palestinian was also killed in his house in the camp, reportedly by a sniper. On 5 November, during four separate Israeli forces operations, two Palestinians were killed in the village of Ash-Shuhada, Jenin, two in Tammun, Tubas, and four during an 11-hour operation in Qabatiya, Tulkarm. In two operations on 19 and 20 November near Jenin, Israeli forces shot and killed three Palestinians, including a 16-year-old boy in the village of Ash-Shuhada, and killed three Palestinians in Kafr Dan – two of them in an airstrike. On 1 December, Israeli forces killed four Palestinians during a seven-hour operation involving airstrikes and exchanges of fire with armed Palestinians in the village of Sir, south of Jenin. The Israel Defense Forces said it had conducted an airstrike targeting a cell that had carried out shooting attacks against nearby Israeli communities.
30. During the reporting period, Israeli security forces conducted over 1,300 search-and-arrest operations, which resulted in the detention of more than 1,400 Palestinians, including at least 55 children, amid reports of ill treatment, sexual violence and torture.

31. During the reporting period, there was an increase in the displacement of Palestinians: at least 26 Palestinian households, comprising 135 people, including 62 children, were displaced. The households cited settler violence and access restrictions. This represents a 31 per cent increase compared with the first nine months of 2024.

32. Violence against Israelis by Palestinians also continued at elevated levels in Israel and in the occupied West Bank. On 1 October, in Jaffa, 6 Israelis and 1 foreign national, including a 17-year-old girl and 2 women, were killed and 16 others were injured in a stabbing and shooting attack by 2 Palestinians from Hebron. One of the perpetrators was killed and the other severely injured and arrested. Hamas later claimed responsibility for the attack. On 15 October, an Israeli police officer was killed and four injured in a shooting attack by an armed Palestinian near Ashdod.

33. Settler-related violence in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, intensified during the reporting period, including incidents in the context of the annual olive harvest, which is a key source of income and livelihood for Palestinians in the occupied West Bank. A total of 91 Palestinians and 4 Israelis were injured, with all incidents also resulting in property damage and/or theft. In most recorded incidents, Israeli settlers were reportedly accompanied by Israeli security forces who used force, including tear gas and live ammunition.

34. On 5 October, a group of some 40 Israeli settlers attacked with clubs, crowbars, pepper spray and rifles some 15 Palestinian families from the village of Al-Lubban al-Gharbi, Ramallah, while they were picking olives in Palestinian olive groves. A total of 25 Palestinians were injured, including 2 women, a child, a person with a disability and an elderly man; many had severe fractures to the head and limbs. The settlers also damaged five vehicles, stole tools and equipment, and threw away harvested olives. Israeli security forces arrived at the scene and dispersed the Palestinians with sound grenades.

35. On 17 October, Israeli security forces shot dead a 59-year-old Palestinian woman harvesting olives with her family and other community members in Faqqu'a, Jenin. According to an Israel Defense Forces statement, the Israel Defense Forces suspended the deputy commander and opened an investigation. On 27 October, settlers prevented a Palestinian family from harvesting their olive trees in Ayn Mansoor, Bethlehem Governorate, after which Israeli forces arrived and confiscated the harvested olives and the family's tools, and detained and threatened five members of the family, releasing them after three hours. On 7 November, a group of Israeli settlers, reportedly masked and armed, attacked Palestinian families and injured two individuals, who were harvesting olives on their land in Areas B and C of Ein Yabrud in Ramallah Governorate.

36. Attacks on Palestinian communities by Israeli settlers and other civilians also resulted in the displacement of Palestinians from their homes. On 16 September, settlers attacked the primary school of the Arab Al-Mulaihat village near Jericho, assaulting teachers, pupils and activists, amid ongoing efforts to force residents to leave their lands. Nine Palestinians and one Israeli were physically assaulted and injured during the incident. As a result of attacks and threats of attack, Palestinians have left their homes in Umm al-Jamal in the northern Jordan Valley, in Khirbet Zanuta in the South Hebron Hills, in the Jurat al-Khail community in Hebron Governorate and in Al-Mu'arrajat East between Jericho and Ramallah.

37. On 6 November, the Israeli Knesset approved the Deportation of Families of Terrorists Law, which gives the Minister for Interior the authority to deport family members (parents, siblings, spouses, children) of Palestinian attackers who "knew or should have known in advance about the terrorist's plan to commit an act of terror and did not make the necessary efforts to prevent the terror act, its completion or its outcome, including reporting to the security authorities or the police", or who “expressed support or identified with an act of terror or published praise, sympathy or encouragement for an act of terror or terror organisation”, to Gaza or other locations. The law provides for the issuance of deportation orders ranging from 7 to 20 years, including of family members who are Israeli citizens.

IV. Incitement, provocations and inflammatory rhetoric

38. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon both parties to act on the basis of international law, including international humanitarian law, and their previous agreements and obligations, to observe calm and restraint and to refrain from provocative actions, incitement and inflammatory rhetoric, with the aim, inter alia, of de-escalating the situation on the ground, rebuilding trust and confidence, demonstrating through policies and actions a genuine commitment to the two-State solution and creating the conditions necessary for promoting peace. Incitement, inflammatory rhetoric and the glorification of the killing of civilians continued.

39. Hamas officials continued to call for violent attacks against Israelis and for the destruction of Israel, with one official saying: “Israel has no future in the region under any circumstances.” A senior Fatah official said that what Hamas “did on October 7th made them part of the Palestinian national self-liberation movement”.

40. Israeli ministers and members of Knesset called for encouraging the “voluntary migration” of Palestinians out of the Gaza Strip, with one minister saying that through such steps it was possible that “Gaza’s population will be reduced to half its current size in two years”. Ministers and members of Knesset also called for the re-establishment of settlements in Gaza, the continued destruction of Palestinian homes and property and limiting or ceasing the entry of humanitarian aid into Gaza. One Member of Knesset called Palestinian society “a whole society that wants to murder us all, women, men and children, without distinction”. Another Minister said he had instructed his staff to “prepare the necessary infrastructure for applying sovereignty” in the occupied West Bank.

V. Affirmative steps to reverse negative trends

41. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called for affirmative steps to be taken immediately to reverse the negative trends on the ground that were imperilling the two-State solution. Negative trends on the ground continued during the reporting period.

42. Amid hostilities in Gaza, the humanitarian situation deteriorated further from the already massive loss of civilian life and unprecedented levels of destruction. Gaza remains a zone of intense, active conflict, with humanitarian needs continuing to grow. Every Palestinian in Gaza has been affected, with over 2 million people uprooted from their homes and facing acute shortages of basic necessities. Some 17,000 children are unaccompanied or separated. The interim rapid damage and needs assessment conducted in April by the World Bank and the United Nations, with the support of the European Union, documented the immense scale of destruction and loss in the Gaza Strip. The enabling conditions to address this destruction and begin reconstruction have not been met.

43. Israel continues to impose severe restrictions on Gaza, including the disconnection of most Israeli-supplied electricity and on the entry of all goods, including food and fuel. The conflict has halted almost all local production of water, electricity and food. Wastewater treatment has collapsed. The sole Gaza power plant has not operated since 11 October 2023. There are critical fuel shortages across Gaza, with fuel deliveries to northern Gaza limited to hospitals.

44. Before 7 October 2023, approximately 500 truckloads of goods entered Gaza daily, including commercial goods, humanitarian items and fuel. Since 7 October 2023, the number of trucks entering Gaza has fluctuated widely, from 83 trucks per day in November 2023 to 165 trucks per day in April 2024, down again to 37 trucks per day in October and up to 65 trucks per day in November. Since 8 October 2024, Israel has banned almost all commercial imports. In North Gaza Governorate, humanitarian partners are concerned that the entire population is at risk of dying from starvation, disease and violence. The amount of humanitarian aid entering Gaza continues to be wholly inadequate to the needs of the population.

45. According to the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification (IPC) initiative, during September and October 2024 the entire territory of Gaza was classified as experiencing emergency levels of food insecurity (IPC phase 4). Some 1.84 million people across the Gaza Strip are experiencing high levels of acute food insecurity classified as “crisis” (IPC phase 3) or above, including nearly 133,000 people who are facing catastrophic food insecurity (IPC phase 5) and 664,000 who are experiencing emergency levels (IPC phase 4). The IPC Famine Review Committee issued an alert on 8 November warning that famine thresholds may have been crossed in northern Gaza. In October, 4,107 children were hospitalized as a result of acute malnutrition.

46. The second round of the polio outbreak response campaign was completed by the United Nations in a coordinated effort on 5 November 2024. Over half a million children under the age of 10 were vaccinated during the second round, including some 100,000 children in northern Gaza. An estimated 7,000 to 10,000 children could not be reached in areas of northern Gaza, such as Jabaliya, Beit Hanoun and Beit Lahya, due to Israeli access restrictions and military operations.

47. Requests to Israel to open new crossings from Israel into Gaza and address the breakdown of law and order have only been partly met, limiting any potential improvements to the conditions required to provide humanitarian assistance. In the reporting period, of the 316 requests for humanitarian movements to Gaza and North Gaza Governorates, 56 were approved and 104 were approved but impeded, leaving more than 40 per cent denied. In November, 30 of the 36 requested coordinated movements to access Rafah Governorate were denied, excepting movements to the Kerem Shalom/Karem Abu Salim crossing. On 12 November, Israel opened the Kissufim crossing into Gaza; however, use of the crossing was impeded following the shooting of three drivers and the looting of supplies by armed Palestinians. In the context of the breakdown in law and order, humanitarian trucks have been subjected to well-organized looting at gunpoint by armed Palestinians, including criminal gangs, and at times in close proximity to Israel Defense Forces, with the majority of looting concentrated in specific areas where only one road is authorized for humanitarian traffic.

48. Hospitals, schools, United Nations facilities and other protected sites continue to be severely affected by military operations and targeted by the Israel Defense Forces, impeding or halting service and humanitarian aid delivery for Palestinians. The Israel Defense Forces has stated that its forces are targeting Hamas fighters and equipment, as well as large-scale tunnel networks under these and other civilian infrastructures, which are allegedly used for military purposes. The acute shortage of imported fuel has had an impact on patient care, including for newborns. An increase in infectious diseases has been observed, amid overcrowding in shelters, the destruction of water and sanitation systems and the decreased availability of health services.

49. Basic services in Gaza have been devastated. Over 625,000 children and youth have lost more than a full year of education. Health services have been left barely functioning and on the verge of collapse owing to a lack of access to medicines, ambulances, basic life-saving treatments, electricity and water. More than 540,000 women and girls in Gaza are of reproductive age and need access to appropriate items to support hygiene, health, dignity and well-being. Formal employment is largely limited to those working on the humanitarian response. Electricity, water, sewage and solid waste, and telecommunications services have been destroyed or severely degraded and are inadequate to the needs of the population.

50. Across the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, Israel continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinians, preventing access to services, including medical treatment, schools and livelihoods, significantly affecting the economy, particularly around Jenin, Nablus and Tulkarm, and impeding access to occupied East Jerusalem, with significant damage to civilian infrastructure. On average, one Palestinian child has been killed in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, every two days since October 2023.

51. The Palestinian economy is projected to contract by more than 35 per cent by the end of 2024. The Palestinian Authority's financing gap is expected to more than double from 2023, reaching more than $1.85 billion. The deep financial crisis has led to some public schools, health facilities and Palestinian Authority offices only being open 50 per cent of the time. UNRWA, in the West Bank, has reported a large increase in registered students and health visits in 2024. With the deep economic crisis, Palestinians in the West Bank face increasing levels of poverty.

52. On 28 October, the Knesset of Israel adopted two laws which, if implemented, could prevent UNRWA from continuing its essential work in the Occupied Palestinian Territory. The "Law to Cease UNRWA Operations in the Territory of the State of Israel" provides that "the purpose of this law is to prevent any UNRWA operations within the territory of the State of Israel" and that UNRWA "shall not operate any representative office, provide any services or carry out any activities, directly or indirectly, within the sovereign territory of the State of Israel".

53. The "Law to Cease UNRWA Operations" includes the following provisions: "the invitation to UNRWA, based on an exchange of letters between Israel and UNRWA from 6 Sivan 5727 (14 June A.D. 1967), will expire on 5 Tishrei 5785 (7 October A.D. 2024)"; "a government authority, including other bodies and individuals performing public duties according to law, shall not have any contact with UNRWA or anyone acting on its behalf"; and "nothing in the provisions of this law shall preclude any criminal proceeding against UNRWA employees, including such proceedings related to the events of 7 October 2023 or the Swords of Iron War, or any other criminal proceeding under Counter-Terrorism Law 5776-2016".

VI. Efforts by the parties and the international community to advance the peace process and other relevant developments

54. In its resolution 2334 \(2016\), the Security Council called upon all States to distinguish, in their relevant dealings, between the territory of the State of Israel and the territories occupied since 1967.³

55. In the same resolution, the Security Council called upon all parties to continue, in the interest of the promotion of peace and security, to exert collective efforts to launch credible negotiations on all final status issues in the Middle East peace process and urged in that regard the intensification and acceleration of international and regional diplomatic efforts and support aimed at achieving, without delay, a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East on the basis of the relevant United Nations resolutions, the Madrid terms of reference, including the principle of land for peace, the Arab Peace Initiative and the Quartet Road Map, and an end to the Israeli occupation that began in 1967.

56. In its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024, the International Court of Justice stated that it was of the opinion, among other things, that “the State of Israel’s continued presence in the Occupied Palestinian Territory is unlawful”; “that the State of Israel is under an obligation to bring to an end its unlawful presence in the Occupied Palestinian Territory as rapidly as possible”; “that all States are under an obligation not to recognize as legal the situation arising from the unlawful presence of the State of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory and not to render aid or assistance in maintaining the situation created by the continued presence of the State of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory”; “that international organizations, including the United Nations, are under an obligation not to recognize as legal the situation resulting from the unlawful presence of the State of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory”; and that “the United Nations, and especially the General Assembly, which requested this opinion, and the Security Council, should consider the precise modalities and further action required to bring to an end as rapidly as possible the unlawful presence of the State of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory”.

57. On 29 September, formal diplomatic relations between Ireland and the State of Palestine were established, giving effect to the decision of Ireland in May when Ireland said it was recognizing Palestine as a sovereign and independent State.

58. Two countries took steps to sanction extremist Israeli settlers, settlement-outposts and related organizations. On 1 October, the United States of America added “Hilltop Youth”, a “violent extremist group that has repeatedly attacked Palestinians and destroyed Palestinian homes and property in the West Bank” to its sanctions list. On 18 November, the United States also sanctioned three individuals and three organizations, including the Settlement Movement of Gush Emunim Central Cooperative Association Ltd. (Amana), “a settlement development organization that is involved with U.S.-sanctioned individuals and outposts that perpetrate violence in the West Bank”. On 15 October, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland sanctioned three settler outposts – Tirzah Valley Farm Outpost, Meitarim Outpost and Shuvi Eretz Outpost – that “have been involved in facilitating, inciting, promoting or providing support for activity that amounts to a serious abuse of the right of Palestinians not to be subjected to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment”. Four organizations, Od Yosef Chai Yeshiva, Hashomer Yosh, Torat Lechima and Amana, were also sanctioned by the United Kingdom.

59. On 7 October, the United States announced sanctions against four individuals and 10 entities associated with Hamas and its financing.

60. On 26 September, on the margins of the General Assembly, a ministerial meeting on the theme “The situation in Gaza and the implementation of the two-State solution as the path to a just and comprehensive peace” was held to discuss, inter alia, concrete measures to implement the two-State solution and the catastrophic situation in Gaza and beyond. The meeting was co-hosted by the Arab League and the Organization of Islamic Cooperation Gaza contact group, the European Union and Norway. At the meeting, the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution was launched. Follow-up meetings were held in Riyadh and Brussels on 30 October and 28 November, respectively.

61. From 2 to 4 November and on 2 and 3 December, following direct talks between Fatah and Hamas in Cairo in early October, senior officials from the two factions continued consultations hosted by Egypt to discuss the current situation in Gaza and the future governance of the Gaza Strip.

62. On 11 November, Saudi Arabia hosted an extraordinary Arab-Islamic summit in Riyadh to discuss the conflicts in Gaza and Lebanon. The summit's final resolution affirmed "support for the Palestinian people to achieve their legitimate and inalienable national rights, foremost among which is their right to freedom and to an independent, sovereign state on the lines of June 4, 1967".

63. On 2 December, Egypt hosted the Cairo Ministerial Conference to Enhance the Humanitarian Response in Gaza under the theme "A year of humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza: urgent needs and sustainable solutions". The conference aimed at securing clear commitments to provide aid to Gaza, enhancing international support to ensure the sustainability of the response to the humanitarian crisis in Gaza, mobilizing efforts to provide urgent humanitarian aid to the population of Gaza and planning for early recovery within the Strip.

VII. Observations

64. I reiterate my strong condemnation of the horrific attacks by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Israel on 7 October 2023 and their continued holding of more than 100 hostages in Gaza. Nothing can justify these acts of terror. I reiterate my call for all hostages to be released immediately and unconditionally. I remain appalled that there are reasonable grounds to believe that hostages may be subjected to ongoing sexual violence and abuse. While in captivity, hostages must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the International Committee of the Red Cross. I reiterate that there is no justification for the deliberate killing, maiming, torture and abduction of civilians and other persons taking no active part in the hostilities and the use of sexual violence against them. The use of human shields and the firing of rockets indiscriminately towards Israeli population centres are in violation of international humanitarian law and must cease.

65. I reiterate that the level of suffering witnessed in Gaza is unprecedented during my term of office as Secretary-General of the United Nations. An unbearable level of suffering continued over the past year. A ceasefire in Gaza is long overdue. The continued collective punishment of the Palestinian people is unjustifiable. The relentless bombardment of Gaza by Israeli forces, the large number of civilian casualties, the blanket destruction of Palestinian neighbourhoods and the worsening humanitarian situation by the day are appalling. The intensity and brutality of these acts, particularly in northern Gaza – where destruction, lack of humanitarian access and military strikes are resulting in mass casualties – have rendered some areas uninhabitable and rendered the entire population of northern Gaza at imminent risk of dying due to disease, famine and violence. The widespread devastation and deprivation resulting from Israeli military operations in northern Gaza – especially around Jabaliya, Beit Lahya and Beit Hanoun – are making the conditions of life untenable for the Palestinian population there. This conflict continues to be waged with little regard for the requirements of international humanitarian law. I condemn the use by Israel of explosive weapons with wide-area effects in densely populated areas, which has caused massive casualties and damage to residential buildings, schools, hospitals, mosques and United Nations premises. United Nations premises are inviolable at all times.

66. I reiterate my unequivocal condemnation of the widespread killing and injury of civilians in Gaza, including women and children, and the deprivation of essential items needed to survive. I am concerned over what may amount to violations of international humanitarian law in the conduct of hostilities, including non-compliance with the principles of distinction, proportionality and precautions in attack and against the effects of attacks. International humanitarian law always applies to all parties to a conflict, and its application does not depend on reciprocity. The protection of civilians is paramount in any armed conflict. There must be full accountability for any atrocity crimes that have been committed.

67. I mourn the United Nations personnel killed in Gaza and strongly condemn the killing of all health and humanitarian personnel and journalists. These incidents must stop and be thoroughly and independently investigated. The perpetrators of these acts must be held accountable.

68. Overall, due to Israeli-imposed restrictions, looting and insecurity, supplies have entered Gaza in levels that are deplorably inadequate to meeting the overwhelming needs of the population, including the large numbers of internally displaced persons living in an ever-diminishing space in extremely overcrowded conditions. To address these needs, the United Nations, its partners and the civilian population urgently require the predictable entry and unimpeded movement of food, shelter materials, medicine and fuel and the capacity to repair essential, life-saving infrastructure, including the healthcare system. This must comprise commercial and humanitarian goods, given that humanitarian assistance alone cannot meet the needs of 2.3 million people. Noting the opening of additional entry points for humanitarian aid, I call upon Israel to fulfil its obligations under international law, including allowing and facilitating the rapid and unimpeded passage of humanitarian relief for civilians in need into and throughout Gaza, including the opening of additional crossings into Gaza, and to create the conditions that will permit the return of Palestinians to their homes. I recall that Israel, as the occupying Power, has the responsibility to ensure the safety and security of the Palestinian population and ensure that their needs are met.

69. Attacks on hospitals have left healthcare decimated at a time of drastically increased need in Gaza. All parties must respect and protect humanitarian relief personnel. I condemn all attacks on humanitarian aid workers and facilities and the looting of aid in the context of the breakdown of law and order. These actions are unacceptable and must cease immediately. I reiterate my call for the full investigation of all such incidents and accountability for any violations of international law that may have been committed.

70. I note the achievement of the polio vaccination campaign. While falling short of our targets, particularly in the north of Gaza, the use of tactical pauses and examples of functioning coordination demonstrate what is possible and achievable if the most basic requests of the United Nations are met. I call upon the parties to replicate this example to enable humanitarian responses to help Palestinians survive the winter and feed their families, and for children to receive education.

71. I reiterate my call for an immediate humanitarian ceasefire and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages in Gaza. Along with my Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, I am continuously engaged with all stakeholders towards these objectives and stand ready to support the implementation of an agreement. I welcome the continued efforts, including by Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to overcome the significant obstacles and reach a deal.

72. I remain deeply alarmed by the relentless Israeli settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, which continues to fuel tensions, impede access by Palestinians to their land and threaten the viability of a fully independent, democratic, contiguous and sovereign Palestinian State. The ever-growing settlement footprint, including outposts, contributes to a rise in settler-related violence and further entrenches the Israeli occupation, hampering the free movement of the population and undermining the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination. I note in this regard the finding of the International Court of Justice in its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024 that the “prolonged character of Israel’s unlawful policies and practices aggravates their violation of the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination”.

73. The year 2024 saw an overall decrease in settlement advancements compared with 2023, which saw the most advancements since the United Nations began systematically tracking advancements in 2017. Nevertheless, the overall advancements in 2024 remain high and demonstrate that, while the rate may vary from year to year, advancements continue relentlessly. Overall, as of the time of writing, plans for 13,190 housing units were advanced, approved or tendered, compared with 25,470 units in 2023. In Area C, a total of 10,890 housing units were advanced, approved or tendered, compared with some 15,930 in 2023, representing a 30 per cent decrease. In occupied East Jerusalem, a total of 2,300 housing units were advanced, approved or tendered, compared with some 9,540 in 2023, a 75 per cent decrease.

74. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, including all related infrastructure, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law and relevant United Nations resolutions. I am deeply concerned that, over the past year, the Government of Israel has continued to systematically promote policies that have strengthened the involvement of civilian officials in control over the occupied West Bank, including transferring some security functions to civilian control, while some government officials called for the annexation of areas in the occupied West Bank. These steps, alongside settlement advancement and large-scale State land declarations that impede Palestinian access to these lands and their resources, threaten the contiguity and viability of a Palestinian State. I once again urge the Government of Israel to cease all settlement activity immediately, in line with its obligations under international law. In this respect, I note the recent findings by the International Court of Justice in its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024, which declared, inter alia, that the continued presence of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory was unlawful and must end as rapidly as possible.

75. The demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures, including internationally funded humanitarian projects, as well as structures related to income generation and the provision of essential services, entail numerous violations of international humanitarian law and international human rights law and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I note the conclusions of the International Court of Justice in this regard. I once again call upon the Government of Israel to end this practice and prevent the possible displacement and forced eviction of Palestinians, in accordance with its international obligations, and to approve plans to allow Palestinians to build legally and address their development needs.

76. The escalating violence and tensions in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, are highly concerning and could trigger a broader explosion at any point. The intensified operations by Israeli forces, increased settler violence and continued attacks against Israelis are highly alarming. Increased armed exchanges between Palestinians and the increased use by Israeli security forces of airstrikes and other heavy explosives in the occupied West Bank have exacerbated these tensions and led to increased levels of destruction, including in Area A. These dynamics have also led to high levels of detentions and casualties.

77. I am alarmed by the lethal attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, including sometimes in the proximity and with the support of Israeli security forces, and by Palestinians against Israelis. Israeli settlers are rarely held accountable for violent attacks, fuelling tensions and increasing the level of threat to Palestinians and their property. I urge Israel, as the occupying Power, to ensure the protection of the Palestinian population and to investigate and hold perpetrators of all attacks accountable. Attacks by Palestinians against Israelis must also cease. All perpetrators of attacks must be held accountable.

78. I reiterate my concern about the large number of Palestinians, including children, detained by Israeli security forces and the increase in the number of Palestinians held in administrative detention, without charge or trial, by Israel since 7 October 2023. Reports of torture and other ill-treatment during arrest and detention, including some forms of sexual violence, are also deeply concerning.

79. I am particularly appalled that children continue to be victims of violence. Children must never be the target of violence or be put in harm's way. I am also concerned that Palestinian children continue to be arrested in large numbers and held for prolonged periods of time, including in administrative detention. To date, 7,445 Palestinians, at least 345 of whom are children, have been arrested by Israeli forces in 2024. I reiterate my call for Israel to use detention as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period, to prevent all forms of ill-treatment in detention and to end the administrative detention of children, who are entitled to special protection.

80. I remain concerned by the continued Israeli practice of holding the bodies of killed Palestinians. I call upon Israel to return the withheld bodies to their families, in line with its obligations under international humanitarian law.

81. I reiterate that all security forces in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, must exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I call upon Israel to abide by its obligations under international law, including with regard to the proportional use of force, and ensure thorough, independent and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force, holding those responsible to account.

82. I am appalled at the numerous instances during the reporting period in which officials glorified violence and engaged in dangerous provocations, incitement and inflammatory language, including with regard to settlement expansion, which will only lead to greater polarization and risk further bloodshed. Leaders have an obligation to prevent acts of terror and violence directed against civilians. The incitement to violence must stop immediately.

83. I reiterate my call to the parties for the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem to be respected and upheld, taking into account the special and historic role of Jordan as custodian of the holy sites in Jerusalem.

84. I am deeply concerned by the adoption by the Knesset of Israel of two laws concerning UNRWA. These laws, if implemented, could prevent UNRWA from continuing its essential work in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem, which would have devastating consequences for Palestinian refugees, considering that there is no alternative to UNRWA to meet the needs of Palestinian refugees, including those of the 2.5 million registered in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, and Gaza. In the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, the absence of UNRWA would disrupt essential health, education and social services, significantly affecting humanitarian conditions and potentially destabilizing the region. This disruption could collapse operations across 96 schools serving 47,000 students, three vocational training centres and 43 health centres, and halt cash assistance and other support to over 150,000 Palestine refugees. Additionally, the Agency's emergency response, including critical interventions following operations by Israeli forces in the northern West Bank, could cease. If implemented, the legislation could suffocate efforts to ease human suffering in the entire Occupied Palestinian Territory. I again urge Israel to act consistently with its obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and its other obligations under international law, including under international humanitarian law, and those concerning the privileges and immunities of the United Nations. National legislation cannot alter those obligations. In the event that UNRWA is compelled to cease its activities in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, I wish to recall that Israel would be left to ensure that the range of services and assistance which UNRWA has been providing are provided in accordance with its obligations under international humanitarian law and international human rights law. Israel, as the occupying Power in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, is bound by the rules of international humanitarian law concerning occupation.

85. I appreciate the Security Council's support for UNRWA, as reflected in its press statement of 30 October 2024, and I call upon the international community to enhance its support to the Agency's efforts to continue operations in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem. UNRWA remains committed to implementing the recommendations of the report and action plan put forward by the Independent Review of Mechanisms and Procedures to Ensure Adherence by UNRWA to the Humanitarian Principle of Neutrality.

86. It is vital that the international community provide immediate support to the Palestinian Government to address its fiscal challenges, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza. I reiterate that we must establish political and security frameworks that can address the humanitarian catastrophe, start early recovery, rebuild Gaza and lay the groundwork for a political process to end the occupation as rapidly as possible and establish a viable two-State solution. It is vital that these frameworks facilitate a legitimate Palestinian Government that can reunify Gaza and the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, politically, economically and administratively while reversing the steadily deteriorating dynamics throughout the Occupied Palestinian Territory. Palestinian unity is an essential building block to a just and lasting peace. In addition, I categorically reject any attempt to establish new settlements in Gaza following the hostilities, and there must be no attempt to reduce or annex the territory of Gaza in whole or in part. Israeli measures that undermine the Palestinian Authority must be urgently reversed.

87. The devastation and misery of the past year have reinforced once again a simple truth: Palestinians and Israelis can no longer wait to establish a viable political horizon. Now is the time to lay the foundations for a better future for Palestinians, Israelis and the broader region. Israelis, Palestinians, the States of the region and the broader international community must urgently take steps that will enable the parties to re-engage on the long-delayed political path to achieving a two-State solution. In its resolution 2735 \(2024\), the Security Council stressed the importance of unifying the Gaza Strip with the West Bank under the Palestinian Authority. The United Nations will continue to support all such efforts.

88. I remain committed to supporting Palestinians and Israelis in ending the occupation and resolving the conflict in line with international law, relevant United Nations resolutions and bilateral agreements in pursuit of the vision of two States – Israel and a fully independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State, of which Gaza is an integral part – living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders, on the basis of the pre-1967 lines, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.

89. I express my deep appreciation to my Special Coordinator, who is completing his assignment, and I thank him and his team for their outstanding service in what remains a deeply challenging context. I pay tribute to all United Nations personnel who have lost their lives in this conflict – the highest number in any conflict – and to all the United Nations personnel and heroic humanitarian aid workers who remain committed to their work despite the enormous danger to their health, well-being and lives.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representative of Israel to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in the meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and the previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Mr. Khaled Khiari, Assistant Secretary-General for Middle East, Asia and the Pacific, Departments of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs and Peace Operations; Ms. Shira Efron, Director of Research at the Israel Policy Forum; and Mr. Michael Levy, brother of Or Levy, who is being held hostage by Hamas.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I now give the floor to Mr. Khiari.

Mr. Khiari: Since the submission of the Secretary-General's written report on Security Council resolution 2334 (2016), hostilities and violence have continued throughout the occupied Palestinian territory. In the Gaza Strip, hostilities between Israel Defense Forces and Hamas and other armed Palestinian groups, including heavy Israeli bombardment throughout the Strip, have resulted in heavy casualties. In the occupied West Bank, high levels of violence persist amid ongoing Israeli operations, exchanges with armed Palestinians, settler-related violence and Palestinian attacks against Israel.

Among other deadly strikes in Gaza, on 14 and 15 December at least 69 Palestinians, including women and children, were reportedly killed in four Israeli strikes on schools sheltering internally displaced persons (IDPs) in Gaza City, Beit Hanoun and Khan Younis, including 20 killed in an air strike hitting a school of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Al-Mawasi, in Khan Younis. The Israel Defense Forces said they were targeting Hamas militants. More than 250 Palestinians were killed in such strikes in Gaza over the past week, according to the Gaza Ministry of Health.

The death toll of this war continues to mount. Since 7 October 2023, more than 45,000 Palestinians have been killed in Gaza, according to the Ministry of Health, and more than 1,700 Israelis and foreign nationals have been killed in attacks in, or originating from, Gaza, according to Israeli sources.

In the occupied West Bank, on 12 December, an Israeli boy was killed in a shooting attack on a bus near the Al-Khader junction in the occupied West Bank, south of Jerusalem. Israeli authorities said that the Palestinian perpetrator later turned himself in. On the same day, Israeli forces reportedly killed a Palestinian man in an exchange of fire in the Balata refugee camp, near Nablus.

Serious clashes have also taken place between Palestinian armed groups in the occupied West Bank and Palestinian security forces since the written report, particularly in the Jenin camp, following the Palestinian arrest operation and the seizure of Palestinian Authority vehicles by militants. Over several days, Palestinian security forces have killed an unarmed 19-year-old and detained numerous Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad militants, while the clashes have caused significant damage to the camp.

I will now highlight some of the Secretary-General's observations regarding the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016).

"I once again strongly condemn the horrific attacks by Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in Israel on 7 October 2023 and the continued holding of more than 100 hostages in Gaza. Nothing can justify those acts of terror. All remaining hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. I remain appalled by the fact that there are reasonable grounds to believe that hostages may be subject to ongoing sexual violence and abuse. While in captivity, hostages must be treated humanely and allowed to receive visits and assistance from the Red Cross. I reiterate that there is no justification for the deliberate killing, maiming, torture and abduction of civilians and other protected persons, or for the use of sexual violence against them. The use of human shields and the firing of indiscriminate rockets towards Israeli population centres are violations of international humanitarian law and must cease.

“Turning to the situation in Gaza, a ceasefire is long overdue. The continued collective punishment of the Palestinian people is unjustifiable. The relentless bombardment of Gaza by Israeli forces, the large number of civilian casualties, the blanket destruction of Palestinian neighbourhoods and the worsening humanitarian situation are horrific. The widespread devastation and deprivation resulting from Israel’s military operations in north Gaza, especially around Jabaliya, Beit Lahya and Beit Hanoun, are making the conditions of life untenable for the Palestinian population there. I condemn Israel’s use of explosive weapons with wide-area effects in densely populated areas, which has caused massive casualties and damage to residential buildings, schools, hospitals, mosques and United Nations premises. United Nations premises are inviolable at all times.

“I reiterate my unequivocal condemnation of the widespread killing and injuring of civilians in Gaza, including women and children, and the deprivation of essentials to survive. I am concerned over what may amount to violations of international humanitarian law in the conduct of hostilities, including non-compliance with the principles of distinction, proportionality and precautions, in attacks and against the effect of attacks. International humanitarian law always applies to all parties to a conflict, and its application does not depend on reciprocity. The protection of civilians is paramount. There must be full accountability for any atrocity crimes that have been committed.

“I mourn the United Nations personnel killed in Gaza and strongly condemn the killing of all health and humanitarian personnel and journalists. I also condemn the looting of aid in the context of a breakdown of law and order. That is unacceptable and must stop immediately. I reiterate my call for the full investigation of all such incidents and for accountability for any violation of international law.

“Owing to continued restrictions imposed by Israel, looting by armed Palestinians and overall insecurity, supplies have entered Gaza at levels that are inadequate to meet the overwhelming needs of the population, including large numbers of IDPs living in extremely overcrowded conditions. To address the needs, the United Nations and its partners urgently require the predictable entry and unimpeded movement of food, shelter materials, medicine and fuel and the capacity to repair essential, life-saving infrastructure, including the healthcare system. Noting its opening of additional entry points for humanitarian aid, I call upon Israel to fulfil its obligation as the occupying Power under international law, including allowing and facilitating the rapid and unimpeded passage of humanitarian relief for civilians in need into and throughout Gaza, and to create the conditions that will permit the return of Palestinians to their homes.

“I note the relative success of the polio vaccination campaign. While falling short of our targets in the north of Gaza, the use of tactical pauses and examples of functioning coordination with Israel demonstrated what is possible and achievable.

“I reiterate my call for an immediate humanitarian ceasefire and the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages in Gaza. The United Nations is continuously engaged with all stakeholders towards those objectives and stands ready to support the implementation of an agreement. I welcome the continued efforts, including by Egypt, Qatar and the United States, to overcome the significant obstacles and reach a deal.

“I remain deeply alarmed by the relentless Israeli settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, which is fuelling tensions, impeding access by Palestinians to their land and threatening the viability of a future independent, democratic, contiguous and sovereign Palestinian State. I reiterate that all Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, have no legal validity and are in flagrant violation of international law and United Nations resolutions. I am deeply concerned that, over the past year, the Government of Israel has continued to systematically promote policies that have strengthened the involvement of civilian officials in control over the occupied West Bank, including transferring some security functions to civilian control, while some Government officials call for the annexation of areas in the occupied West Bank. I urge the Government of Israel to cease all settlement activities immediately.

“In that regard, I note the recent findings by the International Court of Justice in its advisory opinion of 19 July 2024 (see A/78/968), which declared, inter alia, that Israel’s continued presence in the occupied Palestinian territory is unlawful and must end as rapidly as possible.

“The demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures, including internationally funded humanitarian projects, as well as structures related to income generation and the provision of essential services, entail numerous violations of international law and raise concerns about the risk of forcible transfer. I once again call upon the Government of Israel to end that practice and to prevent the displacement of Palestinians, in accordance with its international obligations under international law, and to approve plans to allow Palestinians to build legally and address their development needs.

“The escalating violence and tensions in the occupied West Bank are highly concerning and could trigger a broader explosion. Intensified operations by Israeli forces, increased settler violence and attacks against Israelis have also exacerbated tensions and led to exceedingly high levels of casualties, detentions and destruction. I am alarmed by the lethal attacks carried out by Israeli settlers against Palestinians, including sometimes in the proximity and with the support of Israeli security forces, and by Palestinians against Israelis. All perpetrators of attacks must be held accountable.

“I reiterate that Israeli security forces in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, must exercise maximum restraint and use lethal force only when it is strictly unavoidable to protect life. I call on Israel to abide by its obligations under international law and to ensure thorough, independent and prompt investigations into all instances of possible excessive use of force, while holding those responsible to account.

“I am particularly appalled that children continue to be victims of violence on all sides. I am also concerned that Palestinian children continue to be arrested in large numbers and held for prolonged periods of time, including in administrative detention. I reiterate my call for Israel to use detention as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period, to prevent all forms of ill-treatment in detention and to end the administrative detention of children, who are entitled to special protections.

“I am disturbed at the numerous instances during the reporting period in which officials glorified violence and engaged in dangerous provocations, incitement and inflammatory language, which will lead only to greater polarization and risks further bloodshed. Leaders have an obligation to clearly and explicitly condemn acts of terror and violence directed against civilians. The incitement to violence must stop immediately.

“I reiterate my call to the parties for the status quo at the holy sites in Jerusalem to be respected and upheld, taking into account the special and historic role of the Kingdom of Jordan as custodian of the holy sites in Jerusalem.

“I am deeply concerned by the adoption by the Knesset of Israel of two laws concerning the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). Those laws, if implemented, could prevent UNRWA from continuing its essential work in the occupied Palestinian territory, which would have devastating consequences for Palestine refugees, considering that there is no viable alternative to UNRWA that could adequately meet their needs. I again urge Israel to act consistently with its obligation under the Charter of the United Nations and its other obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law, and those concerning the privileges and immunities of the United Nations. National legislation cannot alter those obligations.”

It is vital that the international community provide immediate support to the Palestinian Government to address its fiscal challenges, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to reassume its responsibilities in Gaza. We must establish political and security frameworks that can address the humanitarian catastrophe, start early recovery, rebuild Gaza and lay the groundwork for a political process to end the occupation and establish a viable two-State solution as soon as possible. It is vital that those frameworks facilitate a legitimate Palestinian Government that can reunify Gaza and the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, politically, economically and administratively, while reversing the steadily deteriorating dynamics throughout the occupied Palestinian territory. Any attempt to establish settlements in Gaza must be firmly rejected. There must be no attempt to reduce or annex the territory of Gaza in whole or in part.

The devastation and misery of the past year have reinforced once again the simple truth — Palestinians and Israelis can no longer wait to establish a viable political horizon. Now is the time to lay the foundations for a better future for Palestinians, Israelis and the broader region. Israelis, Palestinians, the States of the region and the broader international community must urgently take steps that will enable the parties to re-engage on the long-delayed political path to achieving a two-State solution.

The United Nations remains committed to supporting Palestinians and Israelis in ending the occupation and resolving the conflict in line with international law, relevant United Nations resolutions and bilateral agreements in pursuit of the vision of two States — Israel and an independent, democratic, contiguous, viable and sovereign Palestinian State, of which Gaza is an integral part, living side by side in peace and security within secure and recognized borders on the basis of the pre-1967 lines, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States.

The President: I thank Mr. Khiari for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Ms. Efron.

Ms. Efron: I would like to thank you, Madam President, and the members of the Security Council, for the invitation to brief the Council today. It is truly an honour.

Especially at the United Nations, the birthplace of the plan to partition Mandate Palestine into two States, one Jewish and one Arab, it is pertinent to acknowledge that the Israeli-Palestinian conflict remains a tragedy today for both Jews and Arabs. At the same time, it is also crucial to recognize, as the General Assembly did back then, that practical solutions exist and should be pursued.

As an Israeli Jew, I speak from my lived reality. The trauma in Israel is palpable, with society still frozen in the horror of 7 October 2023, the deadliest day for Jews since the Holocaust. On that day, Hamas and Islamic Jihad terrorists murdered more than 1,200 Israelis and nationals of other countries, abducted 251 people and committed atrocities, including large-scale sexual violence. Today, 439 days later, 100 people, including a soon-to-be 2-year-old toddler and an 86-year-old grandfather, remain in captivity in Gaza, while their families, as members of the Council will hear in just a few minutes, endure daily torment. We are all praying for their immediate release. Border communities bear the scars of destruction and displacement. Israelis continue to face insecurity, with ongoing bombardments from multiple fronts and terror attacks on our streets.

In Gaza, the devastation is unimaginable, with countless lives lost and families shattered, including those of my dear friends, Khalil and Ahmed, homes reduced to rubble and populations struggling for survival, with scarce basic necessities such as food, water and healthcare. The West Bank, meanwhile, is gripped by rising violence and economic hardship.

For both societies, the wounds of this war are deep and will take years to heal. Yet even now, steps can be taken to halt the suffering and begin charting a path towards stability and hope for both Israelis and Palestinians. The collective challenge before us as Israelis, Palestinians, countries of the Middle East and the international community is to seize this moment of profound tragedy and turn it into a bold diplomatic process that leads to peace, security and prosperity for people across the region.

While international actors frequently invoke the language of a two-State solution with goodwill and intent, reliance on mere sloganeering and rhetoric has done little to build trust or address the structural dynamics of the conflict. And while we at the Israel Policy Forum also view the two-State option as the only viable framework that acknowledges the legitimate national aspirations of both sides and as the only way to guarantee the future that Israel's founders envisioned — a Jewish, democratic and secure State of Israel — we realize that the two-State reality will remain only a vision unless we change our approach. What is needed now is a coherent, inclusive and actionable strategy that moves beyond rigid thinking so that we can end the war, stabilize Gaza and shift trends in the West Bank — from creeping annexation to peaceful separation. Regional actors should leverage the potential for normalization with Israel to empower pragmatic actors while countering spoilers. This moment demands a shift from platitudes to planning, with a coordinated road map that addresses security and governance, delivers tangible short-term wins and lays the foundation for our shared long-term vision.

Nowhere is that more apparent than in the discussions about “the day after” in Gaza. As we anxiously hold our breath for a hostage and ceasefire agreement, there is still no shared coherent plan for post-war Gaza. The international community sees basically one viable path out of this morass: establishing a transitional non-Hamas Palestinian administration in Gaza, with the aim of eventually restoring full Palestinian Authority governance once it is reformed and strengthened. Clearly, without a green light from the Palestinian Authority, regional and other international partners will not commit to Gaza’s recovery. However, mostly for political reasons, whether we like it or not, the Israeli Government has until now vetoed the involvement by the Palestinian Authority, thereby exacerbating the risk of either the full Israeli occupation of Gaza or Hamas resurgence, or both. Notably, in this Chamber, it is important to acknowledge that, despite extreme voices, most Israelis do not want to control the Palestinians in perpetuity, but they are scared and see no plausible alternative.

To soften Israeli resistance, there is a need for a gradual, benchmark-driven approach, with assurances, that capitalizes on success stories, even if those are small. The existing Palestinian Authority capacity in Gaza can — and should — be mobilized for humanitarian efforts, for example, by relying on former security personnel and senior representatives in key government positions, including in the monetary and water authorities, with whom Israel already interacts today. Involving the Palestinian Authority and ensuring the capacity to succeed would also help alleviate fiscal and economic pressures in the West Bank, which is a deep concern for the Israeli security establishment. It would also incentivize sustained and more strategic donor engagement and enlist regional Middle East partners in restoring public order in Gaza’s chaos.

Furthermore, consent for a meaningful Palestinian Authority role in Gaza should be explicitly leveraged to propel genuine Palestinian Authority reforms with clear objectives, a defined road map and key performance indicators. The Palestinian Authority should demonstrate that it can really be part of the solution by reforming the so-called prisoner and martyr payment systems, creating a conducive environment for the private sector, strengthening judicial independence, reorganizing the security sector, addressing incitement, undertaking educational reform and working towards a credible election horizon that allows for the political participation of next-generation leadership. Without such reforms, speaking realistically, Israel will continue to withhold tax revenues from the Palestinian Authority, United States restrictions on aid will remain and States in the region will be hesitant to invest in the Palestinian economy and infrastructure, which will further deepen the Palestinian Authority’s fiscal crisis and legitimacy crisis and jeopardize stability both in the West Bank and Gaza.

For its own long-term interests and to enable the Palestinian Authority to succeed, Israel must also take critical steps to shift its policy in Gaza and the West Bank. That includes easing financial pressures on the Palestinian Authority, allowing it the operational space to effectively govern and secure the territory under its jurisdiction, freezing settlement expansions in areas that undermine territorial separation — and in those only — and taking decisive action to stop settler violence. United States leadership, security guarantees and Arab-Israeli normalization can — and should — play a key role in driving those measures forward.

There are no quick fixes to those long-standing issues, unfortunately, and the situation on the ground cannot wait for all our clocks to synchronize. Yet Israel and the international community should identify and amplify positive signals, such as Israel’s decision to extend indemnification for correspondent banking between Israel and the West Bank, as well as the current efforts of the Palestinian security forces to regain control of the refugee camp in the town of Jenin. Importantly, that initiative, alongside ongoing security cooperation and coordination between Israel and the Palestinians, even in the past 15 months, is the result of a long-term strategic international investment in the Office of the United States Security Coordinator. Building on such success stories is essential to both strengthen and improve the Palestinian Authority’s capacity, while simultaneously alleviating Israel’s legitimate security concerns.

So much depends on Israelis, Palestinians and the support of Member States, and especially of the United States leadership. But the United Nations as an institution has an integral role to play as well.

Effective United Nations capacity is necessary for the humanitarian response, recovery and reconstruction, stabilization and for assisting the Palestinian State in the making — in deeds, not only in words. Internally, that requires tight coordination across United Nations agencies and among the leadership, together with streamlined funding and operational mechanisms and the strategic flexibility needed to step back from overly rigid approaches when pragmatism is needed. At the same time, the United Nations and Israel must repair their fractured relationship, which has reached an unprecedented low. Both sides have legitimate grievances, but there is too much at stake to allow them to get in the way of efficient and forward-looking cooperation that is in both their interests.

I would like to speak about the Israeli perspective. There is a long-standing sense of bias at the United Nations, compounded by what Israel sees as an insufficient reaction to 7 October and its aftermath, as well as the evidence that personnel of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East have ties to Hamas. That trust deficit has real policy shortcomings — that is, the possibility of losing all support in and leverage with Israel. Israelis need to hear an unequivocal United Nations condemnation of Hamas and its actions. And like the Palestinians, Israelis also need an international reaffirmation of the right of the Jewish people to self-determination in a State of their own and acknowledgement of the Jewish connection to the land of Israel. Neither side will be partners in a political process, which we both need, if that process denies the legitimacy of those rights.

In conclusion, just as it did when it adopted the partition plan in 1947 (General Assembly resolution 181 (II)), the United Nations has an important role to play in helping Israelis and Palestinians move beyond what has been the darkest period in their shared history. That can happen by zooming in on what is possible and achievable rather than what is perfect, and by focusing on the solutions rather than getting stuck on the problems.

The President: I thank Ms. Efron for her briefing.

I now give the floor to Mr. Levy.

Mr. Levy: Today I stand before the Security Council not just as Michael Levy but as a brother, a son, a human being — and as someone whose life has been shattered by unimaginable loss and despair. My brother, Or Levy, is one of the 100 innocent hostages currently held by Hamas in Gaza. For 439 days, Or has been missing from our family — 439 days of fear, anguish and an unbearable silence that echoes louder than any words ever could.

On 7 October, Or and his wife Eynav went to a music festival, seeking a brief moment of joy. They arrived just nine minutes before all hell broke loose. Missiles flew over their heads, and they had to run to a nearby shelter, thinking they would be safe. From the shelter Or called my mother, repeating the terrifying words, “Mom, you do not want to know what is going on here.” That was the last time we heard his voice. Ten minutes later, Hamas terrorists stormed the shelter. They threw grenades, sprayed bullets, murdered Eynav and kidnapped Or into the tunnels of Gaza. The last image we have of him is heartbreaking. He is covered in his wife’s blood, shocked and terrified.

Or is more than just a number. He is a real human being. He is father to an amazing three-year-old son named Almog, who lost his mother in the horrendous terror attack of 7 October and is now essentially orphaned. That baby had to celebrate his third birthday without his parents. Members should try to imagine their own children celebrating their birthdays without their parents and going through life’s milestones without them. They should imagine not knowing whether their child is okay and who is taking care of him. Almog keeps asking about his mom and dad, and even when we try to explain, he does not understand why he cannot see his dad and what it means when we say that his mom will never come back. That baby still has a father — a father who can come back to him. I am asking Council members to make sure that he does not become an orphan. They have the power to save his father.

For 439 days, I have woken up every morning with a pit in my stomach, wondering where my brother is, wondering if he is cold, if he is hungry and if he has managed to survive another day. Every moment that he remains in captivity is a moment of unbearable suffering for him and for all of us who love him. I am here today to remind the Council — and the world — of its duty. Not just as diplomats, but as people, as mothers, fathers, siblings and friends. Because this is not merely a political issue. It is a human and a moral issue. I want to ask all the members of the Council what they would do if that was their child, their brother or their loved one.

Hamas's actions are not just a blatant violation of international law but an assault on humanity itself. Holding civilians hostage — men, women and children — is a violation of the principles that this very Council was created to protect. Yet the silence of Council members is deafening and their inaction is suffocating. For every day that the Council fails to act, the message to the world is clear — some lives are worth saving and others are not. But I refuse to accept that message. I refuse to accept a world in which my brother's life can be used as a bargaining chip and be forgotten. And I refuse to believe that the Council, which was created to uphold the highest ideals of humankind, will turn its back on those who need it most.

This is the moment for the Security Council to act, to lead, to show the world that it has the courage to stand for what is right and to send a resounding message that terror will never prevail. I am asking members to prove that international law means something, and that human rights are not just words but principles that they will fight to protect. I call on the Council to demand the release of Or and of all the hostages. Those 100 lives are not just numbers. They are fathers, mothers, daughters, sons, brothers and sisters. They are people with families waiting desperately to hold them again.

I want to express my deepest gratitude to the American nation and all the other nations that have supported our campaign by standing with us in this dark hour. Their unwavering belief in freedom and justice is a beacon of hope for families like mine that are desperate for a lifeline. I want to say to President-elect Trump and President Biden that we place our deepest hopes and faith in them that they will bring this tragedy to an end. Their decisive leadership has already brought light to a situation that feels so hopeless. We believe in their strength, leadership and commitment to justice to help bring our loved ones back home.

I want to finish on a personal note. Today is my birthday — the second birthday I am celebrating without my baby brother. I am not asking for presents, celebrations or even a cake. My only birthday wish is sitting in a Hamas tunnel, waiting to be brought back to his son. Bring my brother home. Bring them all home.

The President: I thank Mr. Levy for his briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mr. George (Sierra Leone): I would like to thank Assistant-Secretary-General Khaled Khiari for his important briefing on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016), and Ms. Shira Efron of the Israel Policy Forum and Mr. Michael Levy for their perspectives on the situation in the occupied Palestine territory.

We acknowledge the Secretary-General's report and regret that the reporting period was marked by continued hostilities between Israel and Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups in the Gaza Strip. That contravenes the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016) that call for immediate steps to prevent all acts of violence against civilians, including acts of terror and acts of destruction. As reported by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, an estimated 26,000 of the wounded civilians in the Gaza Strip have suffered injuries that could lead to lifetime deformity and disabilities, especially among children. We note with concern that the highest number of child amputees per capita in the world has been recorded in the Gaza Strip. In the same vein, we also recall that Hamas and other Palestinian armed groups have continued to hold the remaining hostages since 7 October 2023 without granting the necessary access or providing updates on their well-being.

In resolution 2334 (2016), Israel, the occupying Power, is reminded of its legal obligations and responsibilities under the Fourth Geneva Convention relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, of 12 August 1949. However, the past 14 months in the Gaza Strip have presented compelling evidence that does not align with the provisions of the resolution. That is reflected in the current death toll estimated in the range of more than 45,000 and the number of those wounded estimated at 106,000, with 70 per cent of such casualties being women and children. The civilian population has been trapped in a deep humanitarian crisis, at a scale and magnitude far beyond human comprehension. Those statistics bring into question our conscience and collective responsibility to advance a durable peace and save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, as stipulated in the Charter of the United Nations. As families and communities are displaced due to the widespread destruction of their homes and critical infrastructure, the already vulnerable population in the north and elsewhere in Gaza have been exposed to extreme weather conditions this winter.

What the Palestinians are currently experiencing represents a disruption of their livelihoods, social networks and overall well-being. The alarming rate of violence in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, in the context of Israel's operations, armed exchanges between Palestinians, including armed groups, Israeli security forces and settlers, often leading to access restrictions, forced displacement and demolitions, contravenes Council resolutions and the International Court of Justice advisory opinion of 19 July on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968). All those actions on the ground seem to be counterproductive to the search for lasting peace in the Middle East. We are encouraged, however, by the increased political momentum in support of addressing some of the critical issues surrounding the Middle East peace process and the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016).

With that in mind, Sierra Leone welcomes the observations highlighted in the Secretary-General's report and would like to reiterate the following.

First of all, we condemn the continuous killing and injury of civilians and the never-ending cycle of violence. To end that situation, we demand an immediate and unconditional ceasefire, respect for international humanitarian law and the implementation of Security Council and General Assembly resolutions, including the most recent General Assembly resolution ES-10/26. We also call for the unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas. We further reiterate our support for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and its pivotal role in supporting the Palestinians. We express concern that any action to undermine its operations will be detrimental for Palestinian refugees in particular — not only in Gaza but across other areas of operations. We welcome the various initiatives of the international community, including the diplomatic efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States, as well as the launch of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution.

Sierra Leone recalls the International Court of Justice advisory opinion of 19 July and calls on Israel to immediately and completely stop all settlement activities in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, as they present an obstacle to peace and threaten the physical viability and delivery of a two-State solution. We further caution against any action that may threaten the economic, political and administrative status of Palestine. We reject the escalation of violence in the occupied West Bank and call on Israelis and Palestinians to desist from all acts of incitement, inflammatory language and provocations that may fuel tensions.

In conclusion, we urge the parties to recommit to a constructive dialogue embedded in the principle of the two-State solution and to address the legitimate aspirations and concerns of both sides.

Mrs. Frazier (Malta): I begin by thanking Assistant Secretary-General Khiari, Ms. Efron and Mr. Levy for their briefings.

Today we meet to discuss the latest report of the Secretary-General on resolution 2334 (2016). That resolution underscores that Israeli settlements in Palestinian territory are in violation of international law and represent a significant obstacle to peace and the two-State solution. That position was further supported by the International Court of Justice advisory opinion of 19 July on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968), which called for the cessation of such activities. The international community's position is evident. On 18 September, the General Assembly adopted, with broad support, resolution ES-10/24 urging Israel to bring to an end its presence in the occupied Palestinian territory without delay.

Despite those clear calls and legal obligations, Israel remains present within the occupied Palestinian territory, which constitutes a clear obstacle to justice for the Palestinian people. We have not failed to note during the past two years the statements and actions that appear to have as an objective the potential annexation of significant areas of the West Bank, including measures to construct new illegal settlements, efforts to use the legal system to legitimize illegal outposts and programmes transferring administrative powers relating to land and settlements from military to Israeli civilian control. Those measures are inconsistent with international law and hinder ongoing efforts to achieve lasting peace.

At the same time, the unacceptable situation in Gaza has been exacerbated by the obstruction of humanitarian aid and disruptions in aid delivery, as well as the breakdown of security. The northern Gaza Strip remains under effective siege. As we come to the end of our term on the Council, we will continue to articulate our clear stance on this crisis. We need an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire across Gaza and the broader region. It is equally crucial that this be accompanied with unhindered and sustained humanitarian access to deliver aid at the scale required to address the population's critical needs.

We also reiterate our condemnation of the horrific 7 October 2023 attacks and maintain our call for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. Equally concerning is the rapid and steady degradation of the situation in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. We are deeply concerned about the continued expansion of settlements, settler violence and the dispossession and transfer of Palestinian communities. Recent escalations have seen a significant rise in demolitions and evictions, particularly targeting Palestinian homes and infrastructure. In addition, settler attacks on Palestinian civilians, often carried out with impunity, have intensified, with reports of coordinated incidents in vulnerable communities. Such violence is compounded by measures restricting Palestinians' movement, severely affecting access to basic services, education and livelihoods. Illegal settlements, settler violence and the presence of the settlers themselves remain among the root causes of most of the human rights violations in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. And on top of being subjected to violent raids, women also face extremely limited access to maternal and reproductive healthcare, compounded by mental-health challenges. Such actions risk entrenching the occupation and further diminishing the prospects for a two-State solution. We call on Israel to reverse those measures and to uphold its commitments under international law.

Inflammatory rhetoric on the future of the West Bank and the status quo of the holy sites must be avoided. The international community has a responsibility to promote accountability for violations of international law and to advance measures that foster peace and justice in the region. That requires addressing the root causes of the conflict and supporting mechanisms that ensure accountability.

In conclusion, the international community must unite behind an irreversible realization of a two-State solution, in line with the relevant Security Council resolutions and internationally agreed parameters. That should put an end to the illegal occupation and ensure the equal fulfilment both of Palestinians' aspirations for statehood and Israel's security requirements. Hand in hand with that, we must see an increase in the international community's support to a revitalized and economically sustainable Palestinian Authority, as the sole representative of the Palestinian people. The Authority's commitment both to reform and to maintaining stability in the West Bank, particularly in refugee camps, should be sustained. It is the only way to bring about a lasting end to the unprecedented suffering and to ensure a just peace in the region.

Mr. Sangjin Kim (Republic of Korea): I would like to thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari and Ms. Efron for their briefings. I also thank Mr. Levy in particular for his touching testimony.

The region has been experiencing its darkest moment for more than 14 months, not only in Israel and Palestine but in Lebanon, Syria, Yemen and beyond. The vicious cycle of spillover has been engulfing the entire region with endless violence and instability. We are now witnessing, with both hope and concern, some positive regional developments, including the recent ceasefire across the Blue Line and the political transition in Syria. However, the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory is showing no signs of change.

The Republic of Korea remains committed to its principled call for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza, along with the release of all hostages. Only that can save innocent lives, ensure the delivery of humanitarian aid and create the conditions for the reconstruction of a completely flattened Gaza. We therefore appreciate the unceasing efforts by the mediators and sincerely hope that the recently resumed negotiations can soon lead to valuable outcomes that will stop the horror. But we must be clear that a ceasefire in Gaza will not be the end but should serve as a true starting point for a better future for both Palestinians and Israelis. It is deeply concerning, however, that in recent years the world has been witnessing a negative trend that is hampering the vision of a two-State solution. As the Secretary-General mentions in his report, for the past two years Israel has advanced, approved or tendered more than 38,000 housing units in settlements in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Those settlements will add tens of thousands of Israeli settlers to the area.

Resolution 2334 (2016) affirms that the establishment of settlements has no legal validity and constitutes a flagrant violation under international law.

The Israeli settlements are also a violation of article 49 of the Fourth Geneva Convention, which provides that the occupying Power shall not deport or transfer its own civilian population into the occupied territory. Another alarming aspect is that Israeli settlements, coupled with impunity, are laying the groundwork for settler-related violence directed at Palestinian civilians. We are deeply troubled by the ongoing settler violence, including the September attacks on a Palestinian primary school near Jericho, as well as numerous incidents targeting the olive harvest, a key source of income for Palestinians. Israel's settlement activities, coupled with the persistent confiscation of Palestinian lands, are also displacing Palestinians from their land. It is alarming that Israel's routine demolitions of Palestinian homes are accelerating that displacement. The settlement-induced fragmentation of the occupied Palestinian territory is also obstructing the free movement of Palestinians, another violation of fundamental human rights. Checkpoints, closures and curfews compound those daily indignities.

The most troubling aspect of all is that the Israeli settlement activities represent the major obstacle to the achievement of a negotiated two-State solution, as they are slicing the territories controlled by the Palestinian Authority into numerous non-contiguous pieces of land. The Republic of Korea firmly believes that a two-State solution is the only viable path to a just, lasting and comprehensive peace. The status quo one-State reality cannot be a substitute for that enduring aspiration. We once again stress our call that Israel should cease all its settlement activities.

In order to contribute to international efforts to reinvigorate the concept of a two-State solution, the Republic of Korea participated in the two rounds of meetings of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution. As was reiterated at those meetings, the Republic of Korea will maintain its support for all relevant efforts, including its steadfast support for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and a reformed Palestinian Authority. We hope that Israel will act more reasonably in responding to the calls of the international community and supporting the work of the United Nations agencies.

As we head towards the end-of-year holiday season, we hope for a 2025 that can bring a better future based on peace and coexistence, not only in Israel and Palestine but in the wider region as well. We hope that the ceasefire in Lebanon, albeit fragile, will be the beginning of the end for the widespread violence in the region.

Mr. Fernandes (Mozambique): We commend the United States presidency for convening today's meeting addressing the ongoing situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question. We thank Mr. Khaled Khiari, Assistant Secretary-General, for his comprehensive briefing on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). We are also grateful to the civil society briefers for the information they provided on the matter.

Mozambique is deeply concerned by the persistent violations of resolution 2334 (2016). The continued demolition and seizure of Palestinian-owned structures in the occupied West Bank, as documented in the report of the Secretary-General, represents a significant impediment to peace and stability. The ongoing hostilities between Israel and Hamas in Gaza have resulted in a devastating humanitarian crisis. The loss of thousands of lives, extensive civilian displacement and the systematic destruction of critical infrastructure have aggravated the already dire humanitarian situation faced by Palestinian communities. Such actions — including the expansion of settlements, acts of terror and violence against innocent people and the destruction of private infrastructure — constitute blatant violations of international law. Those developments have systematically undermined international efforts to de-escalate tensions and pursue a comprehensive resolution of the Middle East conflict. We therefore call on all parties to immediately cease those destructive actions and create meaningful opportunities for constructive dialogue and the peaceful resolution of the protracted conflict. We further call on the parties to refrain from the rhetoric of incitement to violence, inflammatory provocations, hate speech and other provocative actions that will only fuel the conflict.

In conclusion, we call for an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire in Gaza, the release of hostages and the establishment of an unimpeded flow of humanitarian aid, in line with resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024). We reaffirm our unwavering commitment to the two-State solution — a vision predicated on the establishment of two independent, sovereign States of Israel and Palestine, coexisting harmoniously, side by side, and each enjoying full membership in the United Nations.

Mr. Kariuki (United Kingdom): I thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari and Ms. Efron for your briefing. I also thank Mr. Levy for sharing his brother's story with us. The suffering that Mr. Levy and his family have been through is unimaginable.

Let me state, at the outset, that the United Kingdom stands with Mr. Levy and with all those families of hostages seeking desperately to bring their loved ones home. We reiterate our condemnation of the abhorrent Hamas attacks of 7 October 2023 and the kidnapping of more than 250 hostages, including Emily Damari and three hostages with links to the United Kingdom. The hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally.

Let me make three additional points.

First, the worsening humanitarian situation in Gaza is appalling. More than 45,000 Palestinians have died since 7 October 2023. The past two months were the worst for aid since October 2023. The United Nations has reported a shocking increase in cases of acute malnutrition in children, and that Gaza now has the highest number of child amputees per capita in the world. The United Kingdom continues to urge Israel to do much more to protect civilians and civilian infrastructure and to abide by its international obligations. That includes facilitating rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian aid and basic services to the Palestinian people. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) plays a crucial role in delivering that life-saving aid. On 11 December, my Prime Minister committed an additional $16.5 million to UNRWA to support vital services for Palestinian refugees in the occupied Palestinian territories and the wider region, bringing the United Kingdom's support to UNRWA to $52m since April of this year.

Secondly, northern Gaza must not be cut off from the south. The United Kingdom is clear: there must be no forcible transfer of Gazans from or within Gaza. There must be no reduction of the territory of the Gaza Strip. Israel's expansion of military infrastructure and the destruction of civilian buildings and agricultural land across the Strip is unacceptable.

Thirdly, the United Kingdom calls on Israel to stop settlement expansion on Palestinian land, which is illegal under international law, and to hold violent settlers to account. Continued instability and settler violence in the West Bank should not be tolerated by Israel and the culture of impunity must end. It does nothing to bring about peace and security for Palestinians or Israelis. We also note the decision of the Government of Israel to extend correspondent banking relations for 12 months and continue to urge Israel to remove its restrictions on clearance revenues.

The fall of Al-Assad and the ceasefire in Lebanon offer a moment of hope for the people of the region. We must now use that momentum to deliver the long-sought-after ceasefire, secure the immediate release of all hostages and put an end to the humanitarian crisis and suffering in Gaza.

Mr. Montalvo Sosa (Ecuador) (spoke in Spanish): I thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his report and reiterate my country's support for the work of the United Nations and all its agencies. I also thank Ms. Efron and Mr. Levy for their statements.

The first meeting on this issue in which Ecuador participated as an elected member of the Security Council was held on 5 January 2023 (see S/PV.9236). On that day, my country stated that remembering the history of the issue was essential to preventing the reoccurrence of acts that had already caused violence, destruction and death in Israel and Palestine in the past. Since then, Ecuador has repeatedly called on the parties to refrain from acts of provocation and incitement, avoid acts of violence and terrorism, halt the expansion of settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory, control settler violence, respect the status quo of the holy sites in Jerusalem and comply with the relevant Council resolutions. Although those calls have not been heeded, we reiterate them today, for they are as valid now as they were then — because if those calls been followed, the situation today would be different.

On Sunday, 8 October 2023, the Council held emergency consultations. On that occasion, my country expressed its strongest and unequivocal condemnation of the terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas the previous day and demanded that the hostages be released immediately and unconditionally. Since then, we have consistently reiterated that there is no possible justification for attacking innocent civilians and that such appalling acts are the immediate cause of the war raging in Gaza to this day. On the same occasion, Ecuador pointed out that Hamas' terrorist attacks do not represent the Palestinian people, or their inalienable right to self-determination, or their legitimate aspirations to live in security, freedom, justice, opportunity and dignity.

There were warnings that such a grave escalation of the conflict would lead to the deaths of innocent civilians, including women and children; that violence would lead to more violence; and that the already precarious humanitarian situation of the civilian population would be aggravated, making the events of 7 October all the more incomprehensible. It was stressed that the principles of international humanitarian law must be respected at all times, that it was necessary to avoid affecting the civilian population, that the right to self-defence was not a carte blanche for revenge and that it was necessary to break the vicious circle that had led to the current situation. On that 8 October, my delegation said that “Ecuador will support from the Council any measure or initiative that encourages the parties to stop the violence and to resume those negotiations”.

Today, at the final meeting scheduled on this subject during our current term, I can say that Ecuador has fulfilled its commitment. My country has influenced and voted in favour of all the initiatives that have pursued those objectives — those vetoed by some, those vetoed by others and the four that were adopted and that must be upheld. Today Ecuador once again calls for the immediate implementation of those four adopted resolutions, namely, resolutions 2712 (2023), 2720 (2023), 2728 (2024) and 2735 (2024). An immediate ceasefire, the immediate release of all hostages and the entry and distribution of sufficient and timely humanitarian aid into Gaza cannot be postponed.

I have said it many times before, and I say it again for the final time from this seat: this conflict will not be resolved by force. Nearly eight decades of unsuccessful attempts to do so should suffice. The only way out is to move towards a negotiated, peaceful, definitive and just solution for the parties, with the existence of two States, Palestine and Israel, on the basis of the 1967 borders and the relevant resolutions. That will require political will, courage and long-term vision on the part of decision makers. My country hopes that one day in the not-too-distant future, with good faith, those qualities will prevail and that both peoples will finally live in peace, dignity and security, each recognizing in the other human beings with rights and aspirations as valuable as their own.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his briefing and Ms. Efron and Mr. Levy for the perspectives they shared.

Guyana notes with concern that no steps were taken by Israel to comply with the provisions of resolution 2334 (2016) since the Secretary-General’s most recent report on the implementation of that resolution (S/2024/480). That ongoing stance of non-compliance is even more concerning, considering that the International Court of Justice has established that the Israeli settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem are in violation of international law. The Court further established that Israel has an obligation to immediately cease all new settlement activities and to evacuate settlers from the occupied territories. Despite those clear legal provisions, however, Israel continues to violate international law through both its policies and its practices regarding settlement activities in the occupied Palestinian territory. In that context, the Secretary-General’s report sets out very clearly the violence and other human rights abuses that are the hallmark of Israeli settlement activity in the occupied Palestinian territory. Guyana therefore reiterates its call on Israel to strictly abide by its legal obligation as an occupying Power to safeguard the rights and interests of the Palestinian people.

Guyana has taken note of the impact of Israel’s settlement policies and practices on Palestinians in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem. We note, for example, the increasing number of fatal incidents, and we are alarmed that most Palestinians were killed by Israeli security forces in the context of Israeli operations. We have also taken note of the continuing incidence of displacement of Palestinians in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, attributed to demolitions and other illegal activities by Israelis. It is unjust that Palestinians — even when they are engaged in routine activities, such as picking olives from their olive groves — are forced to live with the constant threat of violence and even death by the Israeli security forces and Israeli settlers. Guyana deplores those acts in the strongest terms and underlines Israel’s legal and moral obligation to desist.

The Secretary-General’s account of the situation in Gaza remains a point of deep concern for Guyana, as it does for the international community. According to Gaza’s Health Ministry, the death toll has surpassed 45,000. That is shocking in any context and would elicit urgent and strong measures from the Council, were we to act solely based on our mandate under the Charter of the United Nations. It is deeply lamentable that the Council has been unable to achieve consensus to act for the Palestinian people, while hundreds of thousands of innocent civilians are killed, disabled, displaced, orphaned, widowed and starved, among other violations whose depth and scale no report can perhaps adequately capture. What would it take to stop this seemingly unending suffering and killing of civilians? The answer is clear: strong political will that translates into action to end the impunity with which the rights of the Palestinian people have been violated for all these decades.

We urgently need a political horizon to move us beyond the status quo. We already have the relevant frameworks established by the resolutions adopted both by the General Assembly and the Council. The international community must work unceasingly to unclench the fist that holds Palestinian self-determination in its grip — a state of affairs that has persisted since the birth of the United Nations. That continues to be manifested in cycles of violence meted out against the Palestinian people with impunity and in the denial of their requests for full membership in the United Nations, for recognition and to chart their own political path, among others. In all of that, the two-State solution continues to be effectively undermined. We cannot allow that to continue. The Council and the entire United Nations membership must continue to spare no effort to achieve a two-State solution.

I conclude by highlighting four points.

First, we need an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire in Gaza. We have seen media reports about a potential deal between Israel and Hamas, and we urge the parties to prioritize the lives of civilians and to cease the hostilities. We also reiterate our demand for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages.

Secondly, Israel cannot continue to turn a blind eye to its international obligations concerning the Palestinian people. The illegal settlement activities must end, and Israel must repatriate all settlers from the occupied Palestinian territories. Additionally, Member States must uphold their obligation to distinguish, in their dealings, between the State of Israel proper and Israeli settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory.

Thirdly, the Council must unite as one and uphold its Charter mandate. We must achieve consensus to end the impunity with which Israel has continued to violate all of the United Nations resolutions on the question of Palestine.

Finally, we must deliver peace for the Palestinian people. That entails support for establishing strong governance by Palestinians for Palestinians, even as we take decisive measures to bring the Israeli occupation to an end. Peace must also entail a resolution of all final status issues, including the refugee question. On that latter note, Guyana reiterates its strong support for the mandate of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, noting that unless the refugees are able to exercise their right of return, that mandate cannot be unilaterally brought to an end by Israel or any other party.

Guyana commits to continue its strong engagement on the question of Palestine with a view to contributing to a just and lasting solution for peace in Palestine and Israel and in the Middle East.

Mr. Dharmadhikari (France) (spoke in French): I would first like to thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his briefing and Ms. Efron and Mr. Levy for their testimonies.

The Security Council must respond to the acceleration of Israeli settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem to ensure the implementation of its own resolutions on the subject, including resolution 2334 (2016). France's position is well known and consistent. Colonization runs counter to international law, and we condemn it. The International Court of Justice stated in its advisory opinion of 19 July (see A/78/968) that Israel has an obligation to end its presence in the occupied Palestinian territory as soon as possible. France will never recognize the illegal annexation of territory or the legalization of illegal colonies. We have been implementing the policy of differentiation set out in resolution 2334 (2016), which aims to establish the legal distinction between the internationally recognized territory of Israel and the occupied areas.

The settlement policy is a major obstacle to a just and lasting peace based on a two-State solution. It is also a factor in the tension and violence on the ground. In that regard, the policy of terror being carried out by some Israeli settlers against the Palestinian population in the occupied territory must end. As the occupying Power, Israel has a responsibility to take the necessary measures to protect Palestinian civilians without delay. In East Jerusalem, the historic status quo regarding the holy sites must be maintained. In the Gaza Strip, the war must stop. The suffering of civilians must end. France calls for an immediate and permanent ceasefire.

Our position on another important issue is also unambiguous. All the hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. France supports the efforts of Egypt, the United States and Qatar to achieve that. We once again condemn the barbaric terrorist attacks perpetrated by Hamas and other terrorist groups on 7 October 2023, and the Council must also be able to condemn them unambiguously. The humanitarian situation in Gaza is catastrophic. We must ensure full and unhindered humanitarian access into and within the Gaza Strip. The population must be rescued. At the humanitarian conference held in Cairo on 2 December, our Minister for Europe and Foreign Affairs announced new humanitarian aid of €50 million, including €20 million for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East.

The Council has a responsibility to lay the foundations for a political settlement. As we know, that involves the implementation of a two-State solution. France reaffirms its unwavering commitment to Israel's security and to building a viable, sovereign and contiguous State for the Palestinians. We call for the establishment of a reformed Palestinian Authority, capable of exercising its responsibilities over the entire Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip. Only a two-State solution will make it possible to meet the legitimate aspirations of Israelis and Palestinians for peace and security. It is in that spirit that France will co-chair an international conference next June, alongside Saudi Arabia, on the implementation of a two-State solution. The Council must act to respond to the urgency of the situation and finally put together a political solution. The United Nations should play a central role in that regard.

Mrs. Blokar Drobič (Slovenia): I would like to start by thanking Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his briefing and Ms. Efron and Mr. Levy for their testimonies.

As always, today's meeting is a sobering reminder that peace in the Middle East will remain elusive without an investment of staggering effort. The region is shaking, and the tremors are affecting the lives of individuals on a daily basis, with no end in sight. In Gaza, strikes have continued, including on densely populated areas, as well as displacement and widespread destruction, in complete violation of international humanitarian law. They are coupled with extreme hunger, disease, severe restrictions on humanitarian assistance and attacks on and the looting of humanitarian convoys and humanitarian actors. International humanitarian law is clear regarding the rapid and unhindered delivery of aid. The suffering of civilians is intensifying, including for the hostages still held in Gaza. All of that is further exacerbated by a complete absence of law and order. We repeat that only a ceasefire can pave the way for peace.

In the occupied West Bank, the advancement of new housing units is appalling, and we emphasize our long-standing position on the illegality of settlements, which are a violation of international law. Once again we underline, in line with the International Court of Justice advisory opinion (see A/78/968), that the occupation must end. The downward spiral in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, must end. That includes the demolitions and seizures of property. We deplore the intensification of settler-related violence and of killings and injuries, including during operations, demonstrations, clashes, air strikes and other incidents.

We share the concerns about the large number of Palestinians, including children, detained by Israeli forces and in administrative detention. Numerous reports of torture and other forms of ill-treatment, including sexual violence, are profoundly distressing. Independent monitoring bodies' access to detention facilities must be ensured. We are also very concerned about the deep crisis affecting the Palestinian economy, prolonging and worsening the humanitarian needs of the Palestinian people. We support the efforts to address the Palestinian Government's fiscal challenges, strengthen its governance capacity and prepare it to resume its responsibilities in Gaza.

Slovenia will continue to support the efforts and the role of the United Nations. We praise the work of United Nations personnel on the ground, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), to address the suffering of civilians. We repeat our call on the Israeli Government not to implement laws concerning UNRWA. The Agency contributes to the broader efforts to achieve a two-State solution, which is the only just and sustainable path to peace and security for both Palestinians and Israelis. We admire the dedication of the United Nations representatives, and in that regard I would like to take this opportunity to thank Special Coordinator Wennesland for his work.

Mrs. Baeriswyl (Switzerland) (spoke in French): I too would like to thank Assistant Secretary-General Khaled Khiari for his presentation. We listened attentively to Ms. Efron's presentation and Mr. Levy's poignant story. Since 7 October 2023, Switzerland has strongly condemned the acts of terror and hostage-taking by Hamas and other affiliated groups in Israel.

I would like to raise one of the issues that has deeply concerned Switzerland throughout its term on the Security Council — the protection of civilians, and in particular humanitarian personnel. Switzerland is shocked by the facts reported on that topic, among others, in the Secretary-General's most recent report on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). According to the report, Israeli air strikes killed several humanitarian workers on 30 November, including a Save the Children employee and three World Central Kitchen employees. Those victims were added to the list of more than 330 humanitarians killed, the vast majority of them employees of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA).

Since 7 October 2023 tens of thousands of civilians have been killed, including in the past few weeks. Switzerland condemns all attacks on civilians in the strongest possible terms. Respect for the principles of distinction, proportionality and precaution in the conduct of hostilities are obligations under international humanitarian law. In resolution 2730 (2024), drafted by Switzerland, and in the proposal for its implementation put forward by the Secretary-General and recently endorsed by 115 Member States, the Security Council reaffirmed the obligation to protect personnel and assets involved in humanitarian operations. That protection is even more crucial in the light of the catastrophic humanitarian situation in Gaza. In particular, the civilian population is exposed to the risk of starvation. The use of starvation as a method of warfare constitutes a war crime under the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court.

Switzerland will continue to call for an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire, and for the immediate and unconditional release of the hostages. In that connection, we commend the mediation efforts under way. We note the obligation of strict compliance with international humanitarian law, including the rapid, safe and unimpeded delivery of humanitarian aid to all those in need in Gaza.

Those same demands were endorsed by an overwhelming majority of Member States in the General Assembly at the most recent meeting of the emergency special session on 11 December (see A/ES-10/PV.59). This attests to a shared determination to put an end to this war and its appalling human toll. It is also a reminder of the central role currently played by UNRWA — whose mandate has been conferred by the General Assembly since 1949 — as the main humanitarian actor in the Gaza Strip, providing State-like basic services throughout the occupied Palestinian territory and as an important bulwark against further destabilization of the region.

Switzerland supports the 19 July advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice (see A/78/968), to which it contributed. There is no doubt about the illegality of the continuous Israeli occupation of the Palestinian territory since 1967. The occupation must end as soon as possible.

We deeply regret the lack of implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) and of the four resolutions adopted by the Council since the acts of terror of 7 October 2023. Throughout the world, failure to comply with the Council's decisions is synonymous with obstacles to peace, suffering for populations and failed peace processes. A case in point is the situation in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, where violence is at an all-time high, as a result of settler attacks and operations by Israeli security forces.

Switzerland is also concerned about the violence in connection to the presence of armed groups, particularly in Jenin. It reiterates its call on all parties to respect their obligations under international law. Operations carried out in the West Bank must meet the criteria of necessity and proportionality and respect the right of every individual to life and security of person. All those responsible for violence against civilians and the deliberate destruction of civilian property and infrastructure must be brought to justice.

Switzerland condemns the announcements by Israeli leaders, as recounted in the Secretary-General's report, to expand settlements, illegal under international law, in the occupied Palestinian territories. Such announcements are likely to further fuel the spiral of violence and are clear obstacles to peace.

Allow me to conclude by reiterating Switzerland's full support for the two-State solution, which is the only possible option for Israelis and Palestinians to live side by side in peace, security and dignity, within secure and recognized borders, in accordance with international law and internationally agreed parameters.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his detailed briefing on the situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. We listened attentively to Ms. Shira Efron and Mr. Michael Levy.

We express our sympathy to Mr. Levy and his family, as well as to all the families of those held hostage by Hamas and other Palestinian groups. We hope for their speedy release. To our great regret, all efforts by the Security Council to establish a ceasefire and release the hostages have been blocked by the United States, which has used its veto six times since 7 October last year so that the Israeli military operation in Gaza could continue. As a result, the lives of the hostages continue to be in danger. As we understand it, only a third of the initially captured Israelis are now on the lists discussed by the negotiators. We wish that Mr. Levy will eventually be reunited with his brother. As for the Council's silence and alleged unwillingness to condemn the Hamas action, the Security Council was ready to do so on 18 October 2023, but our American colleagues vetoed the corresponding draft resolution (see S/PV.9442), which they do not like to be reminded about.

As Mr. Khiari's statement makes clear, resolution 2334 (2016) is not being implemented. The Israelis continue to push ahead with plans to build new settlements in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Under the false pretext of lack of building permits, Palestinian homes are being systematically destroyed. This is the height of cynicism, where Palestinians who cannot afford to pay expensive fees to the Israelis are then compelled to demolish their homes with their own hands. This is a mockery of human dignity.

The ongoing illegal construction and expansion of Israeli settlements in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, undermines the negotiated solution to one of the final-status issues, namely, territory and borders. This is in violation of Security Council and the General Assembly decisions, including General Assembly resolution ES-10/24, adopted in September by the tenth emergency special session of the General Assembly, in support of the second advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968).

Against that backdrop, statements by Israeli officials about the forcible change of the demographic composition of Gaza in order to recolonize the enclave are particularly alarming. We are outraged by the Knesset's adoption of a law on deporting the families of terrorists, which gives Israel the right to send to Gaza those Palestinians who did not inform the Israeli security forces about the criminal plans of their relatives. Any Palestinian who is considered suspicious by the Israelis can end up in Gaza, where he will be doomed to die from hunger or bombing. Those are the laws being adopted in the country that claims to be the only democracy in the Middle East.

We consider such steps unacceptable, as are public appeals by some members of the Netanyahu Government to annex the West Bank. We categorically reject the policy of creating facts on the ground. In any event, the Israeli occupation of Palestinian territory is illegal from the point of view of international law, and there is no justification for it. We call on West Jerusalem to immediately begin implementing resolution 2334 (2016) and to cease all settlement activity.

Today many people spoke about the ongoing violence in the occupied Palestinian territories and cited horrifying statistics. Since the beginning of the escalation in Gaza, 45,000 Palestinians have already been killed, and that is only the confirmed deaths, most of whom were women and children. Against the backdrop of those horrifying figures, the West Bank statistics are somewhat overshadowed. But 736 Palestinians were killed there from October 2023 to 31 October 2024, and this is without an official military operation. The life of Palestinians in the West Bank is essentially unbearable.

The Secretary-General's report provides a vivid illustration of the senseless and relentless violence by Israeli settlers. On 5 October, a group of 40 Israelis armed with rifles, clubs, crowbars and pepper spray went on a hunt for olive pickers. The attackers beat 25 Palestinians, broke their limbs and cracked their skulls. Among the victims were a child, a disabled person, a woman and an elderly person. After that, the settlers threw out the entire harvest. What did the Israeli police officers who arrived at the scene do? Their role, after all, is to maintain law and order in a lawful State, according to the Israeli authorities. They dispersed the Palestinians using stun grenades. This attitude towards Palestinians as second-class citizens is unacceptable, and the international community must insist on ending this monstrous policy of West Jerusalem.

The situation in the West Bank cannot be viewed in isolation from the broader context of the escalation in Gaza. These events have been ongoing for more than a year. Members of the Security Council have repeatedly put forward draft resolutions demanding an unconditional ceasefire in Gaza as a first step to stabilizing the situation in the occupied Palestinian territories. Unfortunately, the United States, as we have already said, has consistently vetoed those documents, stating that no one should impose a peaceful solution on Israel.

We are not questioning whether Israel is a sovereign State or its right to ensure its own security. However, we are concerned that Israel invokes that right not only to justify counter-terrorism action on its territory but also to impose a collective punishment of the Palestinian people in Gaza and the West Bank, bombard Lebanon and Syria and occupy Syrian territory. It seems that Israeli authorities believe that in order to fully ensure their defence they need to create a barren wasteland around Israel, and that that wasteland should be targeted by Israeli tanks, drones and fighter jets. And engaging in negotiations with the Palestinians, Lebanese and Syrians is something that West Jerusalem is planning to do only from a position of force and intimidation, expecting that Washington will always cover for it and provide it with the necessary diplomatic and military support. But that is not the way to resolve conflicts — that is how to deepen them. If people are pushed into a situation in which they have nothing to lose, then we should not be surprised that radical ideas have become so popular. Neither should we be surprised that there is currently a freeze in the process of normalizing relations between the actors in the region and Israel amid the bloodshed in Gaza.

Instead of looking for solutions to existing problems, West Jerusalem is creating new ones. The entry into force early next year of the Knesset bills banning the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) from operating in Israel will mean the termination of the functions and the dismantling of a key agency that provides assistance to the Palestinians — and for which there is no alternative. Not only does such a step directly violate the Charter of the United Nations, the resolutions of the General Assembly on UNRWA's mandate and international law but it also paves the way for removing the refugee issue as one of the final-status issues, together with the borders, water resources and Jerusalem. Israel's actions in Gaza in recent months do not make us hopeful that Israel, as the occupying Power, will take over all UNRWA's functions.

We believe that there is an alternative to what is happening in the occupied Palestinian territories. That alternative is in the will of the international community, which manifested itself at the most recent meeting of the tenth emergency special session of the General Assembly, when the overwhelming majority of Member States adopted resolutions ES-10/25, in support of the UNRWA mandate, and ES-10/26, demanding a ceasefire in Gaza.

Russia's principled position on a Middle East settlement concurs with the will of the international community. We call for an unconditional ceasefire, unimpeded humanitarian access, the release of all hostages and forcibly detained persons and the relaunch of the peace process on an internationally agreed legal basis. Only by taking those actions will it be possible to achieve a lasting peace between the Palestinians and the Israelis and remove the current source of destabilization for the entire region.

Mr. Yamazaki (Japan): I thank Assistant-Secretary-General Khiari and Ms. Efron for their informative briefings. I am also deeply grateful to Mr. Levy for his brave testimony. I express our great sorrow at the harrowing experiences he and his family have endured. Let me reiterate Japan's strong condemnation of the brutal acts of terror by Hamas and others and its demand for the immediate and unconditional release of all the hostages.

The Middle East is at a crucial turning point. While the situation in the region remains fragile, recent events have offered a ray of hope for peace. In Lebanon, Israel and Lebanon agreed to a ceasefire. Japan welcomes that achievement and commends the mediation efforts of the United States and France. All the parties should take all measures to fully implement that ceasefire agreement and bring about stability. In Syria, the Al-Assad regime has fallen. We need to follow that situation with caution, as it could be the start of a spiral of social unrest. Nevertheless, Japan strongly hopes that historic event will lead to fundamental and positive developments inside and outside the country. The future of Syria — a future that has significant ramifications for the entire region — must be determined by the Syrian people themselves. Japan is committed to fully supporting an inclusive and peaceful Syrian-led and Syrian-owned political transition process leading to lasting peace and stability.

We hope that the evolving circumstances will help to realize a breakthrough in the devastating conflict in Gaza, where many hostages continue to be held and the military operations of the Israel Defense Forces remain active. The enormous number of casualties of innocent Palestinians and severe damage to the civilian infrastructure in Gaza are totally unacceptable. The persisting humanitarian catastrophe is also intolerable. Israel's response to the situation appears inconsistent with its obligations under international humanitarian law. A ceasefire in Gaza and the release of hostages are long overdue. The dramatic expansion of humanitarian aid delivery is urgently needed. And for that purpose, we need the continued presence of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). At the same time, UNRWA should take steps to ensure its neutrality. That is why last week Japan voted in favour of General Assembly resolutions ES-10/25 and resolution ES-10/26, which received the support of more than 150 countries. We urge all the parties, including Israel, to listen to the voices of the international community.

A negotiated settlement between the parties is also key to making a real difference on the ground. In that regard, Japan is encouraged by the reports of a resumption of the ceasefire talks and the seemingly forward-looking progress. We support the tireless efforts of the mediators. Both parties should seize the opportunity to finally conclude an agreement. But a ceasefire, even if it materializes, does not mark the end of the tragedy. Tremendous challenges lie ahead to rebuild Gaza and provide for the well-being of the people living there. As a country that has experienced destruction and restoration after the Second World War and many natural disasters, Japan stands ready to meaningfully contribute to the early recovery and reconstruction of Gaza.

Ultimately, the only viable way out of this conflict is the peaceful co-existence of Israel and Palestine.

Japan remains steadfastly committed to that vision. We oppose Israel's illegal settlement activities and any attempts to annex the West Bank. Those would undermine the viability of a two-State solution and must stop immediately. We will also spare no effort to revitalize the Palestinian Authority financially and politically, both here at the United Nations and through our own initiatives, even after our current term on the Security Council is over.

Mr. Bendjama (Algeria): We thank Mr. Khiari for his comprehensive briefing and we take note of the statements of the civil society representatives.

We extend our gratitude to the Secretary-General for his sobering report on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016). It is a report filled with anguish and despair for the Palestinian people — a stark testament to the ongoing impunity with which the Israeli occupying Power disregards international law. It also reflects the paralysis of the international community in the face of such blatant and systematic violations. That report is yet another painful reminder of our collective failure to uphold the rights and dignity of the Palestinian people.

In Gaza, people are not living; they are simply waiting to die. As the Secretary-General himself recalled, “the catastrophe in Gaza is nothing short of a complete breakdown of our common humanity”. The death toll now exceeds 45,000. Of those, 70 per cent are women and children, and more than 107,000 others are injured. Entire neighbourhoods in Gaza have been demolished. Violence, disease and starvation are omnipresent threats today. The humanitarian aid remains highly inadequate to the immense needs of the population. Quite simply, Gaza has turned into a graveyard for the living. As if those miserable conditions were not enough, the Israeli occupying army systematically hunts Palestinian civilians from one shelter to another. On 15 December, just three days ago, four schools sheltering displaced families were bombed, killing at least 50 people. For those who have questioned the gravity of the violations of international humanitarian law under Israeli occupation, the facts presented in the Secretary-General's report leave no room for ambiguity or doubt. Objective observers will reach the conclusion that Israel is committing genocide in Gaza. That is meticulously documented by Amnesty International in a recent report, pertinently titled 'You Feel Like You Are Subhuman': Israel's Genocide Against Palestinians in Gaza.

What will the international community do in the face of that genocide? Will it continue to perpetuate impunity and immunity? Will it continue to obstruct international justice? Will it continue to deprive Palestinians of their fundamental rights? Is it not time for justice and accountability? For us, stopping this ethnic cleansing is a moral and legal duty. A ceasefire in Gaza is long overdue. We deeply regret the Council's inability to demand an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire. The Security Council could have acted decisively to fulfil its responsibility to maintain international peace and security. We cannot continue to look away.

The situation in the West Bank, including in Al-Quds Al-Sharif, is equally alarming. The Security Council, the General Assembly and the International Court of Justice have reaffirmed that Israel's settlements and associated practices constitute flagrant violations of international law. Yet the settlement activity continues unabated. Plans for more than 13,000 housing units have been advanced in 2024 alone. Meanwhile, the houses of Palestinians are being destroyed. Palestinians are living in terror of violence from settlers emboldened by the protection of the occupying authorities. While we acknowledge the very light sanctions that some countries have imposed on a few settlers, the Council cannot remain silent.

Furthermore, the daily killing of Palestinians, including women and children, underscores the relentless violence that they are enduring. On average, one Palestinian child is killed every two days in the West Bank — a chilling reminder of the human toll of the Israeli occupation. Moreover, the Palestinian national project is now facing yet another threat, that of annexation. We strongly condemn the statements by several Israeli officials calling for the annexation of the West Bank, which is a clear violation of international law and jeopardizes any prospects for peace. It undermines the efforts aimed at establishing a State of Palestine. The Council must stand resolutely against those plans.

We reiterate our strong condemnation of the decisions that the Israeli authorities have enacted aimed at halting the activities of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in the occupied Palestinian territory. If implemented, those measures will deny Palestinians any access at all to the life-saving services that UNRWA provides. I want to make it clear that UNRWA is irreplaceable. It operates based on a mandate from the General Assembly, and it reflects the collective will of the international community. Any attempt to undermine it is an affront to the international community as a whole. We must all work together to preserve UNRWA and ensure that it can continue its critical work.

In conclusion, the developments in Gaza, the West Bank and the broader region offer a stark reflection of the true intentions of the Israeli occupying Power. Nevertheless, while the situation is dire it is not irreversible. The Council must rise to the moment, uphold international law and ensure accountability for violations of international humanitarian law. We owe it to the Palestinian people to translate our words into meaningful and decisive action so as to bring hope where there is despair.

As President Abdelmadjid Tebboune of Algeria has said, stability and security in the Middle East are closely linked to the resolution of the Palestinian issue, which requires an end to the occupation and a restoration of the Palestinian people's inalienable rights. The establishment of a sovereign Palestinian State, with Al-Quds Al-Sharif as its capital, is not merely a legitimate aspiration of the Palestinian people but the cornerstone of achieving lasting peace in the whole Middle East.

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari and the civil society briefers for their briefings.

Last Wednesday, the General Assembly adopted resolutions ES-10/25 and ES-10/26 by an overwhelming majority at its tenth emergency special session, demanding an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire in Gaza, the removal of obstacles to humanitarian access and the guarantee that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) would be able to carry out its duties. Regrettably, in the week since then, hundreds more innocent Palestinian lives have been lost to Israeli bombardment in Gaza. Currently, more than 2 million people are still languishing amid war, hunger, disease and the cold, looking to the international community for the dawn of peace in Gaza.

The Security Council has made great efforts to end the hostilities and ease the disastrous situation. However, due to the repeated obstructions of a permanent member, the Council's responses on the Palestinian-Israeli question have failed the international community profoundly. We have noted the relevant country's claim that a ceasefire agreement is about to be achieved, but the attacks on Gaza and its bombardment have not stopped and innocent lives continue to be lost. China supports the Council in using all options in its toolbox and taking all necessary actions to end the conflict in Gaza. We urge the country concerned to refrain from blocking Council actions. At the same time, China urges Israel to heed the strong calls of the international community, immediately cease military operations in Gaza, fulfil its obligations under international humanitarian law, lift the blockade on Gaza and restrictions on humanitarian access, stop actions that stifle UNRWA and other humanitarian institutions and provide security guarantees for humanitarian operations throughout Gaza.

As many national representatives noted in their statements at the tenth emergency special session of the General Assembly on the Palestinian question, piecemeal crisis management alone will not prevent a relapse into a vicious cycle of conflict and turmoil. Only a comprehensive, just and lasting solution to the question of Palestine can usher in a genuine and lasting peace between Palestine and Israel and start a new chapter of peace and stability in the Middle East. China believes that we must stay committed to the two-State solution, which is the only viable way to resolve the Palestinian question. The international community should stop Israel's barbaric expansion of illegal settlements in the West Bank and reject any dangerous attempts to annex the West Bank. Gaza is an inseparable and important part of Palestine. Its future arrangements should be predicated on Israel's withdrawal of forces and should be decided by the Palestinian people through autonomous consultation.

The illegal occupation must end. History clearly demonstrates that a prolonged occupation will only be a hindrance to the Palestinian people's national self-determination and give Israel the power to single-handedly deny them statehood. It will breed only more hatred and antagonism, sowing the seeds of instability in the Middle East. The Israeli occupation is a violation of Security Council and General Assembly resolutions and international law. Israel must fulfil its international obligations to immediately end the illegal occupation. An independent Palestinian State must be established. While the Jewish nation has long since had an independent State, the Palestinian people's right to statehood, survival and return has long been ignored.

Only when the two States of Palestine and Israel live in peace as neighbours can lasting peace be truly realized.

China supports the establishment of an independent and fully sovereign Palestinian State, on the basis of the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as the capital. We support the State of Palestine's full membership in the United Nations. Together with the international community, China stands ready to continue its efforts to help bring a swift end to the conflict, restore peace to the region and achieve a comprehensive, just and lasting solution to the Palestinian question.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of the United States of America.

I thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari for his briefing. I also wish to thank Ms. Efron for her briefing and her recommendations. I especially want to thank Michael Levy for sharing his anguish and frustration with the Security Council. We will continue our efforts to do everything possible to bring his brother Or home to his loving family.

The United States is committed to finalizing a ceasefire in Gaza, with a release of hostages that allows for a surge in humanitarian aid to Palestinian civilians — that is our north star. Despite progress coming in fits and starts and despite progress feeling at times frustratingly slow, there is still a reason for hope. Thanks to the ceasefire between Israel and Lebanon, Hamas is isolated. As we sit here, negotiators are in the region, working hard to close the remaining gaps between the parties. Now let me be clear. I am not starry-eyed — there are still difficult issues to resolve — but we cannot give up on diplomacy. We cannot give up on the 2 million Palestinians in Gaza who, for more than a year, have lived through hell. It is a hell that was ignited by Hamas when it attacked Israel on 7 October 2023. That was not an effort at peace, it was a declaration of war. And as we heard from Michael Levy, we cannot give up on the 100 plus remaining hostages, including seven Americans, or their families, who have also endured the unimaginable over these past 14 months.

Granting Hamas, a terrorist organization, its demand for an immediate, unconditional ceasefire offers no path to durable peace. It will not end the suffering or cycles of violence for Israelis and Palestinians. Instead, we must speak with one voice and demand that Hamas agree to release the hostages they are holding, so that we can implement the deal on the table to end the suffering of hostages from more than a dozen Member States and millions of Palestinian civilians in Gaza, and to put the parties back on a path towards the two-State solution.

It is also time for Israel and the United Nations to stop working against each other and instead take pragmatic steps to ensure that there is no interruption of humanitarian aid delivery to Palestinians in desperate need. We reiterate our concern that Israel must not in any way restrict the delivery of humanitarian assistance in Gaza, imposing obstacles that must be removed. Going forward, Israel must also ensure that the implementation of recent legislation does not further impede the delivery of humanitarian assistance and critical services, including by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), which remains a vital lifeline for Palestinians. It is equally vital that as the aid delivery architecture in Gaza evolves, the United Nations must work with all relevant parties and have a viable plan in place to facilitate aid deliveries.

The Secretary-General's recent letter regarding UNRWA and the future of aid delivery in Gaza suggests that the United Nations has not yet begun an earnest conversation with Israel regarding implementation of the legislation. Nor does it appear that the relevant United Nations agencies have had detailed conversations regarding the steps they could take to help ensure the continuity of United Nations aid deliveries to Gaza. With lives in the balance, that must change. The United Nations must demonstrate that it will continue to work to find a path to support the people of Gaza.

Cynicism will not end the horrific conflict, but bold leadership can offer the prospect of a durable peace, one in which Palestinians and Israelis live side by side with equal levels of dignity, security and opportunity. To put a finer point on it, a durable peace between Israelis and Palestinians will be achieved only through a negotiated two-State solution consistent with the relevant resolutions of the Security Council. There is no other path that guarantees that Palestinians can live with the freedom and dignity they deserve, and there is no other path that guarantees an enduring peace between Israel and its neighbours. That is a peace worth striving for, and one that the United States has worked tirelessly to advance, even in the darkest hours since 7 October.

Even as we work to surge relief into Gaza right now, we must therefore also think about a day after — one in which Gaza is reunited with the West Bank, under the control and governance of a revitalized and reformed Palestinian Authority. Economic security in the West Bank offers a foundation on which the parties can build. In that regard, we welcome the Israeli Government's recent decision to extend correspondent banking relationships between Israeli banks and their Palestinian counterparts for another year. It is a step in the right direction to help build trust and deepen economic links, but it is just a start. We need to see a resumption of the economic activities, including worker permits, that ground to a halt in the wake of 7 October.

We also remain deeply concerned about the fact that other Israeli actions in the West Bank are undercutting the Palestinian Authority's ability to meet the needs of the Palestinian people, and more broadly are dampening the prospects for a two-State solution. We reiterate our position that the advancement of Israeli settlements in the West Bank is an obstacle to the achievement of a two-State solution — the end result that we all want to see as we seek to bring the fighting in Gaza to a close. Yet this past year more settlement units were approved than in any other 12-month period in this decade. We reiterate our belief that Israel's programme of support for the expansion of settlements is inconsistent with international law and serves only to weaken Israeli security.

We also remain deeply concerned about the violence committed by extremist settlers in the West Bank. A disproportionate amount of that violence emanates from illegal outposts, several dozen of which have been established over the past year. To be clear, those outposts are illegal under Israeli law. The hundreds of violent attacks over the past year have forced Palestinians to abandon their homes and vacate more than a dozen of their villages. What is even more alarming is the fact that last year saw the highest number of Palestinians killed in the West Bank since the United Nations began collecting data in 2005. We condemn the attacks by extremist settlers in the strongest possible terms and reiterate that Israel must intervene and stop them — or better yet, prevent them from happening in the first place. To that end, we urge Israel to halt the efforts to legalize outposts in the West Bank and to do everything possible to de-escalate tensions and hold all perpetrators of violence accountable, regardless of the background of the perpetrators or the victims.

I first addressed the Council on this topic in March 2021 (see S/2021/302), during my first presidency. I had arrived at the Permanent Mission of the United States of America to the United Nations just a few weeks before, and I outlined three pillars of United States policy with respect to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The first was to sustain our ironclad commitment to Israel's security; the second was to help both Israelis and Palestinians take steps towards a two-State solution, ensuring Israel's future as a democratic and Jewish State, while upholding the Palestinian people's legitimate aspirations for a State of their own; and the third was to deliver aid to the Palestinian people. I said then, "Let us strive to achieve peace and prosperity for all."

So much has changed since that meeting nearly four years ago. So many lives have been shattered before and on 7 October, and in the months that have followed, as a result of the catastrophic conflict that Hamas instigated. But now, as in 2021, the United States remains committed to bringing that cycle to an end. And we will therefore continue to work tirelessly to advance diplomacy on the ground — for a ceasefire with the release of hostages, for a surge of aid in Gaza today and in the days after, for a reaffirmation of the dignity and security of Palestinians and Israelis alike and of opportunity for them both, for a two-State solution and a new day for the next generation. Let us strive to achieve that peace and prosperity for all.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

I give the floor to the observer of the Observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine): At the outset, allow me to thank the Council members who will be departing at the end of the year — Ecuador, Japan, Malta, Mozambique and Switzerland — for their tireless efforts to uphold international law, including by achieving a ceasefire, which is the necessary prerequisite for everything else that the Council has called for. I would also like to say that while we deplore the fact that the United States has resorted to the veto several times during the past year, I want to commend your personal engagement, Madam President, and your constructive approach, always seeking to move the needle in the right direction in ways that the wider public is unaware of. I would also like to thank the briefers, to whom we listened carefully, as well as the Secretary-General and his representative, Assistant Secretary-General Khiari, for the report on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) and for their diligent efforts.

Another year is ending, but the massacres have yet to end. Almost a year ago to the day, the Council adopted resolution 2720 (2023). Yet a year later, starvation and famine are still an integral part of the Israeli assault on our people. In Gaza, every Palestinian life has been either upended or completely ended. There have been more than 150,000 casualties; Palestinian children, women and men have been murdered, wounded and maimed by a ruthless Israeli military onslaught by air, land and sea that continues as we speak, claiming more lives every single day. More than 17,000 Palestinian children have been orphaned or separated from their parents. Our children now represent the largest cohort of child amputees per capita in the whole world. More than 12,000 Palestinians are detained. Many of them have been abducted, subjected to torture and sexual abuse and even killed. Thousands more civilians are unaccounted for, and those who survive face untold torment. Trauma, terror, destruction and devastation are inflicted on the Palestinian people, with no end in sight. It is a mass collective punishment unseen in our world in this century.

More than a year ago, and from this same Chamber, we called for a ceasefire that would allow Palestinian and Israeli families to be reunited in life, not death. We called for respect of civilian life — all civilian life, not preferring some over others. We warned of what would come if a ceasefire was not imposed (see S/PV.9489). And yet, only a few weeks ago, another draft resolution put forward by the 10 elected members of the Security Council and calling for an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire (S/2024/835), which enjoyed the support of 14 Security Council members, was vetoed by the United States (see S/PV.9790). The General Assembly, acting under the Uniting for Peace formula and taking action where the Council failed to, demanded that immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire.

And we call yet again on the Council if such a ceasefire does not come about in the coming days — and we hope it does — we ask the Council to act under Chapter VII to demand an immediate and unconditional ceasefire. That is the only way to bring to an end to the massacres, to secure the release of prisoners and hostages, to ensure humanitarian aid reaches all those in need, to end the forcible displacement of our people and the annexation of our land and to ensure the full withdrawal of Israeli occupation forces.

Eight years ago, the Council adopted the landmark resolution 2334 (2016) to put an end to the land grab and to pave the way to ending the Israeli occupation and achieving a just peace. But unfortunately and predictably, Israel persisted in pursuing its colonial agenda, flagrantly and wantonly breaching international law and United Nations resolutions. And the Council and all States are yet to adopt the measures that hold Israel accountable for its crimes, bring them to a halt and reverse its unlawful annexation of Palestinian land. Since the onset of the occupation, Israel has confined Palestinians in the occupied Palestinian territory to the areas already built up and inhabited — only 13 per cent of East Jerusalem and 40 per cent of the rest of the West Bank. The aim has always been to ensure that Israel could seize maximum Palestinian land with minimum Palestinians. But even that was not enough, and Israel decided to violently displace and replace our people, to forcibly displace Palestinian families and communities, to demolish their homes, to build settlements in the heart of our cities and in such a manner as to destroy the territorial integrity of our State and to fragment our people and our land.

The International Court of Justice has stated in no uncertain terms that

“The sustained abuse by Israel of its position as an occupying Power, through annexation and an assertion of permanent control over the Occupied Palestinian Territory and continued frustration of the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination, violates fundamental principles of international law and renders Israel’s presence in the Occupied Palestinian Territory unlawful.”
(A/78/968, para. 261)

The Court called for an end to Israel’s unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory as rapidly as possible and reminded all States and the United Nations of their obligations in that regard. Only resolute action and measures of accountability by the international community as a whole shall lead Israel to stop its methodical destruction of the Palestinian people, of the Palestinian State, of the two-State solution and of the prospects of peace in our region. In that regard, we await and expect in the coming days the report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of General Assembly resolutions ES-10/24 and ES-

10/26 to inform future action by the membership. We will study it thoroughly — we hope that Council members do so — and then we will decide on the next steps forward.

We welcome the launch of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution and the decision of the General Assembly to hold a high-level international conference in June 2025 — and I think my French colleague referred to it — on the implementation of the relevant United Nations resolutions pertaining to the peaceful settlement of the question of Palestine and the two-State solution. We call on all States to act without delay, in line with their obligations under the Charter and international law, to bring an end to Israel’s unlawful presence in the occupied Palestinian territory and to ensure the realization of the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people, including their right to self-determination and independence.

In parallel to its full-fledged assault against the Palestinian people, Israel is attacking all those trying to support Palestinian rights and to save Palestinian lives. We have seen it with the United Nations, and especially the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. And we welcome the overwhelming support of the General Assembly for the Agency in the face of relentless Israeli attacks. And we have seen it against international non-governmental organizations, most recently Amnesty International, following their report concluding that Israel is committing genocide in the Gaza Strip. And we have seen it against States — most recently, against Ireland. The Israeli Foreign Minister closed the Israeli Embassy in Dublin stating that “Ireland has crossed every red line”. Is that really the case? Therefore, Israel continues its genocide, starves and forcibly displaces a people, colonizes and annexes land, but it is Ireland that has crossed every red line for denouncing those crimes and insisting on respect for international law and human rights? That must be a joke. How much more absurd can the situation get? How much more indecent can Israeli officials get? Israel has now accused the United Nations, almost every State on Earth, the International Court of Justice, the International Criminal Court, the world’s most renowned non-governmental organizations and the public figures and moral voices of our time of antisemitism. Jews around the world cannot be held responsible for Israel’s actions, and neither can Israel speak in their name or use them as a shield to deflect the condemnation of its violations.

We reject the deliberate conflation between the actions of a State — I should say the crimes of a State — and those who belong to a given faith. We should all consider that as dangerous and a terrible disservice to the fight against antisemitism, and we must demand that it stop. Ireland and other countries around the world have shown that they will not be deterred or distracted by Israel's baseless attacks and smear campaigns. They will hold to their principled positions despite the bullying, threats and harassment. We salute all those who are standing up for freedom, justice and peace, many of them informed by their own histories and struggles and pushed to take action by their commitment to international law and human rights.

Those who think that they can end this conflict by taking more Palestinian lives and unlawfully colonizing more Palestinian land or that they can bypass or ignore the Palestinian question and somehow establish peace in our region are delusional. They are ignoring 77 years of history, which demonstrate that there is no way around the Palestinian issue and that there will be no peace in our region without the peaceful settlement of the question of Palestine.

We are out of time but we are not out of options. We are not powerless. Occupation, war and death are not our only horizon. But we must all take the required action to bring them to an end. There can be no more delays, no more excuses, no more half measures, no more strong speeches and weak actions. Actions speak louder than words. It is time to show resolve, be guided by moral clarity and lead by example. We call on all States to examine what more they can — and must — do to uphold international law and implement United Nations resolutions, and we tell them that they have a responsibility before history and humankind, for our people and for all peoples, to act now, so that freedom, justice and peace can prevail. They must act now to end the massacres and genocide in Gaza, end the ethnic cleansing and apartheid, end the illegal occupation, end the conflict and achieve peace.

We ask for nothing more than the rights that international law guarantees our people, but we also cannot accept anything less. The Palestinian people need the Security Council's continued support and solidarity, now more than ever. Please do not forsake them.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Danon (Israel): I would like to thank Assistant Secretary-General Khiari and Ms. Efron for their briefings. I would also like to thank the United States for allowing the voices of the hostages' families to finally be heard in the Security Council. I thank Mr. Levy for his brave and incredibly powerful briefing. We will do everything we can to bring his brother and all the hostages home. I must note my disgust at the fact that the representative of Algeria could not bring himself to acknowledge Mr. Levy and the pain he suffers every day because of Hamas, or even to mention the crimes of Hamas in Gaza.

As we reach the end of a very long year, I would like to ask the members of the Council to cast their minds back over the past 12 months, to the pain and suffering felt by so many people, including the families of the 100 hostages still held by Hamas and the sacrifices made to protect the innocent from terrorists. However, they have also been 12 months of immense transformation and ahead of us lies opportunity. In 2024, the Middle East has become virtually unrecognizable. We continue to dismantle Hamas and we continue to eliminate any threat that they might pose and rid Gaza of its terrorist oppressors. Moving north, Hizbullah, once Iran's most vicious and dangerous proxy, has been heavily degraded. Arch-terrorists — members will recall the names Yahya Sinwar, Mohammed Deif, Hassan Nasrallah, Ibrahim Aqil and dozens of others who have caused unimaginable suffering to millions of people, not only Israelis — have been eliminated. Now the Al-Assad regime, responsible for the deaths of hundreds of thousands of its own people, has crumbled to dust.

It is obvious to all that those are not isolated events. They are all connected and together they present an extraordinary opportunity for the Council and the world. The chance before us is clear: to finally end the Islamic regime of Iran's aspirations for a supremacist Shiite empire and liberate the world from a most corrupt, violent and destabilizing regime. Israel has acted decisively. We have struck the terror networks that once cast a shadow over our region. But the burden of securing peace does not rest solely on Israel's shoulders. Iran's provocations continue to escalate, with shameless threats about its nuclear ambitions. Its proxies in Lebanon, Yemen and Iraq remain active and deadly, spreading chaos far beyond the region. That is not a localized threat — the Islamic regime of Iran is a danger to the entire world.

The recent report of the International Atomic Energy Agency on Iran's nuclear progression (GOV.2024/61) and the recent letter from France, Germany and the United Kingdom (S/2024/862) highlighting Iran's "near-total non-compliance" were cries for immediate action. They wrote about a hypothetical future, but the danger is already here, looming on the horizon. The time to act is now. The Council must implement crushing sanctions to suffocate Iran's ability to fund its proxies. It must designate the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps — Iran's tentacle of terror — as a terrorist organization. Those steps are not optional. They are imperative. The Islamic regime thrives on inaction and indecision. If the Council fails — if it is silent instead of acting decisively — it will be complicit in enabling a campaign of terror.

Let me be unequivocal. Israel has no intention of occupying Syria or parts of Syria. We are not empire-builders. We are defenders. Defenders of our people, our borders and our right to live in peace. Our actions are limited and defensive.

We are now approaching the holiday of Hanukkah. It is a time for reflection and resilience and a time to draw lessons from history. Hanukkah tells the story of two miracles, the first of the oil that lasted for eight days in the temple, which was a divine act beyond human control. But the second miracle, the triumph of the Maccabees over the mighty Greek empire, was a testament to human courage, and to the will of a small but determined people who refuse to bow to tyranny. Just two weeks ago, we saw another cruel and evil regime overthrown by a determined population whom it had oppressed for decades. We all know what Al-Assad did to his people.

I now want to approach the brave and ancient people of Iran and to tell them not to miss this rare historic opportunity and to take action now. The people of Israel are standing by their side, and I want to say to them — in their own language — that we know the cost of freedom and the courage it demands. Their fight is not just for themselves, but for the millions of lives that their regime has destabilized and destroyed. They have in their hands the power to restore the beautiful Iranian nation and rebuild a land rich in history, culture and resilience.

As we reflect on the hope of Hanukkah, we must also confront the unfinished work before us. The scars of terrorism remain fresh. There are still 100 hostages held by Hamas in Gaza, enduring conditions that are beyond comprehension. As we speak, Israel is negotiating for their freedom. Hamas's crimes against humanity are despicable, and yet much of the world remains silent.

While we are dismantling Hamas's terror network, we are continuing our humanitarian efforts to ensure that assistance reaches those in need. Hundreds of trucks are entering Gaza on a daily basis, and the total aid amount has now reached 1.2 million tons. Just this past Saturday, we coordinated the entry of 5,000 litres of fuel for operating essential hospital systems. Alongside the fuel, we delivered hundreds of boxes of medical equipment and food. Additionally, 36 patients and caregivers were transferred to more stable hospitals in Gaza. Yet we also see what happened on the same day — as we delivered life-saving medical aid to Gazan civilians, Hamas terrorists fired rockets just 50 metres from an international aid warehouse. That is the reality we are facing. We will continue to do our work. We will continue to open new aid crossings and to facilitate aid with our international partners.

As we conclude this painful yet transformative year, Israel looks to the future. We are all intelligent enough to recognize that there are two sides at this table, and let us be honest about it — one side truly desires a constructive, meaningful and peaceful future. The other side, however, is using this conflict as a tool to promote its own agendas. Some are using it to distract from conflicts in their own corner of the world, while some are using it to sustain their failing organizations and others to serve their domestic political interests.

Ultimately, Israel will remain clear-eyed. We will bring back all of our hostages. We will continue to do what is necessary to see that peaceful, constructive future realized, regardless of the noise, the bias and the agendas that we see play out in this Chamber and beyond.

I am sure I speak on behalf of all members of the Council in expressing deep appreciation to Ambassador Linda Thomas-Greenfield and her team for the great diplomatic skill with which they conducted the Council's business last month.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representatives of Egypt and Israel to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in the meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and the previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Mr. Volker Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights; Dr. Rik Peepkorn, World Health Organization Representative for the West Bank and Gaza, and Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan, medical practitioner with the Medical Aid for Palestinians charity.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Mr. Türk.

Mr. Türk: A human rights catastrophe continues to unfold in Gaza before the eyes of the world. Israel's means and methods of warfare have killed tens of thousands of people, inflicted vast displacement and laid waste to the territory. That has raised the utmost concerns about compliance with international law.

A recent report by my Office, covering the period between 7 October 2023 and 30 June 2024, documents patterns of attacks on hospitals, which start with Israeli air strikes and are followed by raids by ground troops, the detention of some patients and staff, the forced removal of others and the withdrawal of troops, leaving the hospitals essentially non-functional. The report also details the killings of patients, staff and other civilians. Hamas and other armed groups continue to launch sporadic and indiscriminate attacks on Israel and, reportedly, to expose civilians and civilian infrastructure, including health facilities, to attack by operating among them, which is totally unacceptable.

The protection of hospitals during warfare is paramount and must be respected by all sides, at all times. The destruction of hospitals across Gaza goes beyond depriving Palestinians of their right to access adequate healthcare. Those hospitals provided sanctuary for thousands of people with nowhere else to go. The destruction wrought by the Israeli military's attacks last Friday on Kamal Adwan Hospital — the last functioning hospital in north Gaza — reflects the patterns of attacks documented in the report. Some staff and patients were forced from the hospital, while others, including the General Director, were detained, with many reports of torture and ill-treatment. The Israeli military announced the next day that its months-long operation in north Gaza was concluded with the separation of north Gaza from Gaza City. We are now seeing reports that parts of North Gaza have been almost completely emptied of Palestinians. We have repeatedly warned that Israel's military operations in north Gaza place the entire Palestinian population of the governorate at risk through death and displacement.

For months, we have reported intense bombardment on residential buildings, shelters and medical facilities, displacement orders, the prevention of the entry of aid and attacks on Palestinians trying to flee and on their shelters once they reached central Gaza. Across Gaza, Israeli military operations in and around hospitals and the associated combat have had a terrible impact precisely at a time of massive demands on healthcare due to the ongoing conflict. They have been particularly devastating for certain Palestinian civilians. Six babies have reportedly died of hypothermia in the past few days alone. Women, especially those who are pregnant, have suffered gravely. Many women have given birth with little or no support, entailing increased risks to both mother and child. My Office has been told that newborns have died as a direct result of that lack of care. According to the Ministry of Health of the State of Palestine, more than 100,000 Palestinians have been injured in Gaza. Many of those wounded people have died while awaiting treatment because of a lack of access to healthcare. All that is occurring against the backdrop of increased obstacles to the United Nations and other humanitarian agencies bringing aid, including urgent medical supplies, into Gaza and distributing it across the territory.

According to the Palestinian Ministry of Health, more than 1,050 medical professionals have been killed in Gaza. It is important to note that medical personnel are civilians who serve a critical function, particularly in wartime. They enjoy special protection under international law. A recent report by my Office documents at least 136 strikes on at least 27 hospitals and 12 other medical facilities in Gaza, which caused significant death and injury among doctors, nurses, medical staff and other civilians and damaged or destroyed many of the buildings targeted.

In the exceptional circumstances in which medical personnel, ambulances and hospitals lose their special protection and are considered military objectives, attacks on them must still comply with the fundamental principles of distinction, proportionality and precautions in attack. Military operations must always distinguish between military targets and civilians. The use of heavy weapons against hospitals is difficult to reconcile with that principle. Failure to respect those principles is a breach of international humanitarian law. Intentionally directing attacks against hospitals and places where the sick and wounded are treated, provided that they are not military objectives, is a war crime. Under certain circumstances, the deliberate destruction of healthcare facilities may amount to a form of collective punishment, which would also constitute a war crime. If committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack on the civilian population, such acts may also amount to crimes against humanity.

In most instances, Israel alleges that the hospitals were being improperly used for military purposes by Palestinian armed groups. I have, in fact, just received a letter from the Israeli Ambassador, asserting that Kamal Adwan Hospital was militarized by Hamas and that Israeli forces took extraordinary measures to protect civilian life while acting on credible intelligence. Yet Israel has not provided sufficient information to substantiate many of those claims, which are often vague and broad. In some cases, they appear to be contradicted by publicly available information. If verified, the allegations would raise serious concerns that Palestinian armed groups were using the presence of civilians intentionally to shield themselves from attack, which would also amount to a war crime. That is why I am calling for independent, thorough and transparent investigations into all Israeli attacks on hospitals, healthcare infrastructure and medical personnel, as well as into the alleged misuse of such facilities.

I once more warn in the strongest terms about the risk of atrocity crimes being committed in the occupied Palestinian territory. I urge all those with influence to take action accordingly and to protect civilians as a matter of absolute priority. It is essential that there be full accountability for all violations of international humanitarian and human rights law.

It is imperative that all parties do everything in their power to stop the fighting in Gaza so that a long-term ceasefire can take hold. All hostages must be released immediately and unconditionally. It is imperative that all those arbitrarily detained be released at once.

I call on Israel, as the occupying Power, to ensure and facilitate access to life-saving humanitarian aid, including adequate healthcare, for the Palestinian population. I urge Israel to end its continued presence in the occupied Palestinian territory as rapidly as possible, in line with the relevant United Nations resolutions, the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968) and wider international law.

I call for future recovery and reconstruction efforts to prioritize the restoration of the healthcare system in Gaza.

The President: I thank Mr. Türk for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Dr. Peepkorn.

Dr. Peepkorn: My name is Dr. Rik Peepkorn, and I am the World Health Organization (WHO) representative for the occupied Palestinian territory. I visit Gaza very regularly — every two to two and a half months, I stay for between two and four weeks — and I have participated in multiple WHO-led missions to all hospitals all over Gaza, some of which we will focus on today.

First of all, I thank you, Mr. President, for this opportunity to brief Council members on the health situation in Gaza. The year 2025 is beginning on a sombre and deeply worrisome note, as fighting continues to intensify and hope dwindles for Gazans, who have been enduring this nightmare for 14 months. Approximately 7 per cent of the population has been killed or injured since October 2023, with more than 25 per cent of the more than 105,000 injured people suffering from life-changing injuries that will need extensive rehabilitation and lifelong assistive medical technologies, according to the estimates of WHO and its partners. Time and again, hospitals have become battle grounds, leaving them out of service and depriving those in need of life-saving care. The health sector is being systematically dismantled and pushed to breaking point, its resilience tested amid dire shortages of medical supplies, equipment and specialized staff. Only 16 of the 36 hospitals in Gaza remain partially functional, with a total bed capacity of just 1,822 — far below what is needed to address the overwhelming health crisis. Owing to damage, attacks and shortages, most hospitals can provide only basic care and lack the capacity for the specialized treatment of chronic diseases and complex injuries, leading to increased suffering and death.

Despite those challenges, the pace of medical evacuations remains extremely slow. Since October 2023, only 5,383 patients have been evacuated abroad for medical treatment with support from WHO and its partners. Of those, only 436 have been evacuated since the closure of the Rafah crossing on 6 May 2024, which was facilitated by WHO. More than 12,000 people still require medical evacuation. At the current rate, it would take 5 to 10 years to evacuate all those critically ill patients, including thousands of children.

Despite the challenging environment, WHO and its partners are doing all they can to keep hospitals and health services operational. However, our ability to move aid is severely compromised. The entry of supplies into and across Gaza remains extremely slow owing to restrictions, delays in the clearance of supplies entering the Strip and obstacles to our missions within Gaza. In 2024, only 111 out of 279 — that is only 40 per cent — WHO missions were facilitated, directly affecting our ability to safely and promptly resupply hospitals, transfer critical patients and deploy medical emergency teams. Since October 2023, almost every week, WHO has repeatedly issued urgent calls for the protection of health workers and hospitals as per international humanitarian law, yet those calls remain unheard. Attacks on hospitals persist. So far, WHO has verified 654 attacks on healthcare facilities in Gaza, resulting in 886 fatalities and 1,349 injuries.

In north Gaza, which has been under siege for approximately 90 days, the health and humanitarian situation continues to deteriorate. Only Al-Awda Hospital remains minimally functional, and there are no primary healthcare facilities available in the area. The lack of healthcare poses a severe threat to the lives of the thousands of Palestinians still in the area. Kamal Adwan Hospital, the main hospital in north Gaza, was put out of service following a raid last week and relentless attacks since October 2024. WHO was consistently hindered in accessing the hospital during that period, with only 10 out of 21 missions partially facilitated. On 27 December 2024, the hospital was emptied, and a majority of patients were forced to a nearby location, while critical patients were transferred to the non-functional Indonesian hospital, which lacks the necessary equipment and supplies to provide adequate care. WHO remains deeply concerned about Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya, the Director of Kamal Adwan Hospital, who was detained during the raid. We have lost contact with him since and call for his immediate release.

Reports indicate that key areas of the hospital were burned and severely damaged during the raid, including the laboratory, surgical unit, engineering and maintenance department, operations theatre and the medical store. The efforts of WHO and its partners over the past few months to sustain the hospital's operations have been undone. We call for urgent access to the hospital to assess the damage and determine if it can be restored. We also call for facilitation to transfer the medical equipment from Kamal Adwan to Al-Awda and other hospitals in Gaza City.

At the Indonesian hospital, the situation continues to deteriorate. Although the hospital is out of service, seven patients, nine caregivers and six health workers remain there. Today the hospital reportedly received an order to evacuate and to provide a list of names and details of all those still inside. We call for the hospital and its remaining patients, who are in a dangerous and active conflict zone, to be protected. The hospital is already severely damaged, and further attacks will make it even harder to restore the facility.

Al-Awda, which is the last remaining minimally functional hospital in north Gaza, is struggling to stay open. Hostilities continue around the hospital, resulting in an influx of injuries. Thirty-seven inpatients remain inside. Food, water and fuel are depleting fast. The hospital has been without many essential medicines for more than 85 days. Access to the hospital is dangerous for patients in need owing to the nearby hostilities. Unfortunately, we have just received reports that Al-Awda has also been ordered to fully evacuate. With that, the last health lifeline in north Gaza is at risk of being severed. WHO is planning a mission to Al-Awda, Kamal Adwan and the Indonesian hospital for assessment. However, currently, no roads to Kamal Adwan or Al-Awda are accessible. We call for access to be facilitated urgently and for the evacuation orders to be rescinded.

As I conclude, I want to emphasize that despite the incomprehensible challenges, the health system of Gaza has not collapsed. It is deeply affected and bruised, but against all odds, health workers, WHO and its partners have kept services going as much as possible. Al-Shifa and Nasser medical complexes, which have been restored after being left in ruins, including the European Hospital, following severe attacks, raids and destruction in early 2024, are prime examples of the resilience of Gaza's health system and the inspiring dedication of its health workers, with the support of WHO and its partners. That is nothing short of a feat and is a reason to be hopeful. It shows what can be achieved if healthcare is protected and peace is given a chance.

I want to recall that hospitals have special protection under international humanitarian law because of their life-saving function. While hospitals may, under specific and limited circumstances, lose their protected status, that does not then absolve any party from its obligations to comply with all other relevant rules of international humanitarian law, which are applicable when launching attacks on military objectives, including the principles of distinction, precautions in attack and proportionality. Those remain fully applicable.

Lastly, I once again I repeat WHO's call: to ensure urgently that hospitals in north Gaza can be supported to become functional again; for expedited medical evacuations and the use of all corridors from Gaza to get patients out, including to the West Bank and East Jerusalem; for sustained access to hospitals; for an increased flow of aid into and across Gaza; and for an urgent and lasting ceasefire.

The President: I thank Dr. Peeperkorn for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Dr. Haj-Hassan.

Dr. Haj-Hassan: While I am thankful for the opportunity to speak to the Council today, I recognize that what has been shared before me and has been said over and over again in this very Chamber by so many other advocates, humanitarians and authorities who have come before the Council in the past 454 days is already so damning and both morally and legally sufficient to merit a response.

In the words of my friends and female Gazan surgeon, Dr. Sara Al-Saqqa, who I spoke to this morning,

"I do not know what one can say or write honestly. Last time I was asked this question, I felt like screaming in the face of the whole world and asking them — what are you waiting for?"

The Council has seen and heard it all. In the next few minutes I have with the Council today, I will not attempt to describe the systematic and intentional attacks on healthcare in Gaza because that would take far more time than the amount of time

I have and has also been summarized by those who spoke before me and extensively documented by bodies of the United Nations itself. Instead, I would like to share with the Council the perspectives of healthcare workers in Gaza who have been sending SOS messages to the Council for over a year and who, if still alive today, are at the front lines, setting an example for all of us of what it means to practise what one preaches.

I have had the privilege of teaching in Gaza's medical schools and hospitals and getting to know these healthcare workers over many years. Despite being under siege, they were able, astoundingly, to build an extensive healthcare system and provide high-quality medical care to patients and excellent medical education for the growing generation of doctors. They are proud, hard-working professionals who take their oath to care for their patients very seriously. When asked why he had not left the hospitals when they were besieged, Dr. Hammam Alloh responded,

“Who would care for my patients? Do you think I went to medical school and for my postgraduate degrees for a total of 14 years to think about my life and not my patients?”

Dr. Alloh was killed by an Israeli air strike on 12 November 2023, at the age of 36 years.

Since October 2024, healthcare workers have become a clear target of Israel's military violence. Our colleagues and friends have been killed, maimed, unlawfully detained and tortured. More than 1,000 healthcare workers have been killed in Gaza in the past 15 months. Hundreds of healthcare workers have been held in Israeli captivity; at least four have been killed while in detention. They tell us that they are targets because they are healthcare workers, that wearing scrubs and white coats is like wearing a target on their backs. I asked — and Council members may be asking — why? It is because hospitals and healthcare workers represent life and a will to keep people alive. In May 2024, after Dr. Adnan Al-Bursh, the head of orthopaedics at Al-Shifa Hospital was killed in Israeli detention after months of torture, a surgeon who knew him well sent us this message: “practicing medicine has become a crime, and the penalty for saving people's lives has become detention and being tortured to death”.

I messaged colleagues in Gaza last night to ask what they would like me to say to the Chamber today. Here are some of their messages:

“The savagery continues to get worse. The crimes are beyond brutal and the world continues to watch. No one is stopping Israel. They do whatever they want without any consequences. There is no such thing as international law or the law applies only to certain parts of the world and not to us — double standards, as they say. After 15 months of brutality, it is now clear that our blood is cheap, and we are just numbers to the world.”

Dr. Khamis Elessi, a Palestinian pain and rehabilitation doctor in Gaza and a dear friend and fellow Oxford graduate, wrote to me this morning, saying, “Yesterday I was working in the emergency department when I was shocked to find my nephews were brought in. One was martyred and the other was severely injured. We are devastated. This is my message: stop the war. Enough is enough.”

My colleague, Dr. Sara Al-Saqqa, who I quoted earlier today and who, incidentally, works for the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs in Gaza, said,

“I never thought that international law or human rights institutions would allow this: for 2 million people to be locked in a cage and systematically massacred. Imagine being sick or injured and knowing that the cure is available, but not being able to access it because the crossings are closed. There is no greater injustice.”

The final set of messages I want to share come from Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya, Medical Director of Kamal Adwan Hospital and a paediatrician like me, whom my colleague from the World Health Organization just spoke about. On 3 November, he wrote,

“We urgently need increased pressure on the international community to help the healthcare system perform its duties in accordance with established humanitarian laws. We are not asking for anything beyond this. We are here to provide a humanitarian service to our people, the injured and those in need of assistance. And we wish to continue doing our job.”

On 3 December, after repeated SOS calls in between, he then said,

“Today, for the fifth time, Kamal Adwan Hospital has been targeted in a horrifying, relentless matter. Drones are dropping bombs filled with shrapnel that injure anyone who dares to move. Once again, the occupation is focusing its aggression on medical teams. We are exhausted by the ongoing violence. Why are we subjected to such brutality? Each day the hospital is systematically targeted.”

And what happened next after that? After the Israeli military raided the hospital, people were blindfolded and undressed. Patients on crutches were put on the ground as Israeli soldiers took celebratory pictures with the surviving healthcare workers in humiliating positions. The hospital was burned down and Dr. Abu Safiya was taken, we believe, along with many colleagues.

I speak to the Council today, like so many healthcare workers and citizens around the world, filled with grief, anger, frustration and — frankly — disbelief. I am filled with disbelief that all of our repeated first-hand and utterly damning testimonies have still not moved the world to meaningful action, disbelief that, despite the countless addresses to the media and even here in the United Nations just five weeks ago (see S/PV.9794), we are still here trying to convince anyone who will listen that this needs to stop. I am in disbelief that all previous propositions to end violence have been obstructed by the very organ whose primary responsibility is supposedly to maintain international peace and security, disbelief that, on 20 November, the United States and my country of citizenship again vetoed a Security Council draft resolution that demanded an immediate and unconditional ceasefire in Gaza (see S/PV.9790), despite 14 votes in favour. I am in disbelief that this month will mark an entire year since the International Court of Justice issued provisional measures after ruling that Israel’s acts could amount to possible genocide and since Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch, among other organizations, concluded that Israel’s actions are consistent with genocide. I am in disbelief that we are still here after we have driven 96 per cent of Gaza’s children to believe their death is imminent, while many wish for their own death, and after seven infants, as of yesterday, have died from hypothermia in the past week alone — meaning that they literally froze to death. I am in disbelief that we are still here when Israel’s military violence has created the largest cohort of paediatric amputees in known history, as well as the largest cohort of journalists and United Nations workers killed. I shudder to even estimate the number of children who have lost their parents and have been orphaned for life. I am in disbelief that Israel has killed another 90 Palestinians in Gaza, at least, in the short time since I got the call last night requesting that I address the Council here today.

We are pleading with the world and with the people and States that make up this very body to show us that international humanitarian law matters and that human rights are universally applied, and to stay true to the very reason that this body was created.

The President: I thank Dr. Haj-Hassan for her briefing.

I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Algeria.

We thank Mr. Volker Türk and Dr. Peeperkorn for their valuable briefings, and we also extend our deep gratitude to Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan for her sobering briefing, which serves as a powerful testimony from a witness who was present in Gaza and observed first-hand the senseless destruction of health infrastructure and the unprecedented atrocities inflicted upon the Palestinian people.

The ongoing Israeli aggression against the Palestinian people, particularly in Gaza, has a clear and alarming objective: pushing the Palestinian population out of their lands through an obvious and deliberate policy of ethnic cleansing. One of the key pillars of that policy is the systematic destruction and demolition of the healthcare system. The report published by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights on 31 December 2024, on the eve of the New Year, revealed devastating findings: 136 strikes targeted at least 27 hospitals and 12 other medical facilities, resulting in significant casualties and destruction. Figures speak volumes. Fifty-three per cent of hospitals in Gaza are no longer operational. Out of 138 primary health centres, only six remain fully functional. One hundred thirty ambulances have been damaged. More than 14,000 patients require urgent medical evacuation abroad, more than 1,000 healthcare workers have been killed, and hundreds of healthcare workers have been detained by the Israeli authorities. Non-governmental organizations reported on cases of torture and ill-treatment. According to the United Nations, several physicians have died in Israeli custody. Those are but a few examples that starkly illustrate the systematic dismantling of Gaza's health infrastructure, targeting essential services and medical personnel through actions that amount to genocidal tactics.

One week ago, on 27 December, following more than three months of siege and repeated attacks near and around the area, the Israeli occupying forces finally invaded Kamal Adwan Hospital, the main facility in the north of Gaza. That hospital came under assault by snipers, tanks and quadcopter drones, terrorizing patients and medical staff. Those actions included torture, executions, the destruction of vital medical equipment and the deliberate setting of fires that engulfed entire wards of the hospital. The Israeli occupying forces have actively sought to shut down Kamal Adwan Hospital, rendering it completely out of service. That raises legitimate and critical questions about the real motives behind its demolition. However, what is indisputable is that the act was not driven by military necessity, but rather by a deliberate effort to deprive northern Gaza of essential health services, thereby forcing the displacement of its population. The deliberate destruction of healthcare facilities constitutes a form of collective punishment that is classified as a war crime under international law.

International humanitarian law is clear regarding the protection of hospitals. Article 11 of Protocol II Additional to the Geneva Conventions of 1949 stipulates that: "Medical units and transports shall be respected and protected at all times and shall not be the object of attack." The Council's own resolution 2286 (2016)

"demands that all parties to armed conflicts fully comply with their obligations under international law [...] to ensure the respect and protection of all medical personnel and humanitarian personnel exclusively engaged in medical duties, their means of transport and equipment, as well as hospitals and other medical facilities". (resolution 2286 (2016), para. 2)

In order to justify those heinous acts, the Israeli occupying authorities have resorted to unfounded allegations, claiming that hospitals were being used for military purposes by Palestinian armed groups. In the same Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights report it is, however, stated clearly, and I repeat what has been said by Mr. Türk, that "insufficient information has so far been made available to substantiate these allegations, which have remained vague and broad and, in some cases appear contradicted by publicly available information". Yet to argue on the basis of international law, in particular international humanitarian law and Security Council resolutions, feels increasingly futile. What we are witnessing in Gaza is complete disregard for the rule of law. And Israel, the Power occupying the Palestinian territories, acts as though international law does not exist or simply does not apply to it. Those barbaric actions are fuelled by a sense of impunity and a sense of immunity. We must end that impunity and that immunity.

As Mr. Türk aptly stated, it is essential that there be independent, thorough and transparent investigations into all those incidents and full accountability for all the violations of international humanitarian and human rights law that have taken place in Gaza. Crimes are being committed in full view of the world, broadcast live and meticulously documented. In an era in which no act escapes the lens of global scrutiny, today ignorance is not a defence. Today silence is complicity. The evidence is undeniable. The suffering of the Palestinians is irrefutable. It is incumbent upon us all, as human beings, to take a clear and principled stand. No one can claim ignorance of the blatant violations of international law that continue to unfold before our eyes.

We cannot afford another year of misery and another year of massacres. Israel's actions are an attempt to extinguish hope in the hearts and minds of the Palestinian people and to deny them the means of surviving on their own land. By destroying hospitals — beacons of hope, places of healing and symbols of humanity — the Israeli occupying Power aims to erode the resilience of the Palestinian people. We must act together to put an end to the tragedy. To delay action is to condone injustice. To remain passive is to abandon our humanity. It is time for the Council to demand an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire in Gaza.

I resume my functions as President of the Council.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Ms. Shea (United States of America): On behalf of the United States, I congratulate Algeria on its presidency and extend a warm welcome, as you, Mr. President, did to the new members who have joined us today: Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia.

I thank High Commissioner Türk, Representative Peeperkorn and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their powerful briefings.

Throughout the conflict, Hamas has repeatedly misused civilian infrastructure, such as schools and hospitals, to store caches of weapons, house fighters and coordinate attacks against Israel. Hamas continues, day in and day out, to put civilians in harm's way through their tactics and their use of those facilities. I urge colleagues in the Chamber to criticize Hamas for those actions and to call them out for continuing to put Palestinian civilians in Gaza in the crosshairs. Far too many still cannot bring themselves to do so. Israel's fight is with Hamas and not the Palestinian civilians, whom the terrorist group falsely purports to represent. According to the Israel Defense Forces, more than 240 fighters were apprehended at Kamal Adwan Hospital, including 15 individuals who had participated in the massacre of 7 October 2023.

Even as it battles Hamas, Israel has a moral imperative to prevent civilian harm. We do not want to see hospitals as scenes of violence. No one benefits from that, least of all the civilians, who neither started the conflict, nor have the means to end it and who desperately need medical attention. Civilians cannot be left without functioning hospitals or adequate medical care. It is vital for Israel to comply with international humanitarian law and to take every possible step to prevent harm to civilians, in particular when it comes to patients receiving care at Kamal Adwan Hospital and medical professionals dedicated to treating the population. With regard to reports about the Director of Kamal Adwan Hospital, we in the United States Government are in contact with the Israeli Government and partners on the ground and are gathering information.

Far too many civilians in Gaza are hungry and without medication, clean drinking water or adequate housing. Secretary Blinken has repeatedly emphasized that we need to end the conflict, bring the hostages home, including the seven Americans held by Hamas, and chart a path forward in the post-conflict period so as to provide for governance, security and reconstruction in Gaza. We must also immediately ensure a surge in humanitarian aid to Palestinian civilians throughout Gaza or many will not survive the rest of the winter. We have made clear to Israel that it must do more to address those preventable humanitarian shortfalls. We have been explicit about the specific steps that we must see Israel take, including surging the entry of food, medicine and other essential supplies into Gaza, knowing that winter is here. There must be no forcible displacement or policy of starvation in Gaza, which would have grave implications under both United States and international law. We must see a surge in humanitarian aid delivered immediately. Only a sustained flow of assistance, food, clean water and medical supplies into Gaza will bring relief and address the catastrophic levels of food insecurity.

The work before us to forge a ceasefire remains difficult. The challenge of helping a revitalized Palestinian Authority to rebuild Gaza without Hamas is immense. And yet we must first address the immediacy of the humanitarian situation, because lives are at stake — the lives of Palestinian civilians in Gaza and the lives of the hostages, who have suffered mightily since Hamas initiated this horrific conflict on 7 October 2023. We must give Palestinians a future to look forward to, with self-determination, dignity and security. We need Israel to feel secure within its own borders. The United States continues to push for a ceasefire and hostage release deal that allows for a surge in life-saving assistance to Palestinian civilians. There are simply no alternatives that lead to durable peace and regional calm.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We welcome you, Mr. President, and we wish the Algerian presidency every success. We also welcome the newly elected members of the Security Council.

We support the initiative of the delegation of Algeria to convene today's meeting of the Council to discuss the deteriorating situation in the Gaza Strip in the context of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) military operation in the occupied Palestinian territory, which has been going on for almost 15 months now. We thank Mr. Volker Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, and Dr. Peepkorn, World Health Organization (WHO) representative in the occupied Palestinian territory, for their briefings. Special thanks go to Dr. Haj-Hassan for her poignant, courageous and frank testimony, which demonstrates, among other things, the horror being faced by medical personnel and patients, including the children of Gaza. We plan to request a separate meeting of the Council on the topic of children in Gaza, which our Western colleagues unfortunately prefer not to notice in favour of other issues that are, from their point of view, more advantageous.

We are extremely concerned about Israel's continued shelling and bombing of civilian targets in the Gaza Strip. Air raids on camps for refugees and internally displaced persons are reported daily from north Gaza. Amid the hostilities and the blockade imposed by West Jerusalem, a genuine humanitarian catastrophe has broken out in the Strip, compounded by large-scale hunger, outbreaks of infectious diseases and the total destruction of vital infrastructure. The number of refugees and people repeatedly displaced is in the millions. The leadership of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East warned us about the impending famine in the Gaza Strip owing to the lack of humanitarian aid. Israeli attacks often target medical facilities. Furthermore, we have every reason to believe that the Israeli military, which is obsessed with the collective punishment of the Gazans, has been systematically and deliberately destroying Gaza's healthcare system, and the bombing, shelling, emptying and burning of hospital complexes have become commonplace.

Almost daily reports are coming from the Kamal Adwan, Al-Awda and Indonesian hospitals, which, since 21 December, have become targets of IDF military operations. Attacks, destruction and evacuation orders for the patients of those institutions have left the residents of the besieged northern regions, who are already effectively entrapped, completely without medical care. The Indonesian hospital, which served thousands of Gazans, is no longer operational, the Al-Awda hospital has been half destroyed and a spate of Israeli attacks on Kamal Adwan Hospital — the last major medical facility in the region — have completely disabled it and endangered the lives of 75,000 Palestinians. That raises concerns about the fate of those Gazans who rely on medical care. Under those circumstances, the Director-General of WHO, Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, who, as we all remember, miraculously survived the Israeli shelling of Sana'a airport in Yemen, said that Gaza's healthcare sector is under serious threat and called on the Israeli authorities to stop attacks on medical facilities and to release the leaders and medical staff of the Kamal Adwan Hospital detained during the Israeli military operation. However, that call clearly fell on deaf ears in West Jerusalem. The peculiar response to it there was the Israeli shelling of the Al-Ahli Baptist Hospital, as a result of which at least seven people were killed and dozens were injured.

The inhumanity of Israel's action, which relies on the all-weather support of Washington, is becoming even more obvious given the fact that even before the most recent attacks on hospitals in the north of the Strip, 14,000 people, including children, women and the disabled, were in need of medical evacuation. How can people flee when they are physically unable to do so? Or did the Israeli authorities provide medical evacuation and send those patients to their country for treatment? No, unfortunately, we have not observed any such action on the part of Israel, and we have not even seen any indication of West Jerusalem's interest in resolving those issues through cooperation with the United Nations and the International Committee of the Red Cross. On the contrary, humanitarian organizations on the ground are blocked, with restrictions on movement and bans on the delivery of humanitarian aid. Overall, everything is geared towards one goal: to cleanse the Gaza Strip of as many Palestinians as possible and to create unbearable living conditions for those who remain.

In that context, we note that we fully support WHO's intention to organize an urgent mission to the north of the Strip in order to try to move critically ill patients to southern Gaza, where there are still at least some conditions for the provision of necessary medical care. We call on the Israeli authorities to immediately cease hostilities and to ensure the normal functioning of the few medical facilities that are still able to receive patients, which is about 15 out of the 36 previously operating hospitals.

Hospitals should not become a battlefield. They should not be used for military purposes, and medical workers should be able to freely perform their civil, official and moral duties. Those are the basic principles that underpin modern international humanitarian law. What is happening now is a flagrant violation of the methods and rules of warfare, and it must stop. Civilians in conflict must be provided with food and the right to medical care. And, of course, the parties to the conflict have a responsibility to protect those who save lives, namely, medical workers. In Gaza, 1,047 healthcare workers have already been killed — these are shocking figures.

We all understand that the ongoing suffering of civilians of the Gaza Strip will continue at least until the end of the ruthless military operation of the IDF, which is being carried out without regard for the opinion of the entire international community. The necessary conditions for that will not emerge as long as Washington continues to provide political cover for Israel's actions, blocking any relevant steps and initiatives taken by the Security Council and pumping West Jerusalem with weapons, which continue to kill Gazan civilians. We believe that the members of the Security Council must not remain indifferent to this situation, which is tarnishing the Council's reputation.

We must continue to try to awaken the conscience of our American colleagues and convey to them the importance of abandoning the promotion of parochial unilateral schemes for reconciling Israel with its neighbours without taking into account the need for a fair solution to the Palestinian issue on the basis of the well-known international legal framework agreed upon within the United Nations. The American tactics of stalling for time for the benefit of Israel and forcing the Council to support unsuccessful negotiations that have been ongoing for more than six months, with Washington's mediation on concluding a deal between Israel and Hamas, is also extremely unseemly.

As we are all perfectly aware, the West Jerusalem authorities have repeatedly put forward new conditions for reaching an agreement on a ceasefire and hostage exchange, even abandoning the dubious scheme set out in resolution 2735 (2024). At the same time, responsibility for the derailment of the United States deal is repeatedly pinned on Hamas. Even if an agreement is ultimately reached, responsibility for the deaths of thousands of Palestinians during this time and of Israeli hostages who could have been saved six months ago lies with the outgoing Biden Administration.

Russia's principled position on the resolution of the Middle East situation remains unchanged and is in alignment with the will of the international community. We have consistently advocated — and continue to advocate — an unconditional ceasefire, unfettered humanitarian access, the release of all hostages and forcibly detained persons and the relaunch of the peace process on the well-known international legal basis based on the formula of “two States for two peoples”. Naturally, the Israelis have the right to ensure their own security, but the path to that goal lies exclusively through a comprehensive Middle East settlement process and the realization of the legitimate right of the Palestinians to their own State within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital. That is the only way to achieve sustainable peace between the Palestinians and the Israelis and to eradicate the root causes of the escalation of violence, the repercussions of which have already spiralled far beyond the occupied Palestinian territories, destabilizing the situation throughout the entire Middle East region.

Mr. Osman (Somalia): At the outset, I would like to congratulate you, Mr. President, on assuming the presidency of the Council for this month and to thank you for convening this important meeting today. I express my appreciation for Mr. Volker Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and Dr. Rik Peeperkorn, representative of the World Health Organization (WHO) in the occupied Palestinian territory, for their comprehensive briefings. I am also immensely grateful to Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan for her sobering and invaluable briefings.

Somalia is deeply concerned about the deteriorating situation in Gaza and the ongoing suffering of the Palestinian people due to the prolonged conflict that has now persisted for over 14 months.

In that regard, I would like to make the following four points.

First, as reported, systematic military operations targeting medical facilities and personnel are particularly alarming. According to WHO, 94 per cent of all health facilities in Gaza are either damaged or destroyed, and only 17 out of the 36 hospitals with inpatient capacity are even partially functional. We have all witnessed the recent destruction of Kamal Adwan Hospital and the abduction of its director,

Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya, which has put out of service one of the last major health facilities in north Gaza. In that vein, we call for the immediate release of Dr. Abu Safiya, whose detention raises serious concerns regarding human rights and due process. Furthermore, the deliberate attacks against Kamal Adwan Hospital and the numerous other healthcare facilities and personnel are a form of ethnic cleansing and collective punishment against the civilian population in Gaza. We underscore that the protection of civilians and civilian infrastructure is not negotiable. It is an absolute requirement under international law and international humanitarian law.

Secondly, the role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), as the primary humanitarian lifeline for Palestinian people, cannot be overstated. I take this opportunity to pay tribute to the dedicated and courageous personnel of all humanitarian workers, including UNRWA personnel, who are working tirelessly under challenging circumstances. Any impediment of UNRWA's operations directly threatens the survival of millions of Palestinians, and a deliberate obstruction of humanitarian assistance is unacceptable and constitutes a clear violation of international law. We urge Israel to heed the strong call of the international community to allow UNRWA to proceed with its aid operations in the occupied Palestinian territories and to lift the long-standing inhuman blockade that severely restricts the delivery of essential services. The civilian population, mostly women and children, is facing severe health issues, including food insecurity, and is experiencing acute malnutrition, a situation that requires our immediate attention as the winter continues. As the occupying Power, Israel has the legal obligation, under international law, to ensure that the basic needs of the civilian population are met. That includes the safe return of the displaced to their homes and access to food, water, medical supplies and essential services. Those are binding legal obligations under international law and merit careful consideration and implementation.

Thirdly, the escalating widespread and systematic attacks of the Israeli military in Gaza for over a year is a major concern for my delegation. The toll on human life continues to mount, with implications that extend far beyond statistical measures to affect families and communities profoundly. We reiterate our strongest condemnation of those blatant violations. The argument that security concerns preclude a ceasefire is both morally and practically untenable. There can be no military solution to this conflict. An immediate and unconditional ceasefire is the first step, and it is indispensable for creating conditions conducive to meaningful political discourse and a prerequisite for any meaningful progress towards sustainable and lasting peace between Israel and Palestine.

Fourthly, the current crisis underscores the urgent need to revive the political process, break the cycle of violence and establish a lasting peace in the region. We reiterate our call that the only viable option for the resolution of the long-standing conflict is the end of the occupied Palestinian territory and full recognition of a free, sovereign and independent Palestine, with Jerusalem as its capital, in accordance with the relevant resolutions of the Security Council and General Assembly, under international law.

In conclusion, my delegation urgently calls for full compliance with international human rights and humanitarian law and joins the call for an immediate, unconditional and permanent ceasefire. Somalia reaffirms its commitment to supporting all diplomatic efforts towards achieving a just and lasting peace.

Ms. Lassen (Denmark): Allow me to congratulate you, Mr. President, and Algeria for taking up the presidency of the Security Council this month. Let me also thank High Commissioner Türk, Dr. Peepkorn and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their sobering briefings.

Denmark is honoured to take its seat on the Security Council. It is a responsibility that we do not take lightly and one that we are ready to fully shoulder. Earlier this week, millions around the world came together to ring in the New Year. For most, it is a time of reflection and celebration, a time to be with loved ones. That was not the case in Gaza, where unrelenting hostilities continued to obliterate what remained of the healthcare system. More health workers were killed, wounded and detained. As always, it is innocent civilians who suffer first and most. Many are left without the life-saving care they need. Many are denied access to adequate medical equipment and supplies, fuel, food and specialized healthcare capacities. Put simply, they do not have what they need to survive. This morning's briefing is, therefore, very timely.

Today I will focus on three points.

First, we are deeply concerned about the toll that the hostilities have taken on Gaza's healthcare infrastructure. As we have heard today, the World Health Organization has warned of a pattern of systematic dismantling of the healthcare system in north Gaza. That pattern must be reversed. Most recently, we received the news of a military operation at the Kamal Adwan Hospital on 27 December 2024. That has put the last major health facility in north Gaza out of service and pushed the health system there to a breaking point.

Denmark condemns all attacks on civilian infrastructure in Gaza, including hospitals, which are in violation of international humanitarian law and Security Council resolutions. That includes resolution 2286 (2016) on the protection of healthcare in armed conflict and resolution 2730 (2024) on the need to respect and protect United Nations and humanitarian personnel. We reiterate that it falls to all parties to protect civilian infrastructure, in accordance with international humanitarian law. The specific protection of hospitals is critical, and we call on all parties to the conflict to fully respect the special status of hospitals and other medical facilities. While recognizing Israel's right to defend itself in line with international law, we remind Israel of its specific obligations as an occupying Power to ensure and facilitate access to adequate healthcare for the Palestinian population. We call for urgently ensuring that hospitals in north Gaza can be supported to become functional again. Future recovery and reconstruction efforts must also prioritize the restoration of Gaza's medical capacity.

Secondly, Denmark is deeply concerned by the lack of protection of civilians, leading to a staggering number of civilian casualties in Gaza. That includes humanitarian and healthcare workers. Attacks on healthcare facilities in Gaza have killed and wounded hundreds among doctors, nurses, medics and other civilians. Such attacks deprive the most vulnerable of the care they need, at the very time when they need it most. In the midst of near-constant evacuation orders, we also note that the transfer of critical patients associated with such attacks poses grave risks to their survival. We condemn any attack on aid workers and medical personnel. They must be protected in accordance with the parties' obligations under international law, including when detained.

Finally, the rebuilding and rehabilitation of Gaza's health infrastructure are crucial, but that is only one element of what is needed to address the abysmal humanitarian situation in Gaza. The sheer level of destruction and devastation outlined by our briefers this morning underscores one clear point: the absolute and urgent need for an immediate and lasting ceasefire and the unconditional release of all hostages held by Hamas. The Council has a solemn responsibility to maintain international peace and security. We should speak out unequivocally in support of that in order to once and for all alleviate the suffering of Israelis and Palestinians alike and prepare the ground for regional peace and stability for the benefit of all.

We thank Egypt, Qatar and the United States for their tireless efforts to broker a ceasefire between the parties, and we hope that a result will materialize. A ceasefire is fundamental to releasing all hostages, addressing the catastrophic humanitarian situation, initiating reconstruction and working towards a two-State solution. A two-State solution remains the only durable solution to this tragic conflict, which has lasted for way too long. In order to achieve it, we need a strengthened and reformed Palestinian Authority as the foundation of an independent Palestinian State that includes Gaza — a State that will live side by side with Israel in peaceful coexistence.

As we look ahead to this new year, let us recommit to peace and security across the Middle East. Let us redouble our efforts to uphold international law and end the staggering violence that we are witnessing. Let us look ahead with forbearance and courage. The Council has a responsibility to act. Count on Denmark's support.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): I thank the High Commissioner for Human Rights, Mr. Türk, Dr. Peepkorn of the World Health Organization and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their sobering briefings.

Since this is the very first meeting of the Security Council this month and year, I would like to congratulate you, Mr. President, on assuming the presidency. I would also like to take this opportunity to warmly welcome the new members of the Council: Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia. I look forward to working closely with them.

The whole world is celebrating the commencement of the new year, but the unfathomable suffering of Palestinians in Gaza shows no sign of abating. We are particularly troubled by the ongoing attacks by Israel on hospitals and healthcare in Gaza, which were detailed by the briefers.

International humanitarian law is crystal clear. Article 18 of the Fourth Geneva Convention plainly provides that civilian hospitals may in no circumstances be the object of attack, but shall at all times be protected by the parties to the conflict. Civilians, the wounded and sick and medical personnel — all of those people must also be protected under international law. Israel argues that its military operations last week in the area of Kamal Adwan Hospital in northern Gaza were limited and based on intelligence regarding the presence of Hamas infrastructure and that more than 240 people whom it describes as terrorists were detained. But it should be noted that article 19 of the Fourth Geneva Convention strictly details the requirements to legally justify the discontinuance of protection of hospitals, including the need for due warning with a reasonable time limit. However, it is troubling that that hospital has been repeatedly attacked by Israel and that, on 27 December 2024, the burning of the facility began while patients were still inside. As such, we call for a transparent investigation and full accountability for any violations.

Indeed, there is no justification, under any circumstances, for harming civilians and medical personnel. The claim that Hamas and other groups have misused the facility simply does not lessen the burden on Israel to observe its legal obligations under international humanitarian law.

However, it is deeply concerning that, despite Israel's argument that the Israel Defense Forces made extensive efforts to facilitate treatment for patients, we have witnessed the contrary in harrowing media reports and viral images of what actually happened at Kamal Adwan Hospital. In that regard, we remain deeply worried about the conditions of those patients who were forced to relocate to other locations, including the non-functional Indonesian hospital. We are also concerned about the impacts on the medical staff arrested at Kamal Adwan Hospital, including the director of the hospital, Dr. Hussam Abu Safia. Their fate must be clarified. Israel should implement every possible measure to ensure the health and safety of patients and medical staff. We also call on Israel to protect the rights of the detainees, including Dr. Abu Safia, and to share information on the charges and on the detainees' whereabouts, especially with their family members.

We note with serious and deepening concern the World Health Organization's announcement that last week's attack on Kamal Adwan Hospital — north Gaza's last major health facility — which led to its complete closure, was not an isolated event. At least 50 attacks have targeted the same facility over the last three months alone. We are also disturbed by the never-ending destruction of the healthcare system in Gaza, as detailed in the recent Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs report, including the daily attacks on hospitals and the shortages of medical supplies.

The Republic of Korea therefore reiterates its firm position that there is a dire need for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza. The unfathomable humanitarian suffering of civilians in Gaza cannot be resolved amid the ongoing hostilities. Once again, we call on the parties to the conflict to engage seriously in the negotiations to secure a ceasefire and the release of the hostages. Keeping in mind that their horrific terrorist attack on 7 October 2023 and their continued holding of hostages are the direct cause of the current chaos, Hamas must negotiate in good faith, given the humanitarian imperative. Israel should also make the necessary concessions. We sincerely hope that a complete ceasefire can be agreed and implemented as soon as possible and that it will lead the region, including the West Bank, Lebanon, Syria and the Red Sea, to durable stability and peace.

Mr. Ahmad (Pakistan): My delegation would like to thank you, Mr. President, for convening this important briefing at the outset of the Algerian presidency. We commend your stewardship and assure you of our full support. Pakistan looks forward to working closely with all Council members to reinforce our collective efforts for global peace and security.

Allow me to thank High Commissioner Türk, Mr. Peepkorn from the World Health Organization and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their sobering briefings.

The figures are astounding, the picture beyond belief. I am particularly grateful to Dr. Haj-Hassan for sharing the perspectives of healthcare workers, and I think that she asked a lot of questions that are unanswered. Here, in the Council, we must answer those questions.

As we have heard yet again, the situation in Gaza is a catastrophe of unprecedented magnitude. Nowhere in the world has international law been trampled with such brazen impunity as it has in occupied Palestine by Israel, the occupying Power. One aspect of that harrowing reality is illustrated by the recent report of the High Commissioner for Human Rights on attacks against healthcare infrastructure in Gaza. It lays bare a truth that we cannot afford to ignore, as you, Mr. President, also explained at length in your statement.

Between October 2023 and June 2024, at least 136 strikes were carried out on 27 hospitals and 12 other medical facilities. More than 500 healthcare workers lost their lives. By June, 22 of Gaza's 38 hospitals had been rendered non-functional, leaving the healthcare system on the verge of collapse. The brutal destruction of Kamal Adwan Hospital — the last operational major facility in northern Gaza — is an atrocity that shocks the conscience of humanity. The deliberate targeting of hospitals, medical personnel, patients and the wounded defies every principle of humanitarian law and has no justification whatsoever. Beyond mere condemnation, there must be accountability for these crimes.

For more than 14 months now, the Palestinian people have endured an unrelenting assault on their lives, rights and dignity. More than 45,000 Palestinians have been killed, more than half of them women and children. More than 90 per cent of Gaza's population of 2.1 million population is displaced. With around 160,000 housing units destroyed, almost the entire population has been rendered homeless. The scale of the genocidal campaign is staggering, its intent unmistakable. Gaza's homes, schools, hospitals and even cultural heritage lie in ruins. Even the United Nations and its personnel have not been spared. This is not a war: it is a campaign of dispossession, ethnic cleansing and annihilation. The indiscriminate bombing of civilians and the systematic destruction of critical infrastructure are not isolated incidents. They are calculated acts aimed at erasing an entire people from their homeland.

For decades, the Council has passed resolutions, the International Court of Justice has issued rulings, and the world has cried out for justice. Yet, the Council remains inexplicably paralysed, undermining its own authority and credibility in the process. It is a pivotal moment for the Council to take immediate and decisive action, which, in our view, should be along the following lines.

It must secure a ceasefire now. The Council must demand and put in place an immediate and unconditional ceasefire to halt the bloodshed and destruction in Gaza.

It must ensure that the blockade is lifted. The inhumane blockade of Gaza must be lifted without delay. Food, medical supplies and humanitarian aid must flow freely to those in desperate need.

It must demand accountability. Justice must be served. Independent and transparent investigations into the targeting of medical infrastructure and other war crimes must ensure that perpetrators are held to account. Impunity must end.

It must establish safe corridors. Civilians must be protected. Safe and secure humanitarian corridors must be created to allow people to access life-saving care. Eventual reconstruction efforts must also prioritize rebuilding Gaza's shattered healthcare system.

It must revive the two-State solution. A political horizon is imperative for peace and there must be a process for realizing the two-State solution on the basis of the relevant United Nations resolutions. There must be an end to the occupation so that the Palestinian people can exercise their right to self-determination and establish a sovereign, independent and contiguous Palestinian State along pre-1967 borders, with Al-Quds Al-Sharif as its capital.

It must grant Palestine full membership. Palestine must be recognized as a full Member of the United Nations. In our view, that is not just a symbolic gesture — it is a moral imperative to secure the irreversibility of the two-State solution.

We stand at a defining moment in history. The entire world is watching. Will the Security Council shoulder its responsibility, or will it continue to turn a blind eye to the tragedy unfolding before us? Silence is complicity, as you said, Mr. President, and I would add that it amounts to moral bankruptcy. Can we finally come together to defend and uphold universal respect for the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and international law? I think that that is the question before us. The Palestinian people are looking to the Council for hope, justice and the promise of peace. We must not fail them. The bloodshed in Gaza must end. The relentless suffering of innocent men, women and children must cease. Let us cross the divide. Let us unite in the pursuit of peace, grounded in justice, human dignity and international legitimacy. Let us give meaning to our promise of "never again". Let us prove the sceptics wrong. Let us act now.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I first congratulate you, Mr. President, on assuming the presidency of the Security Council. You know that you can count on France's full support. I would also like to welcome the five new members of the Council. Lastly, I thank Mr. Türk, Dr. Peepkorn and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their briefings.

After 14 months of conflict, the Palestinians of Gaza continue to suffer in undignified living conditions and are still deprived of everything. France once again calls for an immediate and permanent ceasefire in the Gaza Strip. That is the one and only way to allow for the protection of the civilian population and the mass delivery humanitarian aid, of which those populations are in such great need. France calls for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages. France will continue to condemn the terrorist attacks of 7 October 2023.

The Security Council's resolutions must be implemented. The extreme seriousness of the situation obliges us to do so. The situation in Gaza is catastrophic, including in terms of access to healthcare. France condemns the recent Israeli military operations targeting several hospitals, in particular Kamal Adwan. Israel must comply with international humanitarian law, which demands respect for and the protection of medical infrastructure and personnel. Obstructing humanitarian aid constitutes a serious violation of international humanitarian law. Israel has a duty to allow the delivery of aid. All crossing points must be opened, the security of convoys and humanitarian actors must be ensured and any restrictions must be lifted. Lastly, France reiterates the irreplaceable nature of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East in the humanitarian response in Gaza.

The Council must act both to respond to the emergency and to work towards a political settlement, which requires the effective implementation of the two-State solution. That solution is now being threatened by the acceleration of the illegal colonization of the West Bank. France will participate fully. In June, alongside Saudi Arabia, it will co-chair an international conference on the implementation of the two-State solution. France will remain active in the Security Council to ensure that the Council contributes to that solution, which is the only one capable of guaranteeing Israel's security and enabling the construction of a State for the Palestinians. France calls for the establishment of a reformed Palestinian Authority, capable of exercising its responsibilities throughout the Palestinian territory, including the Gaza Strip.

Ms. Persaud (Guyana): As today's is the first formal meeting of the month, I take this opportunity to congratulate Algeria on assuming the presidency of the Security Council and warmly welcome the newly elected members — Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia. I also commend the United States for its able leadership of the Council in December and extend best wishes to the delegations of Ecuador, Japan, Malta, Mozambique and Switzerland, which just concluded their terms. Turning to our agenda for today, I thank Algeria for organizing this important meeting to discuss Israel's ongoing attacks against hospitals and healthcare facilities in Gaza. We are grateful for the updates provided by High Commissioner Volker Türk, Dr. Rik Peepkorn and Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan.

Guyana is deeply saddened that the new year finds the Palestinian people continuing to experience intolerable suffering brought on by Israel's brutal war on Gaza. Hundreds of thousands of civilians have no option but to live in tents, exposed to the harsh winter conditions. One of the most devastating consequences has been the freezing to death of babies who are unable to maintain their body temperature and who have no access to the medical infrastructure that could preserve their lives. Last week, the United Nations reported that a series of deadly Israel Defense Forces attacks committed on and near hospitals in Gaza had pushed the healthcare system to the brink of total collapse. Hospitals have been subjected to air strikes, shelled and burned. We also noted from the recent report by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) that attacks on hospitals for the period from October 2023 to June 2024 reportedly rendered up to 22 out of the 38 hospitals across Gaza non-functional. The situation today is much worse.

There is simply no place where or time when such a state of affairs can be considered acceptable. If nothing else, the dire situation should strengthen our collective resolve to end the protracted war that Israel is waging against the entire Palestinian population. The destruction of Gaza's healthcare system is well documented. That deplorable situation, compounded by Israel's restrictions on the entry and distribution of medical supplies, has, according to OHCHR, led to the drastic deterioration of health outcomes across the entire population and a health catastrophe of unprecedented proportions, including the spread of infectious diseases such as polio, Hepatitis-A, acute diarrhoea and jaundice. Guyana remains convinced that the ongoing attacks on the healthcare infrastructure in Gaza, including medical personnel, is part of a systematic plan against the Palestinian people. They have been bombed, shot, starved of food and water, arbitrarily detained and tortured. They have also been displaced and forced to live in unsanitary conditions. Those who manage to survive encounter disease and other consequences of deprivation, with little or no recourse to functioning healthcare facilities.

Every time we think that the situation in Gaza could not possibly get worse, it does. Guyana condemns in the strongest terms all attacks on hospitals and medical and humanitarian personnel. As an occupying Power with specific legal responsibilities, Israel must be held to account for its actions. The continued violations of international law, including international human rights law and international humanitarian law, in the Gaza Strip and the occupied West Bank should not be met with inaction. We reiterate that there should be no comfort in calling for adherence to international law without taking tangible steps to bring about such adherence. The Security Council has a special responsibility to uphold international law and ensure the protection of civilians and civilian objects across Gaza. Guyana again calls for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza and an end to the campaign of violence being waged against the Palestinian people. The two-State solution remains the only viable option.

Guyana commends the World Health Organization and its partners for their tireless efforts to continue providing healthcare, basic medical and hygiene supplies, food and water amid the ongoing chaos in northern Gaza. We call Israel, as the occupying Power, to uphold its legal obligations to ensure that the life-saving, humanitarian and healthcare needs of the Palestinians are met. We also appeal to fellow Council members to work together to bring an end to this ongoing tragedy.

Mr. Žbogar (Slovenia): As this is the first time we meet this month, I would like to wish you every success, Mr. President, during your presidency. I also welcome the new members of the Council and look forward to working with them. I thank the President for convening today's meeting and the briefers for their presentations. It is very appropriate to start the new year with today's briefings as a reality check for the Council.

Security Council briefings are not an end in themselves. They have a purpose — for the Security Council to reflect on the facts heard in order to establish how much the concerns raised threaten the peace, security and well-being of civilian populations and to take action accordingly.

Last year we spent many hours discussing the catastrophic situation in Gaza. Each briefing was more devastating, brutal and apocalyptic than the next. We learned that the health community in Gaza coined a new term: "wounded child, no surviving family". We were briefed about doctors performing amputations without anaesthesia, including on children. We discussed the heartbreaking phone calls between emergency call operators and 6-year old Hind, later found dead, together with paramedics. We had no lack of established facts about the situation on the ground. We spent many more hours, days, weeks and months trying to find a united Council voice — too many times without success — for proper Council action. We start this year with news of babies arriving to the hospital dead on arrival. They froze to death.

The messages from Dr. Haj-Hassan are touching for us all, but they should not come as a surprise. What each of these briefings keeps telling us is that everything needed to sustain human life is under attack in Gaza. The hands of the Security Council seem to be tied, but these briefings and SOS messages are a reminder of why we cannot give up and need to keep trying for the Council to live up to its name and responsibilities.

Slovenia underlines that Israel, as the occupying Power, has the legal responsibility to ensure and maintain the provision of medical services, public health and hygiene. We are therefore appalled by the findings of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights report on the attacks on hospitals during the escalation of hostilities in Gaza. While we followed numerous attacks on, and operations in, major healthcare facilities, the report and High Commissioner Türk in his briefing today highlight a pattern of similar attacks on hospitals by the Israel Defense Forces. The report also addresses allegations regarding violations of the protected status of hospitals and medical personnel.

We are appalled that trauma injuries have not received life-saving assistance, that risks of preventable maternal and child mortality have grown and that access to chronic disease treatments has been lost. Infrastructure vital to public health, including the entire water and sanitation system, have been systematically dismantled, as confirmed today by Dr. Peeperkorn, the representative of the World Health Organization in the occupied territory. Medical evacuations have been restricted, along with essential medical supplies and basic items. Hospitals have been besieged and medical workers attacked, many losing their lives while saving others. The work of UNRWA, the main provider of healthcare services in Gaza, has been challenged, and the list goes on.

Now the director of Kamal Adwan Hospital is being detained after months of repeated attacks and last week's raid, which rendered the hospital out of service and left the patients to fend for themselves. We call for his release. We call for the International Committee of the Red Cross to get access to the detainees in Israeli detention centres, and for ensuring that hospitals in north Gaza can become functional again. We also continue to call for the immediate release of all hostages. We are deeply alarmed about information about an attempted suicide.

The polio vaccination campaign showed that when there is collective will, there is a way. But the occupying Power does not seem to have the will to save civilians in Gaza. On the contrary, with a sense of impunity for its continuous destruction of Gaza, there does not seem to be any humanity left in Gaza — neither for Palestinians nor for hostages.

Hospitals are not and should not be a battleground. That is against the law. We underline the moral and legal imperative of respecting the protected status of hospitals, the wounded and sick, the medical staff and their means of transport and equipment. In that regard, we deplore all violations of that imperative and call for full respect of international law, including all relevant Security Council resolutions. All such people and objects must be actively protected and never attacked or used for military purposes.

Already in October 2023, Slovenia called for an independent, full, prompt and effective investigation of the attack on Al-Ahli Hospital. Today we support High Commissioner Türk's call for independent, credible and transparent investigations of the incidents and attacks on healthcare, including during hospital sieges, leading to full accountability.

There is no convincing argument for this war on Palestinians in Gaza to continue. We continue to call for the implementation of all relevant Security Council resolutions. We call for the unconditional release of all hostages, and we call for an immediate and unconditional ceasefire. We agree with Dr. Haj-Hassan that enough is enough.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): Sierra Leone congratulates you, Mr. President, and Algeria on assuming the presidency of the Security Council for the month of January 2025. We assure you of our full support. We thank and commend the United States for their successful presidency in December 2024.

We further welcome the newly elected members of the Council, namely, Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia. We look forward to working collaboratively with the new members and the entire Council in helping it discharge its important responsibility.

As I thank the delegation of Algeria for requesting and convening today's briefing, I also thank Mr. Volker Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and Dr. Rik Peepkorn, World Health Organization (WHO) Representative for the West Bank and Gaza, the occupied Palestinian territory, for their sobering briefings that describe the appalling situation in the Gaza Strip. In addition, I thank Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan, medical practitioner with the Medical Aid for Palestinians charity, for her compelling contribution.

As we start the New Year, our thoughts and prayers are with the Palestinian and Israeli civilians, who have been subjected to a prolonged war, have lost loved ones and properties, have been displaced from their homes, and with those who are still being held hostage or are suffering from collective punishment. We stand in solidarity with the civilians in the Gaza Strip and those in other active conflict zones, overshadowed by indignity, inhumanity and a series of human-made crises threatening their well-being.

These important words bear repeating — even wars have rules. However, the conflict in Gaza has tested all principles and rules under international law that safeguard the dignity of humankind even in times of conflict. At the heart of those principles is the protection of civilians, including medical personnel and facilities essential to ensuring that humanitarian aid can reach those in dire need and human dignity can be maintained. Despite the protections under international law, the ongoing violence in Gaza has seen repeated attacks on hospitals, healthcare facilities, transportation and healthcare workers — violations that strike at the core of human rights and the very essence of international humanitarian law.

In times of armed conflict, international humanitarian law has made provisions through its humane rules to protect access to healthcare. Those rules bind the parties to a conflict, and they apply to the wounded and sick, medical personnel, medical units and transport. The parties to an armed conflict are not to impede the provision of care by preventing the passage of medical personnel. They must facilitate access to the wounded and the sick and provide the necessary assistance and protection to medical personnel. Generally, States have an obligation to maintain a functioning healthcare system. In situations of occupation, the occupying Power must, to the fullest extent of the means available, ensure and maintain, inter alia, medical and hospital establishments and services, public health and hygiene.

In the context of the situation in Palestine, it is the responsibility of the occupying Power, Israel, to ensure access to healthcare within a functioning healthcare system and not to destroy the already fragile healthcare system. In the aftermath of the condemnable 7 October 2023 attacks led by Hamas, we have witnessed an unrelenting wave of violence in the occupied Palestinian territory, marked by appalling living conditions, a high level of insecurity and air strikes on residential buildings, hospitals and densely populated areas. Sierra Leone is deeply disturbed by the joint statement of the independent United Nations Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967 and the Special Rapporteur on the right to health and their assessment that:

“Israel's blatant assault on the right to health in Gaza and the rest of the occupied Palestinian territory is plumbing new depths of impunity”.

Similar to the briefing by the WHO representative, the most recent updates from the United Nations and its humanitarian partners highlight the critical status of the health situation in the Gaza Strip, as hospitals have been struck and health workers killed and/or detained, in addition to the unavailability of medical supplies to treat the injured and ill patients. The attacks on and around hospitals have pushed the healthcare system to the brink of collapse, as more than 85 per cent of the healthcare facilities remain non-operational. Recent raids around the Kamal Adwan Hospital — one of the major health facilities in the north — have forced the facility out of service. Health experts have projected that, if care is not taken, sooner than anyone can imagine, the number of deaths caused by disease will surpass those caused by air strikes, as civilians live in unsanitary conditions characterized by the accumulation of solid waste, sewage overflow and exposure to intense weather conditions without appropriate shelter or proper sanitary facilities. We deeply regret hearing reports about the deaths of babies and other civilians owing to poor housing and severe weather conditions. The appalling situation being inflicted on the Palestinians could be irreparable, and it is an outright violation of the dignity and human rights of the Palestinian people.

As we reflect on the more than 45,541 Palestinians killed and 108,338 injured so far in the Gaza Strip, we again urge the conflicting parties to cease all attacks on civilians and civilian infrastructure and avoid any further actions that could claim more lives or cause more injuries. Any circumstances that could lead to deliberate killings of civilians must be avoided at all costs, and we call on the conflicting parties to respect and uphold the rights of all people to life, dignity, food and water — the bare minimum required for human existence.

As we heard from Mr. Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, international law — in particular the Geneva Conventions and their Additional Protocols — unequivocally prohibits the targeting of medical personnel and medical facilities in armed conflict. The legal framework embodied by the principles of humanity and medical neutrality and designed to safeguard human life and dignity asserts that medical units must be respected and protected. Medical personnel, symbolized by the director and medical team of the Kamal Adwan Hospital, should be allowed to perform their duties without interference and should be protected from attack, while medical facilities are to be safeguarded. They are not to be used for military purposes, to maintain their protected status. The systematic exploitation of medical facilities by all sides must stop. It must be clear to all States and non-State actors that international law prohibits attacks and threats against the wounded and the sick, medical and humanitarian personnel exclusively engaged in medical duties, their means of transport and equipment, as well as hospitals and other medical facilities.

As a matter of fact, the Security Council has repeatedly reinforced the need for strict adherence to those principles. In resolution 2286 (2016), the Council condemned the targeting of medical personnel and facilities, calling for the protection of medical workers and unhindered access to healthcare in conflict zones. The Council has demanded that all parties to armed conflict must comply fully with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law, as applicable, in particular their obligations under the Geneva Conventions and their Additional Protocols. The Council has also demanded that all parties to armed conflict facilitate safe and unimpeded passage for medical and humanitarian personnel. Resolution 2286 (2016) also emphasized the critical need to hold accountable those responsible for violating international humanitarian law and to ensure that medical personnel can operate freely and safely. In that regard, we recall the provisions of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court on the prohibition of intentional attacks on hospitals, places where the sick and the wounded are collected, and medical units.

The international community, including the United Nations and the Council, must hold accountable those responsible for those violations and take immediate steps to ensure the safety and security of medical personnel and the preservation of healthcare infrastructure in conflict zones such as Gaza. It is imperative that all parties involved in the conflict adhere to their legal obligations and respect the sanctity of healthcare in times of war.

Let me conclude with the words of the WHO Director-General, Dr. Tedros Ghebreyesus: the best medicine is peace. The longer we allow this war to persist, the greater the cost will be. We once again demand an immediate and unconditional ceasefire and the release of all hostages, as the first steps to ending the inhumanity in Gaza and ushering in a period of stability in the region.

Mr. Fu Cong (China) (spoke in Chinese): At the outset, I wish to congratulate Algeria on assuming the presidency of the Security Council for this month. I welcome the fact that Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia are officially taking part in the Council's work. China looks forward to working with all Council members so that the Security Council may effectively fulfil its mandate under the Charter of the United Nations. I thank Algeria for the initiative to convene today's meeting. I thank Mr. Türk, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, Dr. Peepkorn and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their briefings.

As the new year begins, people expect everything to take on a fresh look. Yet in Gaza, death continues to cast its shadow, and the bombings and attacks by Israel have not ceased, even for a moment. For the people in Gaza, they were not counting down to the happy celebration of the new year but to the next bombing, which could happen at any time. Right before the new year, a heinous tragedy took place in northern Gaza. The Israeli force launched an attack on Kamal Adwan Hospital, the only remaining comprehensive medical service institution in northern Gaza, forcibly detaining medical and care personnel, forcibly transferring innocent patients, causing the deaths of a large number of people and plunging the hospital into a sea of fire. That act seriously violates international law, in particular international humanitarian law. It is appalling, and China strongly condemns it.

It is not the first time that Kamal Adwan Hospital has been attacked, or is it the only hospital in Gaza that has been attacked. According to the report of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, by June 2024 alone, at least 27 hospitals and 12 medical institutions in Gaza had been subject to 136 attacks, which claimed the lives of more than 500 medical personnel. Protecting the safety of medical facilities in armed conflict is a bottom line under international humanitarian law. Without sufficient evidence proving that medical facilities have become hostile facilities, the deliberate launch of large-scale and indiscriminate attacks against medical institutions that cause casualties of innocent civilians violates international humanitarian law could constitute war crimes. There is also analysis indicating that the lethal attacks launched by Israel against the medical institutions in Gaza to bring the medical system in Gaza to the brink of collapse are part of the systematic strategy to make Gaza uninhabitable. China expresses its grave concerns about and strong opposition to that. We urge Israel to effectively abide by its obligations under international humanitarian law, stop turning hospitals into battlefields, stop launching attacks on medical facilities, ensure the safety of medical institutions and personnel and release all detained medical personnel.

The conflict in Gaza has already caused an unprecedented humanitarian catastrophe and civilian casualties. As the conflict enters its fifteenth month and comes to the beginning of 2025, ending the conflict and restoring peace remain the most pressing matter and a duty whose fulfilment has been delayed by the Security Council for too long. The country concerned repeatedly claims that a ceasefire agreement will soon be reached, yet the reality is continued killing and death. I wish to stress that differences in negotiations should be bridged by political will and not be filled with innocent lives. Winning the war does not necessarily mean securing peace, and resorting only to military strength does not guarantee lasting security. China urges Israel to heed the strong calls of the international community and immediately stop all acts of military adventurism. China calls upon Israel to lift restrictions on humanitarian access for Gaza, stop implementing and revoke promptly the bills against the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and guarantee safety and facilitation for UNRWA and other humanitarian agencies to carry out their assistance. China supports the Security Council in fulfilling its responsibility for maintaining international peace and security and in taking all necessary actions to achieve a ceasefire in Gaza, alleviate the humanitarian disaster and implement the two-State solution to respond to the expectations of the international community.

Mr. Sekeris (Greece): First, let me congratulate you, Mr. President, on assuming your duties and wish you a very productive presidency. And I warmly thank colleagues and fellow Member States for welcoming us to the Security Council. I would also like to thank the United Nations High Commissioner of Human Rights, Mr. Volker Türk, World Health Organization representative Dr. Rik Peepkorn, and Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan for their detailed yet sobering briefings. Their participation here provides valuable insight on the issue at hand.

It has been 14 enormously difficult months for the people of Gaza. Our briefers today, along with those who preceded them in this Chamber over the past year, have tried to describe a situation in the Gaza Strip that is almost beyond comprehension. This is a grave situation that has been in a downward spiral for the past year, while the recent attacks on hospitals have pushed an already inadequate health system to the brink of total collapse.

Greece is extremely concerned that, after more than a year of ongoing conflict in Gaza, an end to the human suffering remains elusive. While we recognize Israel's right to self-defence and the shock that the Israeli society has been through following the deaths of 1,200 citizens and the continuous captivity of 100 hostages for 14 months, we have to remind ourselves that, when all else fails, international law and international humanitarian law are the compass of our humanity. We join our fellow Member States in calling for full respect of the provisions of international humanitarian law, which constitutes the compass and the framework for all operations in Gaza. International humanitarian law tells us that hospitals should not be used improperly for any military use and that no operations should be undertaken against those facilities under the pretence of vague allegations. The destruction of the healthcare system, in combination with the killing of patients, humanitarian workers, medical staff and other civilians, constitutes a severe violation of international humanitarian and human rights law.

The suffering and dehumanization of civilians must come to an end. All crossings should be open for aid delivery, and sanctuaries should be protected and not turned into death traps for those who were forced to flee. At the same time, it is important for humanitarian aid to be delivered without being pillaged by criminal elements ravaging the area. The operations of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East remain vital for the civilian population.

The current humanitarian crisis in the Gaza Strip cannot be dealt without dialogue and diplomacy. Military pressure alone is insufficient to defeat terrorism and extremist ideologies. Since the horrific attacks of 7 October 2023 and the pain they have inflicted on Israeli society, hostages remain in captivity, while death, destruction and disease reign over Gaza. It is beyond any doubt that a ceasefire, the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and the urgent, unhindered distribution of aid at scale constitute the only way to turn the tide. The only long-term solution for the region is to revitalize the political process in order to pave the way for a political horizon for a two-State solution, according to the relevant Security Council resolutions, while recognizing the right of Israel to exist in peace and security.

Only two days ago, we all rang in the New Year, most of us with a New Year's resolution. Ours was to represent our country with dignity in this organ. At this time of the year, I cannot help but think of the people in Gaza and the families of hostages in Israel, and I believe that peace is their demand and their hope for this year — it is a gift worth trying to give them.

Dame Barbara Woodward (United Kingdom): Let me start by congratulating you, Mr. President, on assuming the presidency of the Council for this month, and I join you and others in welcoming Denmark, Greece, Panama, Pakistan and Somalia to the Council. I thank you, President, for calling this important briefing, and I also thank Dr. Peeperkorn, High Commissioner Türk and Dr. Haj-Hassan for their powerful and compelling briefings and for their teams' work on the ground.

We are all horrified by the deterioration of the healthcare situation in Gaza. It is completely unacceptable that, since 7 October, many medical facilities have been destroyed or damaged and that more than 1,000 medical personnel have been killed, injured or detained. And, as Dr. Haj-Hassan reminded us, their SOS calls have been ignored. Following the forcible evacuation of Kamal Adwan Hospital, there are now no functioning hospitals in North Gaza governorate. Deteriorating access to medical services across Gaza is compounding acute child malnutrition, the risk of imminent famine and the spread of infectious diseases.

As we face this devastating situation, the United Kingdom reiterates three key and fundamental demands.

First, we call for civilians and medical staff to be protected, in line with international humanitarian law. Israel is responsible for ensuring that civilians have access to vital medical care and for enabling medical practitioners to operate safely. The United Kingdom continues to urge Israel to abide by its international obligations, including those set out in resolution 2286 (2016). We also call on Israel to clarify the whereabouts of medical staff detained from hospitals in the north. We are aware of reports of Hamas using civilian infrastructure for their operations, including hospitals. The United Kingdom strongly condemns such actions. By embedding themselves in civilian infrastructure, Hamas clearly put Palestinian civilians and medical staff at risk. We reiterate, however, that obligations under international humanitarian law to protect hospitals and healthcare workers are unconditional.

Secondly, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) must be allowed to play its essential role, including in delivering medical services, and we unequivocally reject attempts to undermine its mandate. On 11 December, my Prime Minister committed an additional $16.5 million to UNRWA to support vital services, including for medical care. The United Kingdom is also supporting the provision of essential healthcare, including through funding to UK-Med to run a field hospital and provide other healthcare services in Gaza.

Thirdly, Israel must do much more to immediately address this crisis, and both sides must finally end this war.

The United Kingdom will keep pushing for an immediate ceasefire, for the release of all hostages cruelly detained by Hamas, for the better protection of civilians, for more aid consistently entering Gaza and for a path to long-term peace and stability.

Mr. Alfaro de Alba (Panama) (spoke in Spanish): Allow me to congratulate you, Mr. President, on Algeria's assumption of the presidency of the Security Council for the month of January. Panama expresses its gratitude to the presidency of the Council for convening this important meeting, the representative of the World Health Organization for the West Bank and Gaza, Dr. Rik Peeperkorn, and the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, Volker Türk, for their briefings and Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan, of Medical Aid for Palestinians, for her touching statement.

We address the Council today for the first time with a profound sense of urgency and responsibility in the light of the deteriorating situation in the Gaza Strip and its implications for regional and global stability. The humanitarian crisis in Gaza, as evidenced by various United Nations agencies, has reached increasingly alarming proportions. More than 45,000 people have died, tens of thousands have been injured, and more than 2 million people have been displaced from one place to another, with urgent needs in terms of food, access to clean water, medical care and shelter, especially given the inclement winter weather. Reports of children who have lost their lives to hypothermia are chilling.

The Secretary-General's most recent report on the implementation of resolution 2334 (2016) highlights the fact that basic services in Gaza have been completely devastated, with health services in critical situation and at imminent risk of total collapse owing to severe shortages of medicines, ambulances, life-saving treatments, electricity and clean water. That situation has become increasingly dramatic, to the point that the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs reported in December that, after 14 months of bombardment, Gaza is home to the largest number of child amputees in modern history.

In addition to the risk to life, physical safety and protection, more than 540,000 women and girls in Gaza have an urgent need for access to essential products to ensure their menstrual care with dignity and well-being, which is critical not only to preserve their physical health, but also to protect their integrity and ensure their quality of life in the midst of a humanitarian crisis that continues to worsen.

We are concerned that hospitals, health workers, schools, United Nations facilities and other protected sites continue to come under attack in the armed conflict, hampering the delivery of essential services and humanitarian aid to the Palestinian population and, in the view of the Director-General of the World Health Organization, turning hospitals into new battlefields. We express our solidarity with the Director-General of the World Health Organization, Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, who was the victim of an attack in Yemen where he risked his life to safeguard the freedom of United Nations staff members and other civilians.

We strongly reject attacks on humanitarian aid workers and United Nations personnel and their unjustified detention, because they are working in extreme conditions to assist those most in need, risking their own lives. Such acts are unacceptable. We also express deep concern about the information provided in the briefings and maintain that the protection of hospitals in wartime, which should, of course, not be used for military purposes, is essential and must be guaranteed and respected by all parties at all times.

Panama insists on the urgent need to keep border crossings open to facilitate the unimpeded flow of vital humanitarian assistance, including medical and health assistance, and we remind all parties of their obligation to ensure that that aid reaches civilians in need directly, in accordance with the provisions of the resolutions adopted by the Council.

Moreover, after the unjustifiable atrocities committed by Hamas against Israeli civilians on that fateful 7 October 2023, its insistent attacks on Israeli territory and its people are counterproductive. We do not understand Hamas's inexplicable stubbornness in refusing to release the Israeli hostages it is holding captive and who should never have been taken, without as yet demonstrating the political will to seek realistic conditions for an agreement that would lead to an end to the cycle of violence. It would seem suicidal were it not for the fact that suicide means ending one's own life, while in Gaza, Hamas's stubbornness instead sacrifices the lives of others — the innocent men, women and children of the Palestinian people.

In line with what I have mentioned, Panama reaffirms its commitment to the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and regrets the loss of civilian lives, as well as any violation of international humanitarian law.

The President: I now give the floor to the Permanent Observer of the observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine) (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, I would like to congratulate the brotherly Republic of Algeria on its assumption of the presidency for this month. We wish you, Sir, every success. I would like to thank you for your tireless international effort in defence of the Palestinian people and their just cause, especially in the light of the continued illegal colonial Israeli occupation and its brutal massacre against our innocent civilian population. We have learned from your experience, Mr. President, from your glorious Algerian revolution and from the experiences of peoples under the yoke of colonialism and occupation. History shows that colonialism and occupation inevitably come to an end and that the attainment of freedom and independence is not just wishful thinking. No matter how long it takes, it will eventually become a reality.

We ended the year 2024 discussing Palestine, and that is how we are starting the year 2025 with the Security Council under the presidency of Algeria, which is only normal. The Security Council must end the aggression immediately and without conditions.

(spoke in English)

At the start of this year, I also wish to convey our sincere congratulations to the elected members of the Security Council now taking on their responsibilities: Denmark, Greece, Pakistan, Panama and Somalia. As proven during the past year, the elected members have a very important role to play in ensuring that the Security Council upholds its duties under the Charter of the United Nations, and we assure them of our full cooperation.

We also thank the briefers — the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, Mr. Volker Türk; Dr. Rik Peepkorn, World Health Organization Representative for the West Bank and Gaza; and Dr. Tanya Haj-Hassan — for their important briefings and compelling testimonies to the Security Council.

I listened today to Dr. Haj-Hassan, as I listened to her at the end of November, when she addressed the United Nations during the International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People (see A/AC.183/PV.420). She is a great humanitarian and is able to very faithfully convey some of the messages of the Palestinian people in the Gaza Strip from the heart of a super humanitarian to the minds and hearts of those who are responsible for the maintenance of international peace and security. On behalf of the Palestinian people, especially in the Gaza Strip, I thank her very much.

The image of Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya wearing his white medical gown, a symbol of hope and humanity, summoned and walking towards Israeli tanks, embodying death and destruction, will remain forever a reflection of what is at stake in Gaza — humanity itself. It will show people standing up against all odds in the face of terrible suffering, trauma and death, and it will show how alone they were in that moment.

Palestinian doctors and medical personnel are fighting to save human lives and losing their own. They are fighting a battle they cannot win. And yet they are unwilling to surrender and to betray the oath they took. They are trying to save lives while hospitals are under attack; while medical personnel are, together with their patients and people seeking shelter, being besieged and killed; while buildings and wards, even for mothers and newborn babies, are being destroyed; while access to medicine is being denied; while electricity is being cut; while starvation is being imposed and while they know that the people they are trying to heal will most probably die and that they, the doctors, will be held responsible by Israel for the ultimate crime of trying to preserve life in Gaza and will be detained, tortured and even killed. And yet, they continue trying.

Dr. Mahmoud Abu Nujaila, who was killed in an Israeli air strike on Al-Awda Hospital, wrote a message many months ago on a whiteboard in the hospital normally used for planning surgeries: “Whoever stays until the end will tell the story. We did what we could. Remember us.” We owe them more than remembrance. Nothing can explain that, for 15 months, Palestinians in Gaza have endured hell and been abandoned to that fate. Nothing justifies the fact that the doctors who were trying to save the lives of victims have become themselves the victims and that the international community was not able to match even part of their courage or their dedication to humanity.

Dr. Adnan Al-Bursh wrote: “We will die standing and we will not kneel ... All that remains in the valley are its stones, and we are its stones.” Dr. Al-Bursh was the head of orthopaedics at Gaza’s Al-Shifa Hospital. He became a familiar face across the globe, as his videos showed him operating on the injured and the dying with little or no equipment and digging mass graves with his colleagues in the yard of the hospital and finally facing the Israeli assault in a hospital where thousands had sought safety. The Israeli army ordered Al-Shifa, its patients, staff and approximately 50,000 displaced people sheltering in the compound to evacuate before setting the hospital on fire. Instead of fleeing, Dr. Al-Bursh made his way to the Indonesian Hospital in northern Gaza, where he worked until that too came under fire in November 2023. But refusing to renege on his oath, he moved to Al-Awda Hospital where he was eventually arrested by the Israeli occupation forces. Four months later, Ofer prison guards dragged Dr. Al-Bursh and dumped him in the prison yard, naked from the waist down, bleeding and unable to stand, according to a deposition collected by Israeli human rights organizations. He died shortly thereafter. The death of Dr. Al-Bursh while in Israeli custody is not a solitary case. Other doctors and many other detainees died while in custody, after having suffered from abuse, torture and rape.

This is not a war. And, as Dr. Haj-Hassan indicated, this is an assault against Palestinian existence. Its target is therefore life itself in Gaza and all those who are trying to sustain it, all those trying to ensure survival in the midst of this genocide. In line with this criminal intent, it is therefore logical that medical personnel, doctors, nurses and paramedics are among its primary objectives. This is immoral and unbearable, and it must be stopped. The entirety of international humanitarian law rests on a fundamental rule: affording protection to those not taking part or no longer taking part in hostilities — first and foremost, civilians, the sick, the wounded and those detained.

Instead of upholding the cardinal principle of distinction, Israel systematically resorts to indiscriminate attacks, when it does not deliberately target those afforded protection under international law. It does this time after time through same acts, the same patterns, the same criminal and inhumane conduct. It does this through assaults against hospitals, leading to the death and detention of civilians, including babies and children, who are already experiencing hell on Earth. No one should grow accustomed to these horrors.

Israel wants to normalize genocide. According to the report from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights,

“[t]he attacks on hospitals often followed a similar pattern, involving missile strikes on hospital buildings, the destruction of hospital facilities, shooting of civilians, sieges, as well as temporarily taking over hospital buildings.”

And that is without addressing

“the many cases of arbitrary detention, enforced disappearance, and ill-treatment of medical personnel and other Palestinians, including internally displaced persons, taken into custody from inside hospitals, which has been reported on elsewhere”.

This is barbaric, and it should lead to not only a repeated expression of outrage, but also resolute action for accountability in order to prevent the recurrence of such horrors. As warned by United Nations experts,

“[u]nder occupation, intentional assaults on healthcare facilities have the potential to expose individuals to cruel, inhumane and degrading treatment and many constitute a war crime. In Gaza, this is clearly part of a well-established pattern of genocide, for which Israeli leaders will have to be held accountable.”

There is no justification for the commission of war crimes. There is no justification for the commission of crimes against humanity. There is no justification for the commission of the crime of genocide. There is no justification whatsoever. The International Court of Justice provisional measures and orders aimed at preserving the right of the Palestinian people to be protected from acts of genocide have not only been disregarded by Israel, but they have been blatantly breached, materializing the risk instead of addressing it.

Israeli action can be understood only in the context of the real goals of this war. Remember that we talked about the report of the generals, which we do not talk about anymore. Israeli officials and military commanders have often confessed to them and to anyone willing to hear — some do not want to, some like to hear only what they like to hear. Israeli occupation soldiers have described the actions and instructions of their division. Brigadier General Yehuda Vach, Commander of the 252 Division, stated to Haaretz that his aim was to flatten as much of Gaza as possible and to forcibly displace some 250,000 Palestinians who were still present in northern Gaza in order to take over the land. He is building a private militia from settlers, relatives and fanatic soldiers to destroy 50-60 buildings in the Gaza Strip every day and to render Gaza a place where not a single Palestinian could live. He was clear that they needed to “make things hard on convoys that enter and harass them”, according to Haaretz. Not only are there thieves who steal the trucks, but Israeli soldiers are watching and facilitating that behaviour, insisting that “there are no innocents in Gaza”. For those who think that this is a war against Hamas and not against the Palestinian people, a Brigadier General currently in the Israeli army, the Commander of the 252nd Division, stated that “there are no innocents in Gaza”. Every individual in the Gaza Strip, all Palestinian people are fair game. But his greatest insanity, in the words of one officer of the occupation army, was the one about “moving the Gazans southward and taking as much land as possible”.

There is a war against the Palestinian people. It is a war of genocide. Its goal is to eliminate as many as possible and to render Gaza uninhabitable. They do not want Palestinians in the Gaza Strip, which will extend, later on, to other parts of the occupied territory. Evacuation orders and the destruction of civilians infrastructure, including hospitals, and killings and maiming of civilians, including doctors, have to be understood in that context. Either the Palestinians are displaced or they are destroyed. There is no option other than ethnic cleansing or genocide? And, for the time being, it has meant both.

The images are out there for all to see — images of repeated assaults against our hospitals as part of the assault on Palestinian life and Palestinian existence. One can also see such assaults in the West Bank by the Israeli occupation forces. They keep claiming the use of human shields. They say Hamas used the people in Gaza as human shields, saying how outrageous it is for combatants to use human shields or to pretend to be civilians, when their occupation forces have done both repeatedly. With occupation forces sometimes disguised as civilians or patients, one even pretending to be a pregnant women seeking care with her relatives, have conducted military raids against and within hospitals. That is their behaviour. For those who try to lecture the Council about others using civilians and human shields, that evidence and those stories have been documented, and some of those people were caught in the act.

We salute all the medical practitioners from around the world who have volunteered to help our people in Gaza and all those who have expressed solidarity and provided support to their colleagues in Palestine. Their moral voices give hope to the Palestinian people and to all those who cherish and seek to preserve humanity. Everyone needs to choose whether they stand with hope and humanity — as embodied by the white coat worn by doctors around the world — or with destruction and death. Those who say they have made the right choice need to act accordingly.

Dr. Hussam Abu Safia stated a few weeks before the ultimate assault on Kamal Adwan Hospital:

“I refused to leave the hospital and sacrifice my patients. So, the army punished me by killing my son. I saw him die at the entrance gate of the hospital. It was a great shock. I found a grave for him near one of the hospital’s walls so that he could stay close to me.”

Dr. Abu Safia was himself injured, and he has now been abducted, detained, his fate unknown. He refused to leave the victims behind. Can we not display some degree of that same courage?

The plight of Dr. Hussam Abu Safia, who must be immediately released, is but one story from Gaza among an infinite number of stories of unimaginable loss, trauma, pain, suffering, courage and resilience — a story of a people who, while receiving the solidarity of peoples and countries from around the world, feel abandoned to a terrible fate, enduring a never-ending hell.

It is our collective responsibility to bring that hell to an end. It is our collective responsibility to bring the genocide to an end. We have a duty to save lives. The Council has an obligation to save lives. Palestinian doctors and medical personnel took that mission to heart, at the peril of their lives. They did not abandon the victims. Do not abandon them. End Israeli impunity. End the genocide. End the aggression immediately and unconditionally, now.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Miller (Israel): The Middle East stands today at a critical juncture, with continued Houthi attacks against civilians in Israel and in the Red Sea, Syria’s precarious position following the fall of the brutal Al-Assad regime, the ongoing firing of rockets by Hamas again just yesterday at Be’eri, where Israeli civilians were massacred on 7 October 2023, and 100 hostages still being held captive by Hamas terrorists.

The presidency called for an emergency session today not to deal with those threats and challenges and not to condemn the terrorists, who are blatantly violating international law by exploiting hospitals as bases for military activity. Such actions negatively impact the credibility of the Council and the international system. Hospitals are meant to be sanctuaries of care and compassion, yet Hamas has transformed them into tools for terror, exploiting their sanctity to shield its murderous aims and wage war against civilians. That is not an isolated tactic or an act of desperation. It is a deliberate and systematic strategy, a cornerstone of Hamas' operational doctrine — their modus operandi.

Though we have known this for many years, the past 15 months have exposed the depth of Hamas' depravity. In November 2023, Israel Defense Forces (IDF) troops exposed a terror tunnel, 55 metres long and ten metres deep, underneath the Al-Shifa Hospital complex, along with massive caches of weapons throughout the tunnel and the hospital. In that same month, at the Indonesian hospital, IDF forces identified a white Toyota truck used during the massacre of 7 October 2023, located within the hospital compound. In addition, a vehicle with an Israeli license plate and bloodstains that were later linked to a hostage was found in the hospital area.

In February 2024, the IDF uncovered a network of terror tunnels connecting the Turkish Hospital in Gaza City to nearby operational facilities. The tunnels allowed Hamas operatives to move weapons and personnel discreetly, all the while exposing and exploiting the civilian infrastructure of the hospital. In March 2024, the IDF revealed dozens of weapons, millions of dollars in blood money and hundreds of operatives once again inside Al-Shifa Hospital. We found further video footage proving that Hamas took hostages to Al-Shifa following the 7 October 2023 attack and that the hostage Noa Marciano was murdered by a Hamas terrorist within the hospital walls. Just four days ago, on 30 December 2024, Hamas operatives were caught on camera planting explosives a mere 45 metres from the Indonesian Hospital in northern Gaza. And now, Kamal Adwan Hospital has become the latest site to be exploited by Hamas, a grim addition to their well-documented and public history of abusing civilian infrastructure.

The Council must confront that undeniable reality. Hamas does not respect the sanctity of hospitals, schools or places of worship. It uses them to protect its terrorists, store its weapons and launch its attacks. It uses the civilian population as human shields, playing on the instinct for protecting the vulnerable. At Kamal Adwan Hospital, Hamas turned a facility for healing into a command centre for terror. Since October 2024, following an IDF operation in the area, Hamas entrenched itself in the hospital, embedding its military infrastructure and operational hubs within its walls. Despite Israel's repeated calls, since the start of the operation in October, for the unlawful military use of the hospital to cease, those warnings were again ignored and disregarded. This week's precise operation by the IDF revealed the extent of Hamas' abuse of the facility. Over 240 terrorists were apprehended, including 15 who had participated in the 7 October 2023 massacre — the darkest day in Israel's modern history, on which more than 1,200 lives were brutally taken by the terrorists. Among those apprehended was the hospital's director himself. We suspected him of being a Hamas operative, as hundreds of Hamas and Islamic Jihad terrorists had been hiding inside Kamal Adwan Hospital under his management. He is currently being investigated by Israeli security forces.

That operation was not a choice. It was a necessity. It was conducted on the basis of extensive intelligence gathered over months, confirming Hamas' activities on hospital premises. In accordance with international humanitarian law, the IDF implemented comprehensive measures to mitigate harm to civilians. Prior to the operation, Israel facilitated the evacuation of 350 patients, caregivers and medical staff from the hospital, along with the delivery of tens of thousands of litres of fuel, hundreds of food parcels and critical medical supplies to sustain hospital operations. As the operation progressed, an additional 95 patients, staff and caregivers were safely transferred to the Indonesian Hospital. That included the provision of 5,000 litres of fuel, two generators and essential medical equipment to maintain critical systems and ensure uninterrupted care.

Israel continues to cooperate with the international community in order to strengthen the medical response capabilities at the Indonesian Hospital. In addition, the IDF worked with the director of Kamal Adwan Hospital to ensure that patients and other civilians vacated the facility prior to the commencement of its precise operation. The operation uncovered caches of weapons, including grenades, firearms, ammunition and other military equipment, hidden within the hospital grounds. As IDF forces operated nearby, they faced attacks from Hamas operatives firing anti-tank missiles and rocket-propelled grenades. That is the stark contrast between Israel and Hamas: while Hamas endangers civilians, Israel protects them, even at the risk of our own personnel's lives. Hamas's exploitation of hospitals is not only a moral abomination but a blatant violation of international law, and far too often, the international response has been silence.

On 17 October 2023, when an explosion rocked Al-Ahli Hospital, many in the Chamber and around the world rushed to pass judgment, parroting casualty figures provided by Hamas terrorists. Those numbers were grossly inflated, and the explosion was caused not by Israel but by a misfired Islamic Jihad rocket. Yet the damage was done, and Hamas's propaganda had achieved its goal. The Council cannot afford to repeat those mistakes. It must not allow itself to be manipulated by those who weaponize the truth. It must maintain its dignity and credibility.

Israel's actions exemplify its commitment to international humanitarian law and principles. Despite the challenges of protecting itself against an enemy that hides behind civilians, Israel continues to uphold its obligations. Over the past month alone, Israel has facilitated the medical evacuation of more than 1,000 patients and caregivers from Gaza for life-saving treatment in 13 countries. Those efforts reflect the fundamental truth that even as it faces relentless terror, Israel remains committed to preserving life.

The issue at hand extends beyond Israel and Hamas; it strikes at the heart of international norms and the principles that govern the Council. If hospitals can be turned into terror bases without consequence and civilians can be used as shields with impunity, what does that say about the state of international law? What message does it send to other terror groups around the world? That is a test not just for Israel but for the Council and the global community. Will we stand by as the sanctity of medical institutions is eroded? Will we allow Hamas to set a precedent, whereby the protection of civilians becomes a shield for terror? The Council must act decisively. It must condemn Hamas's actions in the strongest terms. It must recognize that Israel's operations are not only a response to terror but a defence of the principles that underpin this institution. Israel will continue to protect its citizens, uphold its commitments under international law and do all it can to bring the hostages home. But the Council must meet its own obligations. It must protect the innocent, fight alongside us for the release of the hostages, uphold the rule of law and hold accountable those who seek to weaponize human suffering and civilian infrastructure.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Egypt.

Mr. Mahmoud (Egypt) (spoke in Arabic): The delegation of Egypt is honoured to deliver this statement on behalf of the Group of Arab States today.

The Group would like to congratulate Algeria on assuming the presidency of the Security Council, and we look forward to working with the five new members and the permanent members of the Council. We thank you, Mr. President, for convening today's meeting to discuss Israeli attacks on healthcare facilities in the Gaza Strip. We also thank the briefers for their insightful and sobering presentations.

Israel is once again displaying a new heinous level of brutality in its crimes. After targeting civilians and killing more than 45,000 martyrs, 70 per cent of whom were women and children, it has destroyed civilian infrastructure in the Gaza Strip and has killed hundreds of United Nations personnel and humanitarian workers. Israel is now targeting the Palestinian healthcare system in a barbaric way. It has launched a campaign of murder and destruction on hospitals, healthcare facilities and medical personnel. The latest chapter in that campaign has been the destruction of the Kamal Adwan Hospital in north Gaza, which has been rendered non-operational, with all occupants evacuated and all of the hospital's medical personnel and several patients detained.

To understand the scale of the catastrophe brought about by the destruction of the Kamal Adwan Hospital, we refer to the World Health Organization (WHO) statement dated 28 December 2024, which clearly illustrates that this last major healthcare facility is now non-operational. It also referred to the systematic dismantling of the healthcare system and Israel's siege on north Gaza for more than 80 days, which is now jeopardizing the lives of the 75,000 Palestinians who are still in the area. The efforts of WHO and its partners have failed, and this health lifeline in north Gaza is therefore now on the verge of collapse. Furthermore, the report of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, dated 31 December 2024, highlighted the catastrophic repercussions of Israeli attacks on hospitals in Gaza, which have pushed the healthcare system to the brink of collapse, making it impossible to access basic life-saving treatment or safe locations. In addition to the restrictions imposed by Israel on the entry and distribution of medical supplies, the destruction of the healthcare system in Gaza has led to the deterioration of the health situation and has created a medical catastrophe. The situation is now one of collective suffering.

The facts show that there is no evidence supporting Israel's claims that those hospitals are being used for other purposes. We therefore reaffirm Israel's obligations as the occupying Power to provide medical and health services, and medical and food supplies to the residents of Gaza and to approve relief plans. We also highlight the shortcomings of the Israeli justice system when it comes to the behaviour of Israeli forces. It is important to carry out independent, transparent investigations and to hold accountable those who violate international humanitarian law and international human rights law. Israel continues to perpetrate one crime after another, boasting about those crimes and justifying them, because there has been no deterrent punishment and no determination from the international community to implement United Nations resolutions to put an end to the violations of international humanitarian law and the laws of war. Israel is facing the following question: why not perpetrate another crime? Why not? The answer is known to Israel, that is why it has continued to implement its plan to turn the Gaza Strip into an uninhabitable area and to strip it of the basic components of human life through a repeated and varied series of crimes. The latest of those crimes is now unfolding before our own eyes: the destruction of the medical system in the Gaza Strip, with one main objective — to implement the systematic policy of forceful displacement by Israel to attempt to kill and liquidate the Palestinian cause.

The Group of Arab States values the mediation efforts of Qatar and Egypt, in partnership with the United States mediator, to reach a ceasefire. We reaffirm the following steps as the only solutions to the crisis.

First, the Security Council must adopt a resolution under Chapter VII for an immediate, unconditional ceasefire in the Gaza Strip and deliver assistance to put an end to the forceful displacement policy that aims to liquidate the Palestinian cause.

Secondly, the Security Council must compel Israel through all political and legal means to implement the resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly and the provisional measures issued by the International Court of Justice since the beginning of the crisis and compel Israel to provide assistance to save civilians from famine.

Thirdly, the Security Council must shoulder its responsibilities pursuant to the Charter of the United Nations to compel Israel to stop attacking hospitals and civilian objects, to immediately release medical personnel and the patients it has detained and to protect them pursuant to international conventions, including resolution 2286 (2016), which is binding for all.

Fourthly, accountability must be ensured for Israel's repeated crimes, especially the targeting of hospitals, doctors and patients, which has been the most heinous manifestation of Israel's ongoing crimes in Gaza since October 2023. Israel must cooperate with the international tribunals to prosecute the perpetrators of those crimes.

Fifthly, all countries that respect international law must immediately suspend their exports of weapons and ammunition used by Israel to perpetrate this slaughter, which has gone on for 16 months, in order to deprive Israel of the instruments of killing and destruction.

The Arab Group once again wonders what stands in the way of putting an end to this war against civilians and why the international community has been unable to stop the daily killing of civilians. We all wonder how long we will continue to watch these dreadful, appalling images from Gaza. How long will the Arabs, the Palestinian people and the brave sons of Gaza continue to be treated as if they were unequal in humanity to the rest of humankind? Would the massacre have been allowed to go on this long had it been perpetrated against another people, against the people of any of the developed countries? Would the bombing of hospitals and the killing of tens of thousands of children have been permitted, along with the scenes of famine and the cries of patients? Would the flagrant violation of international law have been tolerated to such an exaggerated extent?

Israel must know full well that all the crimes that it is perpetrating will not drive the Palestinians to abandon their land, nor will it drive us as Arabs — and alongside us, all peace-loving nations — to abandon them or their cause, which is our chief and central cause. The Arab Group stresses that history is the best teacher. Truth and justice will prevail despite all the Israeli aggression and violations. The Palestinian people will, ultimately and inevitably, attain their independent State, with East Jerusalem as its capital, justified by all the blood of innocents that has been spilled in Gaza.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: I would like to warmly welcome the Secretary-General, the Ministers and the other high-level representatives present in the Chamber. Their presence today attests to the importance of the subject matter under discussion.

In accordance with rule 37 of the Security Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representatives of Bahrain, Bangladesh, Belgium, Brazil, Cameroon, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Djibouti, Egypt, Iceland, India, Indonesia, Iraq, the Islamic Republic of Iran, Ireland, Israel, Japan, Jordan, Kazakhstan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Liechtenstein, Malaysia, the Maldives, Mexico, Morocco, Namibia, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, the Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Spain, Switzerland, the Syrian Arab Republic, Thailand, Timor-Leste, Tunisia, Türkiye, Uganda, the United Arab Emirates, the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela and Viet Nam to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite Her Excellency Ms. Varsen Aghabekian, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs and Expatriates of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations, to participate in this meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I also invite His Excellency Mr. Maged Abdelaziz, Permanent Observer of the League of Arab States to the United Nations; His Excellency Mr. Stavros Lambrinidis, Head of the Delegation of the European Union to the United Nations; and His Excellency Mr. Ahmad Faisal Muhamad, Vice-Chair of the Committee on the Exercise of the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People, to participate in the meeting.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to His Excellency Secretary-General António Guterres.

The Secretary-General: I thank the presidency of Algeria for convening this briefing.

The Middle East is in a period of profound transformation, rife with uncertainty but also possibility. It is clear that the region is being reshaped, but it is far from clear what will emerge. We have a responsibility to help ensure that the people of the Middle East come out of this turbulent period with peace, dignity and a horizon of hope grounded in action.

I am just back from Lebanon, where I met with the Lebanese leadership and the United Nations family, including our peacekeeping troops. A new dawn is rising in Lebanon, with a Government hopefully in place soon — one that all Lebanese will feel represented by — and a State that will be able to guarantee security to all its citizens. The United Nations, including the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for Lebanon and the United Nations Interim Force In Lebanon (UNIFIL), is fully committed to supporting the Lebanese people on that path.

Despite enormous pressure, and with considerable risk, our peacekeeping forces stood their ground for peace to help deliver a cessation of hostilities. Here, from the Council, I want to reiterate my profound gratitude and admiration to the women and men of UNIFIL, and I also extend my deep thanks to the troop-contributing countries.

During my visit to southern Lebanon, I saw first-hand the dramatic human impact and destruction caused by the conflict. Israelis were also victims, suffering loss and displacement. I fervently hope all from both sides will soon be able to return to the areas in which they lived and resume their daily lives, and we will do all that we can to relieve the suffering and support recovery.

I can report that the cessation of hostilities is fragile, but it is holding. UNIFIL troops are undertaking vital efforts to nurture that process. They are working closely with the Lebanese Armed Forces. It is vital that the Israeli presence in the south end as defined in the agreement and that the Lebanese Armed Forces be present in the totality of Lebanon. In that regard, since 27 November, UNIFIL has carried out more than 730 missions in cooperation with the Lebanese Armed Forces, facilitating their redeployment in more than 50 positions. UNIFIL has also facilitated 39 humanitarian missions, in coordination with the Lebanese Armed Forces, the Lebanese Red Cross, various United Nations entities and non-governmental organizations (NGOs). Our peacekeepers need strengthened capacities, including for clearing mines and disposing of unexploded ordnance, together with adaptation of the conduct of operations within their mandate.

Resolution 1701 (2006) is clear: the area between the Blue Line and the Litani River must be free of all armed personnel, assets and weapons — other than those of the Government of Lebanon and UNIFIL. The parties must fully implement resolution 1701 (2006), respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Lebanon and end the violence once and for all. The United Nations will continue to support all efforts to transform the cessation of hostilities into true peace.

In Gaza, at long last, the ceasefire and hostage release deal offer a ray of hope. I commend Egypt, Qatar and the United States for their steadfast efforts to secure that deal. Yesterday the first three female hostages were released as part of the first phase, and 90 Palestinian prisoners were also released by Israel.

While many challenges lie ahead, we should appreciate the long-overdue relief that this moment provides to Palestinians in Gaza and to the hostages reunited with their loved ones. We are doing our part to ensure the rapid scaling-up of humanitarian deliveries. More than 630 trucks with humanitarian aid entered Gaza yesterday, at least 300 of them to the north.

I want to repeat that nothing justifies the appalling 7 October 2023 terror attacks by Hamas, and nothing justifies the dramatic levels of death and destruction inflicted on the Palestinian people in Gaza. We have been relentless in calling for an immediate ceasefire, for the immediate and unconditional release of all hostages and for immediate action to protect civilians and ensure the delivery of life-saving aid. Now the parties must make good on their commitments and fully implement the deal. I urge the parties to ensure that that deal leads to the release of all hostages and a permanent ceasefire in Gaza.

For its part, the United Nations will do all it can to advance these efforts, — in particular to scale up humanitarian aid across Gaza, fully aware of the significant obstacles, challenges and constraints that we still face. Specifically, the ceasefire must translate into at least four simultaneous actions on the ground.

First, United Nations entities — including the backbone of our humanitarian response, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East — must be able to perform their functions without hindrance. The United Nations must have rapid, safe and unimpeded access through all available channels and crossings to deliver food, water, medicine, fuel, shelter and materials to repair infrastructure across Gaza, including the north. Other humanitarian organizations, including local and international NGOs, and the private sector must also have unimpeded safe passage. Visas, permits and other enabling conditions must be in place quickly to allow a surge of desperately needed relief.

Secondly, scaling up the delivery of aid and essential services demands safe conditions and a conducive operating environment. We require the necessary technical, protective and communications equipment. In order for us to do our work, the parties must coordinate with the United Nations system in a timely and effective manner. That also includes the restoration of public order and safety to prevent the looting of humanitarian supplies.

Thirdly, people must be able to access life-saving aid. That includes medical evacuations for those who need it, and I urge Member States to take in those patients. Sufficient commercial supplies must also be allowed to enter Gaza in order to meet the overwhelming needs of the population.

Fourthly — and fundamentally — civilians must be protected, and those seeking to return to their communities must have safe passage. Explosive ordnance must be removed. The recovery of human remains must be conducted with dignity and respect. I urge the Security Council and all Member States to support all efforts to implement this ceasefire, bring about a permanent cessation of hostilities, ensure accountability and create the conditions for recovery and reconstruction. The international media must also be allowed into Gaza to report on this crucial story on the ground.

We must seize the opportunity presented by the ceasefire deal to intensify efforts towards addressing governance and security frameworks in Gaza. The Palestinian Authority has said that it stands ready to assume its role and responsibilities in Gaza. I urgently call for collective support for the creation of security and governance arrangements that will enable Gaza to be reunified politically, economically, socially and administratively with the West Bank.

Regrettably, the situation in the West Bank continues to worsen — with clashes, airstrikes and unabated illegal settlement expansion and demolitions. I am deeply concerned about an existential threat to the integrity and contiguity of the occupied Palestinian territory of Gaza and the West Bank. Israeli administrative changes over the past two years have streamlined and accelerated the settlement approval process. As a result, control over many aspects of planning and daily life in Area C of the West Bank has been transferred to Israeli civilian authorities. Senior Israeli officials openly speak of formally annexing all or part of the West Bank in the coming months. Any such annexation would constitute a most serious violation of international law.

It is clear that greater stability in the Middle East requires irreversible action towards a two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine living side by side in peace and security, in line with international law, the relevant United Nations resolutions and previous agreements, with Jerusalem as the capital of both States. The United Nations will continue to support every effort to advance peace, stability and a more hopeful future for Palestinians and Israelis and the broader region.

Finally, with respect to that broader region, allow me to say a few words about Syria.

For centuries, Syria has been a crossroads of civilizations. Now it stands at a crossroads of history. Following the fall of the brutal previous regime and years of bloodshed, there is a possibility of promise for the people of Syria. We cannot let the flame of hope turn into an inferno of chaos.

The United Nations is committed to working with Syrians and the international community to support a Syrian-led process that ensures a credible and inclusive political transition, in line with the key principles of resolution 2254 (2015). I welcome the steps taken by Member States showing solidarity with Syrians. But much more significant work in addressing sanctions and designations will inevitably be necessary, particularly in the light of the country's urgent economic needs. Advancing an inclusive political transition is the most effective means to ensure that Syria receives more support. As Syria travels a new path and seeks to rebuild its institutions and political systems, we will support an inclusive process in which the rights of all are fully respected and that paves the way towards a united and sovereign Syria with its territorial integrity fully re-established.

In Lebanon, Israel, the occupied Palestinian territory, Syria and beyond, let us keep working for peace and security. As the region is undergoing a profound transformation, we must spare no effort to help shape it in the form of more justice, dignity, human rights and peace for all the people of the Middle East.

The President: I thank the Secretary-General for his briefing.

I now call on the Minister of State for Foreign Affairs and Expatriates of the Observer State of Palestine.

Ms. Aghabekian (Palestine) (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, we would like to thank you, Mr. President, for convening this important meeting on the Palestinian issue at the ministerial level. I also thank you, Minister Ahmed Attaf, for presiding over this meeting, which reflects the attention you have paid to the Palestinian issue and the fact that it is among your priorities on the agenda of the Security Council. I would also like to express our appreciation to the delegation of brotherly Algeria for the important efforts it is making to support the Palestinian people and their just cause and for all it has done to encourage the Security Council to adopt a firm position with regard to a ceasefire in Gaza. On behalf of the State of Palestine and its people and leadership, I would also like to thank Secretary-General António Guterres for his noble principled position. I also thank all United Nations staff members, especially those who are working on the ground and providing assistance and relief to our people, in the catastrophic humanitarian situation we are witnessing. I would also like to thank Their Excellencies, the Ministers participating in this meeting.

We are addressing the Security Council today with our hearts heavy with pain and anger because of what the Palestinian people, most of whom are children and older persons, have been subjected to in the Gaza Strip, including killing, displacement, siege, starvation and the deliberate destruction of everything. As for the West Bank and East Jerusalem, our land is being looted, our properties and holy sites are being desecrated and our rights are being violated through the crimes committed by the occupation forces and settlers, without any accountability.

The occupation Government's practices, measures and laws in the occupied territories are illegitimate and are aimed at undermining the two-State solution, weakening the official institutions of the State of Palestine, preventing the Palestinian people from exercising their right to self-determination and the realization of an independent and sovereign Palestinian State with East Jerusalem as its capital. They disregard the resolutions of international legitimacy adopted by the Security Council, the General Assembly, the Human Rights Council and international tribunals, the most recent of which is the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968), which calls for an end to the illegal Israeli occupation, including an end to settlements.

We hope that the glimmer of hope, for which we have worked with our brothers and friends over the past 15 months to reach a ceasefire in the Gaza Strip, through the commendable mediation efforts of Qatar, Egypt and the United States, will hold and succeed, leading to a complete and permanent ceasefire, without a return to aggression, the full withdrawal of the occupation forces from the Gaza Strip, the establishment of a political process based on the resolutions of international legitimacy leading to the end of the occupation and the implementation of the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice, in accordance with the General Assembly resolution calling for the end of the occupation within one year (General Assembly resolution ES-10/24).

Since the first day of the aggression, the State of Palestine has worked tirelessly to demand an immediate ceasefire to prevent the worsening of the humanitarian situation and prevent displacement and land annexation and has repeatedly warned about the danger of the occupation forces' invasion of the Gaza Strip and called for protecting civilians from the scourge of war and destruction, regardless of the parties to the conflict. In that regard, we commend the positions of Egypt, Jordan and other countries that have rejected any attempts to displace Palestinians from their country, whether in Gaza or the West Bank. We also stressed the need to stop practices that undermine the two-State solution, including the expansion of settlements and the crimes perpetrated by the settlers in broad daylight. We have called for preserving the historic and legal status quo of the Christian and Islamic holy sites in the occupied city of Jerusalem.

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to all the countries and peoples that supported our efforts to achieve a ceasefire, including among the members of the Security Council and General Assembly, and all those who worked to stop the genocidal war against our people and hold Israel accountable for its crimes, including the States that supported us before international tribunals, in particular South Africa, which referred the case to the International Court of Justice to bring an end to the crimes of genocide against our people.

Since the first moment of this aggression, the State of Palestine has undertaken intense diplomatic efforts, led by President Mahmoud Abbas, who has made hundreds of calls and convened hundreds of meetings with regional and international parties to end this bloody aggression and went several times to the Security Council with the help of a number of Council members, led by Algeria, the Arab representative in the Security Council, and to the resumed the emergency special session of the General Assembly, demanding the implementation of relevant United Nations resolutions, including resolution 2735 (2024). That resolution calls for an immediate ceasefire, the release of hostages and prisoners, the delivery of urgent humanitarian assistance to the Gaza Strip, the prevention of the displacement of Palestinians and the return of displaced persons to their places of residence. It also calls for the withdrawal of the occupation forces from the entire Gaza Strip, enabling the Palestinian Authority to assume its full responsibilities in the Gaza Strip and reunite the Gaza Strip with the West Bank under its Administration, and for a return to a political process that would end the illegal occupation and lead to the independence of the State of Palestine and the realization of the two-State solution, in accordance with the resolutions of international legitimacy.

In that context, we affirm that the Gaza Strip is an integral part of the occupied Palestinian territory and that the State of Palestine has legal and political jurisdiction over the Gaza Strip and the entire Palestinian territory occupied since 1967, including East Jerusalem. We reiterate our total rejection of any attempts to annex our land or displace our people, which constitute blatant violations of international law and the principles enshrined by international legitimacy. We reaffirm the imperative of adhering to our legitimate rights and national identity, which unite our people everywhere in the world. That requires the unity of our land and our people under the umbrella of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) — the only legitimate representative of the Palestinian people — and everyone's commitment to the PLO's political programme and international obligations and to working under one system, one law and one legitimate army.

Accordingly, we affirm that the Palestinian Government is ready to assume responsibility for the administration of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, in cooperation with friendly and brotherly countries and organizations, including the restoration of basic health and educational services, water and electricity, while ensuring the return of the displaced to their homes and preparing for the reconstruction phase. We are also committed to managing the crossings in cooperation with the European Union and Egypt, in accordance with the Agreement on Movement and Access of 2005. In that regard, we note that we welcome any assistance in the area of training and equipping the Palestinian police and security forces. We look forward to the assistance of brotherly and friendly States in all areas to lift the Gaza Strip and its people out of the humanitarian disaster they are experiencing. We emphasize here the importance of the role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), which is indispensable and irreplaceable. The Israeli occupation authorities have no right to prevent UNRWA from exercising its duties to serve the Palestinian refugees in the occupied territory and in all its areas of operations where our Palestinian refugees are present, in particular given that the Agency was established and its mandate and tasks defined by United Nations resolutions, and the Israeli occupation authority has no right to disrupt or stop its work.

We would like to express our deep appreciation to the countries that have supported our position and helped our people during this difficult time. We call on the international community to provide further urgent humanitarian support and to cooperate with the Palestinian Government to enhance its ability to fulfil its role and shoulder its responsibilities. However, we emphasize the importance of finding a lasting and comprehensive political solution to the Palestinian issue and peace in the Middle East. We therefore commend the efforts of all countries participating in the global alliance for peace, which was formed in September 2024 in New York under the leadership of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the European Union and the Kingdom of Norway.

We also commend the efforts of the Arab Islamic Committee, led by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, which has toured the world in order to mobilize efforts, stop the aggression and implement the two-State solution in accordance with the resolutions of international legitimacy. It has also sought to obtain international recognition for the State of Palestine and its full membership in the United Nations, so as to bring an end to the Israeli occupation and ensure the establishment of the independent State of Palestine on the lines of the 4 June 1967, with East Jerusalem as its capital, and solve the refugee problem in accordance with General Assembly resolution 194 (III). That will provide an opportunity to achieve peace and stability not only between Palestinians and Israelis but for all countries of the region, so that they can live in security, peace and good-neighbourliness. In that context, we look forward to the convening of the international conference for the implementation of the resolutions of international legitimacy related to the Palestinian issue and the two-State solution, which will be held in June in New York. We call on all participating countries to take practical and decisive steps to end the occupation, support the independence of the State of Palestine and achieve a just peace.

Our people are struggling for a just and comprehensive peace that guarantees security for all. We therefore reiterate our call before the Council to grant the State of Palestine full membership in the United Nations and to adopt the Arab Peace Plan presented in the statement by President Abbas in September 2024 to the General Assembly and supported by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the countries participating in the conference of the global alliance for peace. The Plan would allow the State of Palestine to gain its independence on its territory occupied since 1967, with East Jerusalem as its capital, and would allow everyone to live side by side in peace, security and good-neighbourliness.

The President: The presidency of the Security Council gives the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mrs. Shapir Ben Naftaly (Israel): On 7 October 2023, Hamas perpetrated the worst massacre against the Jewish people since the Holocaust. More than 1,200 lives were brutally taken, and more than 250 people were abducted. Amid that darkness, the unity and resilience of the Israeli people shines through. It is that unity that has driven Israel's determination to achieve the objectives of this war: bringing all the hostages home, dismantling Hamas' military and governing capabilities and ensuring that Gaza will never again pose a threat to Israel.

For 472 days, hostages have been subjected to unimaginable suffering — among them the three women released yesterday. Romi Gonen, aged 24, was abducted from the Nova music festival after witnessing the murder of her best friend. Injured, she was taken to Gaza, where she received practically no treatment for her severe wounds. Emily Damari, a 28-year-old British Israeli, was taken from her kibbutz, Kfar Aza, after a terrorist invaded the kibbutz and massacred her neighbours. In the last message before her abduction, she wrote that terrorists were in her neighbourhood, shooting near her apartment. Doron Steinbrecher, 31, a veterinary nurse, was also kidnapped from kibbutz Kfar Aza after being trapped in her home. A video later emerged showing her pale, thin and visibly suffering in captivity. Those women, who endured unimaginable suffering, are heroes. They embody the strength and resilience of the Israeli people, standing as eternal symbols of courage in the face of inconceivable cruelty.

Yet even as we see the first hostages finally returning home, the joy of their return is overshadowed by the immense pain that remains. Families have endured months of psychological torture, forced to watch staged videos of their loved ones, broken and afraid. Hamas has weaponized fear and grief as tools of control. Their propaganda videos of hostages are calculated acts of terror. They serve as tools of psychological warfare, amplifying fear and grief to deepen the suffering of the hostages, their loved ones and the entirety of Israeli society. The suffering of our hostages has extended beyond the psychological to include physical violence and abuse, the deprivation of basic needs such as food and medical care and conditions that violate every norm and concept of human decency. For the past 472 days, these innocent people have known only misery, violence and torture at the hands of Hamas.

Hamas' brutality has not stopped at kidnapping. It has extended to the execution of hostages and all kinds of immeasurably cruel acts. We will never forget any of the victims of those atrocities, and their memory will strengthen our fight to ensure justice and security for all our people, among them Kfir Bibas, who just two days ago celebrated his second birthday. Yet for that little boy, his brother Ariel, his parents, Shiri and Yarden, still held in captivity, there have been no celebrations — just as they were none for his first birthday — only captivity and suffering.

The Security Council must confront an uncomfortable truth: it called for the release of those hostages, but those calls were ignored by Hamas. The Council adopted resolutions and demanded their release, while Hamas — a terror group that heeds no international norm or law — violated those resolutions without being held accountable or paying any price. Yet it was Israel that was scrutinized in this very Chamber while no measures were adopted against those who had kidnapped babies and elderly persons. By failing to hold Hamas accountable, the Council has set a dangerous precedent. That failure represents a profound lapse in judgment throughout the international community. It signals to the world that terrorist organizations can operate with impunity, exploiting innocent lives as bargaining chips without fear of meaningful repercussions. That precedent emboldens not just Hamas but any group that seeks to emulate its tactics. The global ramifications of that inaction are staggering; it threatens the very foundations of international security and justice.

Some of the consequences of that failure may be salvaged. Israel demands that the Council take the most basic moral step to unequivocally condemn Hamas and to finally designate it as the terrorist organization that it is.

It was Hamas that initiated the war with its brutal attack on 7 October 2023, and its fellow Iranian proxies across the region followed suit, joining the attacks against Israel. For the past 15 months, the Houthi terrorist regime, guided and funded by Iran, launched hundreds of rockets and uncrewed aerial vehicle attacks against Israeli population centres. On our northern border, 63,000 of our citizens were forced to evacuate as a result of Hizbullah firing more than 22,000 rockets, missiles and anti-tank munitions at their homes. We will continue to enforce the ceasefire understandings with Lebanon and will respond to any violation. The State of Israel maintains its right to act against any threat to its security.

With regard to the developments in Syria, Israel is taking all the necessary steps to defend and ensure the security of the communities in the Golan Heights and the entire civilian population. The State of Israel has no interest in a conflict with Syria, and neither does it have it any intention of interfering in its internal affairs. But we will not tolerate a situation that endangers our civilians and allows Iran to re-establish itself in the region and transfer weapons to Hizbullah.

We now stand at a turning point for the entire region. Iran's proxies have suffered devastating losses. Through the bravery and determination of our soldiers, Israel has not only weakened Hamas but also fundamentally altered the strategic landscape of the Middle East. The Iranian regime's network of terror — from Hizbullah in Lebanon to the Houthis in Yemen — has faced significant setbacks, with capacities diminished and positions isolated. Arch-terrorists such as Hassan Nasrallah, Mohammed Deif, Yahya Sinwar and Ibrahim Aqil have been eliminated. Israel's actions have sent clear messages: the days when terror groups could operate with impunity are over; the days when Iran could freely sow chaos and terror throughout the Middle East are over.

It is therefore clear that Israel's decisive and necessary response to the 7 October 2023 massacre is what forced Hamas to the negotiating table. Without the courage and sacrifices of our forces, the hostages would still be languishing in captivity without any hope of freedom. That progress has come at a heavy cost. Israel has agreed to release convicted terrorists, who are responsible for heinous crimes, to bring our people home. That was a decision that no nation should have to make. Yet we made it because we hold life sacred. The deal is not a conclusion: it is a step in the demanding journey to ensure the return of every single hostage. Each decision that we make reflects the profound moral weight of balancing justice with the imperative to save lives. The hostage release deal reflects Israel's unwavering resolve to meet the war's objectives. We are steadfast in our commitment to dismantling Hamas' capabilities to ensure that Gaza is no longer a threat and to return every hostage to their families.

We recognize and deeply appreciate the steadfast support of our allies, in particular the United States. The principled leadership and unwavering backing of both the Biden and the Trump Administration have been instrumental in navigating these challenging times. The partnership represents the shared commitment to combating terror and upholding the values of freedom and security. Their support is a testament to the strength of alliances built on mutual respect and a common vision for a safer world.

In conclusion, Hamas has turned Gaza into a fortress of terror, sacrificing civilians to shield their operations. It has weaponized schools, mosques, hospitals and United Nations facilities, transforming them into instruments of war. That barbarity demands a resolute and united response from the international community.

Failing to act decisively against Hamas sends a dangerous message to other terrorist organizations that such tactics are permissible. It is a test of our collective will to uphold international law and human dignity. The families of the hostages and the people of Israel know that this moment is only the beginning. The war will not end until every hostage is returned and Hamas' ability to terrorize is dismantled. We will not rest until every one of them is back home. We will not stop until the threat of Hamas is eliminated. And we will never forget the price that has been paid by the innocent.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as Minister for Foreign Affairs, National Community Abroad and African Affairs of Algeria.

(spoke in Arabic)

I express my deepest appreciation and praise to His Excellency the Secretary-General for his valuable briefing and accurate analysis of the developments in the Middle East, including with regard to the challenges that we must all address and everything that the situation demands of us.

We attend today's meeting with a sense of cautious optimism and apprehension, a sense of anticipation and looking forward to bringing the war against Gaza to an end, following the announcement of a ceasefire deal in the beleaguered Palestinian territory. The deal was long awaited, as Israel pursued its project in Gaza and the wider region. It was concluded despite the artificial obstacles that were contrived, some overtly and others behind closed doors. It is a deal whose absence has long frustrated the entire international community, which is pinning all its hopes on it alleviating the injustice and suffering of the Palestinians, ending the stagnated political process to specifically address the Palestinian cause and so as to bring peace and restore stability to the Middle East in general.

We are grateful to the international mediators who worked tirelessly to broker the deal after 15 months of a war whose catastrophic toll cannot be described in words or numbers. Gaza is no longer Gaza in the aftermath of the crimes that claimed the lives of more than 46,000 martyrs, most of whom were women and children. Gaza is no longer Gaza in the aftermath of the massive destruction that it has witnessed and that razed hospitals, shops, schools, universities and even mosques, churches, shelters and graveyards to the ground. Gaza is no longer Gaza after demolishing all its resources and infrastructure and eliminating its various social and economic lifelines, in addition to impoverishing the people of Gaza and depriving them of the most basic needs for a life of dignity and survival. And despite that disastrous toll, the Palestinian people chose to emerge in Gaza and throughout the occupied territory to celebrate the ceasefire and assert to the entire world that oppression did not and will not hijack their will or undermine their determination, that injustice did not and will not weaken their resilience or undermine their attachment to their land and that oppression, no matter how brutal, did not and will not undermine their persistence to restore their full national rights, in accordance with international legitimacy.

The ceasefire deal in Gaza represents precious hope for this proud people — hope in life, hope in alleviating injustice and suffering and hope in controlling their present and determining their destiny. Since the Council has been unable to provide justice to the Palestinian people and ensure the realization of their rights, it is fitting today for the Council not to miss this historical moment and opportunity to uphold its full responsibility, entrusted to it in the Charter of the United Nations. That responsibility is not limited to addressing the impact of the aggression suffered by Gaza over the long previous months, but also includes ensuring that the heart of the conflict is addressed and achieving the national Palestinian project.

The international community can no longer tolerate the ongoing situation in the Middle East, which has lasted for nearly 80 years, with one tragedy followed by a greater tragedy, and the Nakba followed by a worse and more bitter Nakba. Palestine's destiny cannot continue to endure hopes dashed immediately and prospects and opportunities rapidly and regularly lost. Accordingly, we must realize and be fully aware that the ceasefire deal is not an end but a beginning, that it is no more than an opportunity, the success or failure of which will depend on how well we seize this moment and build upon it. This deal is only a means that — we sincerely hope — will deliver us to a greater and more noble goal: to definitively resolve the Palestinian question and achieve a lasting, fair peace in the Middle East.

Accordingly, we call on the Security Council to focus its efforts during this present period on three main levels.

First, it must strengthen the deal and monitor its implementation, in all its content and dimensions and through all its phases. The interrelated processes emerging from this deal require the Council to provide strong support for international mediation as it monitors implementation of the full and permanent ceasefire and the lifting of the restrictions imposed on relief efforts in order to complete the exchange of prisoners and hostages and to achieve the full withdrawal of Israel's occupying forces from Gaza.

Secondly, the Council must guarantee that the next-day arrangements in Gaza take into consideration the will of the Palestinian people, reflect their consensus and protect the hopes and aspirations of the Palestinian people in order for the Palestinians to achieve their goals on the ground. Gaza is not a land without an owner or people. The future of the land must be determined by the Palestinians, first and foremost, without foreign intervention that could deepen divisions among the Palestinian people and move them further away from national reconciliation. In that context, we emphasize the need for the next-day arrangements in Gaza to respect the unity of the Palestinian people, the integrity of the territory upon which the Palestinian State will be built and the unity of the destiny of the Palestinian people. The arrangements must also afford great importance to the plans to reconstruct Gaza and the need to accelerate those plans.

Finally, on the third level, we must build upon the ceasefire deal in order to revitalize a serious political process, under the auspices of the United Nations, in order to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The ceasefire in Gaza will not be comprehensive or final or permanent unless it is supported by a meaningful, visionary, bold and sincere political process that prioritizes achieving a final settlement for the Palestinian question that is in line with the two-State solution, which, more than ever before, is agreed upon internationally.

On the basis of the requirements of those three levels, Algeria, under the leadership of His Excellency Mr. Abdelmadjid Tebboune, and in line with its traditional role and active contribution to all international efforts, will guarantee the needs of the Palestinian people in the Gaza Strip as soon as the illegal blockade is lifted through participating in relief efforts and providing support for the building of field hospitals, as soon as circumstances allow, as well as through our continued support for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, which suffered an injustice and false accusations and was threatened. However, its raison d'être continues.

Secondly, we will support Palestinian reconciliation and national unity. That reconciliation is necessary and must be achieved in order to guarantee an end to division, whose greatest price was paid by the Palestinian people themselves.

Thirdly and finally, we must protect the two-State solution, which is enshrined in international legitimacy, by maintaining the pillars of an independent sovereign Palestinian State and enabling it to become a fully fledged Member of the United Nations, with global recognition at the international conference that will be held later this year.

(spoke in English)

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

I call on the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Slovenia.

Ms. Fajon (Slovenia): I want to start by thanking you personally, Mr. President, for the organization of this high-level debate and for the work of your country on the Council. I also thank the Secretary-General for his remarks and his commitment.

The Middle East has been swept up in a windstorm of changes that will undoubtedly transform the region. All of us sitting here today must shoulder our responsibilities and offer our support in navigating those changes. The stakes are too high for inaction. After yesterday's silencing of the guns and first exchange of hostages and prisoners, we feel relief and a sense of hope that a different future is possible for the Middle East. Slovenia warmly welcomes the ceasefire agreement in Gaza. We urge all parties to uphold their commitments to this fragile truce. We thank the mediators who have made that outcome possible. The Council must now focus on ensuring that the ceasefire evolves into a pathway towards lasting peace, built on trust, justice and reconciliation.

The world's most challenging problems require a global response. I travelled to New York directly from Kyiv. In the third year of the Russian aggression in Ukraine, much of the world is holding back. Slovenia has always been vocal at this table when it comes to unjustified wars, violations of international law or the Charter of the United Nations and the suffering of civilians, including women and children.

After almost three years in office as a Foreign Minister, I have never hesitated to criticize the brutal killing of civilians. I am proud that Slovenia recognized an independent and sovereign Palestine. I trust we were on the right side of history. People in Gaza deserve to live without bombs and guns. People in Israel deserve to live in security. As members of the Council, it is our responsibility, indeed duty, to work tirelessly towards a lasting and just peace in the Middle East, in Ukraine and other conflicts around the world.

In another recent development in the Middle East, a new chapter is starting to be written in Syria. The Council has a clear role in supporting an inclusive Syrian-led and Syrian-owned political process, in line with the key principles of resolution 2254 (2015). We also have a renewed hope for a permanent ceasefire between Lebanon and Israel, with the Council's role as custodian of the framework under resolution 1701 (2006). Slovenia calls for strict adherence to that framework, while emphasizing the importance of de-escalation along the Blue Line. I look forward to visiting Syria and Lebanon in the very near future. Both countries are on the path to a more hopeful future. We are ready to stand with them.

However, the Middle East will never truly turn a new page as long as the suffering, the hatred and the fear persist. To end them, we need leadership for people, leadership for peace and leadership for multilateralism.

First, we need leadership for people. The plight of civilians, particularly in Gaza, which could amount to genocide, remains a heartbreaking reminder of the cost of conflict. Civilians are protected by international humanitarian law, and under no circumstances are they the legitimate targets of attacks. We reiterate the vulnerable situation of children and women in this conflict, but today I also want to highlight the suffering of those who are most often overlooked. Many of them lost their land decades ago, and now they have lost their homes, the generations they created and the dignity they held onto despite all the odds. After a life of hardship, older persons in Gaza are facing the worst circumstances, with no food to put on the table and no doctor to ease their pain. The plight of civilians, including older persons in Gaza, is another broken promise of leaving no one behind. I sincerely hope that the ceasefire in Gaza gives them a chance to finally experience peace. It is now time to give them and the generations after them a chance to see a new Gaza, one that is rebuilt full of hope, a Gaza that is reunified with the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, under the Palestinian Authority. But first, the ceasefire must translate into safe, direct and uninterrupted humanitarian access and an immense scaling up of aid.

Secondly, we need strong leadership for peace, in Gaza and in the region. With vision and commitment, leadership for peace must uphold international law, particularly international humanitarian law and human rights law. That requires accountability for grave violations that have taken place, through appropriate legal mechanisms. Peace cannot take root without accountability. Leadership for peace must be built on dialogue, on cooperation and on the normalization of ties. It cannot perpetuate or fuel proxy exchanges or further escalation. Unconstructive and divisive rhetoric, provocations and incitement must become a relic of the past.

Thirdly, we need leadership for multilateralism. This Organization was built on the premise that the path to peace cannot be walked alone. In the Council, we often encounter obstacles, but the hard work of diplomacy in this Chamber never stops. Slovenia remains convinced that the Security Council must also lay the groundwork for the two-State solution. Equally, we underline the role the whole membership should play in making peace in the region a truly lasting one, including through an international peace conference under United Nations auspices. I restate our willingness to host a meeting of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution.

I thank the Secretary-General for his leadership in this crisis and for the work of the United Nations system. That includes the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) — the irreplaceable backbone of humanitarian action there. In the light of the responsibilities conferred on all Member States through the Charter of the United Nations, I once again use this opportunity to call on the Government of Israel not to implement the legislation affecting UNRWA. In this moment of hope, it is time to find ways for cooperation and to rebuild the lives of civilians in Palestine.

Leadership is never easy. The pursuit of long-lasting solutions involves a lot of difficult decisions, sometimes with no short-term gains in sight. It is now time to make those difficult decisions, placing peace as the collective interest of the membership of this Organization. As we navigate these transformative times, let us remember that peace is not an unattainable dream. It is within our reach, provided we choose cooperation over conflict, justice over impunity and hope over despair.

At the beginning of the year, I assure the Council that Slovenia will not approach conflicts on the basis of geography, but rather on that of principles. We will continue believing in solving problems through dialogue rather than aggression, and we believe in building trust and peace.

The President: I now call on the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Sierra Leone.

Mr. Kabba (Sierra Leone): I congratulate Mr. Ahmed Attaf, Minister for Foreign Affairs, National Community Abroad and African Affairs of the Democratic Republic of Algeria, on Algeria's presidency of the Security Council, and I thank him for convening this high-level open debate at such a critical moment. I extend my gratitude to the Secretary-General, His Excellency Mr. António Guterres, for his important briefing, and I commend his leadership and tireless efforts in addressing the complex challenges arising from the escalation of the conflict in the Gaza Strip.

His commitment to advancing peace in the occupied Palestinian territory, Israel and the broader Middle East region is deeply appreciated.

I would like to begin by expressing my deepest condolences to the families of all victims, both Palestinian and Israeli, of the tragic violence that erupted since 7 October 2023. The scale of the violence, the immense loss of life and the suffering endured by innocent civilians serve as a stark reminder of the urgent need for peace, stability and the protection of human dignity. We also pay tribute to the service and ultimate sacrifice of more than 350 United Nations and humanitarian workers who have lost their lives in the Israel-Hamas conflict in the Gaza Strip. We stand in solidarity with all humanitarian and front-line personnel.

For 15 months, the Security Council and the international community have been focused on the ongoing conflict in the Gaza Strip, which has claimed more than 46,000 civilian lives, including the lives of approximately 18,000 children. Reports, including the 12 January 2025 situation report of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and the Secretary-General's response to General Assembly resolution ES-10/26, have exposed the horrific realities faced by civilians in Gaza. The violence has been marked by repeated violations of international law, including international humanitarian law. Those violations are manifest in the collective punishment of the Palestinian people, the indiscriminate and systemic attacks against civilians and civilian objects and the denial of access to urgently needed humanitarian aid, which is essential for preserving and protecting lives.

The impact of the conflict has been disproportionately felt by women and children. Many children who have survived are now orphaned, displaced or maimed, with their education interrupted. Women have been stripped of their livelihoods, privacy and dignity. In the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs reports that between 7 October 2023 and 8 January 2025, 816 Palestinians were killed, including 498 in 2024 alone. That situation cannot continue. The international community must demonstrate a collective commitment to ending the cycle of violence.

At this critical juncture in the conflict, with the promising prospect of achieving a lasting ceasefire, the release of hostages, the unhindered delivery of humanitarian aid to Gaza and the beginning of Gaza's reconstruction, Sierra Leone would like to emphasize three key points.

First, Sierra Leone welcomes the ceasefire deal between Israel and Hamas. We commend Egypt, Qatar and the United States for their mediation efforts, which have led to a ceasefire, the release of hostages and an increase in humanitarian delivery in Gaza. That is a positive step that must be fully leveraged by both parties in good faith and with right intentions. Echoing the words of the Secretary-General, we call on all relevant parties to uphold their commitments and ensure the full implementation of the agreement. We encourage Israel and Hamas to comply fully with their obligations under the ceasefire deal and to carry out their respective duties within the specified timelines. We also welcome the release of three Israeli women hostages and 90 Palestinian prisoners as part of the ceasefire arrangement.

Secondly, we support the increase in humanitarian assistance to Gaza, as the humanitarian situation remains utterly dire. The conflict has left more than 2 million people in desperate need of food, medical supplies and shelter. As displaced civilians return to their homes, they will require essential supplies to build their lives. Humanitarian organizations, including the World Food Programme (WFP), have emphasized the need for all border crossings to remain open and operational, allowing aid to reach those in need. For efficient and effective aid delivery, the World Food Programme has underscored the critical role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in reaching all those in need at this critical juncture. In collaboration with UNRWA, the WFP has the capacity to provide life-saving food to at least 2 million people in Gaza over the next three months. UNRWA remains the only organization with the logistical and human resources to address the severe needs of Palestinian civilians in Gaza. In the light of recent legislation enacted by the Israeli Government on 28 October 2024, we urge the Government of Israel to comply with its international obligations and to allow UNRWA to continue its vital work unhindered, delivering life-saving services to millions of Palestinians.

Thirdly, the diplomatic momentum gained must be preserved and expanded to facilitate future dialogue aimed at achieving a political settlement based on the two-State solution. While the efforts to secure a ceasefire and the release of hostages are important steps towards alleviating immediate suffering, they represent only a fraction of the long-standing and unresolved issues at the heart of the Palestine-Israel conflict. The situation remains fragile, and both Palestinians and Israelis continue to live in fear and uncertainty. The events of the past 15 months remind us all of the consequences of occupation and the elusive nature of peace in the Middle East. They highlight that there is no viable alternative to a two-State solution, which will allow for the establishment of a Palestinian State alongside the existing Jewish State, with both States living side by side in peace, stability and security. That important work must start with the reconstruction of the Gaza Strip, which must be comprehensive, addressing the infrastructural, economic, political and administrative conditions necessary for establishing effective governance.

On a broader regional scale, we acknowledge that, while the ceasefire agreement between Israel and Hamas is just as crucial to reducing violence in Gaza, it also holds a broader temporary reprieve for civilians and opens a window for diplomatic efforts. All regional actors must seize this opportunity to work towards peaceful solutions to address the underlying issues fuelling conflict in the region.

Sierra Leone continues to call on all parties to uphold their obligations under international humanitarian law, while ensuring the protection of civilians, the unhindered delivery of humanitarian aid and the prevention of further violence. We emphasize the importance of accountability for violations of international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law.

Finally, Sierra Leone reaffirms its commitment to a just, lasting and comprehensive peace in the Middle East, based on the principles of international law and respect for the Palestinian people's right to self-determination. We remain firmly supportive of the two-State solution, which is the only viable framework for resolving this conflict and ensuring the security and sovereignty of both Israel and Palestine.

The President: I now call on the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Somalia.

Mr. Fiqi (Somalia) (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, I would like to express my sincere thanks to the brotherly People's Republic of Algeria for holding this important meeting and to congratulate it on its assumption of the presidency for this month. This meeting reflects a deep awareness of the gravity of the humanitarian and political situation in the Gaza Strip and a deep awareness in general of the Palestinian cause. I also thank the Secretary-General for his informative briefing, which painted a detailed picture of the scale of suffering, the challenges faced by the Palestinian people today and developments in Lebanon and Syria.

Over the past 15 recent months, we have witnessed a tragic escalation in the Gaza Strip that has left thousands of innocent civilians dead, destroyed vital infrastructure, including hospitals and schools, and turned the daily lives of Gaza residents into constant, unbearable suffering. That painful reality places us all in front of a moral, humanitarian and political responsibility that calls for urgent and comprehensive international action to end the suffering of the defenceless Palestinian people and ensure respect for their fundamental and inalienable rights.

The announcement of the ceasefire agreement, which was the outcome of tireless efforts undertaken by the brotherly State of Qatar and the brotherly Arab Republic of Egypt, in cooperation with the friendly United States of America, is important and welcome. The agreement highlights the importance of diplomatic action in resolving conflicts and reflects what can be achieved through political will and constructive cooperation. However, the agreement must be seen as the first step in a long and arduous process to achieve a lasting and comprehensive peace.

Yesterday and today we have witnessed emotional scenes where signs of joy and relief were evident on faces of the peoples of Palestine, especially in the Gaza Strip, and of Israel, following the entry into force of the ceasefire agreement, moments that brought together families that had been separated for more than 15 months, where they were able for the first time to hug their loved ones who had been detained by Hamas or in Israeli prisons. Those images, full of human emotion, clearly confirmed to us to what extent peace is vital as guns were silenced to give space for hope and reconciliation. We welcome the agreement, which was not just a truce but a glimpse of hope towards a better future. From the bottom of our hearts, we express our hope that it will be built upon, making this moment a starting point towards establishing a comprehensive and lasting peace that heals the wounds of the past, restores confidence and trust and gives the people of the region a real chance to live in dignity, security and prosperity.

The greatest challenge we face today is not only that of establishing a ceasefire, but also how to address the root causes of the conflict, foremost of which is ending the occupation, lifting the blockade on the Gaza Strip and ensuring the rebuilding of Gaza to restore the hope of its residents. Rebuilding is not just a physical process of repairing what was destroyed by the war, but a comprehensive process that requires investing in people, supporting local communities and strengthening economic and social infrastructure to ensure a more just and stable future.

The deteriorating humanitarian situation in Gaza imposes on us a collective responsibility to ensure the urgent, secure and unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance to the Gaza Strip. In that context, we stress the importance of continuing the work of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), which represents a lifeline for millions of Palestinian refugees. UNRWA's mandate, established by General Assembly resolution 302 (IV), is not a matter that can be amended except by a decision of the Assembly. Therefore, we call on all parties to avoid taking any steps that might affect the Agency or exacerbate the humanitarian situation on the ground.

Building real peace requires more than just a cessation of hostilities; it requires collective will to find sustainable solutions. In that connection, we call for the establishment of an effective international mechanism to ensure the full implementation of ceasefire agreements and prevent a return to the cycle of violence. We also emphasize the importance of supporting the legitimate Palestinian leadership and strengthening Palestinian national institutions to enable them to play their role in responding to the aspirations of the Palestinian people for freedom and independence.

In conclusion, the establishment of peace and stability in the Middle East requires a just and lasting solution to the Palestinian issue, based on the resolutions of international legitimacy and the Arab Peace Initiative, which guarantees the realization of the vision of two States and the establishment of an independent and sovereign Palestinian State on the borders of 4 June 1967, with East Jerusalem as its capital.

The Federal Republic of Somalia reiterates its unwavering solidarity with the brotherly Palestinian people and calls on the international community to redouble its efforts to end the Israeli occupation and achieve a just, comprehensive and sustainable peace that guarantees the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people and restores dignity and stability for the region as a whole.

Mr. Ruiz-Hernández (Panama) (spoke in Spanish): Panama respectfully welcomes the delegation of the People's Democratic Republic of Algeria, headed by His Excellency Mr. Ahmed Attaf. We also extend our appreciation to Secretary-General António Guterres for his valuable briefing on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question.

The date 7 October 2023 marked a dark chapter in contemporary history. The terrorist attack perpetrated by Hamas, which took the lives of 1,200 Israeli civilians, constitutes a flagrant violation of international law and the basic principles of humanity. Panama unreservedly condemns those cowardly acts, which perpetuate cycles of hatred and destruction.

We underscore that the people of Israel have the inalienable right to live in security within recognized borders. However, the legitimate but devastating military response that has followed has plunged the region into a humanitarian tragedy of historic proportions. According to the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, more than 46,000 lives, including 18,000 children, have been cut short. Those figures are a heartbreaking cry that demands immediate action. We cannot ignore the humanitarian catastrophe that is plaguing millions. Panama welcomes the recent ceasefire agreement as a beacon of hope amid the suffering. We recognize the diplomatic efforts led by Egypt, the United States and Qatar in mediating the agreement, which offers vital respite for both sides. However, we know that the cessation of hostilities is not an end in itself — it must be the starting point towards a comprehensive and lasting political commitment.

In our capacity as a non-permanent member of the Council, we reiterate that respect for international law, as enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, is non-negotiable. From resolutions 242 (1967) and 338 (1973) to the two-State consensus, the Council has charted the path to peace. The coexistence of Israel and Palestine, based on secure and recognized borders, remains the only possible horizon. We call for the roots of the conflict to be addressed. Recognizing Israel's right to exist in security is as essential as ensuring the implementation of the Fourth Geneva Convention in the Palestinian territory.

We also unequivocally condemn Hamas — a terrorist organization that has instrumentalized the suffering of the Palestinian people to advance its agenda of violence, which constitute cowardly acts that do not reflect the legitimate aspirations of the Palestinian population. Without security for Israel, peace will be unattainable. However, without justice and dignity for the Palestinians, stability will be illusory. Regarding the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, Panama recognizes its vital role in the provision of essential services to Palestinian refugees. Despite the challenges and controversies, we reiterate our support for the Agency, which represents a pillar of hope for millions. The heroism of its humanitarian workers must not be tarnished by those who, from the shadows, exploit humanitarian structures for vile purposes.

History has taught us that military solutions cannot guarantee peace. The ceasefire must become a platform for inclusive political dialogue, backed by the international community. Panama urges all parties to act with restraint and responsibility, while prioritizing a solution that promotes dignity and mutual respect. Panama reaffirms its commitment to the resolutions of the Council and to the construction of a peace that transcends differences — a peace that not only puts an end to the conflict but also inaugurates an era of peaceful coexistence and shared prosperity for the entire region. Peace is not a remote ideal but an immediate right. May the Council act courageously, guided by humanity, to sow the seeds of a more hopeful future for Israelis and Palestinians alike.

Mr. Falconer (United Kingdom): I am grateful to the delegation of Algeria for convening today's important meeting.

The ceasefire agreement offers hope for the Israeli and Palestinian peoples and for the world. I too would like to thank Egypt, Qatar and the United States for their tireless efforts to achieve it. The hostages have endured unimaginable suffering at the hands of Hamas since they were so cruelly taken on 7 October 2023. I welcome the release of three of them, including dual British national, Emily Damari, bringing their horrific ordeal to an end. The remaining phases of the ceasefire must now be implemented in full and on schedule, including the release of all remaining hostages.

Civilians in Gaza are enduring suffering that almost defies belief. More than 46,000 Palestinians have been killed, including many children. Winter has only worsened the dire situation, with children dying from hypothermia and the imminent risk of famine in northern Gaza. This deal opens the way for them to begin to rebuild their lives. The United Kingdom and our partners have been pressing at every opportunity for an immediate ceasefire and the release of the hostages. The Foreign Secretary did so last week during his visit to Israel and the occupied Palestinian territories. Those intense diplomatic efforts must continue in the days and weeks ahead. We must build confidence on all sides to help to sustain the ceasefire, progress through all its phases and turn it into a lasting peace that assures the security of Israelis and Palestinians alike. The United Kingdom will focus all our efforts on keeping up that momentum, until every hostage is released, the aid promised to Gaza reaches those in need and Palestinians are free to return to their homes and to rebuild their lives. It is essential that the surge of assistance be properly coordinated, with the right level of access and security to reach those in need. As the Foreign Secretary has said, Israeli legislation means that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) faces a cliff edge in its ability to support Palestinian refugees across the West Bank and in Gaza. We urge Israel to refrain from endangering UNRWA's ability to operate.

This agreement is a crucial first step towards a sustainable peace and a credible pathway to a two-State solution. Millions of people are relying on us to build on this process and end their agony. We must not let them down.

Mr. Sekeris (Greece): Calls for peace in the Middle East have been far too many in the Chamber, and they have been repeated far too many times in its history.

My country, Greece, warmly welcomes the long-awaited ceasefire and hostage release agreement. As fragile as it may seem, it might be a turning point for establishing enduring stability in the region. It is now time to fully deliver on the deal so that all Israeli hostages finally rejoin their loved ones and the Palestinian people finally stop counting their dead.

Words fail to convey the accumulated pain and suffering endured by the people in this turbulent region — one very close to home. Words are insufficient to convey the horror experienced by Israeli families having lost loved ones to the terror of Hamas or that of innocent civilians, including thousands of children, who have lost their lives in Gaza. It is finally time to silence the guns and for peace to prevail. Yesterday we were overjoyed that three female hostages — Romi Gonen, Doron Steinbrecher and Emily Damari — finally joined their families in Israel after being held captive by Hamas terrorists since 7 October 2023. It is now key to ensure that negotiations on the next phases succeed. It is time to accelerate discussions to advance post-conflict planning for the governance and security of Gaza for the longer-term to secure a safe and prosperous future for the Palestinians and all the people in the region. Inspired by the heritage of a region that is the birthplace of so many of the world's religions, we are believers in the prospect of a two-State solution, of Israelis and Palestinians living side by side in peace and security. We are believers in the positive culmination of the peace process, which remains on our collective horizon, as a beacon at the far end of a long, dark tunnel, hanging by a thread, unless our collective voice strives to keep it alive, for alive it must stay.

The past few weeks have allowed for hope on the region's horizon. The guns seem to be widely silenced along the Lebanese-Israeli border, and Lebanon has overcome its political impasse, having elected a new President and soon, it appears, with a Government with a mandate to bring about positive change. The culmination of those positive developments seems to have led us back to the core of the region's turmoil, to Gaza and the Palestinian question, where the long and commendable mediation efforts of the United States, Egypt and Qatar have finally been successful. We thank them for their tireless efforts, agreeing with the outgoing President of the United States, who said citing the Bible "blessed be the peacemakers". For while it may require strength to preserve a conflict, it will take tremendous courage to transcend it. Let the destructive cycle of violence finally end, let tensions cool and let us turn to the day hereafter, to reconstruction, reconciliation and the creative activities of peacetime.

We should be hopeful but not naive. We should remain cautious of the difficulties on the ground. This fragile agreement must hold, and we call on all sides to do their part to uphold it. The humanitarian situation on the ground is most concerning. In that context, the role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is irreplaceable. As highlighted by the Secretary-General's recent letter (S/2024/892), there is no alternative to its accumulated experience of providing a wide spectrum of valuable, essential services to Palestinians for over 75 years. Obstructing the Agency's capacity to operate within its mandate is not helpful at this stage and could even be detrimental. Its role will be indispensable for implementing the humanitarian aspects of the agreement. It is therefore crucial that the recommendations of the Colonna report be diligently and fully implemented. That could even be a catalyst in terms of the much-needed cooperation between the Agency and Israel.

Greek support to UNRWA has not ceased. Likewise, Greece is committed to supporting humanitarian initiatives, such as the Cypriot Amalthea plan, which has recently allowed for the provision of more than 1,000 tons of humanitarian aid to Gaza through the port of Ashdod to alleviate some of the pain and to save some of the lives, for, as it is stated in the Talmud, whoever saves one life, saves the world entire.

Consistent with its long-established relations with the Palestinians and the Arab world and being a strategic ally of Israel, Greece will do its utmost as a bridge-builder during its tenure at the Council. What we have witnessed since Hamas unleashed its terror on 7 October 2023 has been a tragedy. May it be the end of the tragedy. May we see the release of all hostages and the ceasefire preserved. May it evolve into long-term peace. And may we see the peace process revived with a view to a viable two-State solution.

Mr. Akram (Pakistan): It is a pleasure to see you, Mr. Foreign Minister, presiding over this important meeting of the Security Council. Pakistan congratulates you on Algeria's successful presidency and for convening and participating in this timely debate on the grave situation in the Middle East, especially in Palestine. We also thank Secretary-General António Guterres for his insightful briefing and his wise recommendations.

Over the past 15 months, we have witnessed widespread destruction and massive human suffering caused by Israel's wanton attacks in Gaza, killing more than 46,000 persons, mostly women and children. We have witnessed the most egregious violations of international law, including international humanitarian law, which many have concluded amount to genocide. Israel's war has spread to the West Bank, Lebanon, Syria, Iran and Yemen.

The wreckage caused in the Middle East is the consequence of Israel's expansive, illegal and unacceptable conception of its so-called right to self-defence. It is also the consequence of the impunity that Israel has enjoyed in conducting attacks and aggression that are lacking in any legal and moral proportionality, against the helpless Palestinians, whose territory it occupies in flagrant violation of the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and international law. After defying the resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly, the injunctions of the International Court of Justice and the appeals of its friends and patrons, Israel has finally agreed to a ceasefire arrangement on account of a particular deadline. That ceasefire could have been achieved many months ago and could have saved thousands of lives, in particular in Gaza.

We have all welcomed the announcement of the ceasefire. Pakistan appreciates the patient mediatory efforts that have been made by Qatar, Egypt and the United States to achieve the agreement on a cessation of hostilities in Gaza. In particular, we extend our admiration to His Excellency Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al-Thani, Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of Qatar, for the resilience and diplomatic skill with which he steered the parties towards the conclusion of the agreement. Pakistan hopes that all stages of the ceasefire agreement will be fully implemented and that the ceasefire will become permanent. We are concerned by Israel's threats to resume its military attacks in Gaza. We also hope that the Palestinians will be able to agree on arrangements for Gaza's inclusive and effective governance.

First, the international community must now urgently address the humanitarian crisis created by Israel's destruction and blockade of Gaza and its deliberate strategy of starving its population. All crossing points must be opened, and all United Nations and other humanitarian agencies must be allowed to provide humanitarian sustenance to the besieged, displaced and suffering Palestinians in Gaza. Israel's attempts to shut down the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), the agency which provides a critical lifeline to the Palestinians, must be vigorously opposed by the Security Council and the international community. Pakistan will do all it can to assist the besieged and suffering Palestinians in Gaza.

Secondly, the displaced Palestinians must be helped to return to their homes, including in north Gaza, and to restore their devastated lives.

Thirdly, Israel must be obliged to withdraw its forces from Gaza, as envisaged in the ceasefire agreement. Its presence is illegal and must be ended to ensure the restoration of peace in Gaza, the rehabilitation of its displaced people and the prompt reconstruction of Gaza.

Fourthly, the international community should assist the Palestinians to develop a concrete plan for Gaza's reconstruction as envisaged in resolution 2735 (2024), which was initiated by the United States. The plan should be implemented expeditiously with adequate international support.

Fifthly, and most importantly, the international community, including the Security Council, must work to restore international legitimacy and sustainable peace in Palestine and the wider Middle East. Accountability for the crimes committed in the brutal war must be an essential element in restoring international legitimacy.

The most critical step in building sustainable peace is the revival of the political and diplomatic process to achieve a two-State solution between Israel and the Palestinian people. That must be based on two fundamental principles of the Charter of the United Nations, endorsed by several resolutions of the Security Council and the international Court of Justice, namely, the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination and the non-acquisition of territory through the use of force. Despite the expansionist ambitions of some Israeli politicians, despite the devastation and destruction wrought by Israel's war machine and despite the scepticism of some intellectuals, the two-State solution remains the most promising, equitable and, we believe, feasible framework for durable peace among Israel, the Palestinians and the Arab and Muslim world. Indeed, Israel's existence, flowing from General Assembly resolution 181 (II), can be legitimized only if there exists a separate and sovereign Palestinian State. The alternative is prolonged and brutal military occupation, revived violent resistance and perpetual conflict in the Holy Land, which would continue to afflict the entire Middle East and poison the relations between Israel and the Arab and Muslim world.

An inclusive political process is essential to advance the realization of the two-State solution. Pakistan will work to promote such a solution as a member of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution. This outcome should be made politically inevitable. The State of Palestine must be recognized by all United Nations Member States and admitted as a full member of the United Nations. In that context, we welcome the General Assembly's decision, in resolution 79/81, to convene a high-level international conference in June 2025 on the implementation of the relevant United Nations resolutions pertaining to the two-State solution.

To achieve comprehensive peace in the Middle East, it is also essential to simultaneously address other threats to peace and security in the region, as the Secretary-General mentioned.

Pakistan welcomes the agreement, facilitated by France and the United States, for a cessation of hostilities in Lebanon. We congratulate President Joesph Aoun on his election and Mr. Nawaf Salam on his designation as Prime Minister of Lebanon. Israeli forces must withdraw from south Lebanon within the stipulated 60 days. The Lebanese army is ready to deploy there in accordance with resolution 1701 (2006). Israel must halt its continuing attacks on Lebanon, which are blatant violations of the 26 November agreement.

Pakistan supports the stabilization of Syria through an inclusive political process and governance. Terrorism must not be allowed to re-emerge in or from Syria. We must uphold Syria's unity, sovereignty and territorial integrity. Israel must withdraw immediately from the separation zone established under the 1974 Agreement on Disengagement between Israeli and Syrian Forces. It must also withdraw from the occupied Syrian Golan Heights, in accordance with resolutions 242 (1967), 338 (1973) and 497 (1981).

We call for a halt to the Israeli and other air strikes against Yemen, as well as an end to the attacks from Yemen on international shipping. We hope that a ceasefire in Gaza will help to end these attacks and revive the interrupted political process in Yemen.

The Council must also be concerned about the reported contemplation of further Israeli attacks against the Islamic Republic of Iran. Today, despite the hostile rhetoric, there is an opportunity to revive the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action on equitable terms. This window of opportunity must not be missed, as such a move would contribute significantly to realizing durable peace and security across the entire Middle East.

The Israeli Prime Minister has proclaimed that Israel “has changed the face of the Middle East”. But Israel has not — and cannot — change its soul, which continues to seek justice and peace. Even in this altered strategic landscape, the Arab and Muslim peoples will not relent in their quest for peace with justice and for equal rights for the Palestinian people, including their right to self-determination and statehood.

Ms. Lassen (Denmark): I thank Algeria for calling for this important and very timely meeting.

The Middle East stands at a crossroads, undergoing a profound transformation that will reshape its future for years to come. After endless months of brutal war, we now have a long-awaited ceasefire and hostage agreement between Israel and Hamas. Hostages, who have languished in Hamas captivity for over 15 gruelling months, will finally return to their families, and we are relieved that the first three female hostages were freed last night. The Israeli people can slowly begin to heal the deep scars of Hamas’ horrific terrorist attack on 7 October.

At the same time, after more than 15 months of unimaginable suffering in Gaza, the ceasefire should pave the way for an immediate scale-up of humanitarian operations so that basic life-saving aid reaches the civilian population, so that infrastructure is rehabilitated and materials for basic shelters are provided to the many displaced people who lost their homes during the war. The ceasefire will finally silence the guns. The ceasefire, we hope, will lead to a durable and lasting peace and lay the foundation for the steps towards a two-State solution. We thank the United States, Egypt and Qatar for their tireless efforts in negotiating this deal.

Elsewhere in the region, we witnessed the fall of the Al-Assad regime in Syria. We welcomed a ceasefire in Lebanon. We congratulated Lebanon on the election of a new President and the designation of a new Prime Minister. Those developments give cause for hope.

That was also the impression of Danish Foreign Minister Lars Løkke Rasmussen, when he visited Israel, the occupied Palestinian territories, Jordan and Lebanon last week. In his talks with the region’s leaders, he felt a cautious optimism that positive shifts are happening. Put simply, these changes offer a rare opportunity to lay the foundations for a just peace and a stable region — a peace that this region has been yearning for over decades and so strongly deserves.

This is no time to hesitate. We must take full and immediate advantage of the ceasefire, dramatically scale up humanitarian assistance and support the resumption of basic services across Gaza. All parties must ensure that aid is allowed to move into and within Gaza freely.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) continues to play a truly crucial role in that regard. There is no alternative to this United Nations Agency, on which other humanitarian organizations rely for its infrastructure, staff, common services and last-mile support. UNRWA must be allowed to carry out its full mandate in all areas.

International law and core humanitarian principles make it perfectly clear — as an occupying Power, Israel has an obligation to ensure that Palestinians receive basic services. We urge the Israeli Government to abide by these obligations and immediately and without delay ensure the facilitation of full, rapid, safe and unhindered humanitarian assistance into and throughout the entire Gaza Strip.

We must not lose sight of the worrisome developments in the West Bank. Denmark is deeply concerned about the latest increase in violence and reiterates that the expansion of settlements, in clear violation of international law, undermines the prospects for a two-State solution.

In conclusion, it is high time to lay the foundations for peace. Now is the time to commit to lasting peace through a two-State solution through which Palestinians and Israelis alike can live in peaceful coexistence and mutual recognition. Now is the time to support peace in Lebanon in all ways possible and benefit from the new dawn rising, as the Secretary-General stated. Now is the time to support the people of Syria rebuilding their country in a Syrian-led, Syrian-owned and inclusive manner. Now is the time for a just and brighter future with freedom and dignity.

We must match the enormity of this moment with ambition and action and make good on the promise of the Charter of the United Nations to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war. The peoples of the Middle East deserve it.

Mr. Fu Cong (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank the Algerian presidency for convening today's high-level open debate and welcome Foreign Minister Ahmed Attaf, who is presiding over the proceedings. I thank Secretary-General António Guterres for his briefing.

Yesterday a ceasefire in Gaza materialized, which China welcomes. We look forward to this pivotal moment being leveraged to put the Middle East on the right track towards de-escalation. This ceasefire is overdue and has come too late. For 15 months, Gaza was subjected to sustained, wanton and indiscriminate shelling and bombing, leaving a trail of over 46,000 deaths and 2 million people languishing in a humanitarian catastrophe and plunging the wider region into turmoil. This ceasefire is but the first step, and it is incumbent upon the international community to work harder on the following important tasks, without which bloodshed and death will not cease and there will be no prospect for peace between Palestine and Israel, or shared stability in the wider region,

First, a permanent ceasefire in Gaza must be achieved.

Secondly, the humanitarian plight in Gaza must be alleviated.

Thirdly, arrangements must be made for post-conflict governance in Gaza.

Fourthly, the political prospects of the two-State solution must be revived.

Concerning the achievement of a permanent ceasefire in Gaza, once a ceasefire is in place, no conflict should be allowed to restart. We note Israel's statement that, should phase-two talks collapse, it may resume military operations in Gaza, with the backing of a certain country. We admit that we find that deeply concerning. The current ceasefire ought to be the foundation for a permanent one. It must not turn out to be only a pause before a new offensive. The three-phase deal should be implemented continuously and comprehensively. We hope that the United States, as the guarantor, will ensure that through tangible action.

With regard to alleviating the humanitarian plight in Gaza, the catastrophic humanitarian conditions there are beyond imagination. The suffering of the Palestinian people must be eased without delay. Israel, as the occupying Power, must fulfil its obligations under international humanitarian law, lift all restrictions on humanitarian access, ensure the secure and orderly distribution of humanitarian supplies in Gaza at scale and ensure that displaced persons can return home safely. There is no substitute for, or alternative to, the role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in humanitarian operations in Gaza. Deeply concerned by the Israeli legislation against UNRWA, we call on Israel not to go ahead with its implementation and to revoke those laws as soon as possible.

Concerning the mechanisms and arrangements for post-conflict governance in Gaza, the Strip is an inalienable part of the State of Palestine. Arrangements for post-conflict Gaza should be decided inside Palestine, through consultation. The international community should help the intra-Palestinian groups to close ranks in order to support the unified and effective management of Gaza and the West Bank, under the leadership of the Palestinian Authority. Any attempt to change the demographics and territory of Gaza is unacceptable. After 15 months of unbridled and indiscriminate bombing and shelling, Gaza is the epitome of devastation. It is uninhabitable. Reconstruction must start as soon as possible to give its people some way of returning to their lives. International support for rebuilding Gaza is essential, and UNRWA should be able to play its crucial role in the process.

As far as reviving the political prospects for the two-State solution is concerned, while independent statehood for the Jewish people was long ago achieved, the Palestinian people continue to be treated with indifference and to suffer from historical injustice. The 15-month-long conflict has also proved once again that lasting peace in the Middle East is possible only through the implementation of the two-State solution, in which the two States, Palestine and Israel, live side by side in peace. The international community should work towards relaunching the two-State solution with the greatest sense of urgency and provide strong support and assurances to that end. China welcomes the efforts of Saudi Arabia, the European Union, Norway and others to revive the two-State solution and supports the holding of a larger, more authoritative and more productive international peace conference to work out a timetable and road map for the implementation of the two-State solution.

It is worth noting that Israel's prolonged occupation of the Palestinian territories, including settlement activities and settler violence in the West Bank, is more than a violation of international law and Security Council resolutions. It also erodes the foundations of the two-State solution. Even more dangerous are the attempts to annex the West Bank, which would bury every last prospect for peace in the Middle East.

To uphold the primacy of international law and to preserve the basic conditions for independent Palestinian statehood, we call on the international community to take all measures necessary to put an end to unilateral actions that violate international law.

In conclusion, I wish to reiterate that the ceasefire, belated as it already is, must not turn out to be a mere hiatus before a fresh round of conflict. The international community must intensify its coordinated efforts without delay in order to facilitate the relaunching of the political process for the implementation of the two-State solution. China always stands ready to maintain its constructive contributions and tireless efforts to restore peace in the Middle East and to bring about a comprehensive, just and lasting solution to the Palestinian question.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I would like to thank you, Mr. President, and the delegation of Algeria for convening this timely debate. I also thank the Secretary-General, His Excellency Mr. António Guterres, for his comprehensive briefing, and indeed for his leadership and strident advocacy for peace in the Middle East.

We are at a critical crossroads for both the Israeli and Palestinian people, and for the Middle East as a whole. The war in Gaza has been at the centre of the violent turbulence in the region since 7 October 2023. With the first phase of the recently agreed ceasefire taking hold, hope is at an all-time high across the world, and among the Palestinian people in particular.

Allow me to thank the Governments of Egypt, Qatar and the United States for their tireless efforts. We call on the parties to fulfil their commitments under the ceasefire agreement, while prioritizing the well-being of civilians. Guyana urges the parties to continue negotiations between them in good faith in order to progress towards a permanent end to the war in Gaza and the release of all hostages.

The people of Gaza simply cannot afford another day of war. They must be guaranteed the space, time and resources to reconstruct their lives. Guyana therefore urges the Council and all Member States to ensure that hostilities do not resume in Gaza. We must also take all steps to ensure full compliance with the orders of provisional measures issued by the International Court of Justice in 2024, and with the Court's advisory opinion regarding Israel's continued presence in the occupied Palestinian territory (see A/78/968).

In the immediate days ahead, the focus must continue to be on ramping up the supply of critical humanitarian assistance to people in the Gaza Strip, while providing food and critical healthcare services to those in dire need and addressing the situation of the hundreds of thousands of Palestinians who have been displaced from their homes. Children must be returned to the classroom, having endured more than a year of learning loss. International solidarity and support are as critical now as they have been throughout this war, and Guyana urges all Member States to scale up the level of their support for recovery efforts in Gaza. It is also crucial for the United Nations and aid agencies to be able to carry out their work without impediment.

As the tide shifts in Gaza with the implementation of this first phase of the ceasefire deal, the tide is also shifting for Palestinians on another front. The legislation adopted by the Israeli Knesset on 28 October 2024 on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is set to enter into force in a few days. Should Israel proceed with enforcing the legislation, that would collide with the space that the ceasefire deal has created for scaling up humanitarian assistance to Gaza. As the Secretary-General has asserted, while a number of United Nations entities other than UNRWA have been operating and will continue to operate in the occupied Palestinian territories, those entities cannot replace UNRWA's operations. The extent of UNRWA's operations over its more than 70 years cannot be replicated by any other agency.

Guyana wishes to recall that UNRWA's operations were intended to be temporary. However, after more than seven decades, the impediments to Palestinian statehood have not been removed, preventing a duly elected Government from assuming its role and ensuring the proper functioning of the State and its institutions. Guyana therefore urges the Council and all Member States to safeguard UNRWA's role in the occupied Palestinian territories until the Palestine refugee question is definitively addressed, in accordance with the relevant United Nations resolutions. We further urge Israel to refrain from implementing the legislation, as doing so would hinder the work of the United Nations, especially at this critical time for Palestinians in Gaza.

We must continue to work towards a permanent settlement of the Palestinian question, in line with the two-State solution. The Palestinian people should not be made to endure further cycles of violence, as we have seen since 7 October. Close to 47,000 Palestinians, the majority of them women and children, have lost their lives in this war. Many more have lost their homes and their livelihoods, and Gaza now has the largest number of child amputees in modern history. Images of the destruction in the Gaza Strip show endless grey heaps, with more than 90 per cent of buildings estimated to have been destroyed or damaged. Palestinians must now rebuild once again, and the support of the international community will be critical. Notwithstanding the enormity of what is before us, there is no time like the present for the United Nations to secure a lasting and just solution of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. We must seize the moment and end this conflict and the suffering of generations of Palestinians. It is a question of self-determination and justice for the Palestinian people.

In conclusion, freedom for the Palestinian people in an independent State of their own and a secured Israel are not elusive. As we meet today, amid glimmering hope and cautious optimism, Guyana believes that the ceasefire agreement could be the first step towards advancing those twin endeavours, forging a lasting peace for the people of Palestine and Israel and the wider Middle East. As a Member of the United Nations and of the Council, we stand ready to do our part.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): I thank the Secretary-General for his briefing.

The whole world is witnessing a pivotal transition in the Middle East. Finally, the dawn of hope has arrived in Gaza, with the release of three Israeli hostages yesterday. We wholeheartedly welcome the long-awaited agreement to secure a ceasefire and the release of hostages. We appreciate the persistent efforts by the mediating countries, namely, the United States, Qatar and Egypt. Syria is charting a new political path with the fall of the Al-Assad regime, after 14 years of civil war. Lebanon overcame its political vacuum by electing a new President, following the cessation of hostilities across the Blue Line.

However, alongside that optimism, we now stand at the most critical juncture. There remain numerous unresolved key issues and deeply rooted challenges. I would like to stress the following points today.

First, the Gaza ceasefire agreement must be faithfully implemented by all parties. Hamas must release the hostages. Israel should withdraw from populated areas. Both parties must cease all military operations in Gaza. We urge both parties to fully commit to maintaining the negotiations in order to transition to the next phase of the deal. Policymakers in Israel should reject any pressure to prolong or resume the armed conflict. And Hamas must keep in mind, throughout the negotiating process, that their terrorist attacks on 7 October 2023 cannot be justified under any pretext.

Secondly, there should be no hindrance to humanitarian aid flowing throughout Gaza. Parties to the conflict must facilitate the entry and delivery of assistance. All crossings into Gaza should be opened, and measures necessary to restore law and order must be implemented. In that vein, we reiterate that Israel's obligations under international humanitarian law, as explained in the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice in July 2024 (see A/78/968), do not end at the border crossings. It is Israel's legal obligation to meet the basic needs of civilians in Gaza and to facilitate humanitarian aid by third parties.

The operations of all humanitarian actors must be ensured and facilitated, considering article 59 of the Fourth Geneva Convention. We recognize that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East has been playing a vital role in delivering humanitarian aid and providing social services in Gaza. In that connection, we hope that the unilateral implementation of national legislation of Israel will not jeopardize this historic opportunity to improve the situation in Gaza.

Thirdly, this pressing momentum should rekindle the peace process between Israel and Palestine. The Middle East peace process, stalled for decades, needs to be resuscitated to promote long-term peaceful coexistence. In order to move towards a better future for all, a smooth transition to legitimate and stable governance in Gaza under a reformed and revitalized Palestinian Authority (PA) is essential. The international community, including Israel, should support the PA in restoring its governance in Gaza and enhancing stability in the West Bank, with a vision to realize the two-State solution, in accordance with the relevant Security Council resolutions.

Peace and security in the Middle East is an interconnected puzzle made up of interlinked pieces. All players in the region — not only those in Israel and Palestine — should focus on constructing peace and stability. Developments in Lebanon and Syria should lead to the rebuilding of State institutions in due course, alongside active support from the international community, including the United Nations. The mandates of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon and the United Nations Disengagement Observer Force should be respected and complied with, and the safety of peacekeepers must be guaranteed at all times. The Houthis in Yemen, who have been exploiting regional volatility, must reverse their stance and join efforts to revitalize the Yemeni-led political process. Therefore, we reiterate our demand that all State and non-State actors cease all attacks across the region. Any acts that violate the territorial integrity of neighbouring countries, provoke opposing parties or sow more seeds of retribution must stop.

Seizing this crucial momentum, let us now collectively chart a brighter tomorrow for all in the region. The Republic of Korea will maintain its engagement in all efforts to achieve that vision.

Ms. Shea (United States of America): I thank Secretary-General Guterres for his briefing earlier.

A ceasefire and hostage release deal was long overdue. Thanks to the efforts of Qatar, Egypt and the United States, the sides have reached an agreement consistent with resolution 2735 (2024) to end the conflict that Hamas set in motion more than 470 days ago. This deal will halt the fighting in Gaza, surge much-needed humanitarian assistance to Palestinian civilians and, most importantly, reunite the hostages with their families after more than 15 months in captivity. It is the result not only of the extreme pressure that Hamas has been under and the changed regional equation after a ceasefire in Lebanon and the weakening of Iran, but also of dogged and painstaking diplomacy.

The conflict should have ended long ago. We must never forget the lives taken as a result of the brutal Hamas terrorist attack on 7 October 2023 and the horrors endured by countless innocent people in the war that followed. We cannot allow Hamas to continue playing spoiler on behalf of the Palestinian people any longer — not after it started the conflict through its barbaric attack on 7 October 2023 and its deplorable behaviour ever since.

We have seen Hamas cynically weaponize the suffering of Palestinians by using civilian infrastructure, such as schools and hospitals, to store caches of weapons, house fighters and coordinate attacks. We have also seen Hamas play the victim, making appeals to the international community on behalf of Palestinians in Gaza while at the same time actively making decisions and employing tactics that put them in danger. We can no longer allow Hamas to dominate the Palestinian political landscape in Gaza.

We welcome the Palestinian leadership's recent statements emphasizing how Hamas is placing the interests of Tehran over that of the Palestinian people and thereby bringing about the destruction in Gaza. Israel's fight is with Hamas, not with the Palestinian civilians the terrorist group falsely claims to represent but often put in harm's way. No one benefits from a deepening humanitarian crisis in Gaza — least of all the millions of Palestinian civilians mired in a conflict they did not start and are powerless to stop.

Now is the time for all parties to ensure critical aid reaches those in need throughout Gaza. We urge countries to support this effort through funding and resources and to help scale up much-needed humanitarian aid.

As we all know, the work to finalize a ceasefire was difficult. It took far too long to reach an agreement to end the bloodshed. In the near future, the region's leaders will need to make difficult choices to help forge a new reality. The United States-, Qatari- and Egyptian-mediated ceasefire is a starting point towards a future that provides equal measures of security, freedom and dignity for both Palestinians and Israelis.

Despite the horrific toll of the conflict that Hamas unleashed, we have a historic opportunity to dramatically transform the Middle East. It is long past time for the fighting to end and the work of building peace and security to begin, to help people begin rebuilding their lives.

The United States will do everything in its power to help Israelis and Palestinians seize this moment together and find peace through this agreement.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We welcome you, Sir, presiding over the quarterly open debate of the Security Council on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question. We note the active role of the Algerian delegation, which voices the Arab world's aspirations in the Security Council, in keeping the attention of the Security Council focused on various important aspects of that topic.

We thank the Secretary-General for his briefing on the situation in the Middle East, where the bloody Israeli-Palestinian conflict has been raging for more than 15 months. We have just recently heard reports of an agreement reached between Israel and Hamas on a ceasefire in the Gaza Strip. As far as we know the agreement was approved by both parties and a few hours ago it entered into force. We hope that the results attained through mediators will last. Nonetheless, this is a reason not only to rejoice, but also to take stock of this sad situation. We must not forget that the inhabitants of Gaza paid for this with their lives. During the past 15 months, Israel's military operation in Gaza killed at least 47,000 Palestinian civilians; the exact figure will be known only once the rubble is cleared. Such civilian casualties have not been seen since the Second World War. That bloodshed should have been stopped much earlier, but each attempt by the Security Council to adopt a resolution with a call for an immediate ceasefire came up against Washington's veto. Referring to its so-called "quiet diplomacy", Washington did everything it could to ensure that the Security Council did not interfere with Israel's actions on the ground.

From the very beginning of the crisis in Gaza in October 2023, Russia, along with like-minded countries, consistently sought to establish a lasting ceasefire and put forward the first draft resolution calling for that (see S/PV.9439). We also insisted on the urgent delivery of humanitarian assistance to all in need. Knowing that, despite those efforts, the Security Council was unable to implement its mandate because of the actions of one permanent member is a bitter pill to swallow.

As far as we can tell, the latest deal is not fundamentally different from the one that was discussed back in December 2023. That begs the question: was the fine-tuning of the details really worth the tens of thousands of lives that were lost since then in Gaza? Frankly speaking, that understanding does not spark joy in us, even though Russia welcomes the fact that a deal has been concluded.

Yesterday we saw the start of the agreement's first phase which provides for the release of 33 hostages held in the Gaza Strip in exchange for a group of Palestinian detainees in Israeli prisons. The implementation of the first phase will help to assess the sustainability and viability of the entire agreement. It is a cause for cautious optimism that, despite some difficulties at the initial stage, 19 January saw the release of the first Israeli hostages and of Palestinians held in Israeli prisons. Pursuant to the provisions of the agreement, from that moment on, hostilities ceased on the Gaza Strip and the process of the phased withdrawal of Israeli forces started. We note the beginning of the withdrawal of Israeli armoured vehicles from Rafah and the return home of thousands its residents. However, let us look at today's front page of the New York Times which has photos of the houses to which Palestinians are returning to. Those are not houses but just a pile of ruins.

We also note that the agreement provides for an increase in the amount of food, fuel and medicine supplied to meet the Gazans' need. According to Rik Peepkorn, World Health Organization Representative for the West Bank and Gaza, it will take many years and at least $10 billion to rebuild the health system in Gaza. Less than half of Gaza's hospitals are currently operational. The issue of delivering the adequate amount of humanitarian assistance to Gaza should become a priority of the work of the Council. The Security Council resolutions can now be carried out properly so members should focus on implementing them.

We commend the efforts of the mediators — first and foremost, Qatar and Egypt — whose painstaking and persistent work made it possible for this important agreement to be reached. We note that, at the final stage of the negotiations, representatives of the new American Administration also got on board, which — as we understand it — ultimately helped to break Israel's unwillingness to come to an agreement.

We trust that the implementation of the agreement will pave the way for the stabilization of the situation in Gaza and bring home those who were temporarily and repeatedly displaced, who number in the hundreds of thousands, if not more. We also hope that the agreement will help to rebuild the Gaza Strip, which is currently lying in ruins and resembles scenes from a post-apocalyptic film, and to reunite Israeli hostages and Palestinian prisoners with their families. We expect that Russian citizen Alexander Trufanov, who is currently in the Gaza Strip, will be among those released.

We have repeatedly stated that a ceasefire in Gaza is a precondition for stabilizing the entire region. The implementation of the agreement gives a glimmer of hope not only for a lasting normalization of the situation around the Israeli-Palestinian conflict but also for creating the conditions for long-term improvements in the situations in Lebanon, Syria and Yemen. Furthermore, there is now an opportunity to create conditions for streamlining a comprehensive political settlement process for the Palestinian question on a universally recognized international legal basis, the ultimate aim of which is to establish an independent Palestinian State within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital, living in peace and security with Israel. Only by implementing the two-State solution, endorsed by Security Council and General Assembly resolutions, will it be possible to break the vicious circle of violence and bring genuine lasting peace to the region. As recent years have shown, no agreement that bypasses the issue of a just settlement of the Palestinian question will ever bring about sustainable peace in the region.

However, that is still a long way off. The past few months of war have highlighted the problem of a lack of mutual trust and have fuelled radicalization on both sides. The long-awaited deal is fragile, and any provocation may well jeopardize its implementation. In particular, it is important for Israel to cease its practice of building new settlements in the occupied Palestinian territory or expanding the existing ones and for it to comply with Security Council resolutions. What is also pertinent is how and by whom the ceasefire will be monitored. From both sides of the barricades, we are already hearing the voices of those who are not satisfied with the agreement and are just waiting for the right moment to accuse their opponents of violating their obligations pertaining to it.

The entire international community is duty bound to protect the ceasefire and amplify the voices of those Palestinians and Israelis who champion peace, not war. For our part, we will closely monitor the implementation of the terms of the deal and support any initiatives aimed at establishing an unconditional and comprehensive ceasefire, ensuring safe and unimpeded humanitarian access and relaunching negotiations on a universally recognized international legal basis, including decisions by the Security Council and the General Assembly.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): Allow me first of all to thank the Algerian delegation for convening today's meeting and the Secretary-General for his briefing.

France welcomes the entry into force of the agreement on a ceasefire and hostage release in Gaza, made possible thanks to the efforts of the United States, Qatar and Egypt. We call on the parties to implement it in its entirety. The agreement should allow for the release of all hostages, including our two compatriots Ofer Kalderon and Ohad Yahalomi, and the massive delivery of aid to the civilian population. In view of the urgent situation, all access points must be opened without delay. The work of international organizations and humanitarian actors must be facilitated by Israel, in accordance with international law and the orders of the International Court of Justice. The United Nations must be able to deliver aid freely. France reiterates its full support for the irreplaceable work of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East in the occupied Palestinian territory.

The future of the Gaza Strip must be part of a future Palestinian State. We must prevent Hamas from regaining a foothold in the Strip and must therefore prepare for the return of the Palestinian Authority, which is responsible for administering the territory. We must also ensure Israel's security. No massacre such as the one committed on 7 October 2023 can ever happen again.

France calls for the ceasefire to be an opportunity to set in motion an irreversible process for implementing the two-State solution, with security guarantees for both Israelis and Palestinians — the only way to ensure a just and lasting peace. France is committed to that, within the Security Council and in all forums. In June 2025, we will co-chair, along with Saudi Arabia, an international conference for the implementation of the two-State solution. We call on the Israelis and Palestinians to take the only path that will guarantee them a future of peace and security.

Implementing the ceasefire agreement should make it possible to write a new chapter in the Middle East. In Lebanon, the election of President Joseph Aoun and the appointment of Mr. Nawaf Salam to the post of Chairman of the Council of Ministers are a source of hope. France hopes that a strong Government capable of bringing Lebanon together in all its diversity will be formed as soon as possible. There is an urgent need to fully implement resolution 1701 (2006) to achieve a long-term solution along the Blue Line that ensures respect for the security of Israel and Lebanon. In Yemen, the peace process must resume, under the aegis of the United Nations Special Envoy, and France urges the Houthis to stop their destabilizing actions.

The President: I now give the floor to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Colombia.

Mr. Murillo (Colombia) (spoke in Spanish): For the Government of Colombia and for me in particular, it is our honour to participate in the important debate that brings us together today and even more so on a day that is highly symbolic for us and is celebrated in the United States and around the world — Martin Luther King Day, which marks the birth of a great peacebuilder.

We welcome the People's Democratic Republic of Algeria's convening of and invitation to this open debate and acknowledge the important work that it has carried out this month in its presidency of the Security Council, as well as its support and that of other members of the Council for peace in Colombia. The international community and this forum in particular have witnessed Colombia's unwavering commitment to the search for peace and reconciliation, within and beyond our borders, even amid numerous difficulties — because peacebuilding is obviously difficult. However, we are talking about peace and not war.

Colombia is closely following the situation in the Middle East and in particular in Syria, where it is expected that a new internationally recognized Government will be formed that will take into account all the ethnic, cultural and religious groupings in the country. The war unleashed in 2011 in Syria has been one of the most devastating situations that humankind has faced in recent years. Syria became a kind of testing ground for geopolitical confrontations, with no respect or thought for the civilian population — a war that lasted 13 years, has killed an estimated 620,000 people and caused 7 million people to become internally displaced persons and more than 6 million refugees. It is something that we cannot accept, and we must, as an international community, prevent it from happening again anywhere else. Colombia reiterates its willingness, good offices and capacity to coordinate, with the countries of the region and the international community, all the necessary efforts in Syria to build a country that can protect its civilian population and be a source of stability.

In the case of Palestine, now, we are confronted by a heart-rending state of affairs, which demands immediate and coordinated action by the international community. We are absolutely categorical in underscoring that the population of Palestine, which, for decades has lived amid the horrors of war, is now facing a genocide and a war that has intensified to unimaginable levels and has spread throughout the region.

My country again calls on the warring parties to engage in negotiations that lead to a permanent ceasefire, full respect for human rights and international humanitarian law in the Gaza Strip, with a particular focus on safeguarding the rights of women and children. In that vein, Colombia acknowledges the role of the good offices of the United States, Egypt and Qatar in securing the recent agreement to implement a ceasefire between the parties that includes the release of Israeli hostages, and we call for the unconditional release of Colombian-Israeli citizen Elkana Bohbot and all the hostages so that they can return to their families. By the same token, the Palestinian prisoners held by Israel must be released. It is our hope that that will be the starting point for achieving a stable and lasting peace. Unimpeded access to humanitarian aid is urgent and mandatory.

We have emphasized that the lack of a substantive solution to the Palestinian question is putting to the test multilateralism as a principle of international relations and the ability of the United Nations, in particular that of the Security Council, to fulfil its primary responsibility of maintaining international peace and security. According to the Palestinian Ministry of Health, more than 45,000 people have perished, and approximately 130,000 have been wounded since the war began. Also before us is the hardship of forcible displacement inflicted on thousands of families on a daily basis as a result of the war's military operations and evacuation orders. Accordingly, we support many of the solutions put forward, including the Kingdom of Norway's proposal, which the General Assembly has approved, for the International Court of Justice to issue an advisory opinion on Israel's legal obligations vis-à-vis the activities of the United Nations, other international organizations and third States in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Colombia will continue to maintain that only a substantive solution — necessarily involving the two-State solution set out in the 1993 Oslo accords — is urgently required and is the best avenue for guaranteeing the right of the peoples of Israel and Palestine to coexist in peace. In the process, the sovereignty of both States must be reaffirmed and the secure and internationally recognized borders must be established, in line with the resolutions adopted by the United Nations. Colombia stands ready to contribute to peacebuilding and, to that end, is offering its good practices in that area and in that of conflict resolution, as appropriate and as necessary. Moreover, as our President, Gustavo Petro Urrego, has said, our country is fully available to provide humanitarian aid to persons affected by the armed conflict and the war.

Lastly, we echo the appeal of the Secretary-General, Mr. António Guterres, for the territorial integrity of Lebanon to be guaranteed and for attacks on its population to end. It is our moral and legal duty to act in solidarity with the most vulnerable and to strive tirelessly for a world in which tolerance, peace and mutual respect prevail. It is our duty to safeguard life, build peace and protect the planet.

The President: I now give the floor to the Minister for International Relations and Cooperation of Namibia.

Mr. Mushelenga (Namibia): Allow me from the outset to congratulate the People's Democratic Republic of Algeria on assuming the presidency of the Council this month.

I wish to align my statement with the statement to be delivered on behalf of the Committee on the Exercise of the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People, in which Namibia has the honour of serving as Vice-Chair.

May I also take this opportunity to thank the Secretary-General for presenting the latest update on the situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question.

I join the preceding speakers in welcoming the ceasefire agreement reached between Israel and Hamas as an immediate path to halting the bloodshed and allowing humanitarian aid to reach those in desperate need. The devastating consequences of the war in Gaza have preoccupied the Council and the General Assembly in their work for the greater part of the past 15 months. The toll on human life and infrastructure has set a precedent in terms of levels of violence and destruction in an ugly chapter in human history that should never be condoned anywhere. The escalation of violence over the past 15 months has been characterized by flagrant violations of international law and gruesome atrocities, including genocide, the wanton destruction of civilian infrastructure and the tragic loss of thousands of innocent Palestinian lives.

Over the period, aspersions have been cast on the ability of the Council to carry out its core mandate of maintaining international peace and security. Namibia commends the General Assembly for its consistent efforts to ensure that, when the Council was paralysed, the membership of the General Assembly made its presence felt and made strong and consistent calls to bring the war to an end. That substantiates and validates the call to reform the Council so that it is more representative, as the need to do things differently has never been more urgent.

Namibia commends the mediation efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States and hopes that the ceasefire prepares a foundation for a just peace and a scaling-up of humanitarian aid and ends the prolonged programme of annexation and settlement expansion. Namibia's position on the conflict remains grounded in our unwavering commitment to international peace, justice and respect for international law.

The consequences of the war will reverberate for generations to come. For that reason, Namibia underscores the dire need to address both the immediate crisis and the underlying causes of the conflict. The cycle of violence cannot be broken through military means alone. Sustainable peace requires addressing the root causes of the conflict, including the occupation, the blockade and the denial of fundamental rights to the Palestinian people. The humanitarian situation in Gaza is alarming, and it is our fervent hope that the scaling-up of humanitarian assistance will be prioritized as a matter of urgency and in accordance with the humanitarian aid protocols agreed to as part of the ceasefire agreement. Unhindered access for humanitarian aid must be guaranteed to provide life-saving assistance to the people of Gaza, including food, water, medical supplies and the restoration of essential services to alleviate their immense suffering. Namibia demands that Israel rescind, with immediate effect, its legislation against the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, as such legislation violates international humanitarian law.

Namibia further calls on Israel to uphold its obligations under international law, including the principles of distinction, proportionality and necessity. Alleged violations of international humanitarian and human rights law must be thoroughly investigated, and those responsible must be held accountable.

This crisis must serve as a reminder of the urgent need to return to a credible, inclusive and negotiated peace process aimed at achieving a just and lasting solution. That includes the unconditional realization of the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people, including their right to self-determination and the establishment of a sovereign, independent and viable Palestinian State, living side by side in peace and security with Israel, based on the pre-1967 borders and the relevant United Nations resolutions.

Following the request by the General Assembly for an advisory opinion from the International Court of Justice regarding Israel's obligations in relation to the presence and activities of the United Nations, international organizations and third States, Namibia encourages all Member States to actively engage in the impending Court proceedings by submitting written statements and observations. This is a critical opportunity to reaffirm the principles of international law and underscore the importance of accountability, cooperation and the protection of international organizations as they fulfil their mandates by contributing to this process. Member States can help clarify the legal responsibilities of all parties involved and strengthen the international community's commitment to upholding justice and the rule of law.

The people of Palestine have endured immense suffering for far too long — a suffering that no nation and its people should ever endure. Namibia stands in solidarity with the Palestinian people and reiterates its call for the United Nations, particularly the Security Council, to fulfil its mandate in maintaining international peace and security. We also urge Member States to act in unison and with urgency to ensure that the rights, dignity and aspirations of the Palestinian people are upheld.

As a nation that has experienced the painful legacy of occupation and emerged triumphantly attaining liberty, Namibia firmly believes that the arduous road to peace in the Middle East is approaching its ultimate destination. It requires political will, mutual respect and a commitment to human rights and dignity for all.

In conclusion, the war in Gaza is a stark reminder of the consequences of decades of unresolved conflict and unfulfilled promises. Posterity will judge us for our inaction in the face of injustice, and we will forever stand condemned for committing sins of omission. This war is a test of the international community's resolve to uphold the principles of justice, human rights and peace.

Therefore, in keeping with the resolve of world leaders reaffirming the principles of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, as set out in the Pact for the Future (General Assembly resolution 79/1), we are duty bound to reflect on what more we can do to bring about a comprehensive, just and lasting solution to the question of Palestine.

The President: I now give the floor to the Acting Minister for Foreign Affairs of Libya.

Mr. Elbaour (Libya) (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, I would like to congratulate you, Mr. President, on the presidency of the Security Council this month. I would like to wish you every success in managing the work of the Council. We would like to commend Algeria, through the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Ahmed Attaf, for having convened this high-level meeting on this important matter.

There have been meetings for more than a year calling for a ceasefire. Today we are meeting following an announcement of a ceasefire in the Gaza Strip, which came into force yesterday after 471 days of destruction, killings, and displacement. That amounts to 67 weeks of bloody combat, air raids and bloodshed, with the world watching one massacre after another in the Gaza Strip without being able to end the aggression, the killings, displacement or the starvation of the besieged Palestinians in Gaza.

Such actions ran counter to all human values and international laws and conventions, which, unfortunately, failed to prevent the occupation's brutality against every thing Palestinian. Nothing survived in the ugliest manifestation of sabotage and destruction by war machines for 471 days before reaching the ceasefire agreement, which we reached today. A huge toll was taken on a besieged people without shelter, food or healthcare.

Today we are delighted that this agreement has been reached and that the guns were silenced. We are delighted that children, women and the elderly in Gaza expect that they are going to be able to spend a night without bombing or air raids, even though they do not have a roof over their heads. The Gaza Strip has shown the inability of the international community to maintain international peace and security, to prevent wars, to protect civilians, to guarantee human dignity and human rights, to deter the aggressor and to hold criminals accountable. Those are the very values on which the United Nations was founded; those are the rules on which the Security Council was established.

While my country welcomes this ceasefire agreement, concluded on 15 January, we commend the sincere efforts by Qatar and Egypt and the constructive mediation by the United States of America. In that connection, we should recall that there is a need for everyone to commit to the implementation and sustainability of that agreement and to follow international monitoring mechanisms in order to ensure that the painful chapters that we have recently experienced do not happen again in the Gaza Strip.

The whole Middle East region is facing economic, humanitarian, political and even military repercussions because of the situation in Gaza. The situation is even worse in the Gaza Strip, which was the theatre of war, displacement and starvation. In that regard, we must stipulate that this ceasefire agreement in and of itself cannot bring an end to the suffering of the Palestinian people in the Gaza Strip. We need to support the ceasefire and accompany it with urgent international action in order to improve the devastating humanitarian situation in the Gaza Strip. As the international community, we need to act in order to coordinate our work, and we need to provide urgent humanitarian support and assistance for the people in Gaza because it is currently a scene of debris and rubble. The Palestinian people in the Gaza Strip have become homeless.

We have failed the Gazan people. We did so during the war, and today we need to stand side by side with them as the international community. We must do so in order to repair what was destroyed by the war. In these difficult circumstances, we are also confronting provocative actions by the occupying Power, which said that it wanted to suspend the activities and operations of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in the occupied Palestinian territories. That decision is not just a political or administrative measure, but a direct attack on the rights of the Palestinian refugees and a systematic attempt to undermine their cause and their right of return, which is guaranteed by internationally legitimate decisions.

In that context, we call upon the Security Council to ensure that the occupying Power honours its commitments pursuant to international law, the Charter of the United Nations and relevant United Nations resolutions. The international community needs to protect UNRWA's mandate and provide it with the necessary financial resources so that it can provide essential services, without obstacles or restrictions, to the refugees in the Gaza Strip and all occupied Palestinian territories.

In conclusion, the current agreement should not be viewed as an end point, and we should not view 7 October 2023 as the start of the conflict, as some attempt to portray it. Rather, that date needs to be placed in its appropriate context, as a result of the continued consequences of the conflict. Therefore, this agreement must be seen as a step that paves the way towards a new stage, in which a durable solution can be found to the Palestinian question, putting an end to their suffering for decades. This painful experience clearly shows that ignoring the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people just leads to more escalation that threatens international peace and security and that putting an end to the Palestinians' suffering serves everyone.

My country believes that the Palestinian people's struggle and patience in the face of all forms of discrimination and displacement must end. The deferred international commitment to finding a solution to the Palestinian cause must be fulfilled through recognition of the right of Palestinians to establish a Palestinian State with East Jerusalem as its capital. I would like to take this opportunity to reiterate the unwavering position of the Libyan State in its support for the Palestinian cause, standing by the brotherly Palestinian people and doing what we can to support them. My Government stresses that true peace can only be achieved by enabling the Palestinian people to enjoy their rights to self-determination, restoring their full rights, bringing an end to their suffering and establishing their State.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Indonesia.

Mr. Nasir (Indonesia): I thank Algeria for convening this important meeting, and I thank the Secretary-General for his briefing.

The issue before us has lingered on the Security Council's agenda for more than 70 years, yet Israel's injustices against the Palestinian people remain unresolved. In the West Bank and East Jerusalem, illegal settlements are expanding with growing violence and impunity. The Council's failure over the past 15 months has obliterated Gaza, with a catastrophic humanitarian disaster. We therefore sincerely welcome the ceasefire agreement in Gaza and the start to the release of hostages and Palestinians held arbitrarily. Although it comes at a devastating cost of tens of thousands of innocent lives, we thank the mediators that have helped to bring about the ceasefire agreement. The ceasefire is a vital first step towards attaining peace in the Middle East. The Council must safeguard the agreement so that every phase is upheld. The Council must help to break the cycle of violence.

The international community must focus on two priorities following the ceasefire agreement in Gaza: first, ending the humanitarian catastrophe; and, secondly, developing a comprehensive political plan to end the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. In that regard, we fully support the Secretary-General's call for sustained humanitarian relief for the people of Gaza. Humanitarian aid must flow freely and without obstruction in a sustained manner. Humanitarian workers must be fully allowed to operate safely. Reconstruction efforts in Gaza must be prepared, including by lifting the 18-year-old blockade that has strangled its economy. The role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East is indispensable in those efforts. We must restore and strengthen its capacity. The Council must shield the Agency from persistent threats and misinformation campaigns.

Beyond addressing the immediate humanitarian needs, we must work towards a just and comprehensive political plan, with a two-State solution at its core, in which an independent Palestinian State lives side by side in peace and security with Israel. Any other alternative will only lead to apartheid and subjugation. A peace process imposed by a select few will also fail.

That is why the international community must unite to foster genuine dialogue and negotiations that address the root cause of colonialism and historical injustice in Palestine, including the right of return of the Palestinian refugees. Such a process must place Palestine on an equal footing, guided by international law and internationally agreed parameters. The upcoming High-level International Conference for the Peaceful Settlement of the Question of Palestine and the Implementation of the Two-

State Solution must serve as a turning point. The Council must create conditions conducive to ensuring the success of the Conference.

Finally, it is time for the Council to prove its relevance. Continuing to leave this agenda item unresolved is not just unconscionable, but also a clear demonstration of the urgent need to expedite reform of the Council. We give our heartfelt support to the five new members of the Council. Our expectations are clear — please be guided by humanity and leave no stone unturned in advancing the Palestinian cause. To the five permanent members of the Council: it is time to end the Council's paralysis and restore the Council's honour. History will judge us, whether the Council rises to the occasion or fades into irrelevance.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Maldives.

Mr. Shiaan (Maldives): I thank Algeria, the President of the Council for the month of January, for convening this quarterly open debate.

Maldives aligns itself with the statements to be delivered by the representatives of Djibouti, on behalf of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation, and Uganda, on behalf of the Movement of Non-Aligned Countries.

Maldives welcomes the ceasefire deal that has been reached and that is now in effect, 15 months after the genocidal war in Gaza began. The cessation of hostilities is a critical step towards halting the ongoing devastation and loss of innocent lives, particularly of children, women and the elderly. The people of Gaza have endured immeasurable hardship, and this ceasefire is a glimmer of hope for relief and recovery. It is our hope to see the return of displaced people and an inflow of much-needed humanitarian assistance.

Maldives commends the role of the countries that facilitated the negotiations that led to this crucial ceasefire agreement. The international community must now ensure the ceasefire agreement is enforced. This ceasefire represents not just a moment of respite, but a critical juncture at which Israel can demonstrate its commitment to the values enshrined in international law, in particular international humanitarian law.

As such, Maldives calls on Israel to pay reparations to the State of Palestine for the death and destruction caused over the past 15 months. In Gaza, relentless aerial bombardments and the extensive destruction of civilian infrastructure, including homes, hospitals, schools and critical services, have left long-term repercussions for the population, and severe restrictions on humanitarian access have drastically intensified human suffering. Recent United Nations reports underscore a surge in civilian casualties, especially among children, and ongoing shortages of food, water and energy. It is crucial that the international community not only support the ceasefire, but also take immediate and meaningful action to address the humanitarian needs on the ground. We call for urgent and scaled-up support for Palestine to ensure a sustainable recovery from prolonged Israeli attacks.

Beyond the occupied Palestinian territory, the wider regional context compounds those challenges. In Syria, the decade-long conflict remains unresolved, and recent briefings to the Council highlight a persistent humanitarian crisis, particularly in the north-west, where millions urgently need assistance. Although limited cross-line operations have occurred, gaps in humanitarian cover persist. Millions of displaced Syrians still lack basic necessities, a lack exacerbated by economic instability and insufficient medical resources. We therefore call for a renewed international approach, one that supports the Special Envoy's political track, in line with resolution 2254 (2015), to pave the way for sustainable peace in Syria.

Despite the Council's multiple meetings on this crisis, urgent challenges persist in Gaza, the West Bank, Syria and Lebanon. We need a comprehensive and coordinated strategy, one that enforces accountability, respects international humanitarian law and addresses the root causes of conflict. The Maldives firmly believes that a just and lasting peace in the Middle East can be achieved only through the establishment of an independent and sovereign State of Palestine based on the pre-1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital. We look forward to the upcoming United Nations conference on Palestine in June, which will offer a vital opportunity for the international community to renew commitments, intensify diplomatic efforts and develop a clear path to end the crisis and secure a sustainable peace for the Palestinian people.

The President: I wish to remind all speakers to limit their statements to no more than three minutes in order to enable the Council to carry out its work expeditiously. Flashing lights on the collars of the microphones will prompt speakers to bring their remarks to a close after three minutes.

I now give the floor to the representative of Egypt.

Mr. Mahmoud (Egypt) (spoke in Arabic): I have the honour to deliver this statement on behalf of the Group of Arab States, and I beg your pardon, Mr. President, for the length of the statement.

We meet today as the situation in the Palestinian territories is undergoing a positive transformation. We hope that transformation will take root, following the success of the efforts by Egypt, Qatar and the United States to conclude a three-phase agreement on the exchange of prisoners and detainees and a return to sustainable calm, leading to a permanent ceasefire. The agreement also includes the safe and effective entry and distribution of humanitarian aid, the rehabilitation of hospitals, the return of internally displaced persons to their places of residence and the facilitated departure of sick and injured Palestinians for treatment. In that connection, we would like to commend the efforts of the ministerial committee tasked by the extraordinary Arab-Islamic summit to stop the aggression against Gaza.

Yes, mediation efforts did succeed in putting an end to the killing and destruction of unarmed civilians in the Gaza Strip, albeit at a steep humanitarian cost, after more than 45,000 Palestinians were killed, the infrastructure of the Gaza Strip and its medical and educational sectors was destroyed, humanitarian and United Nations staff and journalists were targeted and crimes were perpetrated against the Palestinian people. It is no exaggeration to say that we have seen Israel annihilate all the necessities of life in Gaza. Upon cursory inspection of the aerial photographs, we encounter a level of destruction comparable to that visited upon Hiroshima and Nagasaki; the images reveal a people in dire need of humanitarian support after suffering unparalleled horrors.

We should not regard the current deal as the endpoint, as has been suggested. Rather, it is only a beginning on which it is necessary to build a new phase in which the aim is to establish a lasting and comprehensive peace in the region and to spare the region additional successive rounds of escalation. We present here the Arab Group's vision for the coming phase.

First, the Arab Group calls for the full implementation in good faith of all phases of the ceasefire agreement and for all parties to abide by it, not to withdraw from it and to refrain from any violations or further aggression against the Gaza Strip under any pretext. The Arab Group calls on the international community to support efforts to implement and consolidate the agreement and not to accept any Israeli pretexts or motives that would allow a slide back into relaunching military operations.

Second, the Arab Group stresses the need for Israel to abide by the resolutions taken by the Security Council and the General Assembly and decisions taken by the International Court of Justice since the beginning of the crisis. The Arab Group also stresses Israel's full and sole political and legal responsibility for the destruction of the Gaza Strip, and it demands that Israel be held accountable for the crimes and violations committed against the Palestinian people. The practices of starvation, killing civilians and other atrocities, some of which were broadcast live, must not go unpunished without accountability and compensation that restores some of the rights of the victims. It is not right for voices to be raised in calls for international law, justice and human rights to be upheld in situations pertaining to one particular people or race, while falling silent when it pertains to the brotherly Palestinian people. We are no less human than anyone else, and neither is Israel a State above international law.

Third, in view of the catastrophic humanitarian situation in Gaza, we call for the delivery of aid and the implementation of early-recovery projects to commence immediately. That is an obligation incumbent upon Israel under the Fourth Geneva Convention and the customary international law set out in the Protocol Additional to the Geneva Conventions of 1977. An entire generation of children has been deprived of education for more than a year and subjected to an unprecedented level of killing, maiming and psychological trauma, in violation of jus cogens and of the principles of international humanitarian law, international human rights law and the Convention on the Rights of the Child. In addition, civilians are suffering from near total deprivation of basic services, such as water, electricity and health services, as most health facilities have been damaged or destroyed. We also call on the international community to uphold its responsibility to mobilize the necessary resources to launch a wide range of reconstruction projects, in coordination with the Palestinian National Authority and with a major role for the United Nations and its agencies and bodies, especially the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). The silent killing of civilians must be stopped.

Fourth, we emphasize the central and irreplaceable role of UNRWA in the lives of the Palestinian people and its central role in providing humanitarian support to the people of the Gaza Strip during the war. We express our appreciation for the sacrifices it has made to perform that role. We stress the centrality of UNRWA's role in providing stability and delivering services until the establishment of a Palestinian State. Therefore, we call for the Agency to be protected from Israeli schemes aimed at ending UNRWA's work in the areas of operation in the Palestinian territories. We also call for pressure to be placed on Israel, the occupying Power, to compel it to comply with its international obligations, including under Article 105 of the Charter of the United Nations and the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, and to allow UNRWA to operate without restrictions.

Fifth, the Arab Group reaffirms that the Palestinian people's cause is that of a people's right to self-determination and of bringing an end to the Israeli occupation. Its cause does not concern Gaza alone — it extends to all Palestinian territories. We therefore call for an end to the escalation in the West Bank and East Jerusalem resulting from continued settlement policies and from the granting of protection to Israeli settler terrorism. We also call for an end to the policy of demolishing Palestinian homes and facilities, preventing Palestinians from accessing their resources and restricting the exercise by the Palestinian Authority of its powers. We warn of the danger of continued incursions into Al-Aqsa Mosque or endeavouring to change the status quo of the holy sites in Al-Quds Al-Sharif or compromising the Hashemite Jordanian custodianship.

Sixth, we call on the international community to heed the lesson that neglecting the legitimate rights of the brotherly Palestinian people will lead only to successive rounds of escalation which threaten international peace and security. Therefore, Israel must show responsibility and abandon its delusions of expansion, occupation and displacement and engage immediately in a negotiation process that grants the Palestinian people their legitimate right to an independent State on the borders of 4 June 1967, with East Jerusalem as its capital. We call on all parties to participate in the high-level international conference on the settlement the Palestinian question and the implementation of the two-State solution scheduled to be held in June.

Seventh, the Arab Group notes that in order to achieve peace and stability in the region, Israel must also withdraw from all Syrian territories occupied since 1967. In Lebanon, the Arab Group welcomes the ceasefire agreement and calls on all parties to implement it and to end Israel's aggression against Lebanon. Israel must withdraw from the Palestinian territories in accordance with the 60-day deadline stipulated in the agreement and commit to the full implementation of resolution 1701 (2006) and respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Lebanon within its internationally recognized borders.

The Arab Group welcomes the election of General Joseph Aoun as President of the Lebanese Republic and the appointment of Judge Nawaf Salam to form a new Government in Lebanon and urges the international community to support Lebanon in its efforts to rebuild and the United Nations, which will play a critical role in supporting Lebanon during this phase. The visit of Secretary-General to Lebanon last week was proof of the Organization's support for Lebanon and its people.

In my national capacity, I would like to reiterate Egypt's firm position in support of Palestinian rights. Egypt has spared no effort since the beginning of the current crisis to stop the aggression and save the Palestinian people. Egypt has engaged with Qatar and the United States in tough negotiations to end the war. Egypt has also organized international meetings, most recently on 2 December 2024, to mobilize humanitarian assistance for Gaza and has made every effort to ensure the delivery of assistance, to host and provide treatment to its Palestinian brothers and to unify the Palestinians. Egypt reiterates its readiness to host an expanded international conference on the rebuilding of Gaza.

I also underscore Egypt's commitment to its strategic choice of peace in the region 47 years ago. We chose peace from a position of strength, confidence, righteousness and justice to establish a just peace, stability and cooperation in the region. Egypt looks forward to working with all parties to revive the Middle East peace process within a specific time frame to end the occupation and establish an independent Palestinian State, as that alone will guarantee the security of all peoples in the region and their equal rights to a decent and secure life for everyone. Egypt will continue tirelessly to coordinate with the partners to ensure the implementation of the ceasefire agreement and calls on all Security Council members to uphold their responsibility and moral duty to the Palestinian people not to fail them. We warn against refusing to recognize reality and facts. We have a genuine opportunity before us for a new beginning and we must not lose it.

In conclusion, as the President of Egypt, Mr. Abdel Fattah Al Sisi stated:

"Egypt will always be loyal to the Palestinian people and support a just peace, and it will be a true partner in achieving peace and defending the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Qatar.

Ms. Al-Thani (Qatar) (spoke in Arabic): I would like to congratulate your country, Mr. President, on its assumption of the presidency of the Council for this month, and I welcome you, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, National Community Abroad and African Affairs of Algeria. We also thank the Secretary-General for his statement.

We are meeting today a few days after the announcement, in Doha, of an agreement that puts an end to the conflict in the Gaza Strip, which has lasted more than 15 months; caused immense human suffering and extensive destruction; displaced most of its population and left 160,000 victims among the disappeared, wounded and killed.

In order to alleviate this human suffering and stop the bloodshed, the State of Qatar has made significant efforts, since the conflict began, to mediate, which culminated in the two parties reaching, on 15 January, an agreement that came into effect yesterday. Under the agreement, which consists of three phases, each of which lasts 42 days, there will be an exchange of detainees, hostages, a return to normality and the delivery and distribution of large amounts of humanitarian assistance throughout the Gaza Strip. The agreement also stipulates the restoration of hospitals, the provision of equipment and fuel. The agreement on the details of the second and third phases will be finalized during the implementation of the first phase. The State of Qatar expresses its thanks to the Arab Republic of Egypt and the United States of America. The three countries, as guarantors of the agreement, issued a statement confirming that they will work together to ensure the parties implement their obligations and ensure the full continuation of the three phases. The State of Qatar has spared no effort in its endeavours over the past 15 months. In November 2023, we were able to stop the fighting and ensure the release of more than 100 hostages and hundreds of Palestinians detainees. We have continued to meet with partners and parties to the conflict in an effort to reach an agreement that puts an end to the war and restores hope to the region.

Today we call on the Security Council to assume its responsibilities to monitor the ceasefire agreement and adopt a binding resolution on the implementation of the agreement.

It is now time to coordinate regional and international efforts to provide humanitarian assistance and United Nations support in delivering it. The State of Qatar will make every effort to provide support to the affected families and alleviate the suffering of the people. Under the directives of His Highness Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani, Amir of the State of Qatar, it was announced today that a land bridge will be established to supply fuel to the Gaza Strip. During this stage, the role played by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East is central, and therefore, we caution against the banning of the Agency's activities by the occupation authorities.

With regard to Syria, the State of Qatar affirms its unwavering position in support of the Syrian people and reiterates its strong links with the Syrian Arab Republic after 13 years of interruption due to the former regime's brutal suppression of the Syrian people. The State of Qatar welcomes the measures taken by the new Syrian Administration to protect civilians, stabilize State institutions, provide public services and facilitate the return of displaced persons and refugees. The State of Qatar is committed to continuing to support its Syrian brothers. The current humanitarian situation requires the support of the international community and the lifting of sanctions as the reasons for the sanctions' imposition no longer exist. The State of Qatar stresses the importance of the unity, sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of Syria and condemns the incursion of Israeli forces into the buffer zone, which must be immediately reversed.

With regard to Lebanon, the State of Qatar welcomes the election of Mr. Joseph Aoun as President of the Republic of Lebanon and the appointment of Nawaf Salam to head the Government. We hope that this will enable the Lebanese people to achieve their aspirations of development and prosperity. The State of Qatar will continue its ongoing support for sisterly Lebanon and renews its permanent position in support of its unity, sovereignty, security and stability.

We also welcome the ceasefire agreement in Lebanon and expresses our hope for the commitment of all parties to it and to fully implementing resolution 1701 (2006). Moreover, we hope that the agreement will pave the way towards a broader consensus to maintain durable peace and stability. We also underscore the need for respect for the mandate of UNIFIL and safety of its personnel.

The only path towards stability and prosperity in the region remains a comprehensive and just solution to the Palestinian question based on international law, resolutions of international legitimacy, ending the occupation, halting settlement activities and affirming the vision of a two-State solution — one underscored by resolution 2334 (2016) and whose parameters were reiterated in the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice of July of 2024 (see A/78/968), which should be respected. It is necessary to reject any measures that would undermine a sustainable solution to the Palestinian question, including attempts to annex Palestinian territory and violate holy sites. The state of Qatar hopes that the ceasefire agreement will mark the beginning of a new phase of serious work on solving the Palestinian question. Qatar also stresses the importance of supporting Palestinian reconciliation during the next stage. The issue of the governance of the Gaza Strip after the war is purely a Palestinian matter.

In conclusion, we reiterate the state of Qatar's unwavering position on the justice of the Palestinian question and the legitimate rights of the Palestinians to establish their independent, fully sovereign State along the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital, and its recognition as a fully fledged Member of this international Organization.

The President: There are still a number of speakers remaining on the list for this meeting. Given the lateness of the hour, I intend, with the concurrence of members with the Council, to suspend the meeting until 3 p.m.

I would like to sincerely thank the interpreters for their understanding and for having generously given us some of their time to allow more speakers to deliver their statements on this important issue.

The meeting was suspended at 1.30 p.m.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the representatives of Egypt and Israel to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in the meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and the previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Mr. Tom Fletcher, Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator; and Ms. Bisan Nateel, Tamer Institute for Community Education.

The representative of the Russian Federation has asked for the floor to make a statement.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We have just approved the list of briefers for this meeting. I would like to draw members' attention to the fact that Ms. Catherine Russell, Executive Director of UNICEF, is absent from that list, although her participation was requested by our delegation and supported by the Algerian presidency. We are grateful to you, Mr. President, for your efforts and those of your delegation, as far as we know, to persuade Ms. Russell to brief us. However, she refused to do so, and as far as we can tell, it was under some vain, thought-up pretexts without putting forward any meaningful arguments to explain her refusal. Similarly, other representatives of the UNICEF leadership have also mysteriously become unavailable. The refusal of the Executive Director of UNICEF to brief the Security Council about the horrific tragedy linked to the deaths of tens of thousands of children in Gaza is an egregious step that deserves our most serious censure. I would like to remind Council members that Ms. Russell, during the United States presidency of the Security Council, rushed to brief us at the drop of a hat at a disgraceful politicized briefing about the so-called issues related to children stemming from the situation in Ukraine on 4 December last year (see S/PV.9799).

It therefore appears that children in Gaza are less important to UNICEF than children in Ukraine. Otherwise, how can we explain the fact that UNICEF deems it unnecessary to brief the Security Council about the situation of children in Gaza, which, by the way, is part of the Fund's mandate. Clearly, the fate of those children is of no concern to Catherine Russell herself or to the United States of which she is a national. After all, the United States presidency, despite our repeated calls, never convened a Security Council briefing on children in Gaza in December last year. Our United States colleagues apparently are not comfortable commenting on the situation surrounding the deaths of tens of thousands of children in the Gaza Strip, which they themselves basically provoked by casting a veto on six occasions and by not allowing the Security Council to intervene and stop the Israeli massacre. The Executive Director of UNICEF simply played along with the United States on that issue. We see that as a blatant violation of Article 100 of the Charter of the United Nations. Ms. Russell behaved in this situation as a United States citizen, not as an impartial United Nations official.

We are grateful to Mr. Fletcher, who, despite his busy schedule found the time, unlike Ms. Russell, to attend this meeting despite receiving the invitation at the eleventh hour. We appreciate his availability, but the mandate of the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs — in contrast to that of UNICEF — is not focused on monitoring issues related to children. Therefore, unfortunately, his briefing cannot be considered as substitute for that of Ms. Russell. We will draft a letter to the Secretary-General posthaste urging him to take measures to prevent such outrageous situations in future.

The President: The representative of the United States has asked for the floor to make a statement.

Ms. Shea (United States of America): On behalf of the United States, I reject the accusations put forward by the representative of the Russian Federation. I will be speaking later on behalf of my Government with respect to the situation of children in armed conflict in Gaza. The idea that the United States is responsible for the terrible suffering there is unacceptable to us, and we reject it in its totality.

The President: The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Mr. Fletcher.

Mr. Fletcher: Today marks one of the rare times we are able to highlight positive developments, albeit amid catastrophic humanitarian needs in Gaza.

The ceasefire has provided a vital reprieve from relentless hostilities for Palestinians. It has at last allowed Israeli hostages and imprisoned Palestinians to be reunited with their families. And it has enabled a massive surge in life-saving humanitarian aid into Gaza.

We can save more lives if all parties continue to honour the deal. I thank the mediators — Egypt, Qatar and the United States — for their tireless efforts to ensure the deal is upheld. I thank them for their help to mitigate operational obstacles as they arise.

Before I update the Council on what humanitarians have achieved during these first few days of ceasefire, I must testify to what Palestinian children in Gaza have endured in the past 15 months.

Children have been killed, starved and frozen to death. They have been maimed, orphaned or separated from their family. Conservative estimates indicate that more than 17,000 children are without their families in Gaza. Some died before their first breath — perishing with their mothers in childbirth. An estimated 150,000 pregnant women and new mothers are in desperate need of health services.

Children have lost their schools and their education. Those with chronic illnesses have struggled to access the care they need, many unable to do so.

Many have faced sexual violence. Girls, who have endured the additional indignity of no access to menstrual care, have been left exposed and vulnerable.

One million children are in need of mental health and psychosocial support for depression, anxiety and suicidal thoughts, according to UNICEF. A generation has been traumatized.

Against the backdrop of that horror, the United Nations and its partners are seizing every opportunity presented by the ceasefire to step up our response across the Strip. Safe, unobstructed humanitarian access, alongside the absence of hostilities and the almost complete cessation of criminal looting over the past days, has significantly improved our ability to operate. We have been able to increase the flow of incoming supplies and deliveries, scale up storage capacity and repair work, provide life-saving services and carry out needs and damage assessments. We are getting supplies to designated emergency shelters and distribution centres across the Gaza Strip. We are delivering food parcels and flour and working to reopen bakeries. We are distributing fuel to ensure that critical services, such as healthcare and water pumping, can run on back-up generators, in the absence of electricity.

Across the spectrum, humanitarian organizations and agencies have united to meet our humanitarian goals. At the centre of this, as always, is the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). But we cannot do this alone. Surging high volumes of aid into Gaza requires a collective effort. All of Gaza — more than 2 million people — depends on our humanitarian support. Therefore, it is critical that the pipelines of stocks are regularly replenished, including by Member States. Aid efforts must urgently be complemented by the private sector.

While we spare no effort to scale up in Gaza, we must also keep attention on the West Bank. As we briefed the Council, since October 2023, the West Bank has witnessed record-high levels of casualties, displacement and access restrictions. Those trends have intensified since the announcement of the ceasefire. Israeli settlers have attacked Palestinian villages, setting homes and properties on fire. Increased movement restrictions are impeding Palestinians' ability to access basic services and livelihoods. Mass detentions are taking place across the West Bank.

Of particular concern is the situation in Jenin, where an Israeli military operation, helicopter gunfire and air strikes, alongside ground forces, have claimed lives and caused further destruction of basic infrastructure and displacement. That follows the weeks-long operation by the Palestinian Authority, during which access restrictions and confrontations with armed Palestinians triggered the displacement of some 2,000 families from the camp and claimed numerous lives.

After months without hope, we must seize the present moment. I therefore leave the Security Council with three requests.

First, I urge the Security Council to ensure the ceasefire is maintained.

Secondly, I urge the Council to ensure that international law is respected across the occupied Palestinian territory of Gaza and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem. Civilians must be protected and their essential needs must be met. All hostages must be released. Arbitrarily detained Palestinians must be freed. Detainees must be treated humanely and allowed visits by the International Committee of the Red Cross. Civilians must be allowed to return safely to their homes. They must be able to access life-saving aid. That includes medical evacuations for the wounded and sick who need it. I urge Member States to take in those patients. We need rapid, unimpeded and safe access for the humanitarian community to be sustained. We can deliver when we are given the chance to do so. UNRWA's role is fundamental and must remain the backbone of those efforts. Restrictions on critical humanitarian items must be lifted, including those considered to be dual-use. There must be accountability for atrocities, in accordance with international humanitarian law.

Thirdly and finally, Member States must ensure that our humanitarian operations are well funded. Our 2025 flash appeal requires $4.07 billion to meet the needs of 3 million people in Gaza and the West Bank, with nearly 90 per cent of the funds for Gaza. Funding that appeal is essential to meet the massive needs and sustain the ceasefire.

The children of Gaza are not collateral damage. They are as deserving as children everywhere of security, education and hope. They tell us that the world was not there for them throughout this war. We must be there for them now.

The President: I thank Mr. Fletcher for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Ms. Nateel.

Ms. Nateel (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, I would like to thank you, Mr. President, for inviting me to participate in this meeting in order to say more about the images that Council members have already seen in the media — images of children who have lost their limbs and their families; of our displacement and non-return to our homes; of us losing our homes and of violations of all the human rights of all the civilians in the Gaza Strip. What I can say is that we did not realize that the war would change our lives. Suddenly we started to lose our homes. We were told to go to the safe area in southern Gaza. We moved because of the messages sent out to civilians. We went south, but once we arrived and put down our luggage, the homes near us were attacked. That was the place that was supposed to be a safe place.

Allow me to introduce myself. I work with the Tamer Institute for Community Education. We give children a chance to express themselves through artistic activities and provide them with a safe environment, free of charge. But we lost that environment and that safety. We no longer have schools or a playground. Everything has been turned into shelters and tents. We have tried to get the children to tell us their dreams. They dream of going back to their schools and not hearing the sounds of shelling. They dream of finding food and drink. They are very simple dreams — just the basic necessities of life, to eat and drink and go to school and to go back to play with their friends.

Our children have experienced serious threats to their lives. They could not grasp the nature of those threats — the loss of homes and families, and displacement through the so-called safe corridor. Their lives were under threat in that safe corridor. They were forced to open their eyes and see the bodies alongside the road. They were forced to walk while snipers were targeting them. We saw how they arrived, unable to say a word about the horrific images they had seen on the journey of displacement, and when they reached the safe area, they were targeted.

Through our work in the Tamer Institute and our activities to help children express their dreams, we have a video stream called the Dream of Return. It is by Ghazi, one of the children from Al-Mawasi, one of the areas claimed to be safe. When he was around, he drew his home, his school, his toys. I will share his artwork with the Council — I hope members can see it. Ghazi used to draw his father, and he drew himself feeling well fed. But Ghazi could not transfer that image to canvas because he was attacked in his tent and he and his father both lost their lives. The same thing happened to many other children who have been killed. Some experienced violence. They lost their families, homes and schools. Layan, one of the little girls in northern Gaza — I will never forget her — was in a shelter along with her mother and family. The school-turned-shelter was surrounded by tanks and soldiers. The family was expelled from it and the place was attacked. One of Layan's relatives was killed in the shelter and blown to pieces. They were forced to collect the body parts to bury them. The army forced her to open her eyes and see things like that until she and her family reached Salah Al-Din, and later the central area of Gaza.

Can the Council imagine a 12-year-old girl walking a long distance after those horrific scenes of violence, killing and displacement, while going through all that psychological suffering? Can members imagine the things that happened to her? All our children have lost the true meaning of life, safety and security, what it means to eat, to live, to be human.

I will never forget the radio, throughout all this, because we had lost all means of communication. As Council members can see, I do not have even an electricity supply, and I am trying my best to stay in touch with the world. We had a radio at the beginning of the war that we used to listen to Al Jazeera, the Hebrew station and Al Arabiya. We used to wait for the Security Council to meet to see what would be said there. Would there be a ceasefire? Would the massacres and death come to an end? While my friend and colleague Mohammed Sami Qariqa, an artist, was at the Al-Ahli Baptist Hospital, he was just drawing and singing with the children. He was at the Al-Ahli Baptist Hospital — one of the hospitals in the ancient Gaza Strip and somewhere we saw as the safest place for us. He was there to play and sing with the frightened displaced children in the hospital. He and the children were all killed in the massacre there. Members can look it up, although they are no doubt already aware of it and all of the other instances at Al-Shifa Hospital, other hospitals and civilian centres.

Every day, we were losing our friends, loved ones, homes and lives. Every day, we walked down the street not knowing if we would live or die. Every day, we slept to the sound of planes and tanks, not knowing if we were dead, alive or dreaming or if it was real life. Yet we were always waiting for the moment when the Security Council would declare a ceasefire and stop all the massacres and violations of the rights of Palestinian civilians in the Gaza Strip.

Today I hope to see a ceasefire, that our children will go back to school and that we will all return to our normal lives, to when we used to go to school and work, when we used to sing, cultivate and work — the natural acts of life, simply living. I would always think about human rights that we had learned about. We studied human rights at school, and the first thing they taught us about was the right to life. The first thing that was violated in Gaza was our right to life. Any moment now, it is possible that we can all be survivors, after 470 days — more than a year — of war. We have lost count of the days, having lost our sense of time because of the war. We never knew, from one moment to the next, if we were going to wake up the next day to continue our lives, breathe, eat, drink, or if we were going to die.

I hope that, after 470 days of continuous attacks against the Gaza Strip and against us, the aggression will all now come to an end and we can go back to our normal lives. I hope that our right to life will be returned and that we will have at least the basic necessities of safety and security. I hope that our children will return to school, to their lives, to drawing, playing, writing and singing — in short, to a normal childhood, in a normal environment, not one of fear, anxiety and death, passing by soldiers at gunpoint and hearing planes and helicopters above with new weapons, seeing and hearing them for the very first time. In Gaza, we cannot cross the border, we cannot know what life is like on the outside. I know that we have lost a lot in this war, but I hope that we will not lose more.

The President: I thank Ms. Nateel for her sobering briefing.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We would like to thank you, Mr. President, for convening today's Security Council meeting — supported by Algeria in its national capacity, as well as Pakistan and Somalia — to discuss the disastrous situation of children in Gaza. We are grateful to Mr. Fletcher for responding to our calls and participating in today's briefing. We are also grateful to Ms. Bisan Nateel, who shared a very emotionally charged account of the tragedy facing Palestinian children.

The vile war in Gaza, with the most intensive bombardment of civilians since the Second World War and effectively no humanitarian access, has steamrolled the lives of children in the enclave. As early as November 2023, Secretary-General António Guterres called Gaza “a graveyard for children” (SM/SM/22021). Some members of the Security Council also saw for themselves the horrifying consequences of the massive attacks against civilians during their unofficial visit to Rafah in December 2023. Already back then, we saw maimed children in a hospital in Egypt on the border with Gaza. The efforts of Egyptian and Qatari mediators, who at a late stage were joined by representatives of the new United States Administration, have finally made it possible to reach an agreement that provides for not only a cessation of hostilities but also an increase in the supply of food, fuel and medicine for the people of Gaza.

However, there are few reasons for celebration so far. The humanitarian catastrophe that has been raging in the enclave for more than 15 months has not gone away. The agreement does not stipulate the establishment of safe and unimpeded supply of the necessary quantities of aid using all available routes. Israel's military presence in the enclave continues. The Israeli military retains control of, for instance, the Rafah border crossing. As far as we understand, European observers will monitor how that border crossing is being used, thereby assuming part of responsibility for the humanitarian situation in Gaza. It is noteworthy that the Europeans, who tend to paint themselves as human rights champions, are not demanding that those who are killing children in Gaza be brought to justice. Moreover, several European States have not even stopped supplying arms to Israel. The war in Gaza has truly become a litmus test exposing how the West actually treats the protection of human rights.

We do not yet have definitive data on the number of boys and girls who have perished, because organizations working in the field cannot accumulate quickly enough data on deaths that are not related to injuries but are the result of hunger, dehydration, poor sanitation or disrupted health services. The rubble of buildings has not been cleared, under which there could potentially be thousands of bodies. However, a recent study by The Lancet informs us that, out of the 28,257 deaths documented between 7 October 2023 and 30 June 2024, for which age and gender data are available, 16,699, or approximately 59 per cent, were women, children and elderly persons. According to UNICEF, the total number of Palestinian children killed since the beginning of the conflict is at least 14,500, approximately 17,000 fall into the category of unaccompanied minors or have been separated from their parents and about 1 million have been compelled to leave their homes. In the first seven days of 2025 alone, 74 children were killed in Gaza. Eight newborns in tent camps died of hypothermia between the end of December and early January.

Many children are being maimed. In 2024, explosive weapons used in the Gaza Strip left an average of 475 children a month, that is, 15 children a day, disabled for life, with serious trauma to their limbs and hearing damage. According to the United Nations Mine Action Service, if the war were to end today, the risk of boys and girls being killed and maimed in Gaza would persist for at least another 14 years — the time that it would take to clear the Strip of unexploded ordnance. Need we point out that children have always been and will remain the primary victims of mine contamination, owing in part to their natural curiosity?

Tomorrow we will mark the International Day of Education. People the world over will talk about education as a key factor in sustainable development and about the fact that everyone has a right to education. But in the Gaza Strip in the first week of 2025 alone there were five attacks on schools, which the population is now using as shelters. Dozens of children were hurt and at least three died. Gaza's education system has long been paralysed. Estimates of the number of school buildings damaged or destroyed vary, going as high as 96 per cent in the entire Gaza Strip as of September 2024 and 100 per cent in northern Gaza as of December. And we are not talking about minor damage. School ceilings have collapsed and walls have gaping holes, while 625,000 students have already missed an entire school year and will now be forced to miss a second. If they are ever able to return it will be a miracle.

The health system has also been devastated, with catastrophic consequences for children's access to health services. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights released a thematic report on 31 December confirming that the attacks on health facilities in Gaza were systematic and structured. By June 2024, 22 of 38 hospitals had stopped functioning. According to the World Health Organization, only 38 per cent of primary healthcare centres remain operational.

In the circumstances, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA) — whose activities in the occupied Palestinian territory could soon be banned under laws enacted by the Knesset — has once again been shown to be unique and irreplaceable. The Knesset's decisions violate not only international humanitarian law but also the 1946 Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, whose implementation is guaranteed by the Secretary-General. They also contradict the relevant General Assembly resolutions and the basis of Israel's 1949 admission to membership in the United Nations, which was conditional on the implementation of two cornerstone General Assembly resolutions — resolution 181 (II), on the plan to partition Palestine, and resolution 194 (III), on Palestinian refugees.

For more than 70 years the Agency's staff have at times worked in inhumane conditions and at the risk of their lives, to implement UNRWA's mandate of providing educational, medical, social, microfinancing and emergency assistance services to Palestinians in need and of improving the infrastructure and living conditions in refugee camps. In the 15 months of the conflict, 265 UNRWA personnel have been killed, representing a loss of staff that is sadly a record in the history of our Organization. Shutting down UNRWA would have catastrophic consequences for the most vulnerable groups of the population, above all for children. We cannot allow that to happen. In the circumstances, the ceasefire must be used to urgently scale up the humanitarian assistance in the region, with an emphasis on the special needs of children. Besides the efforts to rebuild infrastructure and bring in food and medical supplies, it is essential to ensure that children in need of specialized assistance, together with their parents or guardians, can be evacuated without problems from the Strip and allowed to return home unhindered.

Another aspect of the agreement concluded between the warring parties is the exchange of detainees, who include children. And that is just the tip of the iceberg. The issue of the arbitrary detention of Palestinian children by the Israeli authorities existed long before the events of 7 October 2023. Like adults, children were subjected to so-called administrative detention and incarcerated indefinitely without being charged. Nor should we forget the repeat detentions of minors who were released after a similar deal in November 2023.

The war in Gaza has not only ruined the individual lives of many children and adults, but it has also torn apart the very fabric of society, delaying indefinitely the start of a truly peaceful coexistence between the two peoples. Even the children in Gaza who have been fortunate enough to survive without being disabled will need years to restore their mental health and learn to live like their peers in regions not blighted by conflict. Another acute issue is the problem of Palestinian orphans, who now number more than 20,000. What does fate have in store for them? What can the United Nations do to ensure that their lives are not shattered? When it comes to securing a future for Palestinian children — and that means the Palestinian people as a whole — there is no alternative to the sustainable stabilization of the situation in Gaza. It is also our view that the Council is simply duty-bound to maintain a focus on children's issues in the context of the situation in Gaza.

Ms. Shea (United States of America): I thank Under-Secretary-General Tom Fletcher for his briefing and Ms. Bisan Nateel for her moving remarks.

A ceasefire and hostage release deal were long overdue. The mediation led by the United States, Qatar and Egypt has finally resulted in an agreement to end the conflict that Hamas set in motion on 7 October 2023. The deal has halted the fighting in Gaza. It will reunite all of the remaining hostages with their families and surge much-needed humanitarian assistance to Palestinian civilians. We remind the Council that Hamas is still holding two children hostage — Kfir and Ariel Bibas — who were violently taken from their home on 7 October 2023. Two-year-old Kfir has marked both of his birthdays in captivity by Hamas. Since Hamas' barbaric attack started the conflict over 15 months ago, the suffering of Palestinian civilians, the deaths, injuries and displacement have been immense. The suffering extends to Gaza's youngest victims, the Palestinian children who were caught in the crossfire, lost family and missed school. No one benefits from the crisis. Now is the time to ensure that critical aid reaches those in need throughout Gaza in accordance with the ceasefire deal that the United States, Qatar and Egypt secured. We urge countries to support that effort by supplying additional funding and resources to help to quickly scale up much-needed humanitarian aid.

We must ensure that Hamas is not permitted to seize, divert or profit from that assistance and that if it does so, it is reported immediately. Hamas cannot be allowed to reconstitute. It should have no role in the governance of Gaza and should not be rewarded for launching the brutal attack that started the conflict or for its deplorable behaviour in the interim. We must instead seize this opportunity to reshape the region in a way that affords its people a path forward. Gaza must be demilitarized for the sake of Israel's security and to provide a brighter future for the Palestinian people. Hamas, along with its benefactors in Tehran, should not have a say in the region's future.

We have already seen Hamas weaponize the suffering of Palestinians by using civilian infrastructure, including schools and hospitals, to store caches of weapons, house fighters and coordinate attacks against Israel. We are concerned about reports that Hamas held returned Israeli hostages in United Nations shelters in Gaza during their prolonged captivity. It is vital for a full investigation to assess those very serious allegations. At the same time, Hamas plays the victim and makes false appeals to the international community on behalf of Palestinians, all the while employing tactics that put them in danger.

Israelis need to feel secure within their own borders, and Palestinians deserve a future to look forward to, with freedom, dignity and security. We must work together to counter the nefarious influence of Tehran and its terrorist proxies, whose actions have destabilized the Middle East for decades. We can instead work with like-minded partners to create a Middle East that is more integrated, prosperous and peaceful. The United States is strongly committed to implementing the ceasefire agreement so that hostages can return home and the people of Gaza can look forward to a brighter future under new leadership. That is the only path forward.

Mr. Geng Shuang (China) (spoke in Chinese): I thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and Ms. Nateel for their briefings.

Children are the greatest victims of armed conflict. During the 15-month-long Gaza conflict, at least 17,000 Palestinian children were killed, with more than 600,000 plunged into an unprecedented humanitarian catastrophe. Those children, who should have been sitting in classrooms learning, with books in their hands, have instead found themselves facing forced displacement again and again and huddling under the rubble to seek shelter from the bombardment. Scenes of children dying in front of their families and images of children reduced to skin and bones by malnutrition have broken our hearts. All that should never have happened and must not be allowed to continue.

The international community must act to put an end to the suffering of the children of Gaza.

First, there is a need for a durable ceasefire in Gaza. Once the ceasefire that began on 19 January has been fulfilled, there must be no resumption of fighting, and children must not once again be targeted at gunpoint or subjected to gunfire. The current ceasefire should form the basis for a permanent ceasefire rather than a pause before a new round of offensives ensues. We are gravely concerned about reports that children were shot and killed by Israeli forces in Rafah the day after the ceasefire came into effect. We strongly call for the continuous and full implementation of the three-phase ceasefire agreement.

Secondly, humanitarian assistance in Gaza must be expanded. Children in Gaza have long been deprived of the basic necessities for survival, such as food and medicine, and there are even cases of newborn babies freezing to death. We call on Israel to fulfil its obligation under international humanitarian law as the occupying Power by opening all border crossings, lifting restrictions on the entry of goods and guaranteeing large-scale access of humanitarian supplies into Gaza and the safe and orderly distribution thereof. We call on the international community to scale up its assistance to Gaza.

Thirdly, guaranteeing education for children in Gaza is imperative. Education is indispensable to the healthy development of children. Fifteen months of indiscriminate bombing have obliterated living conditions in Gaza, with education being completely disrupted. The international community should support the expeditious commencement of reconstruction in Gaza to restore people's livelihoods and provide children with a healthy environment in which to grow up. For years, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East has been providing basic public services in Gaza, such as education, and as such has the capacity to, and should play a major role in, the post-war reconstruction of Gaza. We once again call on Israel to cease its suppression of the Agency and to repeal the relevant bill as soon as possible.

Fourthly, there must be accountability for violations against children. The protection of civilians in armed conflict is an obligation under international law — and refraining from targeting children even more so. Security Council resolutions have clearly identified six grave violations against children as prohibited actions. However, a large amount of reporting has shown that children in Gaza have suffered grave violations during the conflict, and the annual report of the Secretary-General (S/2024/384) has also listed relevant perpetrators. We call for investigations of and accountability for all violations against children in all conflicts, and we support the continued focus of the Council's Working Group on Children and Armed Conflict on the children of Gaza.

The fundamental approach to allow Palestinian children to grow up in a safe and healthy environment is the implementation of the two-State solution and the realization of a comprehensive, just and lasting solution to the question of Palestine. The international community must act with the utmost sense of urgency to promote the restart of the political process for the two-State solution. China is ready to continue making unremitting efforts with all parties to promote an early realization of peaceful coexistence between Palestine and Israel and lasting peace and security in the Middle East so that the children of both Palestine and Israel can be free from the horrors of war and grow up freely under the sunshine of peace.

Mr. Alfaro de Alba (Panama) (spoke in Spanish): Panama welcomes the convening of this meeting in response to the request by the Russian Federation, Algeria, Pakistan and Somalia to address the situation of children in the Gaza Strip, within the framework of children and armed conflict.

We thank the briefers — Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Tom Fletcher and Ms. Bisan Nateel of the Tamer

Institute for Community Education — for their valuable presentations. We also welcome the presence of the delegations of Egypt, Israel and the Observer State of Palestine.

We acknowledge the efforts of humanitarian agencies, which are facing extreme conditions and working tirelessly to protect and ensure the well-being of the communities most affected by the conflict.

The recent ceasefire between Hamas and Israel provides an admirable opportunity to address the catastrophic humanitarian situation in Gaza. However, United Nations reports are clear: more than 14,500 Palestinian children have lost their lives, another 25,000 are injured and nearly 1 million have been displaced. We deeply regret the loss of those innocent lives.

According to UNICEF, approximately 88 per cent of schools in Gaza are in need of total reconstruction or significant repairs, affecting more than 625,000 students. In addition, only 25 per cent of drinking water production is operational, leading to an exponential increase in waterborne diseases. The health infrastructure has also suffered severe damage, with numerous hospitals out of service, exacerbating the public health crisis.

Panama reiterates its condemnation of the abduction of Israeli children by Hamas, an inhumane act that constitutes a grave violation of international humanitarian law. Those children have been used as bargaining chips in a cruel and unacceptable strategy. With deep regret, in this conflict as in so many other armed conflicts, we deplore the tragic loss of every child's life and reaffirm that the protection of children must be comprehensive and without distinction. We urge the Security Council to continue to always promote efforts to ensure that all children receive the care and protection they deserve.

In that context, Panama welcomes the adoption of resolution 2764 (2024), adopted last December, which reaffirms the obligation of all parties to uphold international humanitarian law, in particular the Convention on the Rights of the Child. We also recall the importance of complying with resolutions 1612 (2005), 1882 (2009), 2225 (2015) and 2601 (2021), adopted by the Security Council, which have established a solid framework for the protection of children in armed conflict.

Given the alarming situation that children in Gaza are facing, which can in no way be justified, Panama proposes the following priority actions to address the most pressing needs.

First, unrestricted humanitarian access must be guaranteed through the sustained and efficient opening of crossing points, allowing the safe and agile delivery of essential supplies such as water, food, medicines and fuel. It is also crucial to ensure the safety of humanitarian staff on the ground. The process, which is fortunately already under way, to ensure the daily arrival of at least 500 trucks is indispensable to respond to the urgent needs of the affected population.

Secondly, children must be protected effectively through the implementation mechanisms that safeguard their lives and well-being and ensure their access to medical care, safe shelter and psychosocial assistance. Rehabilitation programmes must be initiated as a matter of urgency and must adopt a comprehensive approach that addresses both the physical and mental health of affected children. It is estimated that some 17,000 children have been separated from their families in Gaza and require immediate specialized assistance.

Thirdly, essential infrastructure must be built, with a more urgent focus on restoring schools, hospitals and water systems, to ensure safe and enabling environments for children's development. Investment in education is key to avoid losing a generation, considering that more than 496 schools have been damaged or destroyed. Effective coordination of those efforts will allow children to resume their education and access to basic services, enabling them to move towards a future of hope.

Fourthly, we must strongly support United Nations agencies, in particular UNICEF and the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), whose role has been instrumental in providing humanitarian assistance in Gaza and must continue as such. The current situation of UNRWA, with the Agency facing operational constraints and critical underfunding, puts at risk the delivery of essential services to millions of Palestinian refugees. Panama underscores the need to guarantee the security of UNRWA staff, respect its international mandate and provide the necessary financing for it to continue its crucial work in the region.

The crisis in Gaza is an urgent reminder of our collective responsibility towards the most vulnerable. We cannot allow indifference or political differences to hinder efforts to protect the children caught up in that conflict. War-stricken children cannot continue to pay the price of inaction. With each day that passes without a solution, children's suffering increases and their dreams of a safe future fade. Let us act with courage, humanity and determination so that the world does not forget the faces of those children or the duty we all have to them. We cannot change the past, but we can and must decide the future we want to build for them.

Mr. Kariuki (United Kingdom): I thank Under-Secretary-General and Ms. Nateel for their briefings. And I welcome the participation of the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine and the Permanent Representatives of Israel and Egypt in this meeting.

I would like to make three points.

First, following the terror attacks of 7 October 2023 and 15 months of appalling conflict, we stand with Palestinians and Israelis in relief and hope that the ceasefire and hostage release deal can bring lasting peace. The children of Gaza did not choose this war, yet they have paid the ultimate price. A third of identified bodies are children. At least 21,500 children are thought to have sustained injuries. And in the past four months of 2024, nearly 19,000 children were hospitalized with acute malnutrition. Gaza has become the deadliest place in the world to be a child. The psychological scars of fear, pain and deprivation are clear. Nearly half the Palestinian children surveyed by one non-governmental organization in late 2024 expressed a desire to die. That is a truly shocking statistic. We must ensure that the needs of children are front and centre of efforts to rebuild in Gaza. As the Security Council heard in September 2024 from Dr. Bron-Harlev of Schneider Children's Medical Centre (see S/PV.9717), the events of 7 October 2023 also exacted a dreadful toll on Israeli children, who were killed, gravely injured and abducted, some of whom have still not returned to their loved ones. It is unimaginably cruel of Hamas to take children hostage and still to be holding them a full 15 months later. They must be released.

Secondly, we welcome news that aid is now flowing in at scale, and as Under-Secretary-General Fletcher said, that must continue. Humanitarian actors must be allowed safe and unfettered access throughout Gaza, including the north, and alongside that, we need to see a massive increase in commercial delivery. The roll-out of the polio vaccine to children in Gaza last year was an example of what can be achieved when there is political will. We urge the parties to enter this new phase in that same spirit and to prioritize those in desperate need. The ceasefire deal should be an opportunity to get more — not less — aid in. And for that reason, my Foreign Secretary has urged Israel to ensure the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) can continue its life-saving operations and give the fragile ceasefire the best chance of success.

Finally, the conflict has meant that the 1.1 million children of Gaza have been out of school for over 15 months. We cannot allow a generation of Palestinians to be deprived of education and their right to a better future. To do so, risks further suffering and a continued cycle of violence. That is in neither Palestinian nor Israeli interests. Once again, UNRWA plays a crucial role in that regard. We must ensure its delivery of essential services, such as education and healthcare, can continue until such time as a Palestinian State can take over those functions.

In conclusion, the Security Council has a clear children and armed conflict mandate to ensure that it protects children from the scourge of war and violence, wherever that may be. And yet grave violations against children are at an all-time high. We must do much more to reverse that appalling trajectory. We call on all parties to adopt and implement concrete and time-bound action plans to end and prevent grave violations against children.

The United Kingdom will do all it can to turn the current ceasefire in Gaza into a lasting peace based on a two-State solution, in which Palestinian and Israeli children alike can enjoy a safe and prosperous future.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher for his briefing and Ms. Nateel for her sobering testimony.

The subject of today's meeting reminds us of the worst consequences of war — its devastating impact on children. It reminds us of why peace must always be the only choice. Over the past 15 months we, the members of the Council, and indeed the entire world, have watched the children of Gaza bear the brunt of a war that no child should ever experience. More than 14,500 children have been killed and thousands more injured and maimed for life. Gaza is now the place with the highest number of child amputees in modern history. Children have lost limbs, suffered severe burns and had their fragile bones broken and crushed as Israeli air strikes and bombs destroyed their homes and the places where they played, ravaging all the spaces where they sought shelter, in gross violation of international law. Many have lost their parents, siblings and other beloved family members. They have been displaced multiple times, travelling from place to place, often in harsh weather conditions, but finding nowhere truly safe. In December alone, eight infants and newborns reportedly died from hypothermia. It is reported that more than 30,000 children have been orphaned and nearly 1 million displaced from their homes.

In this unrelenting war, children in Gaza have been denied access to water and food and have suffered malnutrition, with famine a real risk for many of them. In the absence of basic sanitation, thousands have fallen sick, suffering from preventable diseases with no recourse to healthcare as hospital after hospital was bombed and medical personnel were attacked and terrorized. Previously eradicated diseases such as polio have re-emerged as vaccination programmes fell behind. Schools in Gaza have not been spared by Israel's weapons. They have been reduced to rubble, erasing their students' hopes, dreams and educational aspirations. UNICEF reports that 95 per cent of Gaza's school buildings have been damaged or destroyed. With an acquired ability to identify the various types of weaponry used through the ominous sounds of war, children in Gaza have witnessed the worst atrocities and endured tremendous suffering. The trauma and scars of the past months on their bodies and minds will endure for the rest of their lives.

Guyana welcomes the current ceasefire, which offers a much-needed reprieve for the people of Gaza, particularly children. We urge all parties to work assiduously to ensure that it holds and becomes permanent. The protection of children in Gaza must be a priority during the implementation of the ceasefire. They must have shelter and the necessary humanitarian aid and healthcare, including psychosocial support.

Access to education must be restored as soon as possible, with attention paid to clearing explosive ordnance and risk education in order to ensure their safety.

The ordeal of Gaza's children is far from over. Families are returning to new horrors in their communities, discovering flattened or gutted homes and pulling decayed bodies from the rubble. The reconstruction and rehabilitation process will be long, expensive and arduous, requiring the collective support and resources of the international community. The continued functioning of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is crucial to those efforts. It has been emphasized in numerous briefings to the Council that UNRWA is the only agency in Gaza with the capacity and reach to provide the wide range of support needed by civilians in Gaza. Guyana reiterates its call for Israel to refrain from implementing its law on UNRWA and to respect the mandate given to UNRWA by the General Assembly. We thank all United Nations agencies, including UNRWA, as well as the numerous non-governmental organizations, for their indefatigable efforts to provide life-saving support to children in Gaza, never giving up in even the most difficult circumstances. They must be given the requisite support by the Council and the international community to continue their critical work.

It is necessary to touch on another issue as we discuss today's subject — that of accountability, which was also mentioned by Under-Secretary-General Fletcher. As the war on Gaza dragged on, the undertakings and assurances given to the world's children in legally binding international instruments and under the umbrella of international law were eroded in Gaza one by one. In resolution 1261 (1999) and subsequent resolutions concerning children in armed conflict, the Council has been united in identifying six grave violations against children in situations of armed conflict, calling on the parties to ensure the protection of children and for accountability for violations. Children in Gaza have been subject to those grave violations. We have seen a blatant disregard for international humanitarian law and widespread human rights abuses. Guyana is of the firm view that impunity and the failure to hold perpetrators of grave violations against children accountable are contributing to the increase in such violations worldwide. Those responsible must be held accountable. The Council must be consistent and united in demanding that all parties to conflicts adhere to their obligations under international law to protect children. The children in Gaza deserve no less.

In conclusion, I reiterate that the peaceful resolution of conflicts remains the best and only real protection for children. We must therefore spare no effort to end this conflict.

Mr. Kanu (Sierra Leone): I thank you, Mr. President for convening this briefing at the request of the Russian Federation, supported by Algeria in its national capacity, as well as Pakistan and Somalia, in order to focus on the deeply alarming situation of children in the occupied Palestinian territory. I thank Under-Secretary-General Tom Fletcher for his briefing and Ms. Bisan Nateel for her compelling contribution.

Sierra Leone commends the United Nations agencies and other partners on the ground in the Gaza Strip for their tireless efforts to protect and support children affected by the conflict in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. Sierra Leone stands in solidarity with every child affected by this conflict, those who have been tragically killed, those buried under rubble, those maimed and injured, those held hostage in prison or captive for months without proper care, and those who have been orphaned. Let us remember those children not only with sorrow but also with a renewed determination to resolve the conflict that has caused them such immense suffering.

At the heart of the conflict in Gaza are the civilians who have borne the brunt of this violence. Today's briefings have underscored the profound impact that the conflict is having on children, many of whom have known only a life of violence and insecurity. The current ceasefire, while bringing some relief, cannot mask the dire conditions that they continue to face. For more than a year, children in Gaza have endured unimaginable hardship, deprivation, bombardment and displacement. Since 7 October 2023, it is reported that at least 14,500 children have lost their lives and an estimated 25,000 have been injured. More than 17,000 children have been separated from their parents, and nearly 1 million have been displaced from their homes. Many are still unaccounted for. Disturbing reports indicate that newborns have died from harsh winter conditions, inadequate shelter and the unavailability of life-saving baby formula. Those numbers add to the 1,434 Palestinian children killed and 32,175 injured between 2008 and 6 October 2023, according to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

The relentless attacks on densely populated areas and the constant displacements and disruptions of essential services have subjected countless children to grave violations of their rights, including killing, maiming and the destruction of schools, hospitals and water and energy infrastructure. The targeting of schools now used as shelters has left children with no safe spaces for learning or recovery. That has contributed to the erosion of the social fabric of a once resilient society. The effects of the war on children will endure long after the fighting stops, leaving lasting physical and psychological scars. As the ongoing situation in Gaza continues to highlight the vulnerability of children in conflict zones, it is essential that we take urgent and effective action to safeguard this generation from further calamity. In that regard, Sierra Leone would like to emphasize the following points.

First, we urge all parties to fully adhere to the ceasefire agreement and to take all necessary steps to protect children's rights. We deeply regret attacks on schools and hospitals and that the Safe Schools Declaration was not upheld. As noted by Under-Secretary-General Fletcher, with the ceasefire in place, humanitarian agencies and partners are scaling up efforts to address the health and psychosocial needs of children, including specialized protection services for unaccompanied children. That vital work must be supported and expanded as part of Gaza's rebuilding process and the broader reconstruction of the occupied Palestinian territory.

Secondly, in accordance with resolution 2712 (2023), we call on all parties to comply with their obligations under international law for the protection of children in armed conflict, including the Geneva Conventions, the Convention on the Rights of the Child and all relevant legal frameworks. The adoption of resolution 2712 (2023) by the Council acknowledges the disproportionate impact on children and demands that all parties ensure that children receive the special protection they are entitled to under international law.

Thirdly, in line with resolution 2720 (2023) and other relevant resolutions, Sierra Leone reiterates the call for Israel, as the occupying Power, to ensure the safe, sustained and unimpeded supply of humanitarian aid into Gaza. We welcome the entry of approximately 2,400 aid trucks since the beginning of the ceasefire and encourage further support for those efforts. We also call on all parties to support humanitarian organizations in facilitating the emergency medical evacuation of critically injured civilians, including thousands of children. The risk posed by explosive remnants of war remains high, and we urge all stakeholders to ensure the safe disposal of that ordnance to prevent further harm to civilians, especially children.

Last but not least, we reaffirm the critical role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian refugees in meeting the humanitarian needs of the civilian population in Gaza, particularly in providing education, health services and psychosocial support for children. Rebuilding educational infrastructure must be a top priority to ensure that children can resume learning in a safe environment that fosters both academic development and emotional healing.

In conclusion, it is imperative that we strengthen accountability mechanisms for violations of children's rights, including holding perpetrators accountable for attacks on schools and hospitals, the denial of humanitarian access and the use of sexual violence against children in conflict. We call for the release of all those children being held in detention camps and for full and impartial investigations into their detention. As we welcome the ceasefire as a crucial step towards rebuilding Gaza and addressing the immediate needs of its children, we also urge swift action to end the ongoing military operations in the West Bank, which have resulted in fatalities and injuries. Reports of violence between settlers and Palestinian communities must be addressed to ensure that the ceasefire leads to lasting peace and stability.

Mr. Akram (Pakistan): I would like to thank the Algerian presidency and you, Mr. President, for convening this briefing on the plight of children in Gaza, at the request of the Russian Federation, Somalia, Sierra Leone and my own delegation. We thank Mr. Tom Fletcher for his briefing, and I would like to thank Ms. Bisan Nateel in particular for her testimony on the suffering that the children of Gaza have endured for the past 15 months.

Israel's unrelenting and indiscriminate attacks on the civilian population in Gaza for 15 sustained months, with one pause, cannot be justified by any argument regarding the provocation that instigated those attacks. International humanitarian law is crystal clear that, no matter the provocation, the forces of a State are prohibited from attacking civilian structures, or even structures where there may be civilians who could suffer as a result of such attacks. That principle must be upheld if we are, today and in future, to be able to contain the consequences of wars and conflicts on innocent people. That was the purpose of the Geneva Conventions, and that purpose was set out after the wars that devastated Europe and the world. Today that purpose must be reinstated, as we see the suffering that has been caused by Israel's brutal and indiscriminate war in Gaza. In total, 46,000 people have been killed, most of whom were women and children. How can that be justified?

Among the tragedies of the Palestinian people, the suffering of the children in Gaza stands out as a black mark on humankind at large, not only on those who caused the suffering with their bombs and artillery, not only on those who allowed it to be happen over 15 months — with the Security Council remaining frozen because of the position of certain States — or those who continue to supply weapons and ammunition to the attacking forces that were killing children every day, but even all of us. And I am glad that I was not on the Security Council last year and that I joined the Council at the time when a ceasefire — however fragile — has been achieved.

However, that deliberate policy of targeting civilians, irrespective of the fact that the majority of those who have been killed were children and women, attacks on hospitals and schools, children targeted by snipers — what moral degradation allows something like that to happen? There are complaints about 7 October 2023, but compare that with the devastation that has been visited on the people of Gaza. Does the 7 October attack justify what has been done to the children of Gaza? Can it ever be justified?

Of course, we have welcomed the ceasefire and are grateful to Egypt, Qatar and the United States for brokering it. It could have been achieved much earlier, and we understand the new dynamics that seem to have obliged the Prime Minister of Israel to finally accept the ceasefire. Now we must ensure that the ceasefire holds and that the Israeli threats to resume the conflict are held back. We are also concerned about what is happening in the West Bank. The ceasefire in Gaza has been simultaneous with an escalation of violence in the West Bank. The Security Council must also take cognizance of what is happening there.

Humanitarian aid must of course be accelerated. We fully concur with Mr. Fletcher regarding how much aid should go through. There are risks of disease, water scarcity and a lack of food. All of those requirements must be addressed. All the border crossings must be opened and the international community and the Security Council must ensure the continued operation of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. A reconstruction plan must be implemented immediately, because the Palestinian people are being asked to return to their homes. But look at those homes — there are no homes. Everything has been devastated. Where will they go for shelter?

Lastly, we must talk about accountability. Last year, the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) were finally listed in the Secretary-General's report on children and armed conflict (S/2024/384). The Security Council's Working Group on Children and Armed Conflict must serve as a vital tool for scrutinizing the IDF's actions and ensuring justice and accountability for Palestinian children. It should continue to report objectively and comprehensively on the plight of children affected by Israel's war in Gaza.

Heinous crimes have been committed in this brutal war, particularly against children, in violation of international humanitarian law, the Geneva Conventions, the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide. There must be accountability for those crimes. That is essential to restoring international legitimacy. We must try to ensure that such brutal slaughter of children never happens again.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I thank the Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Ms. Nateel for their briefings.

They remind us of how lethal the conflict in Gaza has been for children. According to UNICEF, more than 14,500 children have been killed in Gaza since the start of the war — more than the total number of children killed worldwide in four years of war. Approximately 25,000 children have been injured. Gaza has the highest per capita number of child amputees in the world. The conflict has separated 17,000 children from their parents or left them on their own after their parents' death. More than 1 million children have been displaced. The numbers are devastating.

The war has destroyed almost all essential infrastructure. The grave violations of children's rights fly in the face of international humanitarian law and human rights. The ceasefire's entry into force must bring the plight of Palestinian children and civilians to an end. France will continue to take action to come to their aid and has taken part in a number of medical evacuation operations, most recently in coordination with the European Union and the World Health Organization to bring Palestinian patients to France. We should also remember that Hamas took Israeli children hostage during the terrorist attacks of 7 October 2023. France will continue to condemn those attacks and abductions. It goes without saying that we will not forget the plight of Israeli children. The entry into force of the agreement must bring the release of all hostages, including our two compatriots Ofer Kalderon and Ohad Yahalomi, and the delivery at scale of aid to the people, particularly Palestinian children.

The Gaza Strip's future belongs within a future Palestinian State. Hamas must be prevented from regaining a foothold there. The Palestinian Authority must be able to return there without delay, and Israel must facilitate that and allow the Palestinian Authority to exercise power in the West Bank. France urges for the ceasefire to become the opportunity to set in train an irreversible process that culminates in a two-State solution, which we are committed to both within the Council and in every other forum.

In conclusion, I want to emphasize that the protection of children in armed conflicts is an overriding priority for France, which will remain fully engaged, including from the perspective of the forthcoming twentieth anniversary in 2027 of the Paris Principles, which are a reference point for child protection. We reaffirm our support for the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict and for UNICEF. We must give the children of Gaza and all Israeli and Palestinian children a future so that they can live, study and grow up freely in peace and security.

Mr. Sangjin Kim (Republic of Korea): I would like to thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher for his briefing and Ms. Nateel for her testimony.

Regrettably, during the horrendous terrorist attacks by Hamas on 7 October 2023 and the ensuing Israeli military response in Gaza, children have been disproportionately affected by this brutal conflict. We still remember the shocking moments of Hamas' unjustifiable attack on Israel's citizens on 7 October, in which dozens of children were brutally killed and 251 Israelis, including 30 children, were abducted. Their terror on that dark and unforgivable day is unimaginable.

While we unequivocally condemn the terrorist attacks by Hamas, we remain seriously alarmed by the extensive killing of Palestinian children in Gaza over the past 15 months. It is deeply disturbing that at least 14,500 Gazan children — and that is possibly an underestimate — have reportedly been killed in Israel's attacks since 7 October, with Save the Children reporting that at least another 20,000 Palestinian children in Gaza are either missing or have disappeared or been buried under the rubble. The Secretary-General's annual report on children and armed conflict for last year (S/2024/384) stated, staggeringly, that more than a third of the total verified cases of killing and maiming worldwide occurred in Israel and Palestine, mostly between 7 October and December 2023. And the figure for 2025 is expected to be even higher, given the escalated hostilities that continued throughout the entirety of 2024.

The Republic of Korea wholeheartedly welcomes the ceasefire agreement and hopes that it will serve as a true stepping stone to finally giving Gaza's 1 million children a respite from this perpetual nightmare. We also note that there are women and minors, some of them reportedly as young as 12 years old, among the 90 Palestinian prisoners released from Israeli prisons on 19 January in exchange for three Israeli hostages. We hope that the rights of Palestinian children can also be respected under due process and that the release of those and other Palestinian minors can help build trust between Israel and Palestine.

The current ceasefire in Gaza must urgently ease the catastrophic suffering of Palestinian children in Gaza. Children should have priority access to the supply of adequate food and water and enjoy full access to the healthcare that they need, despite only half of Gaza's 36 hospitals being partially functional. Sufficient care for babies and lactating mothers must also be ensured.

The resumption of education throughout Gaza is also of great importance. The significance of education cannot be overemphasized in long-term reconstruction efforts or in building trust among peoples and nations. Therefore, it is deeply concerning that children in Gaza have already lost two years of education, as nearly 88 per cent of schools in Gaza need either full reconstruction or major rehabilitation. We recognize the vital role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East in providing essential services to Palestinian children, including healthcare and education.

The future of Israel and Palestine belongs to the children in the region. We, the adults of the current generation, have the responsibility of providing a better future for all children in the Middle East to inherit. The terror of 7 October 2023 and the horror in Gaza over the past 15 months once again remind us that the status quo is neither acceptable nor sustainable. The realization of the two-State solution, in which both Israel and Palestine live side by side in peace, security and dignity, is not an option, but an imperative. Let us begin a sincere discussion to revive the stalled Middle East peace process. While appreciating relevant initiatives, including the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution by Saudi Arabia, Norway and the European Union, the Republic of Korea will faithfully engage in every effort to that end.

Mr. Yusuf (Somalia): I thank the presidency for convening this important meeting in response to the call by the Russian Federation, Algeria, Pakistan, Sierra Leone and my own country, Somalia. I also extend our appreciation to Under-Secretary-General Fletcher for his comprehensive update and thank Ms. Bisan Nateel for her courage and her sobering briefing about the situation of children in Gaza.

We have all heard with heavy hearts the devastating situation of children in Gaza. While we acknowledge the recent pause agreement, we must confront an uncomfortable truth: temporary respite, although welcome, falls devastatingly short of what Gaza's children desperately need. Palestinian children have witnessed and experienced horrors that no human being, let alone a child, should ever endure. They have lost homes, family members and their fundamental right to a safe childhood.

The recent developments, including the ceasefire agreement and the related hostage exchange, offer a glimmer of hope for the protection and well-being of children who have borne the brunt of this prolonged conflict. While a crucial first step, the ceasefire must be transformed into a permanent ceasefire. That is not merely a diplomatic preference — it is an absolute necessity for the survival and the recovery of Gaza's children. The damage inflicted over the past months not only threatens individual futures, but risks scarring Palestinian society for generations to come.

In that regard, Somalia would like to emphasize the following points.

First, with regard to the protection of children, the children of Gaza must be shielded from violence and the devastating impacts of conflict. Somalia reiterates the necessity of upholding international humanitarian and human rights law, particularly the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The protection of the lives, safety and dignity of children must remain a top priority. We urgently call for compliance with, and the implementation of, obligations under the ceasefire agreement and for accountability for any violations to be ensured.

Secondly, with regard to humanitarian access and aid, we welcome the delivery of humanitarian assistance to those desperately in need, as mentioned by Under-Secretary-General Fletcher. Children across Gaza face acute shortages of food, clean water and medical care. The spectre of famine looms, while countless injured children require medical attention that Gaza's devastated healthcare system cannot provide. We join others in calling for the immediate opening of all crossing points into Gaza and for the removal of arbitrary restrictions on all aid delivery. The needs of children — not political considerations — must determine the scale of humanitarian assistance. Adequate funding for organizations like UNICEF and the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is essential to sustain life-saving efforts and rebuild Gaza's infrastructure, including schools and hospitals. We reiterate that UNRWA's continued operations can complement the ceasefire agreement, as it is crucial for delivering services on the required scale.

Thirdly, with regard to psychological and educational support, as mentioned by Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and by Ms. Nateel in her vivid stories of horror, the trauma inflicted on children during the conflict is immense, with much suffering and irreversible harm. We must ensure that children requiring specialized medical care can be evacuated safely, accompanied by their caregivers. The denial of such care violates both international humanitarian law and the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Fourthly, Priority should be given to facilities in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, followed by appropriate international facilities, based on medical necessity. Somalia calls for urgent investment in health services and infrastructure, including mental health and psychological support services, alongside the rehabilitation of schools and education systems. That includes addressing the needs of children with disabilities resulting from violence, ensuring inclusiveness in recovery efforts.

Fifthly, with regard to sustainable peace and long-term recovery, we emphasize that lasting peace requires addressing the underlying causes of the conflict, including the occupation and blockade of Gaza. Children in Gaza must be granted the right to grow up in a safe and dignified environment. The reconstruction of Gaza's critical infrastructure must be Palestinian-led, inclusive and centred on the needs of children. International actors must work collectively to rebuild healthcare systems, support economic recovery and ensure the territorial integrity of Gaza within the broader context of a unified Palestinian state.

Sixthly and my last point, with regard to mine clearance and post-conflict safety, the vast amounts of unexploded ordnance in Gaza pose a severe risk to children. We call for immediate international support for mine risk education and clearance efforts to safeguard lives and facilitate reconstruction.

In conclusion, the plight of Gaza's children is a stark reminder of the human cost of conflict and the urgent need for a comprehensive, just and lasting resolution. Somalia remains committed to advocating for their rights and ensuring their voices are heard in the pursuit of peace and stability. The children of Palestine have the right to life, have the right to education, have the right to food to eat and have the right to sleep in a safe environment.

Somalia calls on the international community to act with urgency and compassion to restore hope for Gaza's children and ensure a brighter future for all.

Ms. Lassen (Denmark): I also wish to thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and Ms. Nateel for their sobering briefings.

Last week, a long-awaited ceasefire and hostage agreement was reached, an agreement which we hope will ensure the release of all remaining hostages and adequate humanitarian aid and which we hope can lead to a permanent ceasefire to allow for reconstruction and a path towards a two-State solution. We also hope that the ceasefire will provide a first step towards a safer future for children in Gaza — a chance for children to attend school without interruption, to play without fear and to once again hope for the future. On this fifth day of its implementation, we call on all parties to uphold their commitments and ensure that the agreement is fully implemented.

As we have seen in far too many conflicts around the world, children bear the brunt of war. Last year, the occupied Palestinian territory was ranked as the deadliest place in the world for children, as children make up close to half of those killed in Gaza. Those surviving face a grim reality and a lifetime of trauma: more than 34,000 children have been injured, and Gaza is home to the largest number of amputee children in modern history. Gaza also has the highest rate of child malnutrition globally. And approximately 1 million children are estimated to be in need of mental health and psychosocial support. The war has left close to 17,000 children orphaned. More than 95 per cent of schools in Gaza have been partially or completely destroyed. And the 625,000 school-aged children of Gaza have lost more than one year of learning. Those figures and the immense suffering they convey are more than shocking.

We remind all parties of their obligations to take all necessary precautions to protect civilians, not least children, who count for almost half of the population in Gaza. We recall that schools must be protected, and their civilian status respected. We once again call on all parties to the conflict to immediately end and prevent all six grave violations against children and ensure that there is accountability for those committed.

Denmark remains deeply concerned about the catastrophic humanitarian situation in Gaza. With the ceasefire agreement in place, we must now see a surge in humanitarian assistance into and across Gaza, as well as guaranteed safety for humanitarian workers. A key priority will be to get sufficient food, water and medical supplies, as well as winter supplies, to children and their families. Restoring schools and the physical and mental safety needed for children to be able to resume learning will be a Herculean task, but a task we need to undertake.

At this critical moment, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) remains the backbone of the wider humanitarian response in Gaza. It must be allowed to implement its full mandate, including on the delivery of essential services, such as healthcare and education.

We are waiting impatiently to finally see the release of the remaining child hostages brutally taken and held by Hamas in a blatant violation of international humanitarian law. One as young as two years old knows no other world outside those dire conditions. We recall the need to ensure the immediate release of all remaining hostages without conditions. And we call for humanitarian visits to all remaining hostages held by Hamas, as well as Palestinians held in Israeli detention. They are protected under the Fourth Geneva Convention, and International Committee of the Red Cross representatives must be allowed access to them wherever they may be.

Palestinian and Israeli children alike deserve a brighter future, where they can live in peace, without fear of losing their family or their lives.

Building on the ceasefire agreement, we need to see tangible steps towards realizing a two-State solution, with the State of Israel and an independent, democratic, contiguous, sovereign and viable State of Palestine living side by side in peace, security and mutual recognition. That is the only viable path to durable peace — a durable peace in which children can dream beyond mere survival, envisioning lives full of possibility, without the weight of war. That is the future the children of Israel and Palestine need — the future they deserve.

Mrs. Blokar Drobič (Slovenia): I thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and Ms. Nateel for their powerful briefings.

Children in Gaza have experienced unspeakable horrors. Many lost their families, their homes and their schools. Too many are missing — either lost, disappeared, detained or buried. Far too many have been maimed or killed. Basically, all children in Gaza are traumatized for life.

As they are everywhere else, in Gaza children are the future — the future of Palestine. To rebuild Gaza into a place of life, hope and lasting peace, we must ensure that its people's trauma is not perpetuated.

We once again welcome the ceasefire agreement and urge all parties to fully uphold their commitments. We must make sure that the ceasefire translates into lasting peace. The children of Gaza deserve that.

First, children in Gaza must be freed from deprivation. Safe, sustained and unimpeded access to large-scale humanitarian aid must be guaranteed to ease their pain and treat the widespread malnutrition. Access constraints need to be lifted, and security and stability must be guaranteed. A full range of supplies, including water, food, shelter, medical supplies, fuel and winter essentials, must be allowed into Gaza. Those must be accompanied by materials for the restoration of critical civilian infrastructure — water supplies, hospitals, schools, housing and markets. Additionally, children must have the means and the opportunities to be reunited with their family members.

Secondly, children in Gaza need access to health services. Healthcare in Gaza has been under attack, rendering the majority of hospitals and health centres out of service and the rest only partially functioning. That situation is leaving newborns and pregnant women without access to vital services of prenatal and postnatal care, so urgently needed in the beginning of a child's life. In the face of the disproportionate impact of war on children, access to basic healthcare is crucial for their survival and development. That is not optional; it is an obligation of Israel, as the occupying Power, under the Convention on the Rights of the Child, to protect every child's right to life, survival and development, health and physical and psychological recovery. It must be guaranteed, including through medical evacuations.

Whether facing hunger and acute malnutrition, amputations and war wounds or lifelong trauma, children in Gaza need access to long-term specialist care, including prosthetics and assistive technologies and mental health services. As the World Health Organization underscored, life-changing injuries in Gaza require rehabilitation services now and for years to come. For years, Slovenia has been engaged in providing medical rehabilitation and psychosocial support to more than 200 children from Gaza. Most recently, a group of 10 children was evacuated from Egypt in October.

According to Save the Children, in 2024, an average of 15 children a day were left with potentially life-long disabilities owing to explosive weapons. We underline the urgent need to prevent any further injuries or deaths, including by clearing explosive remnants of war.

Thirdly, we need to give those children an opportunity to build a better life for themselves. This generation of children is missing out on their second school year, with almost all of their schools having been either damaged or destroyed. The education system must be rebuilt. It is essential to ensure that children have access to safe spaces for learning, development and play. No society could ever be successful without access to education. A rebuilt Gaza must stand on pillars of better opportunities. We therefore repeat the essential role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East in human development. Now is the time to strengthen the Agency, which offers basic services, not undermine it.

Children are the biggest victims of any war. We therefore encourage parties listed in the Secretary-General's annual report on children and armed conflict (S/2024/384) to initiate a dialogue with the United Nations for the development, adoption and implementation of action plans to end and prevent grave violations committed against children.

We were touched by the carefully crafted words in Ms. Nateel's writing. In Slovenia's book of life, we have always acknowledged Palestinians, and in fact every human being, as more than just numbers and names. Images of children in Gaza during this war have been our constant reminder not to give up on peace.

Now that the ceasefire agreement is in place, many children have nowhere to go and no one to turn to. Their stories and struggles remind us that, despite the recent breakthrough, our work has not yet finished. The Council must continue working on a pathway to lasting peace and the two-State solution. Only then will there also be a peaceful future for children in Palestine, Israel and the region.

Mr. Sekeris (Greece): I would like to thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and Ms. Nateel for their detailed briefings.

Early on in this war, the Security Council recognized its disproportionate impact on children, when it adopted resolution 2712 (2023), demanding that “the parties comply with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law, notably with regard to the protection of civilians, especially children” (resolution 2712 (2023), para. 1).

Evidently, this war has taken a shocking toll on children in Gaza, reportedly leaving at least 14,500 dead and thousands more injured or separated from their families, and nearly 1 million internally displaced. They all have names, and they all deserved a better future.

A few days ago in this Chamber, we welcomed a long-overdue ceasefire deal struck between the parties (see S/PV.9841), in the hope that it will last and lead to a situation in which recovery from 15 enormously difficult months for the people of Gaza can be achieved.

We understand the shock among Israeli society and the international community caused by the horrendous attacks of 7 October 2023 by Hamas, which also led to the killing and abduction of many children. At the same time, international law and international humanitarian law must remain the compass for our behaviour.

In that vein, we join our colleagues in asking the parties to adhere to the ceasefire deal and respect the provisions of international humanitarian law. We cannot but stress the importance of ensuring the protection of all civilians, at all times, including humanitarian workers, in line with international humanitarian law.

We also encourage the parties listed in the Secretary-General’s report (S/2024/384) to engage with the United Nations on preventing violations committed against children.

The suffering of civilians must come to an end. All crossings should be open for aid delivery, which should come quickly and at scale, to meet the urgent needs of a starving population. The operations of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) remain vital for the thousands of children in Gaza who have been stripped of their basic rights, including to safety, to healthcare and to education. There can be no day-after scenario for the Gaza Strip without child-centred services. The valuable work of UNRWA and other international organizations, such as UNICEF, cannot be overstated, and we proudly continue to support them.

The protection of children is central to our conscience as human beings. Greece has decided to actively take steps to alleviate the suffering of children in Gaza. This week the first injured child from Gaza arrived in Greece, through Romania, for treatment, and my country will further offer treatment to several more injured children in Greek hospitals.

The only long-term solution for the region is to revitalize the political process to pave the way for a political horizon for a two-State solution, according to relevant Security Council resolutions, while recognizing the right of Israel to exist in peace and security. In the meantime, we call on all parties to refrain from actions that put children in danger. Attacks on children, coupled with obstacles to access to humanitarian aid, constitute grave violations of international humanitarian law and human rights law.

In a world stuck in a cycle of violence, children are the world’s hope and should be given hope. They should be allowed to reinvent a better world for all of us.

The President: I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Algeria.

We extend our sincere thanks to Under-Secretary-General Tom Fletcher and the civil society representative, Ms. Bisan Nateel, for their sobering briefings. Bisan's moving presentation was further testimony of the level of suffering that Gazans, in particular children, faced during more than 470 days of Israeli aggression. She should be assured that the Algerian people will always support her and the Palestinian people. As President Abdelmadjid Tebboune said, "Algeria will never leave the Palestinian people's side until they enjoy their rights".

A ceasefire has just been reached in Gaza, offering a glimmer of hope after a devastating 15 months of war, thanks to the mediation efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States. At this moment, it is crucial to feel the distress of the population in Gaza, among whom stand innocent children who witnessed atrocities to which no child should ever be subjected. Children are not responsible for the decisions made by adults, yet they are often the first victims of conflicts. That tragic reality is true across the globe, but in Gaza the situation has reached unprecedented levels. The events that unfolded before our eyes were not merely a conflict — this was a war against children, a war against innocence.

It is crucial to give voice to the suffering of Palestinian children, who still endure the consequences of the deadly attacks on the civilian population carried out by the Israeli occupying Power for more than 15 months — 470 days — attacks leading to astonishing figures. Thousands of children were injured, including the highest number of child amputees in modern history. An estimated 17,000 children are now unaccompanied or separated from their parents. Nearly 1 million children have been displaced from their homes, and we should not forget those who have died as a consequence of armed attacks, bombing, hunger, a lack of access to healthcare and even freezing to death, to mention only a few of the violations of international humanitarian law. According to various non-governmental organizations, more than 18,000 children have been killed in Gaza, making up 44 per cent of the total number of victims, and the real figures are surely much higher. While the rubble in Gaza has not yet been fully cleared, an estimated 20,000 children are currently reported missing. Those children, whose lives have been brutally ended by Israeli attacks before they could bloom, will never have a chance to grow old. Their passing will leave an emptiness that cannot be filled in the lives and hearts of their families and loved ones.

While calm is being restored in Gaza, which we hope will lead to a permanent ceasefire and the withdrawal of the Israeli army, the situation there remains dire. The scale of destruction is immense. The long-term consequences for the lives of people in Gaza, particularly children, are also profound, as they have suffered significant losses and severe trauma and injuries and been subject to displacement. Those children are out of school and have no access to healthcare. That is the dark reality that children in Gaza are experiencing. The perpetrators of these heinous killings and crimes against children must be held accountable. There should be no room for impunity or immunity.

It is time for recovery, and we must act urgently to save lives and help the children heal. The damage caused by the conflict is so extensive that everything must be rebuilt in Gaza, even the people's hopes for life. To achieve that, we must focus on children by granting them access to education and healthcare. With more than 660,000 students currently out of school, the challenges are immense, especially considering that at least 88 per cent of school buildings require either full reconstruction or major repairs. Moreover, malnutrition is rampant. The nutritional needs of more than 96 per cent of children under 2 years old are not being met owing to a lack of dietary diversity, and an estimated 60,000 children will need treatment for acute malnutrition this year. In addition, 1 million are in urgent need of mental-health and psychosocial support. Those challenges are exacerbated by the fact that 84 per cent of health facilities have been damaged or destroyed by Israeli bombing.

Let me be clear. Overcoming those challenges will require the humanitarian community to mobilize. In that regard, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) — the backbone of humanitarian action in Gaza — is vital, especially in the areas of healthcare and education. The Agency is indispensable and irreplaceable. Attacking UNRWA at this critical time would ruin the reconstruction efforts and threaten the very presence of Palestinians on their lands. The conflict in Gaza has exacted a heavy toll on children, inflicting potentially irreversible harm, and the consequences are a threat not only to their individual futures but to the very fabric of Palestinian society for generations to come. We must protect the needs and interests of present and future generations, as reflected in the commitment that our leaders expressed in the very first paragraph of the Pact for the Future (General Assembly resolution 79/1).

All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. And regardless of where they are born, children have an inalienable right to a dignified life, education and a joyful, safe and secure childhood. The children of Gaza should not be an exception to that. Let us unite our efforts for a better future for children in Gaza.

I now resume my functions as President of the Council.

I give the floor to the observer of the Observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine) (spoke in Arabic): I thank the Russian delegation, with the support of Algeria, Pakistan, Sierra Leone and Somalia, for convening this important meeting to discuss the situation of Palestinian children in the Gaza Strip and to highlight their plight and the urgent need to provide them with protection and care.

Now that there is a ceasefire, which must become permanent, it is perhaps time that Council members visited the stricken Gaza Strip to witness first-hand what has befallen our people and children after 15 months of war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide at the hands of Israel, on top of the 17 years of an unjust blockade, and to see for themselves the results of the culture of impunity, double standards, immunity and lack of accountability that Israel has unjustly enjoyed as an occupying Power.

I would like to thank the Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs, Mr. Tom Fletcher, for his comprehensive briefing, and to express our gratitude to all the United Nations teams on the ground for providing relief to our people. I want to tell Ms. Bisan Nateel, our daughter from Gaza, how proud we are of her and of all the young women and men of Palestine. Nothing makes us prouder than when our children in Gaza can speak about Gaza before the Security Council and the world, especially after the long silence that the occupation has imposed on them. Brimming with humanity and hope, Ms. Nateel conveyed the suffering and the horror of what happened to her. On behalf of all the children of Palestine, I want to thank her for her testimony.

Our hearts have ached for them all throughout this heinous genocide. We could hear their pulse coming from Beit Hanoun, Beit Lahiya, Jabalia, Gaza, Al-Wusta, Deir Al-Balah, Khan Younis and Rafah. We know that they and their children have been suffering and enduring what no human being can bear — injustice and aggression that are no fault of theirs. They have been confronting the Israeli machine of killing, destruction, displacement and ethnic cleansing, which wants to thwart their attempts to escape the shelling, the killing, the burial under rubble, the arrests, the disease, the fear, the starvation, the thirst, the summer heat and the winter cold.

We know about the pain and oppression that has afflicted them, the magnitude of the catastrophe that has struck them and the scars that we as a people bear and that cannot be healed. But we also know the firmness of their resolve and their determination to begin living again and resist the death that awaits them at every turn. We will build on that determination and hope, which we know may be in short supply in these difficult times, especially with the funeral homes still open and the search for the remains of martyrs and for the missing continuing.

I wish all of our people in Gaza a safe return to their lives and homes — or what is left of them — and a safe return to their families, loved ones and friends, or whoever is left of them. We will be with them. We will be the hand that builds and that heals wounds. We will heed their legitimate aspirations and dreams and continue to convey their voices until Israel's criminal occupation of our land and people ends.

In that connection, we reaffirm the readiness of the Palestinian Government to assume its governing responsibilities in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank and to provide relief and development services to our people in the Strip, which is an integral part of the territory of the State of Palestine. It is ready to do that in line with the Government plan for relief, early recovery and emergency response for the Gaza Strip that Prime Minister Mohammad Mustafa presented to President Mahmoud Abbas. The plan provides for the safe return of the internally displaced to their homes, treatment for the sick and wounded and rehabilitation for the disabled. It also envisages a comprehensive reconstruction phase, including resumed education and health services, the rebuilding of infrastructure and the reinstatement of controls at crossings and borders, as well as economic and social recovery. To that end, we will draw on the skills and experience of our daughters and sons of the Palestinian people, who have the ability to build a better future. In that regard, the Israeli occupation must be made to immediately release the thousands of Palestinian medical personnel, journalists and academics who were abducted from the Gaza Strip and have been subjected to terrible treatment in Israeli torture centres. Gaza cannot recover without the return of its sons such as Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya, Dr. Ahmed Muhanna and other professionals and technical staff whom Israel abducted from the Gaza Strip.

We also look forward to cooperating and coordinating our efforts with brotherly and friendly countries on every front to provide aid and assistance to our people. We want to emphasize in that regard the key role of the United Nations, including the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA), which is irreplaceable, especially at this critical juncture. The Israeli occupation must therefore be compelled to refrain from obstructing UNRWA's operations in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. We call on the international community to ensure that UNRWA can reopen its schools in the Gaza Strip and to equip those schools to receive thousands of children and resume the provision of formal education for every child, equally and safely. We all know that school helps protect children from the consequences of war through the psychological support and recreational opportunities it affords. We cannot wait any longer. We must start resuming education at all levels in the Gaza Strip with immediate effect.

Israel has been carrying out indiscriminate air raids on civilian homes in Gaza and engaging in carpet-bombing, using hundreds of tons of bombs. Those bombardments killed more than 17,000 children, with approximately 20,000 missing under the rubble of their homes or their shelters or in mass graves. Tens of thousands of children are suffering severe burns and permanent injuries, including the amputation of their limbs. Israel orphaned thousands of children. It also besieged the Gaza Strip and imposed a policy of starvation, using starvation as a weapon of war, and prevented the delivery and distribution of relief and medical assistance to civilians in Gaza, in violation of all the moral, legal, and political norms, including the relevant Security Council resolutions.

In the West Bank, Israel drives its military armoured vehicles into our children, into their homes, schools, streets and neighbourhoods. It kills and arrests them. This occupation and settler terrorism is expanding to engulf every city and every street — in Jenin and its camp, in Tulkarem, Nablus, Ramallah, Qalqilya, Bethlehem and Hebron. The occupation demolishes, displaces and bombs; it arrests, burns and destroys; it plunders and builds settlements, in flagrant violation of international law and agreements, undeterred and unpunished.

We demand that the Israeli occupation army forces remain on the United Nations list of violators of the rights of children in armed conflicts until this occupation stops committing its crimes against our children. We also call upon countries to prohibit the delivery of weapons to the Israeli occupation army, to compel it to respect international law and to ensure protection for our children. We cannot accept this as our fate, and we cannot accept that the fate of our children will be either a grave in the Gaza Strip or a detention centre in the West Bank, or displacement in East Jerusalem. It is inconceivable that today our children should live the same harsh life that we lived as children, owing to the Israeli occupation that has spanned decades without any prospects for ending it.

This cycle of violence must end immediately. This occupation, which is robbing us of our children, robbing us of our youth and robbing us of life, must end immediately. The time has come for us and our children to live a life free from the Israeli occupation and its aggression. The time has come for a Palestinian generation that does not know life under occupation. The time has come to put an irreversible end to the war and to the blockade.

The time has come to release all our Palestinian children who are being held by Israel in the Israeli detention and torture centres and to guarantee that Israel will not detain them again. The time has come for our wounded and sick children to receive treatment and the necessary medical care, especially those who lost their limbs and who are in need of artificial limbs and rehabilitation to adapt to this new life that was imposed on them.

I call upon all Council members to join us in our efforts to achieve justice, peace and security in our region. That can be achieved only by ending the unlawful Israeli occupation of our land, pursuant to the advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968); achieving justice and holding those responsible for those crimes accountable before international tribunals; and achieving the independence and sovereignty of the State of Palestine and its full membership in the United Nations. In that way, our people will be able to exercise their right to self-determination and our children can be born and grow up in peace and security, able to realize their aspirations, build their future and live in freedom and dignity.

The President: The President of the Security Council gives the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Danon (Israel): Before I begin, Mr. Bendjama, I have noticed that when you give the floor to any Member State, you just say that you give them the floor. But when it comes to Israel, you say, “the presidency” or “the President” gives the floor. I do not understand what the reasoning for that is, and maybe you can let me know why you make that distinction between Israel and any other Member State that appears in front of the Council.

The President: Did you finish your statement?

Mr. Danon (Israel): No, I have not started. I just wanted to know why you have made the distinction when you have given me the floor during this month, since you are the President of the Security Council. And I have thought it was a mistake, but now I see that it is not a mistake and there is something behind it. Maybe you have something against my country. But as President of the Council, you should put your personal thoughts or feelings aside when you preside over the Council.

The President: We are presiding over the Council, and the presidency of the Security Council gives the floor to the representative of Israel. You have the floor, Sir.

Mr. Danon (Israel): I must first ask whether the Council has ever paused to consider the plight of Israeli children. Too many Israeli children were mutilated, tortured and murdered on 7 October 2023, innocent lives stolen by the brutality of Hamas terrorists. Thirty children were kidnapped from their homes, ripped from their families and taken into the depths of Hamas' terror tunnels. Tens of thousands of Israeli children have been displaced, their homes destroyed, their schools closed and their lives shattered. No one at the United Nations or at any of its agencies has said enough about them, let alone lifted a finger to help them. And what about the children who have spent their formative years under the constant stream of Hamas' rocket fire? Imagine growing up with the sound of sirens, given mere seconds to find shelter, with the knowledge that every moment of peace could be destroyed in an instant. Tens of thousands of children have grown up knowing that at any moment a Hamas rocket could kill them.

That is the reality of Israeli children. The trauma that they have endured is beyond imagining. Yet where is the Council's compassion? Where are the urgent meetings? Where is the outrage? Instead, we meet here today to discuss only the children of Gaza. While their suffering is real, this discussion is dripping with fake outrage and a political agenda. Every member of the Council, including those who called for this discussion, knows who bears responsibility for their situation. It is Hamas, not Israel, that has turned Gaza into a war zone. It is Hamas, not Israel, that uses children as human shields. It is Hamas, not Israel, that places its terror infrastructure in schools, hospitals and civilian neighbourhoods. But time and time again, the Council chooses to ignore those facts, choosing to vilify the democratic country that goes to every possible length to protect innocent lives.

On 7 October, Hamas made a deliberate choice to massacre our people. They knew, as did everyone in the Chamber, that their actions would provoke the response they have provoked. They knew that they were putting their own people in harm's way — and still they carried out their atrocities, hiding behind civilians and daring Israel to act.

Today's discussion is an affront to common sense. Those who truly care about the children of Gaza must condemn Hamas unequivocally. Anything less is hypocrisy. Hamas has stolen countless childhoods and poisoned those children's minds. They have turned schools into training grounds for terror, where children are taught to glorify violence and hate. We have all seen the images, including in the past week, of young Gazan children wearing the Hamas headbands, waving guns in the air. That is the future Hamas wants for Gaza's children. Imagine the level of hatred they have ingrained in those countless young boys. These are not isolated examples; it is systematic indoctrination. Hamas has robbed generations of their innocence and their future.

If the Council truly cared about the children of Gaza, it would have condemned that indoctrination long ago. But instead we hear only silence. Let us be honest — what future will the children of Gaza have with Hamas in power? The answer is none. They will remain tools for Hamas' terror, cannon fodder for their murderous aims. They will grow up in a society where hatred is celebrated, where violence is glorified and where life is cheap. Is that the future that the Council wants for them? That is the future that the Council is enabling when it refuses to hold Hamas accountable.

Let us contrast that with what could have been. I want to remind the Council that, in 2005, Israel made a painful and unprecedented decision to withdraw from Gaza. We removed every single Israeli citizen and soldier — so-called settlements, settlers, the occupation, the blockade, however people want to call them — uploading entire communities in the hope of giving the Palestinians a chance at peace and prosperity. We left everything there, entire communities.

What did Hamas do with that opportunity? They turned Gaza into the world's largest terror base, diverting resources meant for the people and their needs in order to build rockets and tunnels. They could have created a thriving future — everyone speaks about the future for the children. They had the opportunity to do so — a Singapore on the Mediterranean. Instead they chose destruction. The children of Gaza could have had a future filled with opportunity. Instead, they are trapped in a cycle of violence and despair, all because of Hamas, not because of Israel.

Israel's commitment to minimizing harm to civilians is unmatched. We take extraordinary measures to protect innocent lives, even when Hamas makes it nearly impossible. We put our own soldiers at greater risk to spare lives on the other side. Yet Hamas exploits this humanity, embedding itself deeper among civilians, using their homes as bunkers, their schools as weapon stores and their hospitals as command centres. That is not a moral equivalence; it is a moral abomination.

I therefore ask the Council today — if it truly cares about the children of Gaza, why does it remain silent in the face of such evil? Why does it not demand an end to Hamas' indoctrination and exploitation of children. Why does it not support efforts to dismantle the terror network and free Gaza from Hamas' grip.

Algeria speaks so highly of Hamas and wants Hamas to stay. If it does, there will be no future for the kids of Gaza. If it genuinely cared about the children of Gaza, it would join Israel in working to create a future of hope, not hate. That future is possible, but only if Hamas is removed from power. Imagine a Gaza where children go to school to learn — not to be indoctrinated, not with guns. Imagine a Gaza where resources are used to build playgrounds, not tunnels; where hospitals heal, rather than hide weapons; where families can live without fear. That is not a pipe dream. It is a reality that could be achieved if Hamas' reign of terror ends.

The international community must make a choice — stand with the children of Gaza or stand with those who use them as shields. It is not possible to support the children of Gaza and support Hamas at the same time. By refusing to confront the truth about Hamas, the Council is not just failing Israel or the children of Gaza; it is failing humankind. The Council was created to uphold peace and justice, but if this inaction continues, terror will continue to flourish. Israel will continue to do everything in its power to protect its people and to seek a better future for all children in the region. But make no mistake — that future cannot and will not include Hamas.

Perhaps my colleagues have forgotten about little Kfir Bibas, but I promise that we have not. Kfir Bibas was nine months old when he was ripped from his bed, along with his four-year old brother, Ariel, and his parents, Shiri and Yarden. He has remained in the darkness of Hamas' terror dungeons. Since then, we have received no word — nothing — about his condition, no visits from the Red Cross, no offers of assistance and no outrage from the United Nations. Just a few days ago, Kfir Bibas should have celebrated his second birthday, but for this little boy there have been no celebrations. Kfir has not had the opportunity to celebrate a single birthday. He has known only captivity and suffering. Does the Council not hear the cries of Israeli children? Does it not feel the pain of Israeli children? Does it not see their tears? If it did, if it cared for anything other than political agendas, then it would devote this meeting to discussing Kfir Bibas and all Israeli children still suffering.

Our children — every single one — deserve more than the Council's silence; they deserve more than the Council's indifference; they deserve their lives back.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Egypt.

Mr. Mahmoud (Egypt) (spoke in Arabic): I thank those who called for the holding of this important meeting. I thank Under-Secretary-General Fletcher and our dear sister, Ms. Bisan Nateel, for her informative and detailed briefing.

I am honoured to deliver this statement on behalf of the Group of Arab States.

I thank you once again, Mr. President, for holding this meeting today to discuss the situation of children in the Gaza Strip, in the light of Israel's aggression. Extensive mediation efforts by Egypt, Qatar and the United States have succeeded, with difficulty, in reaching a ceasefire agreement to stop the aggression and save civilians. We hope it will be implemented in full to end the suffering of our Palestinian brothers.

We are speaking today with a heavy heart about the most heart-wrenching cause — that of our children in the Gaza Strip, who have gone through the most horrific experience that a child can go through. We are speaking today in pain, unable to fathom why we even need to explain that the cause of our Palestinian children is a just and a humanitarian cause, even as it is there before the Council's eyes for all to see.

United Nations reports and reports of international organizations referred to a multitude of horrors. It is not possible to mention them all today. Those reports tell us that Gaza has turned into a graveyard for children, that — at the very least — more than 7,000 children have been martyred. Women and children, together, comprise 70 per cent of the martyrs in Gaza. That is the highest number of women and children killed in any conflict in a similar time frame over the past two decades. The reports are telling us that thousands of children are missing, displaced or orphaned. Some of them are completely alone, without any remaining family members. The number of child amputees in Gaza, relative to the size of the population, is the highest in the world. The reports refer to death from starvation, shortages in medication and harsh cold, as a result of Israeli restrictions imposed on humanitarian aid. They refer to children losing more than a whole school year and being completely deprived of healthcare. They refer to displacement, siege and the destruction of health and educational facilities.

The children of Gaza have been subjected to unparalleled horrors for a simple reason — because they are Palestinians who have been languishing under the yoke of the unjust Israeli occupation. They have been subjected to atrocities that cannot be erased from their memories. It might even be impossible to treat the physical and psychological impact of such atrocities. Israel is always motivated by the liberation of the hostages. We wonder — how can killing children in this way and at this rate be both a means and an end?

The position of the Arab Group is based on the following factors.

First, the crimes perpetrated against the children of Palestine are a grave violation of treaty and customary rules of international humanitarian law and a violation of the provisions of international criminal law and international human rights law, all of which stipulate that it is illegal to target civilians, including children, in armed conflicts. They are also violations of international commitments contained in the 1989 Convention on the Rights of the Child and the 1949 Geneva Conventions and its 1977 Protocol I Additional. Those commitments were also endorsed by the Security Council to protect civilians in armed conflicts through its resolutions — starting with resolution 1261 (1999) to its latest resolution, resolution 2764 (2024).

Secondly, Palestinian children in Gaza, the West Bank and East Jerusalem are being subjected to violations and crimes. That has prompted the Secretary-General to add Israel to the list of parties that commit grave violations against children in armed conflict. The number of children killed by Israel during this war exceeds that of any war over the past decades. The Arab Group therefore stresses the need to ensure accountability and to cooperate with international courts in that regard. These crimes must not be condoned or justified in any way.

Thirdly, the Arab Group calls for intensifying efforts and mobilizing international resources for early-recovery projects. We call for focusing on rebuilding and restoring health and educational facilities. Children urgently need those services. It is necessary to quickly mitigate the consequences of the children of Gaza being out of school and being deprived of the necessary healthcare and psychological care.

Fourthly, the Arab Group stresses the vital and irreplaceable role of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in providing services to Palestinian children, especially health services, educational services and humanitarian support. In order to protect the future of our children, we must preserve their only lifeline, namely, UNRWA.

Finally, the only way to ensure a better future for these children, who will be the men and women of a future Palestine, is to ensure that they are equal to the other peoples of the world, to end the heinous occupation imposed upon them, to put an end to them having been targeted over decades so that they can live in their independent State along the lines of 4 June 1967, with East Jerusalem as its capital.

In conclusion, we can only apologize to the Palestinian children and to Ms. Bisan Nateel. We have done our utmost to stop this unjust war. We hope that the future of this generation of Palestinian children will be better than its past and its present. They might be the generation born from the womb of suffering to then become the first generation to live in an independent State. For that noble goal, we will continue to give our all.

Adoption of the agenda

The agenda was adopted.

The situation in the Middle East, including the Palestinian question

The President: In accordance with rule 37 of the Security Council's provisional rules of procedure, the presidency of the Security Council invites the representatives of Cabo Verde, Egypt, Iceland, Israel, Jordan, Senegal and Spain to participate in this meeting.

I propose that the Council invite the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine to the United Nations to participate in this meeting, in accordance with the provisional rules of procedure and previous practice in this regard.

There being no objection, it is so decided.

In accordance with rule 39 of the Council's provisional rules of procedure, I invite the following briefers to participate in this meeting: Mr. Philippe Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East; and Mr. Jan Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council.

The Security Council will now begin its consideration of the item on its agenda.

I give the floor to Mr. Lazzarini.

Mr. Lazzarini: Nine days ago, the long-awaited ceasefire in Gaza began. We are heartened by the return of Israeli hostages and imprisoned Palestinians to their families. We are encouraged by marked improvements in the flow of humanitarian aid and in operating conditions. We hope that the ceasefire will hold and that the tremendous suffering in Gaza will subside.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is the largest United Nations presence in Gaza, with 13,000 personnel and 300 premises. The Agency is critical for supporting a shattered population and the ceasefire. And yet, in two days, our operations in the occupied Palestinian territory will be crippled, as legislation passed by the Israeli Knesset takes effect. At stake is the fate of millions of Palestinians, the ceasefire and the prospects for a political solution that brings about lasting peace and security.

In the wake of the ceasefire, we must contend with the devastation of the last 15 months and the enormity of the challenges ahead. A peer-reviewed study of death by traumatic injury in Gaza reveals that the mortality figure provided by the Ministry of Health is a minimum estimate — 46,000 deaths is likely an undercount by more than 40 per cent. The study also confirms that the majority of those killed are women, children and the elderly. Those who escaped death by bombardment, starvation and disease have emerged shell-shocked. Tens of thousands of people are now returning to the decimated north, to search for the living and to bury the dead.

Across the Gaza Strip, Palestinians are turning to UNRWA, the Agency they have known all their lives, for support. Curtailing our operations now — outside a political process and when trust in the international community is so low — will undermine the ceasefire. It will sabotage Gaza's recovery and political transition. The full implementation of the Knesset legislation will be disastrous. In Gaza, undermining UNRWA's operations will compromise the international humanitarian response. It will degrade the capacity of the United Nations just when humanitarian assistance must be significantly scaled up. That will only worsen the already catastrophic living conditions of millions of Palestinians.

The Government of Israel claims that UNRWA's services can be transferred to other entities. In fact, the Agency's mandate to provide public-like services to an entire population is unique. Our capacity to directly provide primary healthcare for millions of Palestinians and resume education for hundreds of thousands of children far exceeds that of any other entity. Those services can be transferred only to a functioning State. The Government of Israel claims that UNRWA plays a negligible role in providing humanitarian assistance in Gaza. In fact, UNRWA constitutes half of the emergency response, with all other entities delivering the other half. Since October 2023 we have delivered two thirds of all food assistance, provided shelter to more than 1 million displaced persons and vaccinated a quarter of a million children against polio. Since the ceasefire began, UNRWA has brought in 60 per cent of the food entering Gaza, reaching more than half a million people. We conduct some 17,000 medical consultations every day. Less quantifiable but critical to the humanitarian response and the ceasefire is community acceptance. Palestinians know and trust UNRWA. For them, UNRWA is the doctors and nurses providing healthcare, the aid workers distributing food and the mechanics and engineers building and repairing wells for clean drinking water. The mere presence of the Agency brings stability amid profound uncertainty.

In the occupied West Bank, where violence is surging, ending UNRWA's operations will deprive Palestinian refugees of education and healthcare. The Palestinian Authority has made it clear that it does not have the financial resources or capacity to compensate for the loss of UNRWA's services. In occupied East Jerusalem, the Government of Israel has ordered UNRWA to vacate its premises and cease operations by Thursday. That will affect approximately 70,000 patients and more than 1,000 students. The Deputy Mayor has called for a public celebration of UNRWA's expulsion from East Jerusalem opposite the headquarters of our West Bank field office in the Sheikh Jarrah neighbourhood. It is on that land that local authorities are planning to build illegal settlements. The relentless assault on UNRWA is harming the lives and future of Palestinians across the occupied Palestinian territory. It is eroding their trust in the international community and jeopardizing the prospects for peace and security.

The Knesset legislation defies the resolutions of the Council and the General Assembly. It flouts the rulings of the International Court of Justice. It disregards the fact that UNRWA is the mechanism established by the General Assembly to provide assistance to Palestinian refugees pending a political answer to the question of Palestine. Implementing the legislation makes a mockery of international law and imposes massive constraints on UNRWA's operations. However, we are determined to stay and deliver until it is no longer possible to do so. That is not without risk for our Palestinian colleagues, who face an exceptionally hostile operating environment, fostered in part by a fierce disinformation campaign.

The Government of Israel is investing significant resources in portraying the Agency as a terrorist organization and our staff as terrorists or terrorist sympathizers. Billboards and advertisements accusing UNRWA of terrorism recently appeared in major cities around the world. They were paid for by the Israeli Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Google Ads campaigns redirect those seeking information about the Agency to websites replete with disinformation. The absurdity of anti-UNRWA propaganda does not diminish the threat that it poses to our staff, especially those in the occupied West Bank and in Gaza, where 273 of our colleagues have been killed. It sets a precedent for Governments to accuse a United Nations entity of terrorism to create a pretext to clamp down on human rights. It sets a precedent for criminalizing humanitarian assistance and protection. This year, propaganda efforts spearheaded by the Israeli Foreign Ministry received a boost of $150 million.

The political attacks on the Agency are motivated by the desire to strip Palestinians of their refugee status, thereby unilaterally changing the long-established parameters for a political solution. The objective is to deny Palestinian refugees the right to self-determination and erase their history and identity. But let me be clear. The rights of Palestinian refugees to protection and assistance are not derived from UNRWA's mandate. They exist independently of the Agency. And if UNRWA ceases to protect and assist Palestinian refugees, their rights will not only remain, but there will be much greater emphasis on the right to return or to be resettled, for which UNRWA has no mandate.

A ceasefire in Gaza must be followed by a political transition that includes an orderly conclusion of UNRWA's mandate and the handover of its public-like services to empowered and prepared Palestinian institutions. That is the path now being pursued by the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution, led by Saudi Arabia, the European Union and the League of Arab States. Only a political pathway of that nature can ensure the protection and welfare of Palestinian refugees and peace and security in the region and beyond. A clear choice lies before us. We can allow UNRWA to implode as a result of the Knesset legislation and the suspension of funding by key donors. The repercussions of that implosion will not be confined to national borders and will only further destabilize the region. Alternatively, we can allow the Agency to progressively conclude its mandate within the framework of a political process.

UNRWA was always meant to be temporary. A fair and lasting political solution would allow the Agency to hand over its services and workforce to a Palestinian Administration. UNRWA has much to offer in support of a political solution. The Agency is the largest provider of primary healthcare in Gaza and the second largest in the West Bank. Our health services and expertise are integral to building a strong national health system. It also has a pivotal role to play in education. In Gaza today, 650,000 girls and boys are living in the rubble, learning nothing more than how to survive. They have already lost more than two years of learning. Absent a full-fledged State, only UNRWA has the capacity to bring those children back to learning. So great is the enthusiasm for resuming learning in Gaza that more than 260,000 children — half of them girls — enrolled in our online learning platform this month. If we fail to resume education in Gaza and preserve it in the occupied West Bank, we will sacrifice an entire generation of Palestinian children.

The threat posed by political efforts to dismantle UNRWA is compounded by financial challenges, with key donors deciding to end or reduce their contributions to the Agency. I am appealing for an urgent increase in financial support to UNRWA, the speedy disbursement of allocated funds and a review of funding currently on hold. I also take this opportunity to underscore the Agency's long-standing commitment to neutrality. A detailed presentation at UNRWA's Advisory Commission meeting last November made clear that our high-level action plan to implement the recommendations of the Colonna report is on track. We will also continue to take all necessary steps to investigate credible allegations made against the Agency and its personnel.

Implementing the Knesset legislation will heighten instability and deepen despair in the occupied Palestinian territory at a critical moment. I am seeking the Council's decisive intervention in support of peace and stability in the occupied Palestinian territory and the broader region.

First, I call on the Council to push back against the implementation of the Knesset legislation. UNRWA's personnel and services are integral to the success of the ceasefire.

Secondly, the Council must insist on a genuine political path forward that delineates UNRWA's role as a provider of education and healthcare. The Agency is essential for ensuring a viable political transition.

Finally, the Council must ensure that a financial crisis does not abruptly end UNRWA's life-saving work. The Agency cannot continue to operate in the face of extraordinary challenges without adequate resources.

In conclusion, I would like to share with the Council a message received from a young person in Gaza last week. It is a stark reminder of the heavy responsibility that we bear.

“I am writing to you from the rubble of a home that once was a place of warmth and life. Now my days are spent searching for the most basic necessities, like flour to feed my family. What truly breaks me is my helplessness in the face of children. Their innocent eyes seek safety I cannot provide and answers I do not have. Around us, the elderly sit in silence, their hearts weighed down by decades of loss and suffering. And here I am, dying 1,000 times every day as I think of all that I cannot do for them.”

Unlike the author of this message, we are in a position to do something. It only requires the Council's decisive action and leadership.

The President: I thank Mr. Lazzarini for his briefing.

I now give the floor to Mr. Egeland.

Mr. Egeland: I speak as a lifelong friend of Israel and the Palestinians and as one who has repeatedly called out the atrocities and war crimes committed by all sides, including on 7 October 2023 in and against Israel. And as Council members may know, I led the Norwegian facilitation of the Oslo Accords in 1993, and I have worked on the Palestinian-Israeli peace process ever since. I worked closely with Yitzhak Rabin, Shimon Peres and Yasser Arafat at the time.

Let me first reiterate something that all European, American and local humanitarian organizations on the ground in Gaza have agreed on ever since some donor States started to defund the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA): UNRWA plays an indispensable humanitarian role in Gaza and the West Bank, and it cannot be replaced by any others among us, as the humanitarian organizations on the ground. We all rely on UNRWA's logistical capacity; we operate in UNRWA schools; the people we support are attended to in UNRWA health clinics; and as Philippe Lazzarini just detailed, the organization has been — and still is — responsible for a massive relief operation in the hour of greatest need for the Palestinian civilians in Gaza. There are of course important recommendations in the Colonna report that the organization is — and must — be implementing. But again, the Council needs to know that we — and most importantly, the Palestinians — simply cannot do without UNRWA.

Based on reports from my colleagues on the ground and my own two most recent visits in recent months, I will share with the Council some hard facts about our realities on the ground.

First, the positive news: the ceasefire between Israel and Hamas, at long last, has allowed some hostages and a number of detainees to finally be reunited with their families, and it has introduced a welcome halt to the hostilities in Gaza. Starting yesterday, we have seen how tens of thousands of civilians can finally make their way back to their homes in Gaza's north. But when I visited Gaza City in December, I was shocked by the destruction that those people will find in the north as they go home. It will be a race against the clock to give families the emergency shelter, water, sanitation and other basic relief, followed by the recovery and rehabilitation of civilian infrastructure, from homes to electricity and sewage systems, across Gaza and particularly in the north. We also need to ensure that people can move freely, from south to north and north to south, including in the future.

Of the more than 46,000 people killed, with thousands still under the rubble, half are women and children — all are innocent. More than 1,000 health workers have been killed, alongside more than 350 aid workers; the vast majority were colleagues from UNRWA. And the Security Council must understand that 66 per cent of all structures in Gaza have been damaged or destroyed, according to the United Nations own Satellite Centre analysis of very high-resolution satellite imagery. Eighty per cent of commercial facilities are damaged or destroyed, as is 68 per cent of the road network, and that includes the damage or destruction of 87 per cent of the homes in Gaza since the Israeli assault began.

When I last travelled to Gaza, in December, I drove for hours across the Strip, only to see destruction and devastation. I could not believe the Second World War-like, once-urban wastelands that Gaza City, Khan Younis and other cities had become. It is, to me, similar to the destruction of Syria's besieged cities, like eastern Ghouta, Aleppo and Homs, during the war waged by the Al-Assad regime. There too, vast urban areas were destroyed by indiscriminate warfare as the people were besieged and starved. I was then the United Nations Special Adviser for Humanitarian Diplomacy in Syria, and at the time, I was glad to see the near-unanimous condemnation of the abuse of international humanitarian law.

According to the Shelter Cluster for Gaza, which Norwegian Refugee Council leads, there are 1.34 million people in Gaza who are now in need emergency shelter support and basic household items. A United Nations damage assessment released this month showed that clearing more than 50 million tons of rubble left in the aftermath of the bombardment could take 21 years and cost at least $1.2 billion. For two decades, children will have nowhere to play, owing to the rubble and debris and the countless unexploded bombs. The universally agreed principles in international law of proportionality, distinction and military necessity have been thoroughly violated.

Against that backdrop, the humanitarian groups on the ground are desperately trying to scale up our assistance, after having been severely impeded throughout the conflict. My organization, the Norwegian Refugee Council (NRC), which is active in several sectors, including shelter, water and sanitation, education and legal aid, managed finally to have 18 trucks of humanitarian cargo enter Gaza last week, after months of frustrated attempts. We are currently working to deliver an additional 4,500 pallets of essential supplies. But looting and attacks on aid convoys remain a major concern, particularly in high-risk zones, such as the stretch between the Kerem Shalom border crossing and the Shokat As-Sufi junction.

On 22 January, another significant looting incident took place and disrupted aid efforts, when a criminal group hijacked seven aid trucks near Kerem Shalom, injuring one of the drivers during their abduction. The following day, clashes in the area forced the cancellation of a planned United Nations and non-governmental organization rotation out of Gaza. Later the same day, an NRC convoy delivering trucks to our warehouse was nearly looted just metres from our premises. Swift action by the police ensured the trucks were secured with minimal losses.

Humanitarian organizations also continue to face a number of bureaucratic and administrative challenges, including the systematic denial of visas and of work permit renewals by Israel. On 12 September 2024, the Israeli National Security Council admitted to the Knesset that Israel was no longer issuing visas to employees of international humanitarian non-governmental organizations. That appears to be part of a broader effort to undermine humanitarian work in the occupied Palestinian territory and limit assistance to the Palestinian population. But as the occupying Power, Israel is legally obliged to facilitate humanitarian operations — in Gaza and in the West Bank alike.

In the short term, to address the urgent humanitarian needs and ensure an effective response in Gaza, we need the following.

First, we need full and unrestricted access and the ability to move people and supplies, including fuel, freely from north to south and vice versa.

Secondly, we need security and protection for aid operations. Authorities must implement robust security arrangements to protect humanitarian aid operations from looting and violence. Humanitarian organizations must be allowed to collect aid from Gaza's crossings using sealed and secured transport options, such as box trucks, as the open trucks we are forced to use are routinely looted. Measures must be taken to guarantee the safety of aid workers, with clear commitments from the parties to the ceasefire agreement to respect humanitarian operations and our personnel.

Thirdly, we need strengthened coordination and oversight mechanisms. The United Nations must ensure more effective, action-oriented coordination mechanisms to streamline aid delivery and avoid the duplication of efforts. Increased international oversight is required to secure continued access to border crossings and to monitor compliance with international law. When one party, Israel, controls all aid to civilians on the other side, without international monitors, we again repeatedly risk politically motivated closures. All parties to the ceasefire must be held accountable for their commitments, with clear and transparent communication on the progress of humanitarian access and reconstruction efforts.

Fourthly, we urgently need financial and operational support to scale up the humanitarian response. Immediate, flexible and sustained funding is critical to meet the immense humanitarian and recovery needs and to scale up our response in Gaza. Israeli authorities must enable the safe and predictable flow of cash into Gaza, so that humanitarian organizations can implement cash assistance programmes, pay staff salaries and procure essential goods and services. Only two Bank of Palestine branches are expected to reopen, still with no clear security framework for cash injection or circulation.

While all of that is happening in Gaza, we are also alarmed by the surge in violence across the occupied West Bank. Israeli military operations and settler attacks have intensified, leading to widespread insecurity, displacement and severe restrictions on the freedom of movement of Palestinians. The Israeli military operation in the Jenin refugee camp, Iron Wall, launched on 21 January, has already had severe humanitarian consequences. And we are already witnessing patterns of the disproportionate use of force in the West Bank similar to what we saw in Gaza before the ceasefire.

In conclusion, the current and much-needed ceasefire in Gaza is, of course, extremely fragile, much as it is welcome. As negotiators engage in discussions on the following phases of the agreement, the international community must continue to put pressure on both Israeli and Palestinian decision makers. We also need stronger, more united, coherent and more assertive pressure for peace, compromise and negotiated progress from the international and regional Powers.

Given the fragile nature of the Gaza ceasefire and the potential for more violence in the West Bank, the Security Council, in accordance with its mandate, should put all of its energies into achieving a peaceful resolution of the question of Palestine in line with international law. The General Assembly has scheduled key international mechanisms to address those challenges, including a Conference of High Contracting Parties to the Geneva Conventions in March 2025, and a High-Level International Conference for the Peaceful Settlement of the Question of Palestine and the Implementation of the Two-State Solution in June 2025.

There cannot be sustainable peace without a long-lasting solution to the root causes of the conflict. And the Palestinians in Gaza and the West Bank and the Israeli population all deserve a just and lasting peace.

The President: I thank Mr. Egeland for his briefing.

I shall now make a statement in my capacity as the representative of Algeria.

I extend my deepest gratitude to Commissioner-General Philippe Lazzarini and Mr. Jan Egeland for their briefings that underscore, once again, how vital the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is, not only for the Palestinian people, but for the entire region. Through them, I also thank the entire humanitarian community, which continues to give so selflessly in support of the Palestinian people, especially in Gaza. Those heroes risk their lives every day, and, tragically, Gaza has become the deadliest conflict for humanitarian workers. It is our duty, as the global community, to protect them and create an environment that allows them to continue their life-saving work in safety and security.

For more than 75 years, UNRWA has been a lifeline for the Palestinian people. Whether the issue is birth, education, healthcare, food assistance or employment, UNRWA has been an integral part of their lives. For generations of Palestinians, UNRWA is not just an agency, it is life itself. That role was especially crucial during the 15 months of Israel's aggression against the Palestinian people in Gaza. UNRWA is the backbone of the humanitarian response, and its role remains essential under the ceasefire as the efforts to address the urgent needs of the Palestinian people continue.

For Palestinians, the humanitarian community and the international community, UNRWA is irreplaceable. UNRWA is indispensable. Without UNRWA, who would provide the 9,500 daily health consultations that the Agency currently offers? Who would provide 1 million people with the critical mental-health and psychological support that UNRWA offers? Who would provide food to the 388,000 families whose survival depends on UNRWA? Who would deliver the vital water, sanitation and hygiene services that UNRWA currently provides, accounting for approximately 44 per cent of those services? Who would ensure that 660,000 Palestinian children return to learning in UNRWA schools, which are their only opportunity for education? It is clear that halting UNRWA's operations would be a death sentence for Palestinians, particularly the most vulnerable among them — the refugees.

Attacks on UNRWA and disinformation campaigns against the Agency are not new. The Agency has been under destructive assault since its inception. Why? Because it symbolizes the Palestinian refugees and their right to return — a right that no one can seriously deny. Palestinian refugees, like all refugees around the world, possess that inalienable right. The question of UNRWA's neutrality has been raised time and time again. However, as the Colonna report confirms, UNRWA "possesses a more developed approach to neutrality than other similar UN or NGO entities." Despite those irrefutable facts, UNRWA continues to face serious attacks and allegations. Algeria believes that any such allegations should be independently and thoroughly investigated. We must not let false claims undermine the crucial role that UNRWA plays in the lives of millions of Palestinians.

The international law is clear. On the one hand, the Israeli occupying Power has the responsibility and the obligation to ensure the humane treatment of the Palestinian population and meet all their needs. On the other, it does not have sovereign rights over the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem — a principle upheld by article 47 of the Fourth Geneva Convention. In addition, UNRWA, as mandated by the General Assembly, acts on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations. The collective will of the international community cannot simply be disregarded by any Member of the United Nations, including the occupying Power. Furthermore, UNRWA's headquarters in Jerusalem enjoy immunity under the 1946 Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations. The laws recently enacted by the Knesset and the orders issued, which threaten the very existence of UNRWA, are therefore a clear violation of international law. We must stand united in opposition to those laws and call for their reversal, as they threaten not only the rights of Palestinian refugees but the very fabric of the international order.

The very existence of the Palestinian people in their homeland relies on the services provided by UNRWA. To halt its activities would serve the destructive plan aimed at erasing the presence of Palestinians between the river and the sea. Our responsibility is to support UNRWA and ensure that Palestinians are provided with the means to survive in their homeland, with dignity and hope for a better future. To that end, UNRWA's mandate must continue until we see the establishment of a Palestinian State, with East Jerusalem as its capital.

I resume my functions as President of the Council.

I shall now give the floor to those members of the Council who wish to make statements.

Ms. Shea (United States of America): I thank Commissioner-General Philippe Lazzarini and Secretary General Jan Egeland for their briefings.

The United States is strongly committed to implementing the ceasefire agreement so that the hostages can return home and the people of Gaza can look towards a brighter future under new leadership. We must never forget the lives taken, as a result of the brutal Hamas terrorist attack on 7 October 2023 and the horrors endured by countless innocent people in the war that followed. Hamas can no longer be allowed to play spoiler on behalf of the Palestinians — not after it started this conflict through its horrific attack and its deplorable behaviour.

We have seen Hamas cynically weaponize the suffering of Palestinians by using civilian infrastructure, such as schools and hospitals, to store caches of weapons, house fighters and coordinate attacks. We are concerned about reports that returned Israeli hostages were held by Hamas in United Nations facilities during their prolonged captivity in Gaza. It is vital for a full and independent investigation to assess those very serious allegations. Unfortunately, that follows a pattern of serious allegations on the misuse of United Nations facilities — particularly facilities belonging to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) — by Hamas terrorists.

Today's briefing focuses on Israel's laws, set to go into effect on 30 January, that may impact UNRWA activities and prohibit contact between Israeli officials and UNRWA. It is Israel's sovereign decision to close UNRWA's offices in Jerusalem on 30 January. The United States supports the implementation of that decision. Exaggerating the effects of the laws and suggesting that they will force the entire humanitarian response to halt, as UNRWA has done, is irresponsible and dangerous. What is needed is a nuanced discussion about how we can ensure that there is no interruption in the delivery of humanitarian aid and essential services.

UNRWA has never been the only option for providing humanitarian assistance in Gaza. Many other agencies have experience and expertise to do this work and have done this work. UNRWA's work has been tainted and its credibility questioned due to the staff's terrorist ties to Hamas, exposed as a result of Hamas' 7 October attack.

Now is the time to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need throughout Gaza, in accordance with the ceasefire deal the United States, Qatar and Egypt secured. We urge countries to support this effort through additional funding and resources to help quickly scale up and distribute much-needed humanitarian aid. We must ensure that Hamas or other terrorist groups are not permitted to seize, divert or profit from that assistance — and that any such actions are reported immediately and the group held accountable. Gaza must be fully demilitarized to provide a brighter future for the Palestinian people. Hamas should have no role in its governance.

The region has suffered for too long from the nefarious influence of Iran and its terrorist proxies, who have exerted undue influence and destabilized the region for decades. As a result of the ceasefire, the countries of the Middle East have an historic opportunity to reshape their region in a way that affords its people a better path forward, one in which Israel is fully integrated with its neighbours under the banner of the Abraham Accords. The United States will do its part to help create that future.

Mrs. Rodrigues-Birkett (Guyana): I thank you, Mr. President, for organizing this important briefing. I also express Guyana's appreciation to Mr. Philippe Lazzarini, United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) Commissioner-General, and to Mr. Jan Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council, for the valuable information and perspectives provided. Today we pay a tribute to all humanitarian workers in Gaza and, given the focus of today's meeting, to Commissioner-General Lazzarini and the staff of UNRWA, in particular, for their unwavering commitment and service in the face of immense challenges.

As I said a few weeks ago (see S/PV.9793), UNRWA is now at a critical crossroads, with extremely difficult prospects ahead of it, in the light of the entry into force of certain aspects of the legislation adopted by the Israeli Knesset in October. The international community, including the General Assembly and Security Council, must do everything in its power to safeguard UNRWA's role in the occupied Palestinian territory. Dismantling the Agency's operations will have catastrophic consequences for the hundreds of thousands of Palestinians who depend on the Agency's services. That is especially true at this time, when Palestinians are seeking to recover from 15 months of brutal war and hardship.

On this latter note, Guyana notes the unfolding developments in the Gaza Strip following the activation of the ceasefire agreement on 19 January. We are pleased that the supply of humanitarian aid into Gaza has been ramped up with hundreds of trucks — including UNRWA's — having entered since the start of the ceasefire. As a demonstration of its capacity to mobilize quickly and on a large scale, UNRWA brought in enough food to Gaza in four days to feed 1 million people. In fact, as Commissioner General Lazzarini noted, 60 per cent of all food that came into Gaza since the start of the ceasefire has come in through UNRWA.

Guyana urges that the parties continue to uphold their obligation to ensure the rapid, safe, unhindered and sustained delivery of humanitarian aid to civilians in need. Palestinians in Gaza must receive our full support in order to enable them to rebuild their lives and livelihoods, and all impediments to that end must be removed. As international attention is pivoted towards recovery and reconstruction in Gaza, it is critical to keep in view the broader question of justice for the Palestinians in the light of what they have experienced over the past seven decades, especially during the brutal war of the past 15 months. Record numbers have been killed and injured, and over 90 per cent of all infrastructure, including homes and other critical infrastructure, have been damaged or destroyed, with piles of rubble as far as the eye can see. Yet yesterday alone we witnessed a throng of more than 200,000 Palestinians returning to their homes in North Gaza, and more will follow.

They know the likelihood of finding their homes intact is almost zero. But they also know that this is their home, this is their land, even if flattened. As the famous Latin American poet Pablo Neruda wrote, “you can cut all the flowers, but you cannot prevent spring from coming”.

Even amid the more than 50 million tons of rubble, it is this spring — this hope for a new day in an independent State of their own, with the drums of war silenced — that lies in the heart of every Palestinian and fuels their unparalleled resilience. Guyana therefore urges respect for the right of Palestinians to their territory, in line with the pre-1967 borders, and calls on the international community to protect that right and reject any suggestions of involuntary resettlement.

An effectively functioning UNRWA is also part of a just response to the plight of Palestinians in Gaza. We are all aware of the massive efforts that would be required for relief, reconstruction and recovery in Gaza. UNRWA is the only agency that has the capacity and experience to facilitate the delivery of services to Gazans, both in the near and long term, at the required scale. Guyana therefore calls on the Government of Israel to refrain from taking any action with respect to UNRWA that would further jeopardize the situation of Palestinians in the occupied Palestinian territory. We also call on Israel to uphold its international legal obligations to that end, including those related to the privileges and immunities of United Nations agencies.

While Palestinians are attempting to begin the recovery process in Gaza, the developments in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem, are alarming. Guyana condemns in the strongest terms the increasing violence in the occupied West Bank, which is leading to a deterioration of humanitarian and security conditions there. We urge all parties, including the Israeli security forces, to cease all violations of the rights of Palestinians in the West Bank. We also urge Israel to refrain from all actions that could potentially undermine the ceasefire in Gaza and lead to renewed conflagrations in the region.

In the context of the evolving situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, Guyana highlights the following points.

First, all efforts should be focused on ensuring that the ceasefire in Gaza continues to hold, including after its first phase. We urge the parties to continue to negotiate in good faith, prioritizing the well-being of civilians and the achievement of a permanent ceasefire.

Secondly, all attempts to unilaterally dismantle UNRWA must cease. As has been said before, it is the General Assembly that created UNRWA’s mandate. It is therefore only the General Assembly that can alter or terminate that mandate. Israel is obligated to cooperate with the United Nations to ensure that the needs of Palestinian refugees are met as long as that question remains unresolved.

Thirdly, the cycle of uncertainty, flux and violence to which Palestinians have been subject can only be brought to an end with the implementation of the two-State solution. Guyana urges Council members, in particular those with influence, to exert every effort to move the needle on the implementation of the two-State solution. We cannot stick to the old ways of doing things if we are getting no results. The people of Palestine deserve much more. Guyana urges all Council members to work together to ensure that the upcoming June conference yields concrete results for the Palestinian people.

Allow me to conclude by reiterating Guyana’s full commitment to contributing to a better and peaceful future for Palestinians. We acknowledge UNRWA’s critical role in that endeavour and express our full support for the Agency and for doing everything possible to ensure that it can continue to fulfil its mandate in the occupied Palestinian territory.

Mr. Sekeris (Greece): I would also like to thank Mr. Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), and Mr. Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council, for their detailed and sobering briefings.

The greatness of humankind is not in being human, but in being humane. UNRWA, a United Nations Agency with more than 75 years of first-hand experience of supporting the Palestinians in the Near East, has shown its compassion and discharged its duties in more than one way. It has provided vital humanitarian support to millions and delivered primary health services, education and shelter. Greece is gravely concerned that pain and suffering in Gaza are still present after 15 months of destruction. That is a deeply alarming fact, especially if we take into account the loyalty, devotion and commitment of UNRWA to alleviating the suffering of the population. At this critical moment, UNRWA's role is pivotal and irreplaceable. Its valuable work should not be undermined. Greece proudly continues to support UNRWA, especially at its darkest hour. We have recently renewed our voluntary contribution and voted in favour of the relevant General Assembly resolution in December 2024 (General Assembly resolution ES-10/25). At the same time, we are deeply concerned about the attacks on UNRWA's personnel. Humanitarian workers must be protected at all times, in line with international humanitarian law.

Just a few days ago, we all welcomed, with relief, the ceasefire agreement — a deal that offers a unique opportunity to replace despair with hope. For that to happen however, UNRWA must be allowed to play its part in the unimpeded distribution of humanitarian aid and reconstruction. Any “day after” scenario in the Gaza Strip should be written with its substantial support and expertise. And while there is hope for the future, there is literally power in the present. UNRWA has the power to deliver in the present — the power to protect the basic rights of thousands of people in Gaza, including children. That power lies within UNRWA, as the cornerstone of all humanitarian assistance in the Strip.

In that regard, the international community should remain committed to the continued support of the Agency. In that context, we call on Israel to reconsider the implementation of the legislation, as it will obstruct UNRWA's capacity to operate within its mandate throughout the occupied Palestinian territory. We fully understand Israel's concerns, and in that respect, we believe that the full implementation of the recommendations of the Colonna report, in combination with the principle of neutrality, remains crucial. At the same time, the ceasefire agreement offers an opportunity for UNRWA and Israel to work together so that the Agency can continue to provide its essential services.

In conclusion, allow me to stress that the only long-term solution for the region is to revitalize the political process to pave the way for a political horizon for a two-State solution, according to the relevant Security Council resolutions, while recognizing the right of Israel to exist in peace and security. As a founding member of the United Nations, Greece strongly believes that United Nations agencies embody our collective hope for a peaceful, secure and prosperous world. They provide lifeline support in regions where thousands of lives are put at risk. Their service to humankind is therefore invaluable. After all, it should be remembered that there is no higher religion than human service. To work for the common good is the greatest creed. UNRWA can work for the common good in Gaza and deliver that service.

Mr. Nebenzia (Russian Federation) (spoke in Russian): We would like to thank the Algerian delegation for convening today's briefing on the issue of the fate of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in the context of the ban on its activities in the occupied Palestinian territory following the Knesset laws, which are supposed to enter formally into force in the next few days. We thank the Commissioner-General, Mr. Philippe Lazzarini, for his frank assessment and Mr. Jan Egeland for his briefing.

Recently, the Security Council has discussed the situation surrounding the steps taken by Israel to ban UNRWA on numerous occasions. Council members have consistently and unequivocally condemned West Jerusalem's efforts to wreck the Agency, which, as we all understand, is absolutely indispensable for Gazans and the West Bank. That has also been confirmed by the most recent United Nations reports, which indicate that it is precisely UNRWA that provides a significant share of the aid distributed to the population there, including the large quantities of aid that began to flow into the enclave following the deal reached between Israel and Hamas. What is of great help here is the Agency's experience, its far-reaching system for providing humanitarian assistance and its infrastructure, which has been established over decades. And yet today virtually all residents of the Gaza Strip can be characterized as falling into the most vulnerable category of the population, and UNRWA, as its own workers admit, is practically the only source of support they have left.

Despite all that, however, it is clear that Israel is dead set on stripping UNRWA of the ability to carry out its core function, which will deprive the Gazans of the only lifeline they have. That is despite the fact that we never saw any substantiated evidence to prove Israeli's allegations regarding the Agency's non-compliance with the principle of neutrality and the involvement of 19 UNRWA staff in the ruthless attack by Hamas on 7 October 2023. Moreover, no accusations could serve as grounds for banning UNRWA's work, as the Agency was established not by Israel but by a decision taken by the entire international community back in 1949 (General Assembly resolution 302 (IV)).

We have repeatedly emphasized that the Israeli laws not only violate the norms of international law, including the Charter of the United Nations, the fourth Geneva Convention and the relevant General Assembly decisions, but also contradict the conditions for Israel joining the United Nations back in 1949, which include the compliance with and implementation of two flagship General Assembly resolutions — resolution 181 (II) on the Palestine Plan of Partition and resolution 194 (III) on Palestinian refugees. Moreover, Israel's ban on the Agency's activities and its revocation of UNRWA's privileges and immunities are at odds with the purposes and principles of the United Nations. They constitute a flagrant violation by West Jerusalem of its international legal obligations, including those stemming from the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations. No State has the right to unilaterally deprive United Nations entities and personnel of their privileges and immunities. Such an approach renders meaningless the very notion of privileges and immunities, a notion that is supposed to ensure that international civil servants are able to discharge their duties unhindered.

In view of that, the Secretary-General should take a more decisive stance, given that a flagrant violation of the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations is clear in that instance. A delay in the launch of a dispute settlement procedure only encourages further violations by Israel, which is getting confirmation of its total impunity. We deem it necessary for the International Court of Justice to consider the UNRWA file as part of the request for a third advisory opinion on Israel's obligations in relation to the diplomatic and United Nations presence in the occupied Palestinian territory. In addition, the second advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice, dated 19 July 2024, on the Legal consequences arising from the policies and practices of Israel in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem (see A/78/968), ruled that "Israel is not entitled to sovereignty over or to exercise sovereign powers in any part of the Occupied Palestinian Territory". The same applies to Israel's ban on UNRWA activities.

On top of the tragedy unfolding before our very eyes, the Agency is confronting the very real threat of its physical annihilation. In the 15 months of conflict, 273 UNRWA personnel have been killed — that is the highest personnel loss figure for the United Nations in its entire history. More than 200 UNRWA facilities have been destroyed, dozens of UNRWA personnel have been arbitrarily detained, and there are reports that they have been tortured. We condemn all acts of violence against United Nations personnel. We abhor attempts to use force to block the Agency's work in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem.

Israel would not dare to defy the international community and violate international law so brazenly were it not for the absolute and unconditional military and economic support of the United States. Throughout the 15 months of escalation of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, Washington has supplied Israel with weapons used to kill Palestinian civilians and prevented the adoption of any Security Council resolutions that would have disrupted Israel's implementation of its plans in Gaza. The United States is also blocking any attempts to craft collective Security Council measures to defend UNRWA. Therefore, it would not be an exaggeration to say that the blame for what is happening surrounding the Agency falls squarely on the shoulders of the United States as well. And that is precisely what we heard today from the United States representative — it was crystal clear. According to the United States, Israel apparently has the right to shut down the UNRWA office in Jerusalem. How does that square with international law? The answer is that it does not. That is a clear example of the so-called “rules-based international order”, which, for the United States, is a replacement for international law. We call on our colleagues in Washington to come to their senses and exert the necessary pressure on West Jerusalem to avoid further suffering on the part of Palestinian civilians.

For our part, we reaffirm our readiness to participate in developing any United Nations initiatives, including within the Security Council, aimed at maintaining UNRWA's presence in the occupied Palestinian territory and at ensuring the safety of its personnel. We support the calls made on Israel by the Secretary-General and the UNRWA Commissioner-General, and we demand that Israel uphold its international legal obligations and repeal the legislation mentioned. It is important to bear in mind that the implementation of the laws banning UNRWA activities will deal a serious blow to the prospects of a ceasefire, one that we all have a stake in and that is already fragile.

In conclusion, we would like to express the unwavering support of Russia and Russian civil society for UNRWA. Not long ago, an international public fund — the Russian Peace Foundation — nominated UNRWA for the 2025 Nobel Peace Prize. We believe that that is a timely step that deserves broad international support, given UNRWA's irreplaceable role in Gaza and its principled position, for which 273 UNRWA personnel paid with their lives while discharging their duties.

Mr. De Rivière (France) (spoke in French): I thank the Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and the Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council for their briefings.

I would like to reaffirm France's full support for UNRWA and its Commissioner-General. Since October 2023 and the terrorist attacks carried out by Hamas, UNRWA has been on the front lines in bringing relief to the civilian population of the enclave, and 272 UNRWA staff have died in the line of duty during that period.

Since 29 October 2024, France has deplored the adoption by the Israeli Parliament of two laws targeting UNRWA (see S/PV.9763). Their implementation would deprive hundreds of thousands of civilians of essential shelter, healthcare, education and food aid in Gaza and the occupied Palestinian territories. We call on the Israeli authorities to respect their obligations vis-à-vis that United Nations Agency and its international and local staff.

There is no credible alternative to UNRWA. The Agency plays an essential humanitarian role, but it also provides public services, and it does so at one third of the cost of other United Nations agencies. UNRWA is therefore part of the solution in Gaza and the rest of the occupied territories. The ceasefire agreement continues to be implemented. Aid must therefore be delivered on a massive scale, reconstruction work must begin without delay and Gaza's children must be allowed to return to their schools, which are run by UNRWA. All Palestinians must also have access to the health infrastructure operated by the Agency. UNRWA therefore plays an essential stabilizing role not only in the Gaza Strip, but also in Jerusalem and the West Bank and in the host countries. It is therefore in Israel's interest, not least in that of its own security, that UNRWA should be able to operate without hindrance.

France will continue to be a partner of UNRWA in 2025, as it has been since its establishment by a sovereign decision of the General Assembly in 1949. At the humanitarian conference on 2 December 2024, France announced a new contribution of €50 million for the population of Gaza in 2025, including €20 million for UNRWA. France will also continue to ensure that the reforms needed to ensure the neutrality of the Agency's actions are implemented, particularly the recommendations of the Colonna report.

If UNRWA still exists 75 years after its establishment, that is because the international community has not yet been able to resolve the Palestinian question. It is essential to set in motion an irreversible process for the effective implementation of the two-State solution. The Gaza Strip must be part of a future Palestinian State. Hamas must be prevented from regaining a foothold in the enclave, and we must therefore prepare for the return of the Palestinian Authority, which is responsible for administering the territory. In order to make progress towards a two-State solution, France and Saudi Arabia will co-chair an international conference in New York in June. We call on the Israelis and Palestinians to take the only path that will guarantee them a future of peace and security.

Mr. George (Sierra Leone): I thank Algeria for requesting this meeting, supported by Somalia, with a focus on the work of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA). I also thank Mr. Philippe Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of the Agency, and Mr. Jan Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council, for their comprehensive and sobering briefings.

Sierra Leone notes the extraordinary commitment demonstrated by UNRWA in providing life-saving and critical support to the Palestinian people, particularly in the past 15 months, and we pay tribute to the 269 personnel who have lost their lives since the start of the conflict in the Gaza Strip. We express our deepest condolences to the families and stand in solidarity with those adversely affected.

Since it was established by General Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 1949, UNRWA has been a beacon of hope for Palestinian refugees, who continue to endure untold suffering in the occupied territory and even abroad. The Agency's direct relief and works programme — the provision of education, primary healthcare and social services to millions of Palestinians across Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem — is a testament to its long-standing commitment to the welfare and human development of Palestine refugees. Notwithstanding the challenges that UNRWA has faced in the past 15 months, owing to the prolonged hostilities, direct strikes on its installations, shelters and facilities, and the insecurity of its workers, its resilience in continuing to deliver at scale and provide adequate humanitarian assistance and direct services to civilians in the Gaza Strip and its other areas of operation has been remarkable.

It is therefore concerning to note that recent developments pertaining to the discrediting of UNRWA, and the two laws enacted by the Israeli Knesset with regard to UNRWA's operation in the occupied Palestinian territory, will only worsen the already catastrophic living conditions of millions of Palestinians and undermine international humanitarian efforts. While we welcome the ceasefire agreement between Israel and Hamas and are keenly monitoring its implementation, we remain disturbed by the increased suffering of the Palestinian people and the disruptions in United Nations humanitarian operations that are likely to occur if UNRWA, the backbone of the humanitarian response in the Gaza Strip, is restricted or forced to cease its operations in the occupied Palestinian territory as a result of those laws. In that regard, Sierra Leone would like to make the following observations.

First, we acknowledge UNRWA's vital role as the mainstay of humanitarian response services to Palestine refugees. We emphasize that it cannot be replaced by any other agency or entity, as the work that it does for Palestinians in the Gaza Strip and across the wider region is life-saving and immeasurable. As the Secretary-General stated in his response to the General Assembly on the implementation of Assembly resolution ES-10/26, UNRWA provides irreplaceable services — from protection and education to healthcare — to millions of Palestinians, and essential logistical and infrastructural support to the entire humanitarian system. Without UNRWA, the humanitarian response would risk collapse, further compounding the already catastrophic situation experienced by civilians in Gaza. Over the years, the Agency has developed dynamic structures and systems that support the unique needs of the large and widespread vulnerable population that it serves in the occupied Palestinian territories and across several other countries. As tens of thousands of displaced Palestinians return home to northern Gaza to rebuild and restart their lives, we remain mindful of UNRWA's role in Gaza's reconstruction and recovery plan, including the provision of education to 650,000 children and the 17,000 medical consultations administered daily through its primary healthcare services.

Secondly, we note with serious concern the communication from the Secretary-General in identical letters addressed to the Presidents of the General Assembly and the Security Council (S/2025/18), bringing to their attention the two laws of the Knesset of Israel enacted on 28 October 2024 and further outlining UNRWA's role in the occupied Palestinian territory, as established in Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 1949. The Secretary-General's letters and the various briefings on the subject have established that the implementation of those laws would run contrary to Security Council and General Assembly resolutions and rulings of the International Court of Justice, with serious humanitarian consequences for Palestinian civilians. We therefore call on Israel to reconsider its decision to implement those laws.

Thirdly, we welcome General Assembly resolution 79/232 of 19 December 2024, seeking legal clarity from the International Court of Justice through an advisory opinion on Israel's obligations in relation to the presence and activities of the United Nations, other international organizations and third States in, and in relation to, the occupied Palestinian territory. While we await the determination of the Court, we are also of the view that the full implementation of those laws could have implications for Israel under international law and international humanitarian law, including the provisions of the Fourth Geneva Convention.

In addition, we note UNRWA's efforts to implement through its high-level action plan the 50 specific, time-bound and sequenced recommendations contained in the Colonna report on the independent review of mechanisms and procedures to ensure the Agency's adherence to the humanitarian principles of neutrality. We also invite the Agency to continue such actions in line with the principles of international law.

Establishing trust in UNRWA's organizational capacity, especially with regard to the principle of neutrality in all its operations, continues to be a priority for the United Nations and the Council at this pivotal time. In that regard, we fully support the timely implementation of the recommendations in the report, especially those relating to frequent and effective communications with donor countries on UNRWA's operations and financial management, including through formal meetings with the United Nations.

Sierra Leone appeals for adequate, predictable and sustained support for UNRWA's operational and financial capacity and its services until a just and lasting political solution to the plight of Palestinian refugees is found. We note with concern media reports of a communication from Israel informing the Secretary-General that UNRWA is required to cease its operations in Jerusalem and evacuate all the premises on which it operates in the city no later than 30 January.

As the Council supports the efforts to ensure that the ongoing cessation of hostilities will peacefully transition into a permanent ceasefire that will enable a resumption of political dialogue, it is incumbent on us to seek an urgent solution to this unfortunate impasse so that Israel reconsiders its implementation of the two laws and UNRWA's East Jerusalem headquarters will not be taken over but will be retained as an integral central coordination point for humanitarian support and reconstruction efforts for the Palestinian people. We must work swiftly for a solution that provides demonstrable assurances that UNRWA has in place effective neutrality mechanisms and procedures that enable it to provide its essential services to millions of Palestinians, in strict compliance with the robust UNRWA neutrality framework that was developed in 2017 and has since been updated as a result of the Colonna report.

Sierra Leone remains committed to all efforts towards a lasting peace, guided by the principles of the two-State solution, with Israel and Palestine living side by side in peace, security, stability and dignity.

Mr. Kariuki (United Kingdom): I thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini and Secretary General Egeland of the Norwegian Refugee Council for briefing us today.

I also offer our condolences, again, for all United Nations and humanitarian staff who have been killed in this conflict, including 273 members of Philippe's team.

After 15 months of conflict, we now stand at a rare moment of hope for Palestinians and Israelis. Thanks to the tireless efforts of the United States, Qatar and Egypt, we have a ceasefire deal that has seen seven hostages reunited with their families and an end to the violence in Gaza, which has claimed so many Palestinian lives. We cannot and must not forget the suffering that has brought us to this moment: lives brutally cut short by Hamas; and men, women and children abducted from their families — many of whom are still being held while their loved ones suffer in anguish. The conflict has also seen more than 47,000 Palestinians killed. At least 35,000 children are thought to have lost one or both parents, and an estimated 20 per cent of the population has been left with lifelong disabilities. The levels of destruction in Gaza are beyond belief. We must turn the page on the cycle of violence. I want to highlight key actions to support that.

It is vital that we now see the release of all remaining hostages and a sustained ceasefire to allow us to move from phase one of the agreement through to further phases. Only then can we achieve a lasting peace. We welcome reports that there has been an increase in humanitarian aid into Gaza. That needs to be sustained and complemented by much-needed supplies of commercial goods. To support that effort, my Minister for Development has today announced a further $21 million in funding to ensure that healthcare, food and shelter reach tens of thousands of civilians and to support vital infrastructure across the occupied Palestinian territories.

However, the implementation of Knesset legislation on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) risks upending that humanitarian response and threatening the fragile and hard-won gains made through the ceasefire deal. The vital work of UNRWA in ensuring that Palestinians have access to education and healthcare must also be protected in Gaza, as well as in the West Bank and East Jerusalem. Those represent the most fundamental of human rights.

For that reason, the United Kingdom once again urges Israel to ensure that UNRWA can continue its life-saving operations and provision of essential services across the occupied Palestinian territories. We call on Israel to work urgently with international partners, including the United Nations, so that there is no disruption to that vital work. Israel is obligated under international law to facilitate humanitarian assistance by all means at its disposal. We stand ready to work alongside Israel, the United Nations and our partners to assist.

We also call on UNRWA to continue to deliver on its commitment to neutrality. Implementation of reforms to strengthen its neutrality remain critical. We welcome UNRWA's commitment to fully investigating any allegations against their employees and to continuing to implement the Colonna report's recommendations. We have earmarked more than $1.2 million of our funding to UNRWA to support their implementation.

The United Kingdom will play its full part in the coming days and weeks to seize the opportunity of the ceasefire for a better future and to ensure that it leads to a credible pathway towards a two-State solution, whereby Israelis and Palestinians can live side by side in peace.

Ms. Lassen (Denmark): Let me also thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini and Secretary General Egeland for their important and sobering briefings. Let me, through our briefers, extend our gratitude to the entire humanitarian community, who are working selflessly to alleviate the situation in Gaza, and express our condolences and regret for the many humanitarians and United Nations workers killed.

We are just two days away from the Israeli legislation on the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) coming into effect. As we have heard today, UNRWA's role far exceeds the crucial humanitarian role it currently plays in Gaza. For the past 75 years, UNRWA has provided Palestinian refugees with essential government-like services, such as education and primary healthcare, which have aided generations of Palestinian refugees in Gaza and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, as well as the wider region.

Since Hamas' brutal terrorist attack against Israel and the conflict in Gaza that followed, UNRWA has been the lifeline for civilians in Gaza. Under extremely difficult circumstances, the Agency has kept Palestinians alive by delivering food to a population on the verge of famine, shelter to 400,000 persons who have been repeatedly displaced, primary healthcare to 1.6 million people and water to 600,000 people. UNRWA plays a critical role in the entire humanitarian aid operation in Gaza. Other humanitarian organizations and United Nations agencies rely on it for infrastructure, staff, common services and last-mile support. Without UNRWA, civilians in Gaza risk losing a vital safety net, and Palestinian refugees in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, risk losing their access to basic services — basic services that UNRWA has a unique mandate from the General Assembly to deliver to Palestinian refugees until a two-State solution is realized. We note that the Secretary-General, in his letter of 8 January, emphasized that “there is currently no realistic alternative to UNRWA that could adequately provide the services and assistance required by Palestine refugees in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem” (S/2025/18, p. 3).

All of this is taking place in the context of the recent ceasefire in Gaza. We welcome the long-awaited ceasefire, which must allow for an acceleration of the delivery of aid, proper medical care and emergency shelter, a resumption of basic services and the vital clearance of unexploded ordnance and rubble. At this critical time, UNRWA is needed more than ever and is equipped and ready to deliver. As the occupying Power, Israel has a clear obligation under international humanitarian law to ensure that Palestinians have access to basic services and to ensure the protection of the civilian population.

Regarding the allegations about the involvement of UNRWA staff in Hamas' horrific attack on 7 October 2023, we welcome the prompt reply and prompt follow-up by the Secretary-General and Commissioner-General Lazzarini. We welcome the important steps taken by UNRWA to implement internal reforms to ensure neutrality and the recent update on the implementation of the Colonna recommendations in that regard. We continue to follow the implementation closely and urge UNRWA to exercise maximum care in its operations.

In conclusion, following 15 months of devastating war, the recent ceasefire has finally offered hope — hope that hundreds of thousands of Gazan civilians could receive the help that they need. It is therefore distressing that at this critical moment, when the international community can massively scale up its support, the Knesset laws on UNRWA are kicking in. Now is the time to commit to a lasting peace and to a two-State solution in which Palestinians and Israelis alike can live in peaceful coexistence. Without UNRWA, millions of Palestinians risk losing access to basic services. Without UNRWA, the situation in the region may be further destabilized, jeopardizing all the prospects for a two-State solution.

Mr. Akram (Pakistan): Pakistan thanks Algeria for convening this timely meeting to address the difficult situation that the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) is facing. We also thank Commissioner-General Philippe Lazzarini and Secretary General Jan Egeland for their comprehensive and sobering briefings, which highlight the urgent need for international action to provide humanitarian assistance and safeguard UNRWA's humanitarian mission in the occupied Palestinian territory, particularly Gaza. We would like to thank all the humanitarian agencies that are working in Gaza to address the catastrophe that the Palestinian people are facing. In particular, UNRWA's role is critical.

After the 15 months of unimaginable death and destruction in Gaza perpetrated by Israel, the ceasefire agreement between Hamas and Israel announced on 15 January offers a glimmer of hope. Pakistan welcomes the agreement and deeply appreciates the mediatory efforts of Egypt, Qatar and the United States. We hope that all stages of the ceasefire agreement will be fully implemented and that the ceasefire will become permanent, along with a full withdrawal of Israeli forces from Gaza and the provision of full, rapid and unhindered humanitarian assistance to the suffering and displaced population of Gaza. We have noted the threats that Israel has made about the possibility of resuming attacks. We are also concerned about the fact that the Security Council has taken no action so far to halt the violence of Israel and Israeli settlers against Palestinians in the West Bank.

As we seek to preserve peace in Gaza and the West Bank, we should help the Palestinians develop a comprehensive plan for the provision of adequate humanitarian assistance and the reconstruction of Gaza, as envisaged in resolution 2735 (2024), and mobilize adequate international resources for its implementation. UNRWA's role remains critical to the implementation of the ceasefire, the provision of adequate humanitarian assistance and the reconstruction of Gaza. For more than seven decades, UNRWA has been a beacon of hope for millions of Palestinian refugees across the region. Allowing it to be dismantled would undermine the ceasefire agreement and derail any chance of Gaza's recovery and political transition. With its extensive network of schools, healthcare facilities and humanitarian services, UNRWA remains unmatched and indispensable in its capacity to provide life-saving assistance, a resumption of education for hundreds of thousands of children and the continued provision of healthcare for millions. It will also be critical to the reconstruction of Gaza.

UNRWA and its heroic personnel have continued to operate within the occupied Palestinian territory, especially Gaza, in the face of attacks targeting them in which 370 of their personnel have perished. The viability and survival of UNRWA is being threatened today by the implementation — I am told within the next 48 hours — of legislation adopted by the Israeli Knesset on 28 October 2024. The legislation, which bans UNRWA's activities, violates the Charter of the United Nations, international law and the advisory opinion of 19 July 2024 of the International Court of Justice (see A/78/968). As the occupying Power, Israel has no right to close down any United Nations facility, in particular UNRWA's office in East Jerusalem, or any other United Nations international facility established in the occupied Palestinian territory under a mandate of the United Nations.

Israel's continued actions defy the international community, as reaffirmed in General Assembly resolutions renewing UNRWA's mandate. Israel's allegations against UNRWA have not been substantiated. That should be clear. The Colonna report does not substantiate those allegations. However, whatever doubts there are should be disproved through a full United Nations investigation. By targeting UNRWA, Israel seeks not only to dismantle the structures that are critical to the provision of humanitarian assistance to the Palestinian people, but to erode the identity of the Palestinian people and the rights that they possess and to undermine their aspirations for justice and peace. As Commissioner-General Lazzarini rightly observed at our previous meeting, allowing a United Nations-mandated Agency to be obstructed by national legislation would make "a mockery of international law and our multilateral system". In his letter dated 9 December 2024 (S/2024/892), the Secretary-General emphasized that as a Member State, Israel is obligated under Article 2, paragraph 5, of the Charter to assist UNRWA in its work. General Assembly resolution 79/232 of 19 December 2024 further underscores that obligation and condemns any Israeli measures that obstruct United Nations and UNRWA operations.

Pakistan is deeply concerned about those actions and stands in resolute solidarity with the Palestinian people. We reaffirm our unwavering support to UNRWA's mission, rooted in General Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 1949, which mandates the Agency to carry out direct relief work for Palestinians pending a just solution to their plight, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 194 (III).

Finally, we must advance an inclusive political process to achieve a two-State solution. That remains the most promising, equitable and feasible framework for durable peace between Israel, the Palestinians and the Arab and Muslim world. Pakistan will work to that end as a member of the Global Alliance for the Implementation of the Two-State Solution. We must resist steps that are designed to extinguish the Palestinians' right to self-determination and statehood. We should instead take steps to make a two-State solution inevitable, including through global recognition of the State of Palestine and its speedy admission as a full member of the United Nations. In that context, we welcome the decision outlined in General Assembly resolution 79/81 to convene a high-level international conference in June, to be hosted by France and Saudi Arabia, where we hope that we will agree on an irreversible path to achieving a two-State solution consistent with United Nations resolutions and international law.

Mr. Fu Cong (China) (spoke in Chinese): I welcome the Algerian presidency's initiative to convene this meeting and thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini and Mr. Egeland for their briefings.

China reiterates its staunch support for the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and its grave concern at the challenges that the Agency has been facing recently as a result of human-made circumstances. We call on Israel to stop restricting and crippling the Agency and not to go ahead with the implementation of the UNRWA-related legislation. We appeal to the international community to maintain its support for the implementation by the Agency of its mandate, for the United Nations and, in particular, for the urgent Security Council actions needed by the Agency.

I wish to make the following points.

First, support for UNRWA is vital to the sanctity of the international rule of law and the authority of the multilateral system. Mandated by a General Assembly resolution (General Assembly resolution 302 (IV)), UNRWA is vested with privileges and immunities and, as such, its dignity, safety, security and facilities should be safeguarded. The way that Israel has been holding the Agency back and holding it down is inconsistent with Israel's obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and international law and sets a harmful precedent with negative consequences that spread far and wide.

Secondly, support for UNRWA is vital to the survival of millions of people in Gaza. The current ceasefire in Gaza provides an opportunity to ease the humanitarian plight there, and the agreement that came into effect on 19 January also includes a commitment to surge humanitarian assistance. More than half of such relief work falls on the shoulders of UNRWA, whose role is indispensable and irreplaceable. Giving UNRWA a hard time flies in the face of its commitment to scale up humanitarian deliveries. Moreover, UNRWA is the one and only education provider in Gaza, and its absence from Gaza's post-conflict reconstruction formula is unthinkable.

Thirdly, support for UNRWA is vital to social stability in the West Bank. UNRWA is an important public service provider in the West Bank and an integral part of its socioeconomic fabric. If UNRWA stopped functioning as it should, such public services as education and healthcare in the West Bank would come to a screeching halt, and many Palestinians would lose their livelihoods and income, dealing a heavy blow to social stability in the West Bank.

Fourthly, support for UNRWA is vital to settling the Palestinian question politically. UNRWA was never meant to be a permanent entity, but before national self-determination is achieved for Palestine and before the two-State solution becomes a reality, UNRWA remains indispensable. Any effort to create conditions whereby UNRWA can conclude its mission must be preceded by discussion on how the international community is going to ramp up its effort to breathe new life into the two-State solution and, together, take a stand against any unilateral moves that undermine that solution, including dangerous attempts to change Gaza's demographic composition and territory in Gaza and to annex the West Bank.

We wish to underscore that the debate over the neutrality of UNRWA has long since concluded. We have the report of the independent review group appointed by the Secretary-General. That report states in no uncertain terms that UNRWA's neutrality is ensured by a significant number of sound mechanisms and procedures. Any misconduct on the part of a small minority must not be construed as reflective of the behaviour of UNRWA as a whole, and neither should any action taken vis-à-vis those individuals be used to detract from the humanitarian nature of the entire Agency. We hope that the countries that point an accusing finger at UNRWA are able to come up with evidence and share that evidence with UNRWA.

Lastly, it would be remiss of me not to repeat that the United Nations in general and the Council in particular have a duty to take urgent actions to ensure that UNRWA is able to do what it is mandated to do, so as not to subject the Gazan population to yet another wave of collective punishment. China is ready to remain part of the tireless collective effort to alleviate human suffering, restore peace between Palestine and Israel and achieve lasting order and stability in the wider region.

Mr. Moscoso (Panama) (spoke in Spanish): We thank you, Mr. President, for convening this meeting, and we welcome the participation of the delegations of Cabo Verde, Egypt, Spain, Iceland, Israel, Jordan, Senegal and the Observer State of Palestine. We also extend our gratitude to the Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), Mr. Lazzarini, and to Mr. Jan Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council, for their valuable reports on the situation of the Agency in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Panama pays tribute to the staff of UNRWA and other humanitarian agencies who have lost their lives in the line of duty and to those who continue to risk their safety in order to help those in greatest need. Their sacrifice attests to the commitment to the fundamental principles of humanity and international humanitarian law, which makes their mandates in such challenging circumstances even more important. Between 7 October 2023 and 19 January 2025, in the 440 days that have passed, the civilian population has paid the highest price, with more than 46,000 dead, tens of thousands wounded and millions displaced. The humanitarian situation in the occupied Palestinian territories remains critical, and access to aid continues to be a challenge in many areas.

Despite efforts to maintain the truce, we note great concern that there are deviations from the ceasefire, including non-compliance by Hamas by not releasing hostages as agreed. That action has had a direct impact on access to humanitarian aid and on the return of displaced persons. Moreover, it erodes trust between the two parties, a trust that it is essential to maintain in order for the long-awaited ceasefire can be implemented.

In that context, UNRWA has played a crucial role, providing assistance to more than 1.6 million people in need by providing, inter alia, food, medical care, psychosocial support and education. The protection of United Nations personnel and facilities must be guaranteed and ensured at all times. Similarly, we believe it necessary to bolster the continued and sustained financing so that life-saving assistance can continue to be brought to Palestinian refugees.

Panama supports the mission of humanitarian agencies and international efforts to alleviate the crisis in the occupied Palestinian territories. We believe it essential to ensure that both humanitarian agencies and non-governmental organizations operate with assurances that neither they nor their workers will be exploited in the context of the conflict. For that reason, we appeal to the international community to bolster the safety of humanitarian workers in order to ensure that they are protected at all times and that humanitarian agencies can continue to comply with their mandate unhindered.

Mrs. Blokar Drobič (Slovenia): We thank Algeria for organizing this debate, and we thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini and Mr. Egeland for their contributions.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) has been at the centre of our discussions for many months now. With its unique mandate, UNRWA is a lifeline for Palestinian refugees, the social fabric of its areas of operation and the backbone of the humanitarian response in Gaza. It has become a factor of regional stability and an expression of our joint commitment to finding a political solution to the conflict. It was established to protect and assist Palestine refugees until a just and lasting solution to their plight was found. The Agency remains essential.

It is for those reasons that we continue calling for the Agency to be strengthened, including through the implementation of the recommendations contained in the Colonna report. It is also for those reasons that Slovenia has spoken against the legislation since it was in the preparatory phase. Slovenia condemned its adoption in October 2024. Its implementation would have catastrophic consequences. Why?

First, that legislation undermines the implementation of the ceasefire agreement. Gaza is an unprecedented humanitarian crisis marking our generation, and UNRWA helps people in Gaza to survive. As the backbone of the humanitarian response, UNRWA is essential to scaling up the delivery of humanitarian aid, including now, with the critical opportunity presented by the ceasefire.

Secondly, the legislation undermines the recovery of Gaza and the quality of life in the occupied Palestinian territory. The people of Gaza have lost far too much. Once the humanitarian situation improves, the role of the Agency will remain essential to the continued provision of government-like services. UNRWA needs to continue helping to provide opportunities for Palestinians to build a better life. The ceasefire is a stepping stone to lasting peace, and UNRWA is crucial to supporting that peace in both the short and long term. UNRWA is indispensable on our path to a two-State solution. But I want to make it clear that as is stipulated in its mandate defined by the General Assembly, it cannot and should not be permanent. Once a political solution is achieved, its services will eventually have to be transferred to the Palestinian Government.

Thirdly, the legislation offers no alternative. There is no alternative to the Agency either in spirit or practice. With regard to claims to the contrary, it is necessary to underline that Israel has not demonstrated that there could be an alternative and has shown clearly that it has no intention of doing so. We will continue to underline Israel's obligations under international humanitarian and international human rights law. The Secretary-General's letter of 9 December 2024 (S/2024/892) is clear. In the event that UNRWA is compelled to cease its activities in the occupied Palestinian territories, it would be left to Israel to ensure that the range of services and assistance that UNRWA has been supplying are provided. Regrettably, we have heard no such assurances from the Israeli Government.

Fourthly, the legislation would undermine the United Nations and the support of Member States for Palestinian refugees. We underline our concern about any attempt to dismantle a United Nations agency and about the potential impact of such action on the work of the United Nations in the field as a whole. UNRWA is an agency that is mandated by a decision of the General Assembly, supported by more than 150 countries that want to help Palestinian refugees and do not want to attack any particular country. That desire on the part of the international community should not be undermined or disregarded by the occupying Power, and the legislation would inevitably shrink the operational space for humanitarian action.

Fifthly, the legislation can affect regional stability. Throughout the decades of its work UNRWA has provided an unmatched scale of services, experience and access, enjoying the trust of the beneficiaries who receive its tailored assistance. That is true for Gaza and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, and it is the case for the other three areas of its operation. After a spiral of violence and escalations, we need to do everything to stabilize this part of the world, not jeopardize it further. Further entrenching the suffering of the Palestinians will not bring us any closer to peace.

Slovenia looks forward to the day when UNRWA's services are no longer needed — a time when Palestinians live in their own State, and both Israelis and Palestinians can coexist peacefully and securely next to one another. However, until that day arrives, the challenges remain urgent, and UNRWA's work remains essential. We once again call on the Israeli Government to refrain from implementing the legislation, as it risks undermining both the progress that has been made and the future that we still hope to build.

Mr. Osman (Somalia): Somalia would like to express its gratitude to the Algerian delegation for convening this vital meeting today. We also want to welcome Commissioner-General Philippe Lazzarini and Secretary General Jan Egeland and to thank them for illuminating the critical situation facing the Palestinian people.

For more than seven decades the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) has been an indispensable lifeline for millions of Palestinian refugees, providing essential services in education, healthcare and social support. Yet today its very existence is under direct threat from recent legislative measures passed by the Israeli Knesset, aimed at restricting UNRWA's operations and undermining its ability to deliver vital services. That cannot be seen as anything other than a deliberate attempt to exacerbate the suffering of an already vulnerable population.

Actions targeting UNRWA's ability to function represent an assault on the basic rights of the millions of refugees who depend on those services for their survival. UNRWA currently supports more than 5.9 million Palestinian refugees across the region. Its education programme alone provides critical schooling for more than 540,000 children, fostering not only education but hope and stability in communities that have seen little of either. Its healthcare services, encompassing primary and emergency care, are vital to the health and welfare of millions of Palestinians. Any disruption to those services not only deepens human suffering, but it also systematically dismantles the infrastructure that enables those communities to survive. Such actions are not only morally indefensible but a blatant violation of international law. They directly contravene Israel's obligations under the Fourth Geneva Convention as an occupying Power to ensure the welfare of the population under its control. No attempt to undermine UNRWA can negate those fundamental legal duties.

Restricting the operations of UNRWA, an agency that has consistently operated with neutrality and transparency, undermines the global efforts to address the root causes of this decades-long crisis and to work towards peace and stability. Where despair grows, so too do the risks of further conflict. As we have seen in other regions of the world experiencing prolonged crises, failing to address basic human needs often leads to the perpetuation of violence and insecurity. We must recognize that the challenges facing Palestinian refugees are not isolated. They resonate across the world, where similar challenges of displacement, access to basic services and conflict-induced vulnerabilities are all too familiar. We must view the issue not only through a humanitarian lens but as a matter of global peace and security. The challenges faced by Palestinian refugees are interconnected with broader stability in the region, and failure to address those issues adequately risks further displacement. In today's interconnected world, the deepening of humanitarian crises can no longer be viewed in isolation.

Moreover, the international community has a moral responsibility to ensure that UNRWA's vital work continues unhindered. We must collectively demand that Israel immediately cease its attempts to restrict the Agency's work and comply fully with its obligations under international law, and we must reaffirm our commitment to ensuring that UNRWA has the resources and political support it needs to continue its essential mission. UNRWA's mission must continue until we achieve a comprehensive political solution — an independent Palestinian State within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital, and with the implementation of refugees' right of return under General Assembly resolution 194 (III). While we welcome the recent ceasefire, which brings hope for millions, it must serve as a stepping stone towards a just and lasting peace, not merely a temporary respite. The international community cannot afford or allow such attacks on a neutral humanitarian agency to succeed. To do so would not only fail the Palestinian refugees but would betray the principles of justice, human rights and accountability that underpin our work.

In conclusion, this is a moment that calls for solidarity and action. The Palestinian cause demands more than temporary solutions. It requires justice and a lasting solution, in particular an end to the occupation of the Palestinian territory and the full recognition of a free, sovereign and independent Palestine, with East Jerusalem as its capital, in accordance with the relevant resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly. Until we achieve that, UNRWA remains an essential lifeline that we must preserve and support.

Mr. Hwang (Republic of Korea): I thank you, Mr. President, for convening this timely meeting. I would also like to thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) and Mr. Egeland of the Norwegian Refugee Council for their briefings.

The current deal on the ceasefire and the release of hostages provides us with a crucial chance to ease the vast humanitarian suffering in Gaza. All possible means of scaling up vital assistance should be mobilized, and we commend the relentless efforts by various United Nations agencies to that end. In that regard, we welcome the recent announcement by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs that large volumes of unhindered humanitarian aid have been entering Gaza since the ceasefire began and that law and order there have also significantly improved.

We particularly recognize the vital role that UNRWA has been playing in the provision of life-saving assistance to Palestinians in Gaza, both during the hostilities and under the ceasefire. Given the urgency of greatly enhancing the volume of humanitarian commodities in Gaza and of transitioning to the daunting reconstruction process, UNRWA's staff, almost all of whom are local Palestinians with expertise, and its logistically important facilities must be harnessed to maximum capacity. We recall that it is Israel's obligation under international humanitarian law to ensure that civilians in Gaza have access to basic necessities. UNRWA, which has delivered 60 per cent of the food entering Gaza since the ceasefire commenced, has been consistent in its commitment to working tirelessly to distribute food and other aid throughout Gaza, despite the killing of 272 of its staff since 7 October 2023 — the heinous terrorist attack by Hamas.

We recognize the crucial role of UNRWA in providing basic services, including healthcare and education, to generations of Palestinian refugees in need, not only in Gaza and the West Bank but also in Lebanon, Syria and Jordan, until a just and lasting solution to the Palestinian question is achieved. In that regard, we also note that the Palestinian refugees registered with UNRWA in neighbouring countries outnumber those registered in Gaza and the West Bank. Any allegations concerning one region of operations should not impede UNRWA's provision of vital services in other regions.

We encourage UNRWA to fully implement measures to uphold the principle of neutrality, as reflected in its high-level action plan for the implementation of the Colonna report's recommendations. We also note that the United Nations has expressed many times its willingness to continue investigating the serious allegations with regard to its personnel, should adequate information be shared regarding possible connections with Hamas.

UNRWA now faces existential challenges in the occupied Palestinian territory, as the implementation of Israeli legislation is imminent and much uncertainty surrounds its exact modalities and impact. We believe that Israel will remain committed to and will fulfil its legal obligations — including those under the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, as expressed in its representative's letter of December 2024 (S/2024/940) — which is related to the fate of UNRWA headquarters in East Jerusalem. We also note the Secretary-General's letter stating Israel has an obligation under Article 2 of the Charter of the United Nations to give the United Nations every assistance in any action it takes (S/2024/892). We hope that Israel will guarantee the necessary conditions for United Nations staff to continue their work, including through administrative measures such as the issuance of proper visas for international staff.

The Republic of Korea has maintained its steadfast support for UNRWA and for all other humanitarian agencies of the United Nations. We will continue to provide both political and financial support to ensure that basic services and humanitarian assistance are provided by the United Nations to Palestinians in need.

The President: I would like to remind everyone that this is an official meeting of the Security Council. I would like also to remind all participants and speakers in today's discussion to engage in the meeting with the utmost respect and to observe appropriate standards of tone, wording and content in their remarks, which should be addressed to the presidency.

I now give the floor to the Permanent Observer of the Observer State of Palestine.

Mr. Mansour (Palestine): I thank you, Mr. President, for organizing this important meeting, and I thank Algeria in that regard. Allow me also to thank Commissioner-General Lazzarini for his remarkable and continued service and, through him, to express our deep appreciation to United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) staff, who have shown great dedication and courage in trying to preserve life in Gaza at the peril of their own. Allow me to furthermore thank Mr. Jan Egeland for his briefing and the Norwegian Refugee Council for its role and, through Mr. Egeland, to thank all the humanitarian organizations that have tried to help the Palestinian people in impossible conditions and at great risk.

United Nations staff and humanitarians deserve to be better protected, and we have a duty to hold accountable those who have shown such disregard for the most fundamental rules of our international law-based order, leaving international humanitarian law in tatters and in immediate need of reinforcement.

Israel has destroyed everything in Gaza — everything except the sacred bond between a people and their land. Their roots run too deep. Their history covers millenniums. The wounds of their Nakba have yet to heal. By the hundreds of thousands, they are going back to the north, from which they were uprooted and expelled by the occupying Power. Yesterday, in two hours, 200,000 Palestinians marched, walking from the south to the north: old men and women, tired and holding canes; small children who had just recently learned to walk; families carrying whatever they could of what remains of who they are; men and women exhausted, bereaved, some injured, finding the energy to take one step after another to reverse this latest forcible displacement; survivors of a genocide fighting against ethnic cleansing. They know that they are returning to find ruins and that their homes have been destroyed, their neighbourhoods have been obliterated and their schools and hospitals have been bombed. They know that all the requirements of life have been deliberately targeted. And yet, still, they went back.

That image tells the Council all that it needs to know about the Palestinian people — that is who we are. That image — an image that conveys their tragedy, their pain and agony, all that they have endured and the wish of Israel to humiliate them and to make them suffer, even as refugees returning to destroyed refugee camps, not to their villages and towns — also demonstrates their resilience, their steadfastness, their inability to surrender and just how much they belong to that land and how much that land belongs to them. That is the Palestinian struggle — a simple dream of living in freedom and dignity in their ancestral land.

Israel thought that, by destroying everything, Palestinians would have to leave. It has often made that miscalculation — and now they are trying again in the refugee camps in Jenin, Tulkarm, Nablus, Tubas and East Jerusalem — that by making our people's lives more miserable, more unbearable and more impossible, it will get rid of the Palestinians. And it is again that miscalculation that is behind Israel's attacks against UNRWA. Israel has been attacking UNRWA long before 7 October 2023, and at that time it did not try to conceal its objectives. It wanted to end the refugee problem, to erase rights that cannot be erased and that are inalienable. The idea is simple: to get rid of the refugees, one has only to try and destroy the Agency serving them. If there is no education, no health and no assistance, they will surrender, they will leave and they will abandon the land and their dream of liberation and return.

UNRWA makes the lives of our people better, but it is not the reason that they have a right of return; it is not what connects them to the land, and it is not their identity, or their refusal to relinquish that identity. Anyone who thinks that peace will be had by destroying, displacing and impoverishing communities is terribly mistaken. UNRWA was created to alleviate the damage that Israel and this prolonged conflict have done to the lives and rights of Palestine refugees — first, to offer emergency assistance and then to offer human development; to restore hope in places of despair; to help people to rebuild their lives; to rebuild communities; and to protect and support in times of crisis and upheaval until a just solution to their plight, as required by equity and justice, as enshrined in United Nations resolutions, including General Assembly resolution 194 (III).

UNRWA's mandate stems from a decision of the international community as a whole, taken more than seven decades ago and renewed with overwhelming support ever since. That mandate, repeatedly renewed by the General Assembly and overwhelmingly reaffirmed — as it was again on 11 December 2023 in General Assembly resolution ES-10/25 — ends once the question of Palestine is resolved in all its aspects, in accordance with international law and the relevant United Nations resolutions. If anything, this latest human-made humanitarian catastrophe and unprecedented crisis demonstrate the urgency of implementing such a solution.

We all refer to UNRWA as the backbone of the humanitarian response in Gaza, forgetting that that was not the Agency's core mandate, but rather its response to unforeseen, tragic events. United Nations staff and humanitarians paid a very high price for their attempts to help a people being deliberately targeted, starved and forcibly displaced. Yet UNRWA continues to possess the personnel capacity and infrastructure to carry out the monumental tasks imposed by the emergency situation on the ground. But UNRWA's long-standing role remains to provide education, primary healthcare and human development opportunities to millions of Palestine refugees across the region — in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem, and in Jordan, Lebanon and Syria. That is UNRWA's mandate on behalf of the international community. None other than the General Assembly can unilaterally alter that mandate, which is imperative for the well-being of millions and for regional stability.

There are two organized forces that can respond to the prevailing disastrous conditions and restore life and hope to the Palestinian people, with the support of the international community: the Palestinian Government and UNRWA. And yet Israel is demanding that everyone forsake them and work around them, setting us all up for failure. The consequences and repercussions will be grave. There is no alternative to the Palestinian Government, and there is no alternative to UNRWA. Israel, which destroyed Gaza and openly aims to get rid of the Palestinian people, does not get to pick and choose who represents the Palestinian people or who represents the United Nations. It does not get to distort the law and the narrative. It does not get to claim some sort of exceptional status that allows it to commit crimes and enjoy impunity.

The problem is not the rules, but the breach thereof; it is not the courts trying to uphold them, but the perpetrators persisting in the commission of crimes; it is not the United Nations, but rather the refusal to do what is necessary to preserve and respect our international law-based order. International law must be upheld, and the advisory opinions and orders indicating provisional measures of the International Court of Justice must be respected. Continuing to allow Israel to act as a State above the law is a recipe for only more conflict and disaster.

In that regard, we reiterate: Israel has absolutely no sovereignty rights in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. Its presence in our territory is unlawful, and this illegal occupation in its entirety must come to an end. The only sovereign in that territory is the Palestinian people. International law is clear in that regard. The Charter is clear in that regard. The determinations of the International Court of Justice are clear in this regard. The Security Council has also been absolutely clear in that regard, most recently in resolution 2334 (2016). The Council must implement its resolutions without exception. Claims that Israel has sovereignty in occupied East Jerusalem and can act accordingly, including with regard to the status of the UNRWA compound — which is United Nations property, covered by the 1946 Convention on Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations — contradict those resolutions, which are binding upon all.

A United Nations member attacking the Organization from within its halls and from within the Chamber, openly attempting to destroy a United Nations agency, killing, maiming and arresting United Nations staff and trying to take over and steal United Nations premises in occupied East Jerusalem after destroying numerous ones in Gaza is a very dangerous precedent. If we allow it to pass, then all agencies will be in danger, and the United Nations will be in danger. The entire international community has come to the defence of UNRWA, at both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The international community has affirmed its trust in how the United Nations responded to the allegations and has maintained that UNRWA was irreplaceable. For months and years now, Israel has tried to create a rift between the Agency and its supporters. We must stand united to defend the Agency, the people whom it serves and what it stands for. Its role is needed today more than ever. Those who are trying to destroy it need to be defeated in that regard.

This is a race against time for life, human development, freedom and peace. Hundreds of thousands of Palestinians headed north, walking north, refusing to wait a single minute, risking their lives yet again. They are the story. Hear it said loud and clear: they are the story. Their long walk to freedom has lasted far too long. How many more years does the Council want us to keep walking for freedom? We have been walking for 80 years. It is our right to have freedom. It is our right to have the implementation of our inalienable rights, including our right to self-determination and statehood and the right of the refugees to return. It is time for them to reach their destination. We will and should reach our destination and soon reach freedom, reach independence and live in dignity in our independent State of Palestine with East Jerusalem as its capital. The world owes us that. It is the Council's obligation to deliver that to us. Since the Council got involved in our case from its inception, it is its duty to complete the exercise by fulfilling our rights — the rights of the Palestinian people.

Hundreds of thousands of Palestinians in refugee camps in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, also continue to rely on UNRWA for their well-being and protection, which are under direct and escalating threats as Israeli occupying forces and settlers intensify their attacks, causing loss of life, destruction of property and further forced displacement. The international community cannot ignore the rising violence and instability and cannot leave Palestinians without protection at this critical moment. We therefore reiterate our standing appeals to the international community to continue its historic accompaniment of our people on this long and painful journey, of which UNRWA has been a central part and must remain a central part until its mandate is fulfilled, with the realization of their rights and a just and peaceful solution that we will overcome all obstacles to achieve. Millions are depending on us, and we must not fail them — the millions of Palestinian refugees.

The President: The presidency of the Security Council gives the floor to the representative of Israel.

Mr. Danon (Israel): I hereby inform the United Nations and the Security Council that the legislation concerning the activities of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) in Israel will officially come into force in 48 hours, on 30 January. In accordance with applicable Israeli law and following the determination on the provisional agreement, UNRWA must cease its operations and evacuate all the premises that it operates in Jerusalem, including the properties located in Maalot Dafna and Kafr Aqueb. The legislation forbids UNRWA from operating within the sovereign territory of the State of Israel and forbids any contact between Israeli officials and UNRWA. Furthermore, UNRWA will be prohibited from maintaining any representative, office, service or activity within our territory. Israel will terminate all collaboration, communication and contact with UNRWA or anyone acting on its behalf.

The decision reflects years of efforts to address the grave accusations raised against UNRWA. The decision also reflects the reality of the situation: that UNRWA has miserably failed in its mandate and failed the people who were supposed to benefit from its services. The decision was not made lightly, nor was it made quickly. It was not a political decision. It was simply a necessary one. It follows decades of betrayal by an agency that has placed political agendas, neglect and cover-ups above humanitarian principles. Put more precisely, the decision was driven by UNRWA's constant refusal to address the widespread infiltration of its ranks by Hamas and other terrorist organizations. It is intolerable for any sovereign State to facilitate the operations of an agency that threatens its national security and blatantly violates its laws. Israel remains committed to its obligations under international law, and we affirm our readiness to cooperate with other United Nations agencies that are untainted by terror and are committed to neutrality and accountability.

It is time for the Council to accept, as we have, that UNRWA has failed. It has failed in every aspect of its mandate and responsibilities, both morally and professionally. It is now undeniable that UNRWA has been irredeemably infiltrated by Hamas. Over the past several months, I have provided dozens of examples, some stretching back decades, of UNRWA's complicity and its employees' participation in terror. Allow me to remind the Council of just a few.

UNRWA is supposed to play a critical role in the education of Palestinians. It has certainly played a role but only a toxic one. In both 2017 and 2021, Israel discovered Hamas terror tunnels running directly under two UNRWA schools in Gaza. As of 2023, when we entered Gaza, we found that those tunnels had remained operational, despite the letters sent and the request made years prior to that. The principals of those schools — Khaled Said Al-Masri and Mohammad Shuwaideh — were confirmed Hamas operatives. Again, that is far from an isolated example. Just last year Israel provided more than 100 names of UNRWA employees who are verified members of Hamas. Unfortunately, and predictably, the claims were dismissed without proper investigation. Perhaps most shockingly, on 7 October 2023 an UNRWA employee kidnapped Jonathan Samerano, an Israeli civilian. That terrorist returned home to a pay cheque signed by Mr. Lazzarini. Mr. Lazzarini signed his pay cheque. He got paid until we took care of him. And all those countries that supported UNRWA paid those terrorists for years. UNRWA has also misused its platform to indoctrinate hatred. Its curriculum has glorified violence, vilified Israel and poisoned generations of Palestinian children against any hope of coexistence. Those actions are not consistent with those of an agency that claims to serve humanitarian purposes. They are the actions of an organization that is complicit in preserving cycles of violence.

Let us speak about the results achieved. UNRWA has failed to deliver on its core mission. After more than 75 years and tens of billions of dollars, there is so little to show for its work. Where was the Palestinian education system before we entered Gaza? Where was the economic infrastructure to support self-reliance before we entered Gaza? Where are the initiatives for refugee resettlement? The answer is clear — they do not exist, because UNRWA has never worked for those goals. Instead, the Agency has focused on its own survival, keeping Palestinians as forever refugees to justify its existence. That focus has come at the expense of real progress.

We have heard reports that UNRWA's data is far from accurate, and I will share facts, as we have the numbers. In December 2024, of the 5,065 aid trucks that entered Gaza, UNRWA supplied just 33 — 0.6 per cent. For food aid, the numbers are similarly insignificant. Of the 3,894 food trucks that entered Gaza in that same month, UNRWA provided just 29. That is 1 per cent. Overall, UNRWA has provided just 10 per cent of the aid supplied over the course of the war. In critical sectors such as fuel and logistics, its role has been sidelined by the World Food Programme and the United Nations Office for Project Services. The numbers expose the Agency's irrelevance in addressing humanitarian needs. It is not a humanitarian lifeline. It is an administrative relic that has failed to adapt to the challenges that it is supposed to solve or deliver meaningful results on.

We must acknowledge that UNRWA is a vehicle, not a destination. The members are not here to serve UNRWA or its employees. Yet the Council and the General Assembly have held countless meetings fixated on protecting this broken vehicle, losing sight of the real priority — the people it is meant to serve through services, education and health clinics. It is time to abandon the illusion that propping up a corrupt and compromised agency achieves anything meaningful. Funds and efforts must no longer sustain an organization plagued by dysfunction and infiltrated by terror. The focus must shift to supporting other organizations that are untainted, accountable and genuinely committed to productive development.

Israel is more than ready and willing to work with agencies with proven track records of efficiency and accountability, agencies that have already begun to fill the void left by UNRWA's failures and that with increased support can do even more. The international community must make those efforts a priority rather than turning a blind eye to corruption and collaboration with terrorism. The defenders of UNRWA often argue that its termination would create a humanitarian crisis. That is a falsehood. UNRWA's contribution to aid can be easily replaced by capable organizations that are already operational in Gaza. Every dollar spent on UNRWA is one diverted from real solutions. It is time to invest in hope, not failure. Commissioner-General Lazzarini himself admitted less than a year ago that UNRWA's activities could be taken on by other agencies. In other words, it is essentially replaceable. And not only is UNRWA replaceable, but the time to replace it is now.

Let me conclude with this. In 48 hours' time, as this legislation comes into effect, we will stand at a turning point. The closure of UNRWA's operations in Israel marks the beginning of a new chapter — one focused on dignity, security and progress. It is a moment for moving beyond the failures of the past and forging a path towards a better future for all. The international community faces a choice — to continue funding an agency that sows hatred or to promote a system that nurtures coexistence; to enable terror or to stand with Israel in its pursuit of accountability and justice. Israel made the decision to protect its citizens and end the exploitation of international humanitarian aid, but even for those in this Chamber who do not really care about our security or our future — and a few members come to mind — but who say that they care about the Palestinian people, it is time to drop their agendas and biases. They should take a constructive approach for the Palestinian people and join us in supporting organizations that will actually help the people whom they claim to defend.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Egypt.

Mr. Mahmoud (Egypt) (spoke in Arabic): I would like to extend a warm welcome to Mr. Philippe Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA), and Mr. Jan Egeland, Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council. We would also like to thank you, Mr. President, for holding this meeting to allow us to discuss ways of protecting UNRWA from the threats presented by the Knesset legislation and Israel's measures aimed at compromising the Agency's activities and lifting the immunities that its personnel and premises enjoy in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem.

I am pleased to deliver this statement on behalf of the Group of Arab States.

First, the Group would like to reaffirm the irreplaceable and central role of UNRWA, which is to provide services to Palestinian refugees in all of its areas of operations, as per its mandate established by General Assembly resolution 302 (IV), in 1949, as well as other subsequent resolutions. UNRWA has vast experience, which it has accumulated over the years, and provides targeted assistance to Palestinian refugees. It also has exceptional access, something that has been reaffirmed frequently by the Secretary-General and in relevant United Nations resolutions.

Second, we commend the historic role played by UNRWA, especially given the unjust aggression Israel is inflicting on the Gaza Strip. We applaud the sacrifices made by UNRWA personnel, including the lives of over 270 staff members. UNRWA is an essential lifeline and almost the only one that the Gaza Strip has. Without the UNRWA, the people of Gaza Strip would not have been saved. In this regard, we call for the implementation of the ceasefire agreement in all of its phases, so as to guarantee the unhindered delivery of humanitarian assistance and to protect all UNRWA personnel, as well as other humanitarian workers.

Third, the Group of Arab States would like to condemn Israel's attacks on UNRWA. The aim of those attacks is first, to undermine the cause of Palestinian refugees, their right to return and compensation as per General Assembly resolution 194 (III), and to weaken other pillars of the peace process. UNRWA defends the cause of the refugees. The second objective of the attacks is to halt UNRWA's activities, specifically education, health and other relief services, with a view to exacerbating the suffering of the Palestinian people, impoverishing them and stripping them of their livelihoods, with a view to subsequently displacing them.

Fourth, the Group of Arab States deems the Knesset legislation, as well as the statement delivered by the Permanent Representative of Israel calling for the closure of UNRWA headquarters in Jerusalem, to be at odds with Israel's commitments under the Charter of the United Nations and General Assembly resolutions 181 (II) and 273 (III), related to the Palestine Plan of Partition and Israel's accession to the United Nations, as well as subsequent General Assembly resolutions related to UNRWA and Palestine refugees, specifically General Assembly resolution 194 (III), in addition to the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations of 1946 and international humanitarian law in general.

Fifth, the Group of Arab States would like to reiterate what the Secretary-General has said — Israel cannot claim that its national laws prevail and use that as a pretext for flouting its commitments. Israel, as the occupying Power, must shoulder its responsibilities in full. The Group of Arab States calls on the United Nations and the international community to compel Israel, using all legal, political and judicial measures available, to refrain from implementing the aforementioned legislation so that UNRWA can continue to conduct its operations in the occupied Palestinian territory, specifically in East Jerusalem, and to do so unimpeded.

Furthermore, and sixth, the Group of Arab States believes that the allegations made by Israel regarding UNRWA's lack of neutrality are unacceptable. Those allegations are neither logical nor lawful. Even before 7 October 2023, UNRWA has always provided unrestricted access to its employees, and the Agency has undertaken the necessary investigations into the unproven allegations. The Colonna report underscores that UNRWA applies a more developed approach to neutrality than that of other United Nations agencies. We applaud UNRWA's implementation of the recommendations contained in the Colonna report, and we believe the Agency should be allocated the necessary resources to do so. Israel's allegations cannot serve as grounds for adopting a unilateral decision preventing the Agency from conducting its operations, contrary to the United Nations resolutions.

Seventh, turning to the matter of accountability, the Group of Arab States believes that we need to hold Israel accountable and responsible for the deaths of UNRWA personnel. A dangerous precedent must not be set by a Member State attacking a United Nations agency, killing its employees, destroying its premises and preventing it from carrying out its mandate. That would constitute the start of the end of the United Nations and of multilateral action in general.

We call on the international community to provide the necessary legal, political and financial support to UNRWA so that it can continue its activities and serve the approximately 6 million Palestinian refugees in its five areas of operations. Financial contributions to UNRWA's budget are not a gift but represent a commitment to the cause of Palestinian refugees. Our Group would like to insist on the need for a definitive solution to the Agency's funding issue, because the continued support of UNRWA not only helps Palestinian refugees, but also helps host countries to bear the burden and contributes to peace and stability in the Middle East region.

By way of conclusion, the Group of Arab States, collectively and individually, would like to reaffirm its commitment to the unswerving Arab position. We applaud the resilience of our brotherly people, the Palestinians. As regards the Palestinian motherland, we categorically reject any attacks on the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people, whether through the annexation of land, colonization or the displacement, transfer or eviction of Palestinians, provisionally or in the long term. Our Group calls on the international community to work towards a just solution to the cause of the Palestinian refugees, guaranteeing their right to return pursuant to the resolutions of international legitimacy, including General Assembly resolution 194 (III), and also to implement the two-State solution, with a contiguous independent Palestinian State based on the 1967 borders with East Jerusalem as its capital.

The President: I now give the floor to the representative of Jordan.

Mr. Hmoud (Jordan) (spoke in Arabic): At the outset, Mr. President, I would like to express our appreciation and gratitude to Algeria for your distinguished efforts as President of the Security Council for this month, and we thank you for organizing this important debate. We would also like to thank the Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) for his valuable briefing to the Council, which highlights the critical situation confronting UNRWA in the light of the challenges imposed by Israel. I would also like to thank Mr. Jan Egeland, the Secretary General of the Norwegian Refugee Council, for his briefing.

We express our appreciation and deepest respect to UNRWA staff for their efforts and the great sacrifices they have made while carrying out their noble humanitarian functions during the Israeli war against the Gaza Strip. Since the beginning of the war more than a year ago, UNRWA has lost 272 of its staff members. That is the largest number of casualties among any United Nations agency in any war in modern history and reflects the scale of the challenges confronting UNRWA due to the grave violations committed against it.

While we are holding today's meeting, the Israeli legislation against UNRWA will come into effect.

Those laws aim to ban its activities and lift its immunity and that afforded to its staff and facilities in the occupied Palestinian territory, including East Jerusalem. Those laws, like the other measures that Israel has taken and is taking to undermine the Agency's work and its ability to implement its mandate, constitute grave violations of Israel's obligations under international humanitarian law as the occupying Power and of the inviolability of the Agency, its facilities, its staff and their immunities under the 1946 Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations. Those laws also violate the relevant Security Council resolutions, including resolution 478 (1980), which determines that the measures taken by Israel in occupied East Jerusalem to exercise sovereignty over it and alter its legal status as an occupied land are null and void.

We reaffirm the rights of Palestinian refugees to return and compensation, pursuant to United Nations resolutions, and we stress that UNRWA is irreplaceable and indispensable in providing basic services. The Agency is a lifeline for approximately 6 million Palestinian refugees in the West Bank, occupied Jerusalem, the Gaza Strip, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. We reaffirm the urgent need for the Security Council and the international community to support the Agency so that it can implement its United Nations mandate fully. UNRWA is the only entity capable of carrying out the vital role of providing indispensable basic services to refugees and supporting the residents of Gaza as they confront the compounded humanitarian catastrophe.

A number of humanitarian organizations and United Nations agencies have repeatedly reaffirmed the Agency's critical role and stated that no other entity has the capacity or the readiness to provide life-saving assistance and social services on the same scale as UNRWA does. UNRWA's network is significantly more extensive than that of all other humanitarian agencies in the occupied Palestinian territory combined. It includes a larger number of schools, medical facilities, warehouses, offices and personnel. That role is crucial and indispensable, especially in the context of humanitarian operations in Gaza, which are a central part of implementing the ceasefire agreement.

Undermining the work of UNRWA will jeopardize the stability of the region and exacerbate the suffering in Gaza, where more than 2 million Palestinians rely on the Agency's services to confront hunger and meet their basic needs. We therefore call on the Security Council to shoulder its responsibilities to protect the United Nations and its agencies and organs. We stress that there is a need to respect international law and the Charter of the United Nations when it comes to the work of United Nations agencies and organizations, given that Israeli decisions on UNRWA are illegal and undermine international law. Allowing any State to undermine the inviolability and immunities of United Nations agencies sets a dangerous precedent that will have disastrous repercussions. It will embolden others to perpetrate future violations in other conflict zones around the world. Therefore, we call on Israel to put an end to its violations against UNRWA and not to obstruct humanitarian assistance in Gaza.

We also urge the Security Council to take immediate and effective measures to put an end to those practices against the Agency and ensure that it can continue to operate unhindered. UNRWA is not just a relief agency; it is an essential guarantee of peace and stability in the region and of the achievement of a peaceful solution to the conflict that would guarantee the establishment of an independent Palestinian State with East Jerusalem as its capital, based on the 4 June 1967 lines. The Agency also provides security and stability to Israel.

The President: There are still a number of speakers remaining on the list for this meeting. Given the lateness of the hour, I intend, with the concurrence of members of the Council, to suspend the meeting until 3 p.m.

The meeting was suspended at 1.05 p.m.
